FRENCH CAPTAIN DENIES SINKING OF DEUTSCHLAND.

Puzzle.

DAVY JONES IS GUESSING.

Fate of U-boat is Unknown.

"Have no Reports Upon the Subject at All," Says Leskivit.

[illegible] from Pensacola the Submarine may Have been Captured.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PENSACOLA (Fla.) Aug. 12. —Capt. Leskivit of the [illegible] armored cruiser Amiral [illegible], which arrived here today, [illegible] widely-circulated rumors [illegible] to one of his orderlies to the effect that the cruiser had [illegible] a wireless message from [illegible] patrol boat in the At[illegible] saying she had sunk the [illegible] merchant submarine [illegible]schland, Tuesday, August [illegible]. The captain asserted he had [illegible] no information what[illegible] about the Deutschland.

Leskivit tonight refused either to confirm or deny the report.

According to the orderly, the radio dispatch told how the submarine was sighted while running on the surface at night and was sent to the bottom just as she attempted to submerge at daybreak.

The Amiral Aube, an imposing-looking four-funneled craft, steamed into Pensacola harbor today and dropped anchor. She is the first allied warship to enter an American port since the war began, and the event caused a flurry of excitement along the water front.

WHY HE CAME.

Capt. Leskivit informed the collector of the port that he had come solely to get some important documents from the French Consul here and that he would go to sea again tomorrow morning. Until he landed and went to the customhouse it had

GOES TO JAIL TO SAVE MONEY.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RICHMOND (Cal.) Aug. 12. —The local lockup failed to appeal to the esthetic tastes of Richard Fer, a local business man, who today inspected the city prison and then went home and put on a suit of old clothes before he would serve a sentence of ten days for slapping the face of Albert Lee, a 10-year-old youth, whom he said had annoyed him. Fer was found guilty before Police Judge Hiram Jacobs and given an alternative sentence of a $10 fine or ten days in jail and allowed forty-eight hours to think it over. He decided today that he would take the jail sentence and save the money and, after closing his place of business, reported for incarceration.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

French and Russian forces have gained additional important successes over the armies of the central powers in Northern France and Galicia, respectively. A sustained attack over a front of three and three-quarters miles by the French against the third German line north of the Somme resulted in the capture of all the trenches to a depth of from a third to two-thirds of a mile. The line of the victorius French advance extends from Hardecourt to the Somme River at Buscourt. The Russian success comes closely on their turning of the flanks of the Stripa position in the north by the capture of Brody, and in the south by the taking of Stanislau. The advance of Gen. Letchitzky continues south of Stanislau. The Austrians are putting up a strong defense against the attempted Italian advance east of Gorizia.

Gen. Funston will have an army of 70,000 men in his command soon, according to Washington advices to the effect that from 25,000 to 32,000 additional Guardsmen have been ordered to the border by Secretary Baker. While there are said to be political moves involved in the order, advices from Mexico indicate that Villa is assembling a large force of men for some sort of a drive against the United States.

Thirty-two Thousand More Men Under Orders to Join Border Patrol.

Reports of Villa Plots in Chihuahua Reach the Authorities.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 12.—It was generally believed tonight that the 1300 troops recently brought to Juarez and the recent arrival there of Gen. Gabriel Gavira, Inspector-General of the Carranza army, and Jose Gutierrez, military director of the Mexican national railways, was a result of the various rebellious plots and counter plots recently unearthed. The plot of Col. Mariano Tames, who recently left the Mexican town, with between fifty and one hundred men with the announced intention of joining Villa, has generally been accepted here as being one of several plots formed by disgruntled leaders, each of which seemingly was entirely separate from the others. Private dispatches said that Villa, in the Mapimi district, has recovered from his recent repulses at the hands of Gen. Matias Ramos's troops and is being rejoined by members of his scattered bands and is regaining strength by recruiting.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—The War Department today issued orders to departmental commanders that all remaining National Guardsmen are to be sent to the border as rapidly as they can be equipped and transportation obtained. Instructions are sent for the immediate completion of mobilization of the Kentucky, Vermont and Ohio troops. There are no specific instructions for the great mass of southern troops, whose retention at home has been arousing criticism of the administration for further sectional favoritism, but the general orders are expected to take care of them.

The order affects approximately 32,000 Guardsmen and will strip the country clean of every militiaman who might be of service in local emergency, as the earlier "Mexican emergency" order stripped the country of practically every officer and enlisted man of the regular army. The new order leaves at home no trained men at all.

Secretary Baker was asked exactly what political significance lies in the administration's latest coup in the Mexican imbroglio. He solemnly declared there was none. So did various other War Department officials, although they admitted it was going to be an admirable opportunity to get the National Guard thoroughly trained.

REASONS ASCRIBED.

The reason ascribed in many quarters is that the administration is forced to find a defense against the charges which were made against the failure of the Hay bill and the slow progress made in recruiting.

As a matter of fact, enlistments to the National Guard have fallen to practically nothing since it became obvious that the guard was being kept at the border without any likelihood of real service.

In a few weeks it will be patent that the optimism of the Hay and other administration leaders, mainly pacifists, about the rapid rise of the National Guard to more than 400,000 was entirely unjustified.

With every National Guard unit at the border, however, the administration will be able to point to this as reason for the failure to do further recruiting at home. It seems obvious that the National Guard will remain stationary as long as kept at the border, whereby the Hay bill efforts will be defeated, but with a fairly good explanation possible during the campaign.

How soon the new movement of troops will begin cannot be estimated by the War Department. Certain of the Ohio units are believed to be about ready to go and this is true of many in the South. At the same time a great many units are reported to be far below peace strength, so they will go to Texas far from efficient, and may have to be reorganized there.

Secretary of War Baker today made public a letter to an unidentified National Guardsman doing duty on the border, who inquired why "In the absence of any national emergency with Mexico" members

San Francisco Woman Asks Court to Award Twenty Thousand Dollars.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—Hugging is a form of diversion which the average woman does not look upon with any great amount of apprehension, but when the hugger happens to be a full-grown bear the recipient of the hub is entitled to monetary compensation for any damages to her person or nervous system, in the belief of Mrs. Ida B. Parker, living at a fashionable hotel in Geary street. She asks $20,342.50 damages against Gus Temps, proprietor of a transfer company, who she says owns a "large, full-grown, ferocious" bear. Mrs. Parker declares that on July 31 last the bear suddenly walked out and embraced her, her lower limbs being lacerated and her face badly clawed.

NINE MILLIONS, DYESTUFF PRICE.

GERMANS STAND TO NET AN IMMENSE PROFIT.

According to Statement Made by the Agents, Advertised Several Weeks Ago, it will Take Tremendous Sum to Purchase Cargo of the Deutschland.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12.—All of the dyestuffs brought by the submarine Deutschland, with the exception of 200 cases representing 10 per cent. of the cargo and which is returned by the appraisers for examination, has been shipped to New York. Shumacher & Co., to whom the dyes were consigned, have paid the duties based on the values set forth in the invoice and then furnished a bond as in the case of all importation covering any excess duties imposed by the government.

The actual value of goods set forth in the papers sent here is fixed approximately at $350,000. This is based on the market value of the dyes in Germany at the time of the shipment. Assuming this to be correct, the German government, which is presumed to have shipped the goods here to be sold, stands to profit enormously on its cargo. According to the prices fixed by the agent and which were advertised several weeks ago, a sale at the prices he demands will net anywhere from $5,000,000 to $9,000,000.

If sold at the lowest rate fixed for one particular kind of dyestuffs, the receipts would not be less than $4,500,000. More than one-half cost more, as $7 a pound is being asked for one grade. A fair estimate of the returns would be $7,000,000, which will pay six times over the cost of the nickel and rubber the Deutschland carried back with her.

Adding to this cost of transportation, risk, etc., and surety, the net profit on the investment will not go under $5,000,000. The government did not make much out of the importation, granting the grades to be as represented. Seventy-five thousand dollars will cover the amount paid in duties. Now that the goods are being sold, if not already sold, the consignee is not in any hurry to secure an appraisement. This will be made within a week or two. Those in position to know say the Eastern Forwarding Company does not expect the Bremen to come here. No cargo has been collected, there being in the warehouse only the nickel, valued at about $300,000, which the Deutschland could not find space for.

TELEGRAPH MEN STRIKE IN MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Aug. 12.—Five hundred Mexican de facto government telegraph operators in the State of Sonora went on strike today, according to word reaching here. The de facto government is said to have branded the strike as unpatriotic and to have informed the strikers that they will be executed if they do not return to work.

According to information brought here railway telegraphers are not affected, the strike being due to the dissatisfaction of the government operators owing to the fact that while the railway telegraphers are paid in gold, they are compelled to accept worthless currency.

MURPHY'S BODY TO SCIENCE.

Eminent Surgeon Makes His Last Contribution to Knowledge.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The last contribution to science of Dr. John B. Murphy, the eminent surgeon who died yesterday at Mackinac Island, the gift of his body, was made today.

In obedience to Dr. Murphy's last wish that science establish the cause of the death which he knew was coming, an autopsy was performed here as soon as the remains were brought from the northern summer resort. It established that death was due to heart disease, aggravated by throat trouble. This confirmed the diagnosis that Dr. Murphy had made on his own condition.

The funeral will be held Monday morning.

Mrs. Page a Victim of the Malady.

Daughter-in-law of American Ambassador to London Passes Away.

More Cases Reported in New York; Critical Situation in Newport.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Frank Copeland Page, daughter-in-law of Walter Hines Page, Ambassador to Great Britain, died this afternoon at her home in South Garden City, L. I., of infantile paralysis.

Mrs. Page, who was a bride of two months, was 22 years old. She was a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Sefton of Auburn. She was stricken yesterday. As soon as her condition became serious Ambassador and Mrs. Page removed to the Garden City Hotel so that they might be near their daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Page was married to Frank Copeland Page in Auburn on June 3 last. They had been friends since 1911, when they were introduced at a dinner given in Auburn by Charles Davonne Osborne, a son of Thomas Mott Osborne and a college mate of Mr. Page.

Because of the contagious nature of the disease, the funeral of Mrs. Page will be held tomorrow morning. Burial will be in Auburn.

In spite of the cool weather of the last few days there was a slight increase today over yesterday in the number of new cases and deaths in the infantile paralysis epidemic. For the twenty-four-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning the health department of Greater New York announced 167 new cases and forty-two deaths, an increase of two cases and eleven deaths over yesterday's figures. The total number of cases to date now record 6145 with 1371 deaths.

The New Jersey State Board of Health reported seventy-eight new cases today. This brings the total number to 1461 cases for that State since July 1.

Outside of Greater New York the State health authorities at Albany report thirty-nine new cases, making a grand total of 954 cases.

The figures of the last few days indicate that the epidemic is gaining a firmer foothold in Manhattan. Yesterday there were fifty cases reported, the day before forty-four and today fifty-six. At the present rate Manhattan will soon pass Brooklyn, where the disease began and where it has been most severe.

Although Commissioner Emerson did not regard the situation in Greater New York as particularly encouraging, he said:

"In Richmond borough the epidemic is dying out obviously; Brooklyn, too, begins to recede, apparently."

Schools throughout this State must delay their openings until the epidemic has lost its strength, according to an order given out by Dr. John H. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, yesterday.

SITUATION AT NEWPORT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) Aug. 12.—The United States naval authorities are bending their energies to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis at the United States naval training school, where two cases have developed in the last week.

Quarantine has been declared and the 1500 or more recruits stationed on Coaster Island have been deprived of shore leave privileges. Both cases have been traced to New York City, the enlistment place of the afflicted marines.

With Newport thronged with summer visitors and with so many young recruits stationed at the school the naval authorities view the situation with grave concern. This fear has been aggravated by the fact that until they showed symptoms of the disease, both recruits were accustomed to spend their shore leave periods in Newport at the usual haunts of the young soldiers.

The outbreak of the disease among the recruits has been kept secret by the naval authorities in the hope of preventing an infantile paralysis scare at Newport.

The Atlantic fleet has been assembled outside the Newport harbor for some time engaged at intervals in the customary maneuvers. The schedule calls for dropping anchor tomorrow at Narragansett, but in view of developments the plans may be altered. Communications between the sailors on board the fleet and the recruits at the school will be stopped for a while.

SEPARATE PEACE RUMORED AGAIN.

PUTATIVE THEME OF CONFERENCE IN VIENNA.

Russia and the Central Powers Said to be Dickering for an Early Termination of Hostilities on the Eastern Front—London Advices Contradict Amsterdam.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 12.—Russia wants separate peace and the allies and the central powers are at last willing to seriously consider the bringing to an end of the war which has just entered on its third year of destruction, is the report reaching Amsterdam today.

From Vienna comes the news that Emperor Francis Joseph and the German Chancellor, Von Bethmann-Hollweg, are discussing a separate peace treaty for Russia. From Berlin comes the report that both sides of the warring factions are now ready to discuss peace terms.

It is denied here that Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg had been summoned to Vienna by the Emperor to discuss matters pertaining to the territory occupied by the central powers, especially that of Poland. Russia, it is stated on high authority, has sounded Emperor Francis Joseph on terms for a separate peace with the central powers and it is for this reason that the German Chancellor was asked to go to Vienna. It is believed here that Russia's recent victories have so quieted the populace that the Czar would now be safe from internal trouble if he were to take the initiative looking for separate peace.

Petrograd dispatches of recent date circulated stories following Premier Sturmer's appointment as Foreign Minister, that Russia might entertain proposals for separate peace. These stories have been definitely denied, however, by the newly-appointed Foreign Minister. In this connection Premier Sturmer said:

"I have learned that my appointment is commented upon in some circles as forecasting a separate peace for Russia with the central powers. I desire to strengthen the public belief that the change in the post of Foreign Minister must not be considered in any sense an indication of the variation of Russia from the line of conduct of the last two years toward her allies. The agreement with them will not be changed.

"Russia considers it her duty to support all measures England desires to accomplish with regard to Germany, and I, as a tool in the hands of the Emperor, will do my best to work hand in hand with our allies and will strive to strengthen the friendship between Russia, England and France."

Notwithstanding the Premier's denial of the report it is reported here in high government circles that separate peace terms for Russia are the subject of the conference being held in Vienna by Emperor Francis Joseph and the German Chancellor.

BERLIN WANTS PEACE.

In Berlin the talk for peace is becoming daily more general and even the German Socialists go so far as to say that Germany and England are now ready to talk peace. The manifesto issued in Berlin by the Socialist National Committee, stating that the committee had renewed the appeal to Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, to lift the embargo on the discussion of peace conditions, as published in the Vorwaerts, voices the belief that the desire for peace is equally great among the peoples on both sides of the conflict.

Such a desire, however, it declares, is without doubt subdued by the war aim and plans of conquest propaganda which incite the people of all belligerent nations to the greatest resistance.

"Therefore," continued the manifesto, "the moment appears to have arrived when the German people should give its free and unrestricted opinion regarding these plans of conquest, the realization of which would be only the germ of new wars and only result in prolonging the war."

The party organizations are requested to convoke public meetings at which the standpoint of the Socialists, in regard to the war and their peace aims, should be stated.

REUTER'S VERSION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 13, 2:38 a.m.—According to a Reuter dispatch from Vienna the German Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, and the German Foreign Minister, Herr von Jagow, have returned to Germany. The conferences of the leaders of the foreign policy of the two powers, which lasted two days, the dispatch adds, showed complete accord on all points.

Common Sense.

WANT WORK, NO STRIKE, RAILROAD MEN INSIST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A petition signed by 6000 employees of Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, not members of the great brotherhoods, was presented to the President today asking Congress to pass legislation protecting unorganized employees against a tie-up which would result from a strike of the brotherhood members.

R. T. Frazier of Nashville, who took the petition to the White House, said more petitions from unorganized employees of many more railroads would be sent to the President in the future.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—Intervention by President Wilson seemed tonight to offer the only prospect of averting a nation-wide railroad strike. The attempt to mediate the terms of 400,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen on 237 railroads throughout the country has failed utterly. Assuming that the four great brotherhoods will consent to arbitrate anything, both sides apparently are now deadlocked on what should be arbitrated.

The Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation will make a final effort tomorrow morning to bring about arbitration. The brotherhoods refused yesterday morning to commit themselves on the question of arbitration until it should be narrowed down to arbitration of their own terms and not certain counter proposals of the roads at the same time.

DESIRE ARBITRATION.

On the other hand, the conference committee of railroad managers made it plain to the mediators that while they desire arbitration they want the whole subject considered by an arbitration board, the counter proposals of the railroad companies as well as the demands of the men for an eight-hour day and time and a half pay for overtime.

The evident hopelessness of the stand taken by each side was communicated to President Wilson over the long distance telephone. The President had canceled an intended week-end cruise on the Mayflower in order to keep in touch with developments. When the mediators told him that they seemed to have reached a deadlock, President Wilson asked that he be informed immediately if a strike became imminent so that before the break occurs he may have an opportunity to call representatives of both sides to the White House for a conference.

WILSON'S IDEA.

President Wilson urged the mediators to use their utmost endeavors to effect some basis of arbitration. In view of the stand taken by the railroad managers and the brotherhood chiefs, however, it is entirely probable that the President will be put to the necessity of calling the White House conference late tomorrow or Monday. The representatives of employees had received no word from Washington tonight, but when it comes they will take it as a command and obey at once.

The mediators and the brotherhood chiefs took an entirely different view of their joint meeting this morning in Webster Hall. The mediators announced when they left the gathering that they had simply told the union officials that there seemed to be no chance of effecting an agreement through mediation. Therefore, they asked the men to consider submitting the controversy to arbitration. The board went back to the Manhattan Hotel expecting to get an answer from the employees this morning at 10 o'clock.

KNAPP'S STATEMENT.

"We came to the men with our belief," said Judge Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the board, "that after several days' discussion there was no prospect of arriving at a settlement by mediation. We therefore put up to the men the proposal to submit the controversies to arbitration. They are now taking the matter under advisement. They have promised to let us know their attitude at a meeting tomorrow morning."

On the other hand, this is how Austin B. Garretson, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, described the meeting: "When the mediators expressed the desire that we should submit the entire matter to arbitration, they were perfectly aware that a definite or categorical answer could not and would not be made at that time. We stated to them that our attitude toward arbitration proposed by them was exactly the same as our attitude toward mediation in the first instance; namely, that the conference committee of the managers had requested the services of the Commission of Mediation and Conciliation and that it was therefore up to the railroad managers to make a definite and concrete proposition as to the scope of the proposed arbitration.

"The consequence was that they admitted that the managers had never made any offer to arbitrate to them. Then we said: 'Secure that proposition and we will pass on it.' They said they would try to secure such a proposition for us by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

GARRETSON EXPLAINS.

Mr. Garretson explained that the counter-proposals of the railroads involved compensation rights and privileges which the railroad employees had won by a series of strikes, arbitration and concessions extending over thirty years.

"It is just as though you owned a house and somebody wanted you to arbitrate the question whether or not you owned it," said Mr. Garretson. "The railroad managers want us to submit to arbitration things we have had to fight for for thirty years."

The members of the mediation board, Chairman Knapp, Judge William L. Chambers and G. W. W. Hanger, held an extended meeting with the railroad managers at the Biltmore in the afternoon, but the managers refused to recede from their position. It was announced by the board tonight that they would try to get the men to agree tomorrow morning to arbitration of their own demands and then try to bring about arbitration of the whole controversy on that basis.

WILSON PLANS TRIP TO AVERT BIG STRIKE.

President Said to be Seriously Considering a Visit to New York if Worst Comes to Worst, Although Prospects of an Agreement are Now Regarded as Being a Little More Favorable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Personal conferences will be sought by President Wilson with representatives of the railroads and their employees if all other efforts fail to avert the threatened strike of the four great railroad union brotherhoods. He is seriously considering making a trip to New York for the purpose.

The President talked over the long-distance telephone today with members of the Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation in New York and told them if they were unable to bring about an agreement and a break seemed imminent, he was to be notified immediately. He hopes it will not be necessary, but as a last resort desires personally to urge upon the parties to the controversy the disastrous effect upon themselves and upon the country which would follow the tying up of 225 railroads by a strike.

PROSPECTS BETTER.

Although the President was told early in the day that the situation was critical, word came tonight that prospects for an agreement were more favorable and that further conferences would be held in New York tomorrow.

Mr. Wilson remained in his office at the White House throughout the day in order to keep in close touch with the situation. While evidently worried, he has not given up hope that a settlement may be reached. He has taken no stand on the merits of the arguments presented by either side, but is understood to be confident that common ground can be found on which the employers and employees can meet.

RECEIVES PETITION.

During the day the President received a petition from representatives of unorganized railroad employees urging that Congress pass legislation which would prevent the railroads being paralyzed by a strike of the members of the brotherhoods, who, it is claimed, represent 20 per cent. of the employees. The first petition contained 6000 names and it was said that other large petitions would come within a few days.

Supreme Test for the Central Powers in the Great War; Doom of Austria Indicated Analytical.

CHECKERBOARD OF WAR; TWO KAISERS CORNERED.

Statement that the German Empire has Already Lost is Explained.

BY HARRY CARR.

THE supreme test has come for the central powers. In another sense it is also the supreme test for the allies. In a nutshell the situation is this:

Unless Germany can detach troops from the west front and send them to the east, the Austrian empire is going down with a crash. The ability of the German Kaiser to detach these troops depends upon whether or not the British and French troops can continue their attack on the west front with sufficient violence.

In a larger sense the German empire has already lost the war. This statement needs explanation and qualification. I do not believe that a foreign soldier will ever set foot on German territory during the entire period of this war. When peace comes German soldiers may even be in possession of large areas of French and Belgian and Polish ground. But it now becomes clear that Germany will never be able to carry out her dream of world power. She can never sit at the mouth of the Persian Gulf, practically mistress of the world.

BEST FOR GERMANY.

To my mind it is not at all certain that this will not be best for Germany. The German is a good colonizer but not a successful ruler of alien people. He is too intolerant of human frailty and human inefficiency to be a good stepfather. He wants his colonials who are "half devil and half child" to act like good respectable Prussian householders.

In another way, one can see the hand of providence in the shattering of Germany's dream of a place in the sun. The sturdy German character has been built up on a steadfast resistance to dangers.

From the earliest dawn of history, the Teutonic people have been surrounded by enemies. My dear old friend, Prof. Josef Brandt of the University of Berlin, says that it is Germany's fate to fight once every hundred years for her existence. He said that the German is not naturally a fighting man.. But, being threatened on every border, he has of necessity built up armies, trained to rush at the first alarm to the threatened point. This constant danger of foes at the very windows and doors, has been the foundation of the German character and of the German efficiency and solidarity and patriotism. The extension of German influence down into Asia Minor and thence through to the coveted east coast of Africa, would have changed these physical conditions. Instead of being a threatened nation, Germany would have become a threatening nation. With these changed conditions would not the German character also have changed?

HAND OF PROVIDENCE.

The more I study this war and the conditions behind the war, the more do I see the hand of providence in all its events. Much as the German needs a place in the sun, to a greater extent does the world, now on the edge of turbulent conditions such as civilization never before witnessed, need the steadying effect of the German example of self-denial and efficiency.

Germany is more valuable to the world as a compact, Germanic tribe engaged in developing a small country to the highest point of culture and efficiency than as a ruler of strange peoples and as an exploiter of far-off colonies. A good many effective professional men have been lost to the world by suddenly acquiring wealth. I think every one will see the parallel.

Coming down to the specific events of the recent war moves, no one can say to a certainty how extreme is the peril of the central powers.

The present condition on both fronts represents the situation that the allies attempted to create in the winter of 1915 when the Russian troops came pouring down through two passes of the Carpathians into the wheat fields of Hungary. Then, as now, the Austrian army was smashed and took to its heels. Barbed wire entanglements were actually erected before Vienna in expectation of the collapse of the defenses of the Austrian empire.

FAILURE OF THE ALLIES.

The allied plan failed, however. The Italians were not able to get into the field quickly enough to hammer Austria hard on the south while Russia came in from the north. On the west front the allies were unable to create a dangerous situation for the German defense. Whereupon Von Hindenburg, fresh from his victorious campaigns in North Poland and East Prussia, came charging in on the flank and rear of the Russian advance. There resulted one of the tremendous victories of all times, the Russians being driven entirely out of Poland and a vast empire being yielded to the German Kaiser.

In attempting to repeat their campaign the allies are now in a more advantageous position than in 1915. The British, French, Italian and Servian armies are all hammering at the same time. It is no longer possible for the Kaiser to send his great battalions charging in from the west front.

When I was in Poland last summer we saw hundreds of railway carriages bearing French and Belgian names, showing how the troops had been taken away from the west front for the final assault upon the retreating Russian armies.

There has been a perceptible slackening in the violence of the combined French and British offensive on the west front during the last few days. But it would be foolish to imagine that this is such a slackening as would permit a relaxation of the German defense. On the contrary, it probably presages a renewal of the storm with increased violence.

WESTERN GAINS.

The gains so far made by the British and French are not of enough importance in themselves to justify the frightful losses they have cost. Only in that they have held German troops on the west front while the Russians advanced, the losses have been worth while. The allies on the west front, however, are now approaching several important railway centers, the capture of which will constitute a real reversal for the German army.

The Italian victories of the past two or three weeks are important for three reasons. They will do a great deal to restore the weakening prestige of the Italian throne. They are holding back a large body of Austrian troops from the Austrian defense against Russia. They are also threatening the Austrian possession of the Adriatic Sea ports. This latter element has no especial significance for the interests of the central powers as a whole, but is dangerous for the future of Austria and means a great deal for the commercial future of Italy. During this whole war Italy has been frankly out for her own gain. Her object in going into the war was to grab a few needed articles in the way of ports and territory from Austria. It happens that the allies are able to turn this propensity to good advantage to their own cause.

The Russians are now sweeping through upper Galicia like a resistless flood. At this writing it looks as though they would take back the much-fought-over fortress of Przemysl.

RUSSIAN PROWESS.

Generally speaking the Russians seem to be able to lick the Austrians every time they start. In a way, the Austrian army is one of the most wonderful of modern armies, but it seems to lack what prize fighters call the punch. It knows how to box, but it lacks the determination to win. In any kind of a fight, physical power is only about 40 per cent. The other 60 per cent. is the fighting heart. Austria seems to lack the fighting heart. At the front you can feel the difference the moment you leave territory in possession of the Germans and pass to the Austrians. The fire seems to burn dimmer.

There are three events for which I am waiting. One is the death of the Kaiser Franz Josef of Austria, the other, the flop of Rumania to the allies, the third is the advance of the allied army from Saloniki.

If the report is true that an army of 800,000 men under the command of French officers has begun to advance from Saloniki, that event may presage the participation of Rumania in the war.

The overwhelming importance of Roumania as a prospective ally is largely geographical. Although Rumania has a very large and well trained army, I predict that it would be found a disappointment against German troops. But the strategical position of Rumania is wonderful.

With Rumania territory open to allied troop movements, Russia can come charging down into Bulgaria. Although Rumania is separated from Hungary by a great mountain range, it would also be possible for a Rumanian army to co-operate with the Russian advance by an offensive against Western Hungary.

CONQUEST OF BULGARIA.

The conquest of Bulgaria, however, is important to the allies for other reasons.

Turkish officers have always admitted that the way to take Constantinople is from the north and not from the Dardanelles.

With Bulgaria conquered, the way will be clear to come thumping down on Turkey from the north. This will certainly have the effect of relieving the British from the dangerous attack upon the Suez Canal by a Turkish army, and the allies hope it will have the effect of forcing Turkey to a separate peace.

The plan of the allies is clear. They hope to hurl thunderbolts at the weaker allies of Germany, to force Turkey, Bulgaria and Austria (or if not Austria as a whole, at least Hungary,) to a separate peace.

With Germany then cut off from the wheat fields of Galicia, the copper of Serbia and Turkey, the oil of Asia and cut off from the further advantage of being able to initiate offensive campaigns in distant fields of war to the distraction of the Entente powers, the war will settle down to a siege of Germany. The allies can scarcely hope to successfully invade the soil of the German empire or to overpower the German army on its home land, but the hope will be to starve her out.

I don't believe that Germany will ever be starved either for the lack of food, munitions or men; but I think peace will follow very soon if the allies succeed in crushing Austria or in forcing either Turkey or Bulgaria to a separate peace.

ANXIOUS FOR PEACE.

All the nations at war are anxious for peace. Up to this time it has not been possible because England could not afford to make peace with her prestige stained by Neuve Chapelle, Loos, Gallipoli and Mesopatamia. England simply could not stop fighting until she could show the world a pronounced British victory. The same was true of Italy. Both these countries could now consent with good grace to peace.

The death of the Emperor of Austria will, I think, be a far reaching event, shattering the Austrian solidarity. As the old gentleman is now 84, he cannot be expected to bear this frightful strain much longer.

In reading the war news, however, it is not right to assume too much for this allied offensive. The breakdown of the forward movement of any one of the principal powers engaged will result in the loosening of a Teutonic army that will come like a storm to the rescue of the oppressed Austrians.

Another fact should be remembered. A great deal is said of the loss of the offensive by the German armies. It is true that the whole scheme of German military science is built upon the offensive. At the same time, the Germans realize fully that the defensive is the stronger method of fighting. The reason why the Germans always choose the offensive is that in the case of a small shut-in country, it is essential to fight on the other fellow's ground. The Germans don't fight on the defensive if they can avoid doing so, but once reconciled to the defensive, they are able to make greater strength out of their available soldiers.

POPE PIUS'S INTEREST IN IRISH SITUATION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Irish situation is being followed by the Pope with the keenest interest, according to the Liverpool Post, which states that the Pontiff is most anxious for the "pacification of Ireland." In an article in today's issue the paper says:

"The Pope and the statesmen of the Vatican are most anxious for what is described as 'the pacification of Ireland.' This anxiety has been made known to the Irish Catholic hierarchy through the most direct sources and, of course, it has not escaped attention. The rector of the Irish College in Rome has been in close association of late with the diplomats and statesmen of the Vatican and has conferred with divines who enjoy the Pope's confidence, including Cardinal Gasquet, who has recently been in England."

Prof. John MacNeill, president of the Sinn Fein Volunteers, who is serving a life sentence for his participation in the recent uprising in Dublin, was today elected president of the Gaelic League, says an Exchange Telegraph Company dispatch from Dublin.

Prof. MacNeill succeeds Dr. Douglas Hyde, who has been president of the league since its formation in 1893.

SPEECH OF CASEMENT IN DEFENSE OF LIFE.

The Last Eloquent Appeal of Sir Roger While He Stood in the Shadow of the Gallows from the Judgment of the British Court to the Great Bar of Public Opinion.

FOREWORD.

BY MICHAEL FRANCIS DOYLE,
American Counsel for Sir Roger Casement.

Sir Roger Casement gave to me, in remembrance of him, the manuscript of his speech to the jury that found him guilty and the judges who sentenced him to die. In the crisis of Ireland's destiny, these last words of the modern patriot and martyr to the cause of Irish freedom may well rank with the famous speech of Robert Emmett, who preceded him upon the tragic but glorious Calvary so many Irishmen have trod.

Working with him and for him until the last hour when affection and loyalty could possibly avail, bound to him in the intimacy which, on the eve of death, reveals one man's naked soul to another, I can vouch for it that, condemned at the bar of man to die for the gravest crime human society can impute, Sir Roger Casement can appear before that Supreme Judge, who knows all hearts, guiltless of fault, unstained in honor, the victim of the misgovernment of his native land against which his sin was the courage to rebel.

CASEMENT'S WORDS.

Following is the complete text of Casement's address:

My Lord Chief Justice: As I wish my words to reach a much wider audience than I see before me here, I intend to read all that I propose to say. What I shall read now is something I wrote more than twenty days ago. I may say, my Lord, at once, that I protest against the jurisdiction of this court in my case on this charge, and the argument that I am now going to read is addressed not to this court, but to my own countrymen.

There is an objection, possibly not good in law, but surely good on moral grounds, against the application to me here of this old English statute, 565 years old, that seeks to deprive an Irishman today of life and honor, not for "adhering to the King's enemies," but for adhering to his own people.

When this statute was passed, in 1351, what was the state of men's minds on the question of a far higher allegiance—that of man to God and His kingdom? The law of that day did not permit a man to forsake his church or deny his God save with his life. The "heretic" then had the same doom as the "traitor."

Today a man may forswear God and His heavenly kingdom without fear or penalty, all earlier statutes having gone the way of Nero's edicts against the Christians, but that constitutional phantom, "The King," can still dig up from the dungeons and torture chambers of the Dark Ages a law that takes a man's life and limb for an exercise of conscience.

If true religion rests on love it is equally true that loyalty rests on love. The law I am charged under has no parentage in love and claims the allegiance of today on the ignorance and blindness of the past.

TRIED BY FEARS.

I am being tried, in truth, not by my peers of the live present, but by the fears of the dead past; not by the civilization of the twentieth century, but by the brutality of the fourteenth; not even by a statute framed in the language of the land that tries me, but emitted in the language of an enemy land—so antiquated is the law that must be sought today to slay an Irishman whose offense is that he puts Ireland first!

Loyalty is a sentiment, not a law. It rests on love, not on restraint. The government of Ireland by England rests on restraint and not on law; and since it demands no love it can evoke no loyalty.

But this statute is more absurd even than it i santiquated; and if it be potent to hang one Irishman it is still more potent to gibbet all Englishmen.

Edward III was King not only of the realm of England, but also of the realm of France, and he was not King of Ireland. Yet his dead hand today may pull the noose around an Irishman's neck whose sovereign he was not, but it can strain no strand around the Frenchman's throat whose sovereign he was. For centuries the successors of Edward III claimed to be Kings of France, and quartered the arms of France on their royal shield down to the union with Ireland on 1st January, 1801. Throughout these hundreds of years these "Kings of France" were constantly at war with their realm of France, and their French subjects, who should have gone from birth to death with an obvious fear of treason before their eyes. But did they? Did the "Kings of France," resident here at Windsor or in the Tower of London, hang, draw and quarter as a traitor every Frenchman for 400 years who fell into their hands with arms in his hands. On the contrary, they received embassies of these traitors, presents from these traitors, even knighthood itself at the hands of these traitors, feasted with them, tilted with them, fought with them—but did not assassinate them by law. Judicial assassination today is reserved only for one race of the King's subjects, for Irishmen; for those who cannot forget their allegiance to the realm of Ireland.

KING'S RIGHT IN IRELAND.

The Kings of England, as such, had no rights in Ireland up to the time of Henry VIII, save such as rested on compact and mutual obligation entered into between them and certain princes, chiefs, and lords of Ireland. This form of legal right, such as it was, gave no King of England lawful power to impeach an Irishman for high treason under this statute of King Edward III of England until an Irish act, known as Poyning's Law, the 10th of Henry VII was passed in 1494, at Drogheda, by the Parliament of the Pale in Ireland, and enacted as law in that part of Ireland. But if by Poyning's Law an Irishman of the Pale could be indicted for high treason under this act, he could be indicted only in one way and before one tribunal—by the laws of the Realm of Ireland and in Ireland. The very law of Poyning's, which, I believe, applies this statute of Edward III to Ireland, enacted also for the Irishman's defense, "All those laws by which England claims her liberty." And what is the fundamental charter of an Englishman's liberty? That he shall be tried by his peers. With all respect I assert this court is to me, an Irishman, charged with this offence, a foreign court—this jury is for me, an Irishman, not a jury of my peers to try me in this vital issue, for it is patent to every man of conscience that I have a right, an indefeasible right, if tried at all, under this statute of high treason, to be tried in Ireland, before an Irish court and by an Irish jury. This court, this jury, the public opinion of this country, England, cannot but be prejudiced in varying degree against me, most of all in time of war. I did not land in England; I landed in Ireland. It was to Ireland I came; to Ireland I wanted to come; and the last place I desired to land in was England. But for the Attorney-General of England there is only "England"—there is no Ireland; there is only the law of England—no right of Ireland; the liberty of Ireland and of Irishmen is to be judged by the power of England. Yet for me, the Irish outlaw, there is a land of Ireland, a right of Ireland, and a charter for all Irishmen to appeal to, in the last resort, a charter that even the very statutes of England itself cannot deprive us of; nay more—a charter that Englishmen themselves assert as the fundamental bond of law that connects the two kingdoms. This charge of high treason involves a moral responsibility, as the very terms of the indictment against myself recite inasmuch as I committed the acts I am charged with, to the "evil example of others in the like case." What was this "evil example" I set to others in "the like case," and who were these others? The "evil example" charge is that I asserted the rights of my own country, and the "others" I appealed to, to aid my endeavor, were my own countrymen. The example was given not to Englishmen, but to Irishmen, and the "like case" can never arise in England, but only in Ireland. To Englishmen I set no evil example, for I made no appeal to them.

ASKED NO ENGLISH HELP.

I asked no Englishman to help me. I asked Irishmen to fight for their rights. The "evil example" was only to other Irishmen who might come after me, and in "like case" seek to do as I did. How then, since neither my example nor my appeal was addressed to Englishmen can I be rightfully tried by them?

If I did wrong in making that appeal to Irishmen to join with me in an effort to fight for Ireland, it is been understood that he had run short of supplies.

To the collector's suggestion that he might take on coal and supplies sufficient to make his nearest home port, the captain replied that his stores were ample and that he would leave early tomorrow.

"The French Consul has some very important papers which I desired," said the captain. "I came up from Martinique and, inasmuch as I had been cruising in the gulf for the past ten days, I decided to come into Pensacola and get them."

VIEW OF SHIPPERS.

Local shipping men believe the warship is on patrol duty off the Gulf Coast and has been examining harbor entrances to ascertain if a German submarine could enter any of the gulf ports. For the past ten days the crews of German and Austrian merchant ships laid up here have been telling German sympathizers that the Bremen, the sister ship of the Deutschland, had selected Pensacola as her port of entry and that allied warships were on the lookout for her.

It was learned that the cruiser left Martinique two weeks ago and has about forty German prisoners aboard, some of whom were captured several months ago.

George W. Howe, French consular agent here, tonight declared the story of the sinking of the Deutschland was entirely without foundation.

IN THE DARK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HALIFAX (N. S.) Aug. 12.—Admiralty officials at this port, which is the headquarters for British naval operations in the Eastern Atlantic, tonight said they knew nothing of the sinking of the German submarine merchantman Deutschland, reported by an orderly of the French cruiser Amiral Aube at Pensacola today.

REPORTED CAPTURED.

PENSACOLA (Fla.) Aug. 12.—The French armored cruiser Amiral Aube came into this port today with supplies and coal exhausted. She is the first Entente warship to seek supplies in an American port.

Officials of the Amiral Aube reported that the German merchant submarine Deutschland was captured by allied warships shortly after she passed out the Virginia Capes. They could give no details. It is reported that the captain has been keeping his cruiser, the Amiral Aube, near this port for two weeks watching for the German submarine Bremen.

CARRANZA DECREE NOT RETROACTIVE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Notice from Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City to the State Department today that the recent Carranza decree prohibiting foreign stockholders in Mexican corporations from claiming the protection of their home governments was not retroactive served to relieve, in a measure, the feeling of apprehension created here by earlier reports.

Mr. Rodgers reported that the decree was intended to apply to corporations hereafter formed and apparently it will not affect the existing big American and other foreign oil and mining companies.

Thus, department officials see no urgent necessity for immediately protesting. They indicated, however, that the United States government is by no means prepared to submit quietly to the creation of any such precedent as is involved in the new decree. An attempt to enforce it probably will be met by formidable protests not only from the United States, but all European powers interested.

KILLS MEXICANS WHO SHOT HORSE.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 12.—After his horse had been shot from under him by two Mexicans suspected of having perpetrated a burglary, and he himself had been shot through the hip, Constable John Bright of Courtland, Cochise county, drawing his gun as he lay prone on the ground beside the body of horse, killed the two Mexicans today, near Courtland. Bright will recover.

After emptying his revolver at the Mexicans, who had ambushed him, Bright, not knowing that he had killed his assailants, crawled a distance of two miles on his hands and reported to a ranch-house that he had been ambushed by the suspected burglars.

A posse of cowboys was quickly formed and went in pursuit of the Mexicans. They found that John Bright's aim had been better than he thought.

MRS. MARIE DAVIS IS EXONERATED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Marie Davis, widow of Morse Davis, Canadian mining promoter, found dead in a Michigan-avenue hotel from a poison from which Mrs. Davis was suffering, practically was exonerated today by the police of any knowledge of how the poisonings came about.

Mrs. Davis asserted her belief that the poisoning of her husband and herself through the salts he had mixed for each was accidental, as she could conceive of no reason he would have for wishing to die. The poison was always carried by him, she said, as he used it in his mining experiments.

Light on the history of Davis was expected today with the arrival of his brother, the Rev. Henry Davis, who lives in a suburb of New York City. The clergyman telegraphed he would reach here today and detectives were assigned to interview him.

According to John E. Burke, manager of the hotel, Mrs. Davis is penniless and there is a hotel bill of $300 charged against her.

MILLIONS IN TRADE LOST TO AMERICAN FIRMS.

Theft or Delay of Business Cablegrams to Europe Alleged.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—An estimated loss of $100,000,000 in Russian trade to American firms within the last eight months through theft or delay of cables by the British censors was charged today by A. S. Postnikoff, president of the International Manufacturers Sales Company.

Postnikoff substantiated dispatches from Petrograd stating that efforts are being made to lay a direct cable between Russia and America because of the inability to get proper cable transmission of Russian orders through the British censor.

He backed up a Washington dispatch, charging that Great Britain has been actually stealing American trade, with the declaration that out of fifty cables received by his company in the last eight months only five have been transmitted in their original form.

"While I have no direct proof that Great Britain has garbled our cables to throw trade to their own manufacturers, I am pretty certain that such is the case," said Postnikoff.

"In the past eight months eight cables from here to our Petrograd office and from that office to this office have been lost.

"No doubt exists in my mind that Great Britain is using every possible means, fair or foul, to [illegible] and, if possible, put an end to the trade relations between the [illegible] States and other countries. [illegible] Britain is particularly [illegible] discouraging such trade [illegible] American firms and their [illegible] customers.

Postnikoff said his concern protested to Washington regarding the censorship of their cables and that considerable correspondence with the State Department followed. [illegible] cables from the company's [illegible] office are still missing, Postnikoff declared.

"The loss to America as a [illegible] of the British thefts will [illegible] $100,000,000," Postnikoff said.

LONDON, Aug. 12, 12:30 p.m.—Complaints of American shippers over the detention of consignments to The Netherlands Overseas Trust are being supported by the American government. PROTEST ON CENSORSHIP PRESENTED AT LONDON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The protest of American newspaper correspondents in Germany against censorship of their dispatches by British officials, forwarded from Washington by the State Department, was presented to the Foreign Office today by Irwin B. Laughlin, secretary of the American Embassy. Discussing the question, Lord Robert Cecil, War Trade Minister, said that no decision had been reached. However, he expressed the opinion that such censorship of messages in transit was more [illegible] than the local censorship.

"I am no great [illegible] censorship here," he [illegible] I believe not only our [illegible] foreign correspondents [illegible] jurisdiction can be prevented [illegible] publishing or dispatching [illegible] information by the Defense of the Realm Act. BUTTE (Mont.) Aug. 12.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing an audience in the ball park here late today, reviewed his declaration of convictions and continued his attack on the administration for its foreign and Mexican policy, its appointments and its tariff views.

"The Democratic party," the nominee said, "has always been a party of opposition to progress. There has not been a great national movement in response to a national demand that has not had to run over the prostrate form of the Democratic party."

The nominee scored the administration for what he called failure to carry out its party platform, notably the plank in the 1912 platform declaring for the maintenance of American rights abroad.

"The administration in the first instance organized its State Department," Mr. Hughes said, "so as to reduce its potency 25 per cent. in the eyes of the world."

ANTI-PORK BARREL.

The nominee reiterated his declaration that he was against "pork barrel" methods and characterized the last rivers and harbors bill "as a spectacle of shocking waste."

"And it will continue," he said, "until some American executive is willing to take his political life in his hands and come before the American people and say, 'Here I stand for business-like methods of government, come what will.' Until that time comes we will still have to get along in that haphazard way. For the nineteenth century that way might have done, but it won't do for the twentieth."

Mr. Hughes left here at 7:35 p.m. for Spokane, where he will spend tomorrow resting. Reviewing the first week of his campaign the nominee issued a statement saying that he was much gratified by the reception given him and anticipated strong support in the Northwest. The hoarseness which bothered him a day or two had left him and he said he felt better at present than at any time before his nomination.

Before leaving Butte, Mr. Hughes went 3000 feet under ground to the second level of one of the big copper mines here, where he spent an hour inspecting the workings of a Common Sense.

RUN GOVERNMENT AS BUSINESS IS THE PLEDGE OF MR. HUGHES.

Republican Candidate Declares His Party is Only Hope of the South for Continued Prosperity.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUTTE (Mont.) Aug. 12.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing an audience in the ball park here late today, reviewed his declaration of policies and continued his attack on the administration for its foreign [illegible] policy, its appointments and its tariff views.

"The Democratic party," the nominee said, "has always been a party of opposition to progress. There has been a great national movement in response to a national demand that has not had to run over the outgrown form of the Democratic party."

The nominee scored the administration for what he called failure to carry out its party platform, notably that in the 1912 platform declaring for the maintenance of American rights abroad.

"The administration in the first year reorganized its State Department," Mr. Hughes said, "so as to reduce its potency 25 per cent. in the eyes of the world."

ANTI-PORK BARREL.

The nominee reiterated his declaration that he was against "pork barrel" methods and characterized the rivers and harbors bill "as an orgy of shocking waste."

"And it will continue," he said, "until some American executive is willing to take his political life in his hands and come before the American people and say, 'Here I stand for business-like methods of government, come what will.' Until that time comes we will still have to go along in that haphazard way. In the sixteenth century that way may have done, but it won't do for the twentieth."

Mr. Hughes left here at 7:35 p.m. for Helena, where he will spend tomorrow resting. Reviewing the first week of his campaign the nominee made a statement saying that he was much gratified by the reception given him and anticipated strong support in the Northwest. The hoarseness which bothered him a day or two had left him and he said he felt better at present than at any time before his nomination.

Before leaving Butte, Mr. Hughes went [illegible] feet under ground to the lowest level of one of the big copper mines here, where he spent an hour inspecting the workings of a

ACCUSES M'ADOO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

HELENA (Mont.) Aug. 12.—Charles E. Hughes, continuing his attack on the administration for its appointments, today charged Secretary McAdoo "upon reliable information," with having replaced [illegible] N. Clapp, formerly confidential secretary to John G. Carlisle with Daniel E. Finn, son of "Battery Dan" Finn, a Tammy leader, as assistant appraiser of merchandise at New York.

"The circumstances, I am reliably informed," Mr. Hughes said, "were these: Mr. Clapp was assistant appraiser of merchandise at the port of New York, a position requiring expert knowledge in order to secure efficiency. His resignation was demanded by the Secretary of the Treasury Department and in his place was appointed Daniel E. Finn, who is a Tammany district leader and son of Battery Dan Finn, of much political notoriety.

"Mr. Clapp had served twenty-five years in the Treasury Department service. He rose by merit from a clerkship in the Treasury Department at Washington, which was obtained through competititve examination, to the position of assistant appraiser of merchandise in New York. He had been special agent of the treasury, confidential secretary to John G. Carlisle while Secretary of the Treasury, and held other important positions in the service through promotion by merit.

"He was the expert in the appraiser's department at the port of New York and had been the right hand man of five appraisers and the acting appraiser in their absence. Some months after he was put out of the service, through fear of criticism on the part of the department he was made an examiner in the custom service, a much lower position than that held before and at a much lower compensation."

SCORES SECTIONALISM.

Mr. Hughes assailed the administration as a "sectional administration" and read a list of the House and Senate committees which had southern men as chairmen.

"I have no criticism to make," he said, "of the honor, the respectability or the agreeable character of any of these men, but I say that an administration under which so many of the chairmen of the House of Representatives are represented in that manner is a sectional administration. It is not an American administration in a broad and proper sense.

"I want to see the South built up. It can be built up. It never will be built up, however, without Republican policies being applied. I think many of the southern men are beginning to realize that. You can no more build up this country by historic doctrine than you could fly through the air with the old flying machines they experimented with thirty years ago."

The situation in the Senate, Mr. Hughes said, was much similar to that in the House, especially with reference to the "pork-barrel committees." The administration's tariff policy also was assailed.

"Look what they did to the sugar industry," Mr. Hughes said. "They went ahead to wreck a great industry in many sections of the country. Later they thought better of their own action. They repented to a degree. I tell you we don't want legislation of which we will have to repent. We want some foresight in dealing with American industries."

Mr. Hughes again assailed the administration's foreign policy.

"It has led some nations to believe that what it said it was not entirely ready to stand for," Mr. Hughes said. "We seriously impaired our prestige at the very beginning because of the organization of our State Department."

In his statement with reference to the replacement of Mr. Clapp by Mr. Finn, the nominee referred to Mr. Finn as a "district leader without any qualifications or special training for the place."

"What's the use of talking about improvement in the American government?" Mr. Hughes asked. "Why should we declaim about Americanism, if we do not keep especially trained men in the employ of the government, if we require them to be displaced by political workers? I am opposed to that. It has got to stop.

"We have had in the present administration a great period of paper programmes. A little later we shall have occasion to dissect some of these records to which so much attention is given. But underlying every sort of paper programme is the great necessity of proper public administration. This administration has fallen seriously short in that matter. It has prostituted important places to the demands of mere partisan expediency."

WILSON OUTLINES SUFFRAGE VIEWS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER (Colo.) Aug. 12.—President Wilson outlined his position on equal suffrage for women in a letter to the Jane Jefferson Democratic Club, a woman's organization, made public tonight at its annual banquet:

"One of the strongest forces behind equal suffrage sentiment of the country," says the President, "is the now demonstrated fact that in suffrage States women interest themselves in public questions, study them thoroughly, form their opinions and divide as men do concerning them."

Referring to advocates of State and national action on suffrage, the letter continues:

"Both great political parties of the nation have in their recent platforms favored the extension of suffrage to women through State action, and I do not see how their candidates can consistently disregard these official declarations. I shall endeavor to make the declaration of my own party in this matter effectual by every influence that I can properly and legitimately exercise."

Woman's part in the progress of the race, the letter says, "is as important as man's" and "suffrage and service go hand-in-hand." It adds: "The war in Europe has forever set at rest the notion that nations depend in times of stress wholly upon their men."

S. H. Thompson of the Attorney General's office at Washington was the principal speaker at the banquet.

SENATOR BANKHEAD FOR SHIP BILL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Senator Bankhead of Alabama, one of the seven Democrats who revolted against the administration shipping bill in the last Congress, addressed the Senate in favor of the pending shipping bill.

"As one of the Democrats who opposed the last shipping bill," said Senator Bankhead, "I rise to announce that I will vote for the pending measure. I do not hesitate to say, however, that if the present bill contained unlimited authority for the proposed shipping board to purchase ships, I would oppose it to the end."

The Senate continued work on the measure. Other Democrats who opposed the bill last year have already indicated their support.

HUGHES IN CALIFORNIA EARLY NEXT FRIDAY.

Republican Candidate will Leave San Francisco on the Following Day to Deliver an Address in Los Angeles on the Succeeding Monday Evening — A Number of Other Speeches Promised Elsewhere.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Charles Evans Hughes, Republican candidate for President, will enter California from the north on his western speaking tour early next Friday and will speak here the same night. Saturday night he will leave for Los Angeles, where he will speak Monday night.

William H. Crocker, Republican National Committeeman, will preside at the San Francisco meeting, and [illegible] at Los Angeles, according to an announcement from Republican headquarters here today.

In addition to the gatherings here and at Los Angeles Hughes will make many other addresses while in California. After crossing the Oregon line Friday he will deliver platform speeches from the train at Woodland, Dixon, Suisun and Benicia. Friday afternoon he will address the women of San Francisco and Saturday he will speak at a mass meeting in Oakland at a conference of Republican country newspaper editors here. Monday afternoon he will address a mass meeting in San Diego.

During his stay in San Francisco the Republican standard bearer will be tendered a reception at the Union League Club Friday and a luncheon at the Commercial Club Saturday. Similar affairs are being planned in the south. He will spend Sunday in Los Angeles.

Immediately following the Los Angeles meeting Hughes will leave for Reno, Nev., over the valley lines of the Southern Pacific. Speeches may be made at valley points as he passes through. Following Reno he will go to Ogden and Salt Lake, Utah, and then East.

CASE OF PRIEST TO BE TAKEN UP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Aug. 12.—The Rev. C. G. Van Goethem, the priest who was arrested by the Mexican authorities when he crossed the line last Sunday to administer religious consolation to a member of his church dangerously ill, was informed today by Secretary Lansing that his case would be taken up with the de facto government by Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City.

Secretary Lansing said that Mr. Rodgers informed the de facto authorities of the circumstances of the arrest and asked for an investigation.

"The department trusts that the action does not have their approval," the message to the Rev. Goethem continues, "and that they will aid you to perform your priestly functions among your parishioners over the line in Mexico."

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 12, 12:10 p.m.—G. Lufbery of New Haven, Ct., is the American aviator who was mentioned in the official French announcement of last night for having brought down a German aeroplane inside the French lines south of Douaumont. He was flying at a height of 12,000 feet toward the German lines when he perceived 3000 feet below him a German aeroplane moving toward the French. He planed swiftly down, working his machine gun at the time, as he was alone in the aeroplane.

The German machine was hit repeatedly and fell in flames. Lufbery landed safely. It was his second exploit of the kind within a week.

SALMON FISHERY INQUIRY BEGUN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARSHFIELD (Or.) Aug. 12.—As a result of the investigation into the salmon fishermen's war on the Rogue River, begun this week by Gov. James Withycombe and the Fish and Game Commission, it was announced today that the mouth of the stream will be closed to fishing.

A hearing will be held at Gold Beach next Friday to fix the area that will be closed to seining operations. The best seining grounds on the river will be closed, but officers of the Fish and Game Commission here stated this would be the most effective means of ending trouble between independent gill-net fishermen and employees of the MacLeay Salmon Packing Company and that it would also allow more fish to reach the upper reaches of the river.

COLUMBIA RIVER HIGHWAY DONE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 12.—That portion of the Columbia River highway which lies in Multnomah county was declared completed today down to its last detail. Although the highway has been open to traffic from end to end since early summer, the county has been working on paving it since then. Only 26.73 miles of the thoroughfare proper lies in this county. This stretch was built at a cost of $1,300,000, or more than $48,000 per mile, being one of the most expensive pieces of road work in the world. For its entire distance there is no rail or road crossing of any kind.

Liven up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

DANISH SENATE DEBATES PACT.

Believed that Folkething will Approve Sale.

Opposition to Disposing of Island Political.

Rigsdag is not Competent, in Minister's Belief.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 12 (via London.)—The Danish Landsthing or Senate, on motion of its president, today decided to resolve into a committee to consider the bill for ratification of the cession of the Danish West Indies to the United States.

There are apparently the best grounds for the prediction that the Folkething, which today resumed its deliberations on the bill, will approve the sale. The Landsthing, however, seems to have a safe majority against the proceeding. The result, according to the best opinion here, will be that the Rigsdag will be dissolved and a general election held under the new constitution, which, while its going into effect was to have been postponed until after the war, will, in the event of need, be put into force immediately. The radicals and Socialists, who are in the majority in the lower house, favor confirmation. In the Landsthing, however, the conservative and left opposition appears certain to prevail.

SALE CONFIRMATION.

Much of the opposition to confirmation of the sale is not based on economic or broader grounds, but is purely political. It is due mainly to a feeling of resentment at the attitude of the government, which the objectors accuse of conducting negotiations with the United States in secrecy and of denying that such negotiations were under way until the very moment the announcement was made that a bargain had been struck.

J. C. Christensen, former Prime Minister and now leader of the left in the Folkething, has declared his belief that the existing Rigsdag is not competent to decide the West Indies question. In the event of elections, however, he would support confirmation. The former Premier was a member of the government of 1902 which laid the proposal to sell the islands before the Rigsdag. Then, as now, the upper house opposed the government proposal and defeated confirmation.

NEW CONSTITUTION.

The new constitution confers the suffrage upon women and domestic servants and also reduces the age of eligibility from 30 to 29 for the first general election. The total number of voters will therefore be more than doubled. Hence nobody is brave enough to attempt to forecast the probable complexion of the new Rigsdag if one has to be chosen.

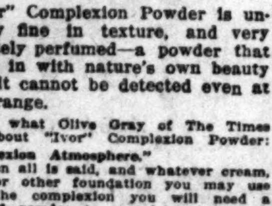
The final decision on the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States may be postponed nearly a month if the proposal of Radical and Socialist members of the Folkething for a plebiscite is adopted on Monday. The Folkething, or lower house, recessed today after postponing the confirmation of the sale until Monday. The proposal of the Radicals and Socialists calls for the cession treaty between Denmark and the United States by Parliament. The approval by Parliament, however, will become effective only if it is ratified by a majority vote of the plebiscite, which is to be held within three weeks, and under the franchise provisions of the new constitution, according to the proposal.

The advocates of the sale believe the course proposed should meet the objections of the leading opponents, who have been laying much stress on their opinion that the present Parliament is not compelled to decide the matter alone, and that the people should have a chance to express their wishes.

Tests Show Ivory Rollers Grind Finest Complexion Powder

Prof. John H. Austin, the Well Known Beauty Specialist, Proves This in His Chicago Laboratory!

—After many months of experimenting with various pulverizing machines, having rollers made of different metals, and of ivory—the last named proved to be the best, in fact, Prof. Austin discovered that with rollers made of this extremely hard, close-grained substance a powder could be produced that would be finer and more hygienic than any heretofore manufactured. At a great expense Prof. Austin had a large machine made, equipped with ivory rollers, and is now manufacturing this high-grade powder in great quantities, so that he may sell it at a popular price. He has named it "Ivor" Complexion Powder.



—"Ivor" Complexion Powder is unusually fine in texture, and very delicately perfumed—a powder that blends in with nature's own beauty tints, it cannot be detected even at close range.

—Read what Olive Gray of The Times says about "Ivor" Complexion Powder:

"Complexion Atmosphere."

"When all is said, and whatever cream, paste or other foundation you may use upon the complexion you will need a dash of powder to complete the effect. For I hold that as "atmosphere" is to the painting, softening every detail, powder is to the perfection of the complexion. And there is no doubt that the kind of powder used is of as great importance as anything appertaining to the appearance of the well-dressed woman. Not only the appearance, but the permanent good of the skin depends upon this seemingly small detail. More frequently than any other question asked by the woman who cares, is the one as to the pure face powder. Not new or untried, but new in Los Angeles, is that powder bearing a resemblance in name and in effect to ivory. Pure, fine, and absolutely harmless this is so far as I have observed, the best of powders for the creation of that last touch —that so-needed complexion atmosphere."

—You'll find "Ivor" Complexion Powder equal to any dollar powder made—on sale tomorrow, 50c box—Hamburger's Second Floor—or mail orders sent postage paid.—Advertisement.

KILLED IN CRASH OF TROLLEY CARS.

TWENTY-FIVE DEAD, SIXTY-THREE INJURED.

Crowded Coaches Collide on Line of Southern Cambria Traction Company Near Johnstown, Pa.—Wounded Compelled to Wait Because of Lack of Doctors

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JOHNSTOWN (Pa.) Aug. 12.—Twenty-five persons were killed and sixty-three injured in a head-on collision between two crowded trolley cars on the line of the Southern Cambria Traction Company between Echo and Brookvale, seven miles from here. Fourteen persons were instantly killed while the others died after being removed from the wreckage. Several more are in a critical condition and will probably die.

CAUSE NOT DETERMINED.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. Coroner Fitzgerald at once started an investigation. The company in a statement tonight said it was absolutely without data on which to base a report of how the accident occurred.

As soon as word of the wreck was received here a score of physicians and nurses were rushed in automobiles to the scene, followed shortly afterwards by motor trucks hastily fitted up as ambulances and several pieces of motor-fire apparatus. Because of lack of doctors many of the injured were compelled to wait nearly two hours for medical treatment.

CAR STANDING STILL.

According to persons in the vicinity at the time of the wreck one car was standing still near the car barn at Echo when the other car in charge of Motorman Angus Varner crashed down a steep grade and into it. Both cars were demolished. Shortly before the accident Varner's car was seen to rush past the station at Brookvale with Varner frantically waving his arms. Believing the car, which, according to employees of the company, was going at the rate of thirty miles an hour, was not under control, the current was shut off at the power plant, but this action was taken too late to avoid the crash.

Doubtful.

U-BOAT REPORT IS UNCONFIRMED

British Embassy Declares it has no Information.

If Submarine was Sunk New Issue may Develop.

French Vessel Must Leave Our Port Shortly.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—So far as could be ascertained tonight, nothing official has reached Washington confirmatory of the report from Pensacola tonight that the German merchant submarine Deutschland had been sunk by a British patrol boat off the American coast on August 8. At the British Embassy tonight the positive statement was made that the Embassy was without any information regarding the fate of the Deutschland and had no confirmation of the report attributed to an orderly of the commanding officer of the French armored cruiser Admiral Aube, which reached Pensacola today.

If it should be true, as reported, that the Deutschland has been sunk by a British warship, the fact would probably develop a live issue between the British and German governments relative to the right of a warship to sink an unarmed merchant vessel that does not resist. The understanding here has been that the German government would challenge the right of any of the belligerents to sink the Deutschland unless that vessel when sighted and challenged should try to escape, in which event it would run the risk of any other merchant ship.

GERMAN CONTENTION.

Unless the Deutschland offered resistance or tried to escape the German government will contend, it is asserted, that international law was violated. On the other hand, it is expected that the contention of the British government would be that a submarine attempting to submerge would be regarded as trying to escape and held to be subject to attack. It also would be the British contention that it would be difficult to determine whether a submarine flying the German flag was engaged on a friendly or belligerent cruise.

The Admiral Aube, which arrived at Pensacola today, will be treated by the United States government under the same rules of international law which were invoked in the case of the German auxiliary cruisers Eitel Friederich and other German vessels now interned in American ports. The Admiral Aube would be required to leave Pensacola within twenty-four hours unless in need of repairs or coal. In the latter event the French cruiser would be permitted to take on enough fuel to insure its passage to the nearest French port.

NO TROUBLE TO LEAVE.

As no German warships are known to be in American waters, the French cruiser will have no difficulty in leaving Pensacola when it has taken on the allotted coal and provisions. Under the rules of international law the Admiral Aube, after having visited an American neutral port, during the progress of the war, cannot enter an American port for three months after departing without violating international law.

WOMAN IS KILLED IN AUTO WRECK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VISALIA, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Bloom Parr was killed, her daughter Esta was probably fatally injured and her husband, Bloom Parr, a wealthy Visalia rancher, was slightly hurt, when the automobile in which Parr was driving his family to their ranch was struck by an electric car of the Visalia Electric Railroad Company late today.

Parr said that a string of oil cars screened the approaching train from his field of vision until the automobile was on the track. The noise emanating from an electric generating station near the scene of the accident, he said, prevented him from hearing the warning bell of the car.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

HAVRE, Aug. 12.—Five ships were held up at once by a German submarine on Thursday morning. The commander of the submarine ordered the crew of the French steamer Marie to get into boats and then sank the vessel with bombs in view of the crews of the four other ships.

The Norwegian steamers Credo and Soro were next sent to the bottom. The other ships were allowed to continue their voyages after being searched and their papers examined. The crews of the three sunken ships were picked up by the Danish steamer Robert and landed at Havre on Friday morning.

WHEAT MARKET INQUIRY PLANNED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Persistent reports that a Federal investigation of an alleged conspiracy to manipulate the wheat market has been under way for four weeks led to a formal statement on the subject early today by United States District Attorney Clyne. He said that whatever action the government might be taking in the matter necessarily must be withheld.

Mr. Clyne said:

"Whatever action the government might be taking in this matter necessarily must be withheld. Should there be any investigation under way it is the policy of the government never to reveal the information. To do so would be defeating the very thing we desire to accomplish in such matters. An investigation of the wheat situation or any other situation must require deliberate action. Should any plans be made known in advance of our attempts to gather sufficient evidence to indict it would be the signal for the market manipulators to take to cover."

BEET AND WHEAT MEN FEAR CAR SHORTAGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALEM (Or.) Aug. 12.—Apprehension was expressed today by the Oregon Public Service Commission that the car-shortage situation would become acute within the next few days. The Southern Pacific Railroad reports a shortage of 597 cars on the eve of heavy demands for cars to move the wheat crop in Oregon and the beet crop in California. Members of the commission said that every effort was being made to forestall the situation.

WOMEN LEADERS OFF ON CAMPAIGN.

THREE-DAY CONFERENCE AT COLORADO SPRINGS ENDS.

Speakers Depart for Various Points in Twelve Suffrage States to Carry Out Campaign Plans as Agreed on at Recent Convention.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Aug. 12.—A three-day conference of the National Woman's party was concluded here today and leaders tonight were departing for various points in the twelve suffrage States to carry out campaign plans outlined at the final session. Active opposition to the national administration for failure to pass the national suffrage amendment was the chief task assigned to the workers. National officers instructed the organizers and speakers that the election policy of the party was essentially one of opposition to the reelection of Democratic candidates.

Late today the veteran equal suffrage campaigners were "breaking in" young and inexperienced workers at street meetings. Under the direction of Mrs. St. Clair Thompson of North Carolina a number of young women made their debut as public speakers. A few were visibly "flustered," as they termed it, but for the most part the addresses were delivered fluntly and with considerable oratorical effect.

THE REARRANGEMENT.

A rearrangement of party organizers and speakers in the different States was announced as follows:

California—Miss Doris Stevens, Mrs. Clara Snell Wolfe, Mrs. Sara Bard Field, Mrs. Ida Finney Mackville.

Wyoming—Miss Margery Ross.

Idaho—Mrs. Albert C. Muhse, Miss Jane Pincas.

Nevada—Miss Alice Menkle, Miss Mabel Vernon.

Montana—Miss Margaret Whittemore, Miss Clara Rowe.

Arizona—Mrs. E. St. Clair Thompson.

Utah—Miss Ella Riegel.

Oregon—Miss Mary Fendall.

Colorado—Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, Miss Rose Winslow.

Illinois—Mrs. Robert Baker, Miss Maude Younger, Miss Frances Frothingham.

Kansas—Miss Kathleen Taylor, Mrs. Harriett Stanton Blatch, Miss Agnes Morey.

Other workers to be assigned later are: Miss Emily Perry, Mrs. Edna S. Latimer, Miss Vivian Pierce, Miss Sara Grant, Mrs. W. D. Ascough, Mrs. Jessie Mackenzie, Miss Elsie Hill.

"CYCLONE" DAVIS SUES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) Aug. 5.—J. H. (Cyclone) Davis, one of the Congressmen-at-large from Texas, who was defeated for renomination in the recent Democratic primaries, has filed suit in the District Court at Fort Worth for $50,000 damages against Paul Waples, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, because the latter failed to comply with his request that his name appear upon the ballot as "Cyclone" Davis. In making up the official ballot Chairman Waples put down the name of the Congressman-at-large as "J. H. Davis," omitting the appellation "Cyclane," by which Mr. Davis has long been widely known in Texas. It is alleged by Mr. Davis that very few people know him by the name of J. H. Davis and that the omitting of "Cyclone" from the ballot cost him more than 50,000 votes in the primaries.

Davis won the title of "Cyclone" good many years ago during the period that the Populist party was in the height of its power in Texas. He was the recognized leader of that political element and in the campaigns that he waged he stirred things up so much that he came to be known as "Cyclone" Davis.

Speech of Casement

by Irishmen, and by them alone, I can be rightfully judged.

From this court and its jurisdiction I appeal to those I am alleged to have wronged, and to those I am alleged to have injured by my "evil example," and claim that they alone are competent to decide my guilt or my innocence.

If they find me guilty the statute may affix the penalty, but the statute does not override or annul my right to seek judgment at their hands.

There is so fundamental a right, so natural a right, so obvious a right, that it is clear the crown were aware of it when they brought me by force and by stealth from Ireland to this country. It was not I who landed in England, but the crown who dragged me here, away from my own country to which I had returned with a price upon my head, away from my own countrymen whose loyalty is not in doubt, and safe from the judgment of my peers whose judgment I do not shrink from. I admit no other judgment but theirs. I accept no verdict save at their hands. I assert from this dock that I am being tried here not because it is just, but because it is unjust. Place me before a jury of my own countrymen, be it Protestant or Catholic, Unionist or Nationalist, Sinn Feineach or Orangeman, and I shall accept the verdict and bow to the statute and all its penalties.

That, my Lord, is the condemnation of English rule, of English-made law, of English government in Ireland—that it dare not rest on the will of the Irish people, but exists in defiance of their will—that it is a rule derived not from right but from conquest. Conquest, my Lord, gives no title, and if it exist over the body it fails over the mind. It can exert no empire over men's reason and judgment and affections; and it is from this law of conquest without title to the reason, judgment, and affection of my own countrymen that I appeal.

REAFFIRMATION.

My Lord, I beg to say a few more words. As I say that was my opinion—opinion arrived at many days ago while I was a prisoner. I have no hesitation in reaffirming it here, and I hope that the gentlemen of the press who did not hear me yesterday may have heard me distinctly today. I wish my words to go much beyond this court.

I would add the generous expressions of sympathy extended me from many quarters, particularly from America, have touched me very much. In that country, as in my own, I am sure my motives are understood and not misjudged—for the achievement of their liberties has been an abiding inspiration to Irishmen and to all men elsewhere rightly struggling to be free in like cause.

My Lord Chief Justice: If I may continue, I am not called upon, I conceive, to say anything in answer to the inquiry Your Lordship has addressed to me why sentence should not be passed upon me. Since I do not admit any verdict in this court, I cannot, my lord, admit the fitness of the sentence that of necessity must follow it from this court. I hope I shall be acquitted of presumption if I say that the court I see before me now is not this High Court of Justice of England, but a far greater, a far higher, a far older assemblage of justices—that of the people of Ireland. Since in the acts which have lead to this trial it was the people of Ireland I sought to serve—and them alone—I leave my judgment and my sentence in their hands.

Let me pass from myself and my own fate to a far more pressing, as it is a far more urgent theme—not the fate of the individual Irishman who may have tried and failed, but the claims and the fate of the country that has not failed. Ireland has outlived the failure of all her hopes, and yet she still hopes. Ireland has seen her sons—aye, and her daughters, too—suffer from generation to generation always for the same cause, meeting always the same fate and always at the hands of the same power; and always a fresh generation has passed on to withstand the same oppression. For if English authority be omnipotent—a power, as Mr. Gladstone phrased it, that reaches the very ends of the earth—Irish hope exceeds the dimensions of that power, excels its authority and renews with each generation the claims of the last. The cause that begets this indomitable persistency, the faculty of preserving through centuries of misery the remembrance of lost liberty, this surely is the noblest cause men ever strove for, ever lived for, ever died for. If this be the case I stand here today indicted for, and convicted of sustaining, then I stand in a goodly company and a right noble succession.

ULSTER MOVEMENT.

My counsel has referred to the Ulster volunteer movement, and I will not touch at length upon that ground, save only to say this, that neither I nor any of the leaders of the Irish volunteers who were founded in Dublin in November, 1913, had quarrel with the Ulster volunteers as such, who were born a year earlier. Our movement was not directed against them, but against the men who misused and misdirected the courage, the sincerity, and the local patriotism of the men of the North of Ireland. On the contrary, we welcomed the coming of the Ulster volunteers, even while we deprecated the aims and intentions of those Englishmen who sought to pervert to an English party use—to the mean purposes of their own bid for place and power in England—the armed activities of simple Irishmen. We aimed at winning the Ulster volunteers to the cause of the united Ireland; we aimed at uniting all Irishmen in a natural and national bond of cohesion based on mutual self-respect. Our hope was a natural one, and if left to ourselves, not hard to accomplish. If external influences of disintegration would but leave us alone we were sure that nature itself must bring us together. It was not we, the Irish volunteers, who broke the law, but a British party. The government had permitted the Ulster volunteers to be armed by Englishmen to threaten not merely an English party in its hold on office, but to threaten that party through the lives and blood of Irishmen. The battle was to be fought in Ireland in order that the political "outs" of today should be the "ins" of tomorrow in Great Britain. A law that was designed for the benefit of Ireland was to be met, not on the floor of Parliament, where the fight had indeed been won, but on a field of battle much nearer home, where the armies would be composed of Irishmen, slaying each other for the same English party gain, and the British navy would be chartered "transports" that were to bring to our shores a numerous assemblage of military and ex-military experts in the congenial and profitable business of holding down subject populations abroad. Our choice lay in submitting to foreign lawlessness or resisting it, and we did not hesitate to choose. But while the lawbreakers had armed their would-be agents openly, we were met within a few days of the founding of our movement, that aimed at a united Ireland from within, by government action without directed against our obtaining any arms at all.

VOLUNTEER MANIFESTO.

The manifesto of the Irish volunteers, promulgated at a public meeting in Dublin on the 25th of November, 1913, stated with sincerity the aims of the organizations as I have outlined them. If the aims contained in the manifesto were a threat to the unity of the British Empire, then so much the worse for the empire. An empire that can only be held together by one section of its governing population perpetually holding down, and sowing dissensions among a smaller. But nonetheless a governing, section, must have some canker at its heart, some ruin at its root. The government that permitted the arming of those whose leaders declared that Irish national unity was a thing that should be opposed by force of arms, within nine days of the issue of our manifesto of good will to Irishmen of every creed and class, took steps to nullify our efforts by prohibiting the import of all arms into Ireland, as if it had been a hostile and blockaded coast. And this proclamation of the 4th of December, 1913, known as the Arms Proclamation, was itself based on an illegal interpretation of the law, as the Chief Secretary has now publicly confessed. The proclamation was met by the Loyalists of Great Britain with an act of still more lawless defiance—an act of widespread gun-running into Ulster that was denounced by the Lord Chancellor of England "as grossly illegal and utterly unconstitutional." How did the Irish volunteers meet the incitements to civil war that were uttered by the party of law and order in England, when they saw the prospect of deriving political profit to themselves from bloodshed among Irishmen?

I can answer from my own acts and speeches. While one English party was responsible for preaching a doctrine of hatred designed to bring about civil war in Ireland, the other, and that the party in power, took no steps to restrain a propaganda that found its advocates in the army, navy and Privy Council; in the houses of Parliament and in the state church—a propaganda, the method of whose expression was so "grossly illegal and utterly unconstitutional" that even the Lord Chancellor of England could find only words and no repressive action to apply to them. Since lawlessness sat in the high places in England and laughed at the law as at the custodians of the law, what wonder was it that Irishmen should refuse to accept the verbal protestations of an English Lord Chancellor as a sufficient safeguard for their lives and their liberties. I know not how all my colleagues on the volunteer committee in Dublin reviewed the growing menace, but those with whom I was in closest co-operation redoubled, in face of these threats from without, our efforts to unite all Irishmen from within. Our appeals were made to Protestant and Unionist as much almost as to Catholic and Nationalist Irishmen. We hoped that by the exhibition of affection and good will on our part towards our political opponents in Ireland we should yet succeed in winning them from the side of an English party whose sole interest in our country lay in its oppression in the past, and in the present in its degradation to the mean and narrow needs of their political animosities. It is true that they based their actions, so they averred, on "fears for the empire," and on a very diffuse loyalty that took in all the peoples of the empire save only the Irish. That blessed word "empire" that bears so paradoxical a resemblance to charity!—for if charity begins at home "empire" begins in other men's homes, and both may cover a multitude of sins. I for one was determined that Ireland was much more to me than "empire," and that if charity begins at home so must loyalty. Since arms were so necessary to make our organization a reality, and to give to the minds of Irishmen menaced with the most outrageous threats a sense of security, it was our bounden duty to get arms—to get arms before all else. I decided with this end in view to go to America. With surely a better right to appeal to Irishmen there for help in an hour of great national trial than those envoys of "empire" could assert for their week-end descents upon Ireland, or their appeals to Germany. If, as the right honorable gentleman, the present Attorney-General, asserted in a speech at Manchester, Nationalists would neither fight for home rule nor pay for it, it was our duty to show him that we knew how to do both. Within a few weeks of my arrival in the States the fund that had been opened to secure arms for the volunteers of Ireland amounted to many thousands of pounds. In every case the money subscribed, whether it came from the purse of the wealthy man or the still readier pocket of the poor man, was Irish gold.

THE WAR.

Then came the war. As Mr. Birrell said in his evidence recently made before the Commission of Inquiry into the causes of the late rebellion in Ireland, "the war upset all our calculations." It upset mine no less than Mr. Birrell's, and put an end to my mission of peaceful effort in America. War between Great Britain and Germany meant, as I believed, ruin for all the hopes we had founded on the enrollment of the Irish volunteers. A constitutional movement in Ireland is never very far from a breach of the constitution, as the Loyalists of Ulster had been so eager to show us. The cause is not far to seek; a constitution, to be maintained intact, must be the achievement and the pride of the people themselves; must rest on their own free will, and on their own determination to sustain it, instead of being something resident in another land whose chief representative is an armed force—armed not to protect the population, but to hold it down. We had seen the working of the Irish constitution in the refusal of the army of occupation at the Curragh to obey the orders of the crown. And now that we were told the first duty of an Irishman was to enter that army in return for a promissory note, payable after death—a scrap of paper that might or might not be redeemed—I felt over there in America that my first duty was to keep Irishmen at home in the only army that could safeguard our national existence. If small nationalities were to be the pawns in this game of embattled giants, I saw no reason why Ireland should shed her blood in any cause but her own; and if that be treason beyond the seas, I am not ashamed to avow it or to answer for it here with my life. And when he had the doctrine, "Mausers and kaisers and king you like," and I have heard that at Hamburg, not far from Limberg on the Lulni—I felt I needed no other warrant than that these words conveyed—to go forth and do likewise. The difference between us was that the Unionist champions chose a path they felt would lead to the woolsack, while I went a road I knew must lead to the dock. And the event proves we were both right. The difference between us was that my "treason" was based on a ruthless sincerity that forced me to attempt in time and season to carry out in action what I said in word, whereas their treason lay in verbal incitements that they knew need never be made good in their bodies. And so, I am prouder to stand here today in the traitor's dock to answer this impeachment, than to fill the place of my right honorable accusers.

We have been told, we have been asked to hope, that after this war Ireland will get home rule—as a reward for the life blood shed in a cause which, whomever else its success may benefit, can surely not benefit Ireland. And what will home rule be in return for what its vague promise has taken and still hopes to take away from Ireland? It is not necessary to climb the painful stairs of Irish history—that treadmill of a nation whose labors are as vain for their own uplifting as the convict's exertions are for his redemption—to review the long list of British promises made only to be broken, of Irish hopes raised only to be dashed to the ground. Home rule, when it comes, if come it does, will find an Ireland drained of all that is vital to its very existence, unless it be that unquenchable hope we build on the graves of the dead. We are told that if Irishmen go by the thousand to die, not for Ireland, but for Flanders, for Belgium—for a patch of sand on the deserts of Mesopotamia, or a rocky trench on the heights of Gallipoli—they are winning self-government for Ireland. But if they dare lay down their lives on their native soil, if they dare dream even that freedom can be won only at home by men resolved to fight for it there, then they are traitors to their country, and their dream and their deaths alike are phases of a dishonorable phantasy. But history is not so recorded in other lands. In Ireland alone in this twentieth century, is loyalty held to be a crime. If loyalty be something less than love and more than law, then we have had enough of such loyalty for Ireland or Irishmen. If we are to be indicted as criminals, to be shot as murderers, to be imprisoned as convicts, because our offense is that we love Ireland more than we value our lives, then I know not what virtue resides in any offer of self-government, held out to brave men on such terms. Self-government is our right, a thing born in us at birth; a thing no more to be doled out to us or withheld from us by another people than the right itself—than the right to feel the sun or smell the flowers or to love our kind. It is only from the convict these things are withheld for crime committed and proven; and Ireland, that has wronged no man, that has injured no land, that has sought no dominion over others—Ireland is treated today among the nations of the world as if she was a convicted criminal. If it be treason to fight against such an unnatural fate as this, then I am proud to be a rebel and shall cling to my "rebellion" with the last drop of my blood. If there be no right of rebellion against a state of things that no savage tribe would endure without resistance, then am I sure that it is better for men to fight and die without right than to live in such a state of right as this. Where all your rights become only an accumulated wrong; where men must beg with bated breath for leave to subsist in their own land, to think their own thoughts, to sing their own songs, to garner the fruit of their own labors, and, even while they beg, to see these things inexorably withdrawn from them—then surely it is a braver, a saner and a truer thing to be a rebel in act and deed against such circumstances as these, than tamely to accept it as the natural lot of men.

My Lord, I have done. Gentlemen of the jury, I wish to thank you for your verdict. I hope you will not take amiss or think that I made any imputation upon your truthfulness or your integrity when I spoke and said that this was not a trial by my peers. I maintain that I have a natural right to be tried in that natural jurisdiction, Ireland, my own country; and I would put it to you, how would you feel in a converse case, or, rather, how would all men 2 feel in a converse case, if an Englishman had landed here in England and the crown or the government for its own purposes had conveyed him secretly from England to Ireland under a false name, committed him to prison under a false name and brought him before a tribunal in Ireland under a statute which they knew involved a trial before an Irish jury? How would you feel yourselves, as Englishmen, if that man was to be submitted to trial by a jury in a land inflamed against him and believing him to be a criminal when his only crime was that he had cared for England more than for Ireland?

CONTINUOUS FIGHTING WITH BANDS OF BANDITS.

Reports from the Forces Under Gen. Cavazos and Col. Zuazua are Received at Chihuahua City. Trevino Announces that He will Afford Every Possible Protection to American Citizens.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Aug. 12.—Reports from the forces of Gen. Cavazos and Col. Zuazua in Northern Durango to Gen. Trevino today indicate that they are engaging in an almost continuous running fight with the bands under Martin Lopes and that the bandits lose men in each skirmish while the government losses have been few.

Gen. Trevino pointed out that a number of prominent outlaw leaders have been killed in the last few weeks and said that every effort is being made to exterminate the leaders, it being realized that without their commanders it will be an easy matter to subjugate the bandits.

Announcement also was made at the comandancia here that the forces of Gen. Domingo Arrieta have left Jimines and, so-operating with Gen. Matias Ramos's command from Escalon, are making a drive up the Rio Florido, intending to sweep through to Cerro Gordo. With the co-operation of the troops marching north from Durango City, it was pointed out, the bandits now operating between Parral and Rosario will be trapped.

Gen. Trevino announced also that he would afford every protection to Americans, especially those interested in the financial development of Chihuahua. The guarantees he offered are similar to those recently extended by Gen. Calles in Sonora.

It is stated here that Gen. Trevino will retain supreme command of the Carranza forces in Northern Mexico until the bandits are exterminated and peace thoroughly restored.

Active inquiries continue to be made by Gen. Trevino into the political plot which Jose Ynez Salazar and the Legalistas are accused of forming against the government. More arrests are expected to follow. As soon as this investigation is concluded, the five followers of Mariano Tames will also be court-martialed.

Local municipal elections, the first step toward the restoration of full civil government in this State, have been set for the third Sunday in September.

"Cow Hollow" and the Real Estate Speculators — The Fair Sisters and the Eclipse of Sunny Jim.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11. — Streams of humanity like rivers and ocean currents insist on following their natural courses. We are having an example of it here, greatly to the disgust of certain nonresident millionaires and millionairesses. Golden Gate Park has been the playground of San Francisco for two generations; it is a kind of community front yard for our race of flat dwellers. But when it came to the selection of a site for our great exposition, certain predominant interests turned down the park and staged the big show over on the bay front, changing the name of the location from Cow Hollow, which it had carried for fifty years, to the more aristocratic title of Harbor View.

After the fair was once builded its artistic and scenic beauty stilled for a time the murmurs of the great mass of us common folks who had wanted the fair built out in our own playground, the park. A San Franciscan says "the park" just as simply as an Englishman says "the King," for there is only one king possible to an Englishman and only one park to a San Franciscan. But our two objections to that location were only stilled, not forgotten. The Cow Hollow section was away off in one corner of the city, difficult of access, and most of the land over there, which was being filled in and beautified, belongs to Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Herman Oelrich, two San Francisco heiresses and sisters, who married millionaires and carried their wealth and its perquisites "back East."

How proud the old-timers were of those two daughters of James G. Fair, Teresa and Virginia! A whole school of budding poets wrote verses to "Fair Virginia" that were thinly-disguised odes to the eyes and the lips of Virginia Fair. A girl who was beautiful enough to be an artist's model and wealthy enough to own a city in her own right was quite naturally the darling of the gallery gods of her generation.

"Fair Virginia" gave her smiles to the youth of San Francisco, but her hand and her inherited millions to one whose estate equaled her own; Teresa did the same, and the youth who wrote odes to beauty's lips and eyes are now middle-aged men writing insurance policies, briefs and transcripts of mortgages to pay office rent to the agent of Virginia and Teresa's millionaire husbands.

This is just a slight digression to illustrate why there were some who did not care to see the city's playground moved from Golden Gate Park to Cow Hollow. The "fair" has gone, rather all three of the "fairs," the two girls and the big show, but the prejudice remains. Despite all the good, white paper that has been soaked with printer's ink to extol the wonders of the Marina that is to be, the common folks of San Francisco have reverted back to calling it Cow Hollow and they spend their Sundays and holidays in The Park.

There is even a steadily-rising sentiment against building the State Normal School on the site of the old California Building on the exposition grounds. It had been intended to utilize the California Building itself; but by a peculiar coincidence the structure is collapsing along with the State administration that built it; there is more wreckage than building now.

Of course this has been a source of disappointment to the Fair sisters. They took a personal interest in getting the exposition located on their property and they seem to be taking it as a personal affront that the people of San Francisco will not go ahead and make the Marina one of the scenic places of the West. But the financial wind that only sways these sturdy trees has broken and uprooted scores of weaker ones about them. The investing public of San Francisco took the tip greedily that something big was to develop in that Cow Hollow district when the exposition was over, and how they did speculate in "Harbor View" real estate. The wisest ones bought most and took the longest chances; now my friends tell me that the values of "Harbor View" real estate are rapidly slipping back to old Cow Hollow prices.

M. H. de Young of the Chronicle is chuckling over this collapse. He is one of the original park boosters and he still insists that the midwinter fair out in Golden Gate Park was just as much of a success as the exposition at Harbor View. He fought placing the exposition on the bay front to the last ditch and he took every occasion to buy property in the vicinity of the park. Some real estate men say he has cleaned up a million by buying in the neighborhood of the park during the slump that was occasioned by the exploitation of Harbor View.

The lesson of it all to me has been that people will follow beaten paths, that we are by nature conservative, even those seemingly the most radical, and that we cling to our prejudices as closely as to our hates, and that we unite to resist all innovations irrespective of their value.

I am hearing so much open-shop talk during this period of strikes and walk-outs that I am fairly bewildered by it. The big restaurants are all keeping their open-shop cards out and the union pickets are growing more surly and nagging as the tide turns against them.

Most of my friends seem to take the culinary strike as a huge joke. Rhymesters are at work and the windows of the cafes display the effusions of the budding laureates. Most of it is doggerel, but there is an occasional flash of wit.

Here is a prose simile, displayed in the window of a Childs restaurant, that has caught the town.

"The unions have about as much chance of winning this strike as a celluloid dog chasing an asbestos cat through hell. "That may sound a bit coarse to some Los Angeles ears but it has the right flavor for San Francisco.

Fred Koster of the Chamber of Commerce has apparently shoved "Sunny Jim" Rolph, our fair-weather Mayor, clear off the social pedestal and usurped the place for himself. Since the Chamber of Commerce declared for the open shop Mr. Koster has been steadily enlarging in the eyes of the business and social community. He speaks as though his backbone were not artificial; he is a tall, handsome fellow and knows how to smile as well as to frown.

Mayor Rolph made a star play yesterday to climb back up to his old place. He issued a proclamation to the press calling on the unions and the employers to form an arbitration committee. He wanted it to be composed of five employers, five walking delegates and five clergymen. The ministers were chosen, of course, in the interest of peace.

Mr. Koster came back this afternoon with a telling rejoinder, "The Mayor is asking us to arbitrate a principle."

That seems to have caught on like the celluloid dog. One hears it everywhere tonight and I have keep from hearing rude things about our Mayor.

DISARM POPULACE OF CIUDAD JUAREZ.

PROCLAMATION IS ISSUED BY THE COMANDANCIA.

Anybody with a Gun or a Revolver is Ordered to Deliver the Weapon at Headquarters—Increased Vigilance Noticeable on the Part of Mexican Soldiery.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 12.—A proclamation was issued today by Gen. Francisco Gonzales, commandant, ordering all persons in Juarez and its environs having arms in their possession to report them to the comandancia before 8 o'clock tonight. The proclamation stated that all persons other than members of the garrison, customs and municipal employees are to be disarmed.

It was asserted that the step is being taken because of the presence in the Mexican town of persons attempting to incite revolt. Gen. Gonzales explained, however, that the revolutionaries had succeeded today in gaining no headway.

An increased vigilance, nevertheless, was noticeable on the part of the soldiers at the Mexican end of the international bridge. Several persons, said to be members of the revolutionary juntas in El Paso, were arrested when they attempted to cross into Juarez.

Indications that a similar spirit is manifesting itself in Chihuahua City were contained in private dispatches saying that Jose Ynez Salazar, Marcelo Caraveo and Isaac Arroyo, former revolutionary leaders, together with forty-five others, had been placed in jail there for connection with an alleged plot against the de facto government. These dispatches, however, could not be verified here.

Reports of internal political disturbances in Chihuahua have been numerous recently, but until today had always been vigorously denied by Carranza authorities.

of the guard should be kept indefinitely from their business. The head of the War Department expresses a hope "That the emergency will rapidly disappear."

Thus he supports President Wilson in the latter's insistence that the Mexican peril's still extant and that the regular army is not adequate to cope with it.

TEXT OF LETTER.

Following is a part of the text of Mr. Baker's letter:

"A call to arms upon any body of men in the country, except the regular army, who makes a profession of the military life, would inevitably interrupt business, professional and personal carriers and it is impossible to imagine any situation in which the organized militia or National Guard of the several States could be summoned into the Federal service without hardship and inconvenience, and yet both the Constitution of the United States and the laws pursuant thereto recognize the militia and National Guard units as the secondary reliance of the government for the protection of the United States and the lives of the citizens of the country.

"The department regrets these inconveniences and hopes that the emergency will rapidly disappear and that there will be such a restoration of order and security on the frontier as will permit the speedy return of these citizen soldiers to their several civilian pursuits.

"In the meantime this department has taken steps to mitigate and relieve as far as possible the unusual and exceptional hardships which have arisen. In classes especially subject to distress by reason of the service demanded, to the extent that that can be done in fact, it will be done, but the primary consideration must be the safety of our border and the preservation and protection of the lives of our citizens there.

"It will be a source of great happiness to me when full relief can be given to the men who have placed themselves subject to this call of duty, and in the meantime I am filled with admiration for the spirit with which the militia has met the call and with which they are performing important and necessary service to their country at this time."

Discussion.

GIVES REASONS FOR BRAVERY.

Some Soldiers Believe They Cannot be Killed.

Others Supremely Indifferent to Battle Dangers.

Refined Men Most Daring, Says Charles Richet.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, July 31.—The discussion courage as developed by the war as manifested by individual sol under fire has drawn some in sting contributions from Dr. arles Richet of the French In itute, and the Abbe Moreaux, di tor of the Bourges Observatory.

Dr. Richet is of the opinion that r and courage must be considered parately, that the former exists in rtain temperaments alongside the ter, that a man may be unable to trol the terrifying effect of a dan rous situation upon his physical ities and yet stand his ground the face of almost certain death rough the exercise of his will. ese men he considers the bravest all.

Among the soldiers who hold their und under murderous fire there always some who are afraid and ers who are not, says Dr. Richet, all prove their bravery by still g there; the cowards have fled.

HEROISM SHOWN.

Considering the whole war, taking account the atrocious features t have developed here and there with all allowance made for sional weaknesses, Dr. Richet siders that the soldiers have wn heroism that justifies a great l of pride on the part of the ent generation, in spite of the ef that seemed to prevail before great conflict that intellectual elopment, with progress in sci e, letters and arts, while enno g the mind, had diminished per al courage.

The question was frequently dis sed as to whether the delicate d subtle culture of later years was t going to produce a tame-spirited d effeminate generation, prefer g well-being to arduous effort and apable of comprehending the uty of sacrifice. It is exactly the trary that has been demonstrat according to Dr. Richet; the most tivated and refined of the young of France and Great Britain ving been those who have shown greatest bravery. Students of Sorbonne and other French uni sities, students of Eton, Oxford Cambridge, set the example.

These are the men, Dr. Richet who have shown most courage s simplest form; that is to say, supreme contempt for death, and contempt, he concludes, is not result of philosophical reflection, simply the spontaneous mani of inherent bravery.

Never, even among the heroes of iquity in the times of Leonidas, rtacus or Hannibal, according to Richet, was there shown so much this kind of abnegation and so tranquil self-sacrifice — su courage — as in the present

NATURALLY BRAVE.

As to the men who are naturally e and take supreme risks with requiring an effort of the will overcome fear, Dr. Richet gives erent reasons, the first of which that some of them do not believe danger; they imagine that they invulnerable—that they have a y star; they are surrounded by rt of optimistic fatality that them a feeling of security. In cases these naturally brave even when they believe in dan are not intimidated by it be they have in their own minds dy made the sacrifice of their once that conclusion reached— die or to be wounded is something does not torment them.

Others, and perhaps the great ma are neither those who are in rent to death nor those who be in their lucky star; they are who see before them other more rful images than that of death, h as the fatherland, sense of duty, honor, renown of the regiment, ition to earn praise or promo pride at being admired by 's comrades, and shame at be taken for a coward. In nearly these cases the idea of death and ger disappears and the soldier brave without effort. He forgets risk that he is taking in the ence of the image that he has in mind.

The number of these naturally-ave men is notably larger in day ht and in the presence of com nding officers and comrades than night on sentry duty or on soli mission that no witness will be to recount. Men who acquit selves on such missions without ching, Dr. Richet considers the vest of all.

CONSTANT HABIT.

In the constant habit of it, all no of danger finally disappears, as the case of aviators, most of m, the first time they are up in air, have a sensation of fear in of all reasoning. After a certain ber of ascensions, the physical ifestations of apprehension dis ar; to be supported in the air the speed of the motor seems to to be the simplest thing pos le, and certain pilots have de ed that they felt themselves in ater safety seated in their aero es in the air than when riding an automobile.

The hardened warriors of African paigns, habituated to all the s of war, were naturally more d under fire than young recruits had seen nothing of military but the barracks and the ma vers and yet, according to the e Moreaux, even those seasoned in presence of the new and idable dangers of scientific war showed no more fortitude than young recruits who had had only few months of preparation before g the enemy.

Abbe Moreaux is of the opinion the war itself has developed all latent fortitude of the race, and expects that the generation that suffered this war will find itself new resources created by it. sentiment of union of common and patriotism will have reawakened, he thinks, and a pusillanimous creature, both the army and out of it, will have new courage born of the virtue makes heroes. The entire na he thinks, will participate in reawakening of latent forces.

Court Issues Writ of Habeas Corpus when He is Told Patient is Held Against Her Will at Sanatorium—Officer Finds Her Already Gone.

Miss Evelyn Graham, a trained nurse, who was alleged to have been detained against her will for ten days at the Southern California Sanatorium at Lamanda Park, denied yesterday she had been held at the institution under restraint, according to Deputy Sheriff Bell, who investigated the case after a writ demanding the release of the young woman had been issued by Judge Wellborn.

Shortly before noon yesterday Miss Josephine B. Palmer of San Diego, a friend of Miss Graham, appeared before Judge Wellborn and petitioned for an immediate release of the nurse on a writ of habeas corpus. It was alleged by Miss Palmer that Miss Graham was detained at the sanatorium by Dr. George Martyn, a well-known physician of this city.

Deputy Sheriff Bell stated last night the records of the sanatorium show the young woman went to the institution for treatment August 3 and left that place by her own request last Thursday. She had been suffering from a nervous breakdown. After leaving the hospital she went to her brother's residence at No. 934 Winona avenue, Pasadena.

"I regret the facts in this case were misunderstood by Miss Graham's friends," Dr. Martyn said last night. "Miss Graham complained that she was ill about two weeks ago. Dr. Charles Lewis Allen, head of the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital, and I were under the impression the young woman had no relatives or friends here and we arranged to have her sent to the sanatorium for treatment. She was not detained under restraint at the hospital and she had no difficulty in leaving there when her brother called for her."

Miss Palmer stated she became interested in the case after she had received letters from Miss Graham stating she had been persuaded to go to the hospital against her will.

SCRAP OF PAPER GIVES HAPPINESS.

RESTORES HER CHILDREN TO ANXIOUS MOTHER.

By Informal Order Judge Craig Returns Little Ones Held in Custody of a Downey Neighbor. Untangles an Unpleasant Domestic Snarl.

A scrap of yellow paper bearing a few hurriedly written words brought happiness yesterday to Mrs. Earl Townsend of Downey, for the paper bore the penciled signature of Superior Judge Craig, and gave to the worried mother the custody of her three little children, that were being held as hostages, according to Mrs. Townsend, by a neighbor, Mrs. Tobias Kelley of Downey.

It was quite a tangle that the slip of paper straightened out. A suit for failure to provide was brought by Mrs. Townsend against her husband some weeks ago. A suspended sentence was given him by Judge Craig on the plea of Constable Frank Witherspoon of Downey, who with another neighbor guaranteed to supply the Townsends with groceries until Townsend could pay for them out of his earnings at the County Farm. It seems that Townsend did not pay up promptly, and later he was arrested because he paid the weekly amount stipulated by Judge Craig over to the neighbor instead of the court trustee. He was released by the court Thursday after several weeks in jail, during which time Mrs. Townsend was taken to the hospital and their three children were given into the care of Mrs. Kelley. Upon the return home yesterday of Mrs. Townsend, she says, Mrs. Kelley declined to part with the children until ordered to do so by the court. Mrs. Townsend, a frail little woman, hurried back to the Superior Court. Tremblingly she told her story, which disclosed the alleged refusal of Mrs. Kelley to give up the children, until ordered by the county, she told the judge was the last straw.

Judge Craig hurriedly wrote out an order in pencil on a scrap of paper, giving Mrs. Townsend custody of the children, and with a few words of advice sent her home. A telephone message later in the evening proved that the court order on the slip of yellow paper was just as effective as if it had seen drawn in regulation order and stamped with the seal of the State.

SECRET HISTORY OF A NEAR WAR.

United States and Germany on Verge of Clash.

Why We are Now Trying to Purchase West Indies.

Warships in Haiian Port are Almost Involved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—That the United States and Germany were on the verge of war on July 28, 1914, when Austria declared war on Serbia, is one of the heretofore-unpublished incidents in connection with Teutonic schemes to dominate the Caribbean Sea, the Gulf of Mexico and the Panama Canal.

It is a part of the secret history of the causes which led up to the establishment of an American protectorate in Haiti, American intervention in the Dominican republic and the negotiations for the purchase by the United States of the Danish West Indies.

On July 28, 1914, United States warships under the command of Capt. John J. Knapp, aboard the battleship Connecticut, were in the harbor at Port-au-Prince, Haiti. At anchor near them were the German cruisers Karlsruhe and Strassburg. Calling on Capt. Knapp on board the Connecticut were L. S. Shearman and R. L. Farnham, directors of the National Railroads of Haiti, and a New York Herald reporter. It was at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Reports that the Germans were going to land at Port-au-Prince and seize the customhouse had been brought to Capt. Knapp and to every legation and consul-general in Port-au-Prince. Capt. Knapp had received instructions from Washington to oppose a landing and occupation by the Germans.

NATIVES ARE NERVOUS.

Little groups of natives stood in the streets of the Haitian capital nervously discussing the reports. It was common knowledge that President Oreste Zamor had broken off negotiations with Arthur Bailly-Blanchard, American Minister, in connection with a proposed new treaty with the United States. Also it was common knowledge that Dr. Perl, German Minister to Haiti, had promised President Zamor a loan of $5,000,000 if he would break off these negotiations.

While Mr. Shearman, Mr. Farnham and the Herald reporter were on the after-deck of the Connecticut discussing the Haitian situation with Capt. Knapp, boats were lowered from the Karlsruhe and Strassburg. Into them piled German seamen, equipped for service ashore. Machine guns were loaded into one of the boats. All of this was visible to the little group of callers on board the Connecticut, and to Capt. Knapp.

Off from the sides of the Karlsruhe and the Strassburg the Germans rowed to the long pier which stands at the head of the Port-au-Prince customhouse.

"What are you going to do about it?" the reporter asked Capt. Knapp.

"Wait and you will see," he replied.

GERMANS BACK TO SHIP.

The Germans landed at the pier. There followed a display of signals between the landing force and the Karlsruhe. Then, as suddenly as they had left the cruisers, the Germans filed back into their boats and rowed to their vessels.

Half an hour later the commander of the Karlsruhe called on Capt. Knapp aboard the Connecticut. He told the American commander that he had received imperative orders to steam with all haste to St. Thomas for coal. A few minutes after 7 o'clock that evening the Karlsruhe and Strassburg were steaming at full speed from Port-au-Prince harbor for sea.

That night wireless dispatches received at Port-au-Prince brought the news that Austria had declared war on Serbia. Soon Germany was at war with Russia. Then quickly all Europe was aflame.

GERMAN BARBARIAN, DECLARES CARSON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 12. — Sir Edward Carson, in an interview in today's Matin, declares that the Germans are barbarians and should be treated as such.

"In peace as in war," Sir Edward is quoted as saying, "the German is a barbarian and we should treat him as such. Let all the allied governments declare forthwith to the German people: Even when we shall have signed peace we shall not send any diplomatic representative to Berlin nor receive any diplomatic representative of Germany in our capitals, as long as you Germans shall not have yourselves punished all those who have been guilty of murder, all those who have violated those international laws which were set up in the interest of humanity during past centuries, which have witnessed the progress of civilization.

"There is still another reason which makes such action necessary. Neutral powers have passively looked on at the violation of customs of law established by all nations. They have been powerless or unwilling to protect. If, then, a special penalty does not show clearly that these laws cannot be transgressed, that these usages cannot be violated with impunity, we must renounce in future all hope of introducing into war rules of humanity and henceforth no nation in the world would see any use in sending representatives to a Hague convention or any other diplomatic conference."

Keeping Yourself Well

HOW YOU GET SICK

Sometimes you overload your stomach with rich foods. Your life may be an active one, and thus you may care for all you eat. But a few days of inactivity show your system does not call for so much.

You awake in the morning tired. Your body feels heavy; you know you are not up to the mark. Your digestion has not cared for the overload. Part of it remains. It generates gas that inflames the delicate linings. They fail to pour out the digestive fluids and neglect to absorb the life-giving elements. You know something is wrong.

Your body gets weak, and soon opportunity is offered for some severe illnes.

Taken in time, the indigestion would not become serious. First remove the overload; then soothe the sore membranes; then build up the weakened body. It's simple to say, but not too easy to do. You need help.

A tonic that will quicken digestion, help remove waste, soothe the soreness and arouse the system—that's just what you need.

A rench infantry attack against the Thiaumont work, Verdun region, was thrown back with severe loss to the attackers, the statement adds.

The communication concerning operations in the western theater follows:

"Strong British forces attacked between Thiepval and the Fourneaux wood and near Guillmont. North of Ovillers and near Pozieres they were repulsed at hand-to-hand fighting and by counter-attacks. North of mont their attacks were rendered fumonttheir attacks were rendered futile by our artillery, infantry and machine-gun fire.

"Between Maurepas and the Somme a vigorous French attack broke down, but some of the French troops penetrated into a small wood northeast of Ham. South of the Somme a partial enemy attack near Barleux met with no success.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) during the night of the 10th hand grenade attacks north and west of the Thiaumont work and also a strong infantry attack against the Thiaumont work itself were repulsed with severe French losses. South of Leintrey (Lorraine) a German patrol enterprise was successful and some prisoners were taken."

MAUREPAS PENETRATED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 12.—North of the Somme the French attacked the third German line from Hardecourt to the river at Buscourt, a distance of six and a half kilometers (three and three-quarters miles) taking all the trenches to a depth of 1000 meters (nearly two-thirds of a mile,) according to the ojffial statement issued by the War Office tonight.

The French have penetrated the village of Maurepas and have taken a thousand prisoners and thirty machine guns.

BRITISH DEFEAT A GERMAN ATTACK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The official communication issued by the British War Office shortly before midnight follows:

"Between the Ancre and the Somme there is no change. There has been intermittent shelling on the whole front. After a heavy bombardment of our trenches southeast of Ypres this morning the enemy's infantry, of a newly-arrived corps, attempted to leave the trenches and attack. The attempt was defeated. Everything now is reported quiet."

BRITISH OFFICERS LOSE MANY KILLED.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 27.—Officers' casualty lists continue to show the severity of the fighting on the western front. The losses for one week—July 16 to 23—were 528 killed, 1070 wounded and 201 missing, a total of 1799. The proportion of killed to wounded, 1 to 2, is rather higher than in the preceding fortnight. Since the beginning of the war the British army has lost 10,105 officers killed and 21,290 wounded and 2462 missing.

Plateau.

AUSTRIANS ARE HOLDING HILLS EAST OF GORIZIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Aug. 12 (via London.)—Italian troops are advancing on the Carso plateau, the War Office announced today. The Austrians are still holding out in the hills east of Gorizia.

The Italians have occupied the town of Oppacchiasella on the Carso plateau.

The town of Oppacchiasella is about one mile east of the Vallone line which the Austrians were reported by the Italians yesterday to have taken up after the capture of the Doberdo plateau by the Italians. This indicates that the Italians have succeeded in pushing back the Austrians a substantial distance further after clearing the Doberdo plateau. Oppacchiasella is six miles southwest of Gorizia.

THINK STRIKE IS INEVITABLE.

Peaceful Settlement not Now Believed Possible.

Brotherhoods Still Opposed to Arbitration Plan.

Southern Pacific Informed of Stand in the East.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—Believing that a peaceful settlement by arbitration of the trainmen's demands will not now be possible, and that a nation-wide strike with all the grave consequences attaching is inevitable, the local railroad officials were today waiting anxiously for bulletins from New York, where the conference between the trainmen's representatives and the railway general managers committee have been held.

The following telegram was received from an eastern railway official by the Southern Pacific Company in this city today:

"In New York Times today (Saturday) W. G. Lee, president of the order of railroad trainmen, says, 'There is not going to be any arbitration of our demands and you can't make that too strong. I am for settling this affair peaceably, but there is not going to be any arbitration.'

"The brotherhoods are still unalterably opposed to arbitration and are ready to use strike to enforce their demands. Comment in Chicago and other western newspapers indicate that they think that when controversy went to mediation, peaceful settlement was practically assured. This view is entirely erroneous. Attitude of leaders shows danger of strike appears more serious this morning than ever before."

CITIES WHICH MIGHT SUFFER.

Railroad men point out that the cities which would suffer soonest and most severely in case of a general railroad tie-up would be all those which are not directly on navigable waters. Cities like Denver, which depends entirely upon railroad transportation would find themselves in serious want for the necessities of life, particularly food, within ten days.

San Francisco, it is stated, would in the event of a tie-up, probably be able to exist on supplies transported here by water. The fortunate fact that vegetables, fruit, dairy products, cereals and other essential foods are produced in the near vicinity of this city would prevent a food famine. The stoppage of all trains would bring business, it is predicted, to a standstill within a short time.

If a strike is called, it is said, there will be a determined effort on the part of the railroads to run trains if not on regular schedule then as near schedule as possible. When the danger of a general strike was first threatened more than a month ago officers were sent out by the various roads for non-union men to serve as substitutes in case of walkout.

It is understood that since that invitation thousands of responses have been received by the railroads. Applicants for engineer, conductor, brakemen and switchmen positions have been examined and accepted. These, it is known, are ready to go to work on call.

Want Work.

selves, the railroads' attitude is this: They maintain that there were certain things in the schedules which were imminently fair to the men and the roads on a ten-hour working basis and pro rata overtime. They contend, however, that under an eight-hour rule and time and a half overtime, these concessions would not be fair to the railroads. Therefore they desire that an arbitration board shall consider these things, too.

Even if the railroads recede from their stand, it is extremely doubtful whether the brotherhoods will accept arbitration. That is the question that will be decided tomorrow morning, and the adjustment chairmen are not one on the subject. It will be submitted to a vote, and the majority will rule.

A DENIAL.

When Mr. Garretson was asked about the President's message to the mediators, he said:

"Nothing of that kind has arrived at this end of the line; but an invitation from the President of the United States is tantamount to a command that any American citizen would obey at once."

"What will you do if the President asks you to arbitrate," he was asked.

"The answer we make to him," answered Mr. Garretson, "depends on what the President says to us."

In the event that the "Big Four" chiefs of the railway brotherhoods decide to exercise the authority they have to order a general strike, it was said today that the railroads would get only twenty-four hours notice.

The announcement of the strike date and hour would be telegraphed to the local chairmen at once.

It is predicted that ten hours after the expiration of the twenty-four hours' grace 20,000 railway men in the East would have quit their trains. It would require a much longer period to get the whole 400,000 brotherhood members out, but as soon as they all struck 250,000 miles of railways would be tied up, and 1,800,000 men would be involved in the strike.

Judge Chambers, one of the mediation board, said tonight that he would probably communicate with former Ambassador Henry Morgenthau, who has an appointment with the President tomorrow morning, to ask Mr. Morgenthau to give the President a summary of the situation which it was impossible to give over the telephone.

UNIONS SCORE HOME DEFENSE.

Bitter Condemnation of the Movement in Arizona.

Denounce Commission for Trying to Stop Strike.

Espee Again Operating its Trains in Mexico.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 10.—Bitter condemnation, as "a menace to labor and its better conditions," has been given by the Arizona State Federation of Labor to the home-guard movement in Arizona, in which about 2000 Americans have joined, to protect their homes, if near the border, from possible Mexican trouble and better to fit themselves for the defense of their country against any foregn foe. These organizations generally were formed after the departure of the Arizona militia for the front. They have nothing to do with the militia, however. They are armed by themselves, the counties or municipalities and thus are independent of the State administration. The militia, under the present administration, seems satisfactory to the union leaders.

PRAISE TO SHERIFF.

On the other hand, the convention gave warm and formal praise to Sheriff Cash of Greenlee county, an official who permitted nonunion men to be maltreated and drummed out of the county's mining camps at the time of the strike, when the mine manager had to flee for lack of protection. The resolution recites that "the success of said strike depended in large degree upon the impartial administration of law by the Sheriff." John L. Donnelly of Clifton advised the convention that more trouble was imminent in his locality, on account of the lowering of the miners' bonus wages, with the lowered price of copper, and that the miners, mainly Mexicans, had been kept with difficulty from an uprising.

Another interesting resolution condemned the State Corporation Commission for "unmitigated gall" for efforts it has made to assist in averting a general railroad strike. There was formal declaration that it was controlled by the corporations.

THE CATTLE BUSINESS.

Serious consideration was given a plan that the State engage in the cattle business, grazing its herds on its acquired lands and the public domain, and slaughtering, that the price of beef be brought down. It was urged that the State purchase cattle at home and protect its own markets from outside competition, at the same time arranging to sell its surplus product elsewhere.

There was solemn procession by the delegates and Tucson unionists to the new City Hall building, where there were speeches by "Mother" Jones and others on the iniquity, for which the City Council is held responsible, of awarding a contract to the lowest bidder, in this case a non-union man from Los Angeles. Other local action was provision for establishment of a union here of porters and bootblacks. It seems there is a colored porters' union in Bisbee.

Announcement was made that a "Federal investigator" soon would be in Arizona, to investigate the "closed" mining camps, presumably those in which the "open shop" idea prevails.

ESPEE IN MEXICO.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Aug. 10.—The Southern Pacific again is operating trains along its West Coast Mexican Railway as far as Acaponeta, 1000 miles south of this point. Beyond that to Tepic the line still is closed, as well as are the Alamos and Yaqui River branches. The Cananea branches, from Nogales and Naco, both are being operated. While the lines are far from in the condition in which they were left when the last disturbance started, they have been kept up to a degree, especially for use in the transportation of troops. A large number of Americans are going back into Sonora and Sinaloa, mainly men who left in a great hurry, with the loss of personal effects and fearful of the loss of their lives. There seems a general impression that the worst is over and that American industry again will have a degree of protection south of the line.

UNWRITTEN HISTORY.

District Attorney in Talk to Santa Monica Young Men's City Club Tells Interesting Incident of the Great Dynamiting Conspiracy.

Some unwritten history in connection with the nation-wide conspiracy to dynamite the original Times Building was told yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine in the course of his remarks before the Young Men's City Club of Santa Monica at the Seaside Terrace cafe.

Mr. Woolwine told of the long search for Ortie McManigal to get him to return to the United States to give his testimony in the Schmidt case. He said when Detective McLaren finally found the ex-dynamiter he was working in a Honduras mine, getting $6 a day, and was well liked by his Spanish-American employer.

McManigal objected to returning to the United States, fearing laborite vengeance for his confessions against the McNamaras. No persuasion availed until McLaren told him he owed a duty to his country, that his testimony would help wipe out his own record of dynamiting twenty-two bridges and other structures.

"If you put it on the plane of patriotism I'll go and take my chances," said McManigal.

CHILDREN IN HARNESS.

Custodian Invents Method of Safety for Little Ones at Beach.

A novel method of safeguarding children while at the seashore has been devised by Mrs. J. H. White, who conducts a private home for children at No. 5312 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles. Mrs. White harnesses her charges and keeps the strings, which are attached to each child, in her own hands. This not only enables her to keep perfect tab on the youngsters during their romps on the sands, but also renders the task of collecting her charges easy when she is ready to start for home.

Her appearance at Long Beach last Friday with six little ones harnessed aroused a great deal of interest and was the source of much amusement to the crowds on the strand.

London's Future Population.

[Baltimore American:] Arthur Crow, a leading economist, predicts the city of London will have 20,000,000 population in 1975, or two generations hence. The city, to give adequate housing for this number, should have a radius of eighteen miles, he added, and a great scheme for main roads must be worked out soon.

MYSTERY WOMAN FOUND AT BAY.

Master Burglar's "Wife" is Held, then Freed.

"Pansy" is Penniless; Even Needs Underclothes.

Important Papers are Found in Man's Phonograph.

The discovery by detectives of a cache in an empty record book in an expensive talking machine in his hotel suite, followed almost immediately by the locating of the mysterious girl of the case in a San Francisco hotel, yesterday afternoon drew tighter the web now being woven about John E. Morgan, alleged to be one of the smoothest crooks ever caught. Because the young woman had nothing incriminating in her possession when found by San Francisco detectives, Chief of Police Snively late yesterday afternoon wired the northern authorities to release her. However, it is understood she will remain under the surveillance of Federal authorities, who will endeavor to find out if she and Morgan have violated the Mann act.

The young woman apprehended yesterday morning and released yesterday afternoon gave the name of Mrs. Pansy Bailey Raishell. She admitted to the San Francisco police she is the woman who lived at the Alexandria in this city as Mrs. Morgan, but denied having been implicated in the burglaries charged against the man.

INTERESTING FIND.

Much interesting data was found in the cabinet of the talking machine by Detectives Jones and Kirby, who have been working on the case. The discovery was accidental. Both detectives had searched every nook and cranny of the hotel suite, but it was not until Mr. Kirby, who is musically inclined, decided to see what sort of records Morgan had purchased that the cache was found. One of the record books had been hollowed out.

Carefully concealed in the hollow the detectives found a small revolver and a number of letters and telegrams. The revolver attracted much attention. The rubber had been removed from its handle, presenting a hard steel surface deeply nicked.

It is the theory of the police that the owner of the revolver, supposed to be Morgan, used it as a "jimmy," as the denuded edges are sharp.

In addition to the revolver the prize discoveries were a letter and a telegram. The letter was written on Alexandria stationery in a woman's hand and signed "Baby." The police feel certain the communication was written by Mrs. Raishell just before she left the city hurriedly the night Morgan was arrested.

MUSHY NOTE.

The letter contains not much of anything but gushing love, but it denoted to the detectives that the woman was very close to the prisoner. She pledges her love and support, and tells him "Walter" (the brother) will explain her hurried action (the leave-taking.)

The last and, probably the most important, discovery was the finding of a telegram from a person in Chicago, supposed to be the "fence" who received the goods alleged to have been stolen by Morgan. This telegram acknowledges the receipt of a shipment and tells of the forwarding of money. Chicago detectives will endeavor to apprehend the suspected fence and ascertain the number and time of shipments that have gone back and forth.

While developments came rapidly yesterday Morgan maintained a composure that baffled the police. His only weakness appeared to be on the score of the girl, and at times when she was mentioned he exhibited emotion.

Mrs. Raishell when taken in custody at San Francisco had in her possession only a few trinkets and a ticket to Denver, which she had bought with funds secured by pawning a watch, according to the Bay City police. She wanted to go to Denver "to get away from Morgan," she said. She was in such financial distress that she had no underclothes.

In a statement to the police she said she met Morgan several months ago at Denver, while she and her 3-year-old son were living with her parents. She was suing for a divorce at the time. She declared Morgan proposed marriage, saying he was a lawyer with a large practice in this city. He came to Los Angeles and sent her, she said, a bracelet, two $25 money orders and a round-trip ticket to Los Angeles. Here, she said, he introduced her as his wife and gave her a wedding ring to wear, but when she asked about the wedding, he put her off. Homesickness and a desire to see her child caused her to leave him suddenly, she explained. She added he had most of her clothes hidden and she departed without them.

MAYOR IN CAMP.

City's Head Takes Brief Vacation at Cabin Canyon.

Mayor Sebastian went to Cabin Canyon yesterday to remain in camp there until tomorrow evening. It was stated last night that he will not arrange to leave the regular duties of his office for a more extended vacation until the pressure of official duties is somewhat relieved—probably a week or ten days. It is expected that he will then go to some hot springs for a stay of a week or more.

FIRE IN MILLS.

Lumber Concerns Suffer Heavy Loss Through Blaze Supposedly Caused by Defective Wiring. Gains Headway Before Department Arrives.

Fire believed to have been caused by defective wiring early last night partially destroyed the Sunset planing mills at Lexington avenue and June street, and damaged the Lounsberry & Harris Lumber Company plant near by. The loss, according to the fire department, will reach about $10,000.

The blaze, which was discovered by a pedestrian, had its start in the planing mill office and spread before the fire department could arrive. Police detectives who investigated declared last night that there is no cause to believe the first of incendiary origin.

Surprise.

KAISER VISITS TROOPS; LOOKS REMARKABLY WELL

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY IN FRANCE, via Berlin, Aug. 12, 2 p.m., to London, 10:36 p.m.—East of the Somme, with the French guns roaring a morning salute and the German cannon thundering their reply, the German Emperor today unexpectedly appeared in a little village just behind the front, reviewed a hastily-improvised parade and decorated a number of officers and soldiers. He addressed the men briefly and was then whisked on to the most advanced position.

The Emperor's visit was known only to a few officers the previous evening and came as a surprise to the troops, who were obviously overjoyed that the Emperor could find time to come to them. The visit, in addition, surprised a small group of correspondents, who had just returned from an inspection of the advanced positions and who had an opportunity to see the Emperor at Novogeorgievsk, a few miles northwest of Warsaw, almost precisely a year ago.

Notwithstanding the heavy fog that generally prevails in the early morning in this section, the Emperor's visit had something brilliant and dramatic in it. Upon a broad, level plain flanked by a picturesque French chateau, all the troops in the immediate neighborhood had collected. The uniforms were of field gray, but the attire of officers and men was, nevertheless, so far as possible, gala, and the more striking as a majority of the soldiers wore their new steel helmets. The officers had discarded their monotonous fatigue caps and had donned peace time headgear, so that the picturesque gray fur headpieces of the Death's Head Hussars contrasted with the helmets of the Cuirassiers and the mortar-board caps worn by the Uhlans.

The Emperor arrived at 8:30 o'clock, his suite including Prince Eitel, one noted admiral and several generals. The troops had been drawn up in hollow square formation and His Majesty, looking trim and fit, though perhaps somewhat wearied, quickly passed in review, shaking hands here and there with officers he knew personally, and repeatedly saluting the soldiers, who stood at "present arms" as stiffly and correctly as in any parade in Berlin.

The officer in command of the regiments inspected by the Emperor then delivered a brief address in which he assured His Majesty in the name of the troops that all were prepared to fight on indefinitely for the Emperor's and the country's sake. A "hoch" that must have been heard in the French lines went up before the Emperor could answer. Then he spoke in a clear, ringing voice thanking the men.

In the center of the hollow square the Emperor decorated a number of the officers and eventually took up a position on the road leading to the front trenches, while the regiments, many of whom were composed of new troops, marched by in the famous goose step. The correspondent stood only a few yards distant and was able to note the seemingly remarkable physical condition of the Emperor, who in reviewing the troops stood more erect and stiffer than the youngest subaltern and, with a glance of approval or a slight frown, indicated his pleasure or displeasure. In fairness to the troops it should be said that His Majesty smiled most of the time.

The Emperor required upward of an hour to review the troops and take a trifle of refreshment, and then was whirled away toward the front lines as suddenly as he had come.

GIRL COLLEGE STUDENT DIES IN DENTIST CHAIR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Helen Vinzent, a 16-year old student of Berkeley, died suddenly here today in a dentist's chair while under an anesthetic. She had gone to the office of Dr. U. Grant Bartlett with her grandmother to have two teeth extracted, and, according to the dentist, failed to respond to respiration treatment on coming out of the anesthesia. Nitrous oxide, better known as "laughing gas," was the anesthetic employed.

After an examination of the circumstaances, Dr. David Stafford, autopsy surgeon of the Coroner's office, pronounced death due to "acute dilation of the heart, following anesthesia composed of nitrous oxide and oxygen."

Dr. Bartlett, who has practiced dentistry for over thirty years, said tonight that he had performed more than sixty operations successfully upon patients who were placed under anesthesia from the same tank used in today's fatal case.

Miss Vinzent, who was an orphan, was a granddaughter of the late Andrew Snider, an Oregon State Senator. Her father was Ole C. Vinzent, Berkeley postmaster under President Grover Cleveland.

Corporation.

PENNSYLVANIA LINES IN A LARGE MERGER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Merger of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh into one corporation to be known as the "Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company" was officially confirmed here today. The consolidation of the five railroads does not involve the acquisition of properties by the Pennsylvania Railroad, it was announced, but will mean the simplification of the corporate and financial structure of all of the lines concerned.

All of the units will be governed by one head, instead of the present system whereby each conducts its business separately. The simplification of the management of these lines will result in a material reduction in the expenditures of each. The authorized capital of the new corporation will exceed $100,000,000, it was said.

ACTION IN BOSTON IS FAR-REACHING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Secretary Baker, Atty.-Gen. Gregory and Judge Advocate-General Crowder today decided that the action of the Federal Court in Boston in ordering the release of a Massachusetts guardsmen in camp at Framingham after he refused to take the new Federal oath, was of such far-reaching consequence that an effort would be made to have the government's appeal expedited to the Circuit Court of Appeals and ultimately to the Supreme Court.

As a consequence of the decision four other guardsmen of a Massachusetts regiment have applied for writs of habeas corpus to secure their release from military service.

THE WAR IS OVER IN BIRMINGHAM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Aug. 12.—Settlement of differences between E. W. Barrett and W. H. Jeffries of the Age Herald and V. H. Hanson of the News was announced tonight by a committee of the Birmingham Rotary Club. Both papers will publish tomorrow apologies and retractions of public charges in a recent dispute over business methods. The Rotary Club intervened when it was reported that Barrett and Hanson were going to fight a duel.

PEACE MANIFESTO DISCUSSED BY DUTCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM (via London) Aug. 12.—The manifesto issued in Berlin by the Socialist National Committee, stating that the committee had renewed its appeal to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, to lift the embargo on the discussion of peace conditions, as published in the Vorwaerts, voices the belief that the desire for peace is equally great among the peoples on both sides of the conflict. Such a desire, however, it declared, is without doubt subdued by the war aim and plans of conquest propaganda which incite the people of all belligerent nations to the greatest resistance.

"Therefore," continues the manifesto, "the moment appears to have arrived when the German people should give its free and unrestricted opinion regarding these plans of conquest, the realization of which would be only the germ of new wars and only result in prolonging the war."

AFTER LONG SLEEP.

After lying in a Pasadena hospital in a comatose condition since Wednesday morning, when she was injured in a motor car accident at Orange Grove and Michigan avenues, Miss Katherine A. Nichols regained consciousness yesterday afternoon. She was operated upon Friday for a fracture of the skull.

Joseph E. Leddy, a relative of the young woman and a fellow-occupant of the motor car, also was injured, but aside from the shock he has recovered. Allen Lee, rider of the motorcycle which collided with the motor car, was injured slightly.

CITY BRIEFS.

After being closed during the midsummer season, the headquarters of the Pasadena Republican Club have been reopened with Secretary Harry Pitcher in charge. The headquarters are in the Stanton Building, Colorado and Raymond streets. The enrollment of the club is increasing.

The San Gabriel Valley Water Company is planning to improve the water service in the Oak Knoll district, having made application to the City Commission for permission to install a new electric motor on Oak Knoll avenue, near Mill road. It is the intention of the company to use the motor for a boosting pump plant. Recently a permit was taken out for a $2000 pumphouse. The new motor is to be connected with a centrifugal pump which is as nearly noiseless as a pump can be.

The City Beautiful Committee is devising a novel means for improving the appearance of the vacant lots of the city. The plan is to obtain leases on the vacant property and then plant them to sightly crops. Each lot is to be handled under an individual lease, which may be terminated by the holder or the owner of the property on thirty days' notice, on condition that the latter pay for the value of the standing crop which he takes over. The committee is trying to make the plan attractive to property owners by obviating the weed nuisance and at the same time making it possible to realize a small income from the idle land.

Judge Robert McDonald will speak under the auspices of the Central W.C.T.U. at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Central Park, his topic being "The Juvenile Court of Los Angeles." He has devoted considerable time to a study of the subject and will be able to speak intelligently. George Summerville will sing. The general public is invited.

CROSSING COLLISION.

One Woman Killed and Another Fatally Injured when Electric Car Hits Auto at Visalia; Driver is Only Slightly Cut by Glass.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, Aug. 12.—What is considered one of Tulare county's most dangerous railroad crossings, that of the Southern Pacific on East Main street, this city, claimed another victim this afternoon when the automobile driven by Bloom Parr, wealthy Visalia rancher, was run into by a Visalia Electric Railrad car inbound.

Mrs. Bloom Parr, Visalia, age 55, is dead; Miss Esta Parr, the daughter, has broken limbs and internal injuries and may die, and Bloom Parr is slightly cut by glass.

Mr. Parr, with his wife and 22-year-old daughter, were proceeding home to their ranch. The crossing, always partially blind, was further hidden by oil cars, while the noise of the Mt. Whitney Power Company generating plant deadened the car's warning bell.

Mr. Parr asserts he was driving very slowly and neither saw the car nor heard it until directly on the track with the motor less than 100 feet away.

DAMAGE SUITS FOR ACCIDENTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 12.—Motor crashes were responsible for the bringing of two damage suits here today. Public Administrator T. A. Winbigler, for the estate of Olie Hampton, brought action against J. A. Van Winkle of Huntington Beach for $10,000. A year ago today, near Seal Beach, Van Winkle's car struck a machine in which Hampton, who lived at Anaheim, was riding. Hampton died of injuries.

For an injury to his leg Eutimio Espinosa brought suit against H. S. Kennedy for $25,000. A motorcycle ridden by Espinosa and Francisco Majiana ran into an automobile driven by H. S. Kennedy of Los Angeles near Seal Beach on July 16. Majiana was killed.

"I am speaking of conditions from Long Beach to Claremont. There are many citrus growers who are Democrats. I find that they are sentimentally Democrats but financially Republicans. They are going to vote for bread and butter this fall. They tell me that if Republicanism spells prosperity they are for Hughes. They want to vote for whatever means better business.

"I've been thinking all along that Hughes has easy sailing and I believe his majority is growing bigger every day. Spanish War Post Holds Exercises and Banquet—Many Dying Warriors Seek Resting Place with Comrades — Huntington Beach Man Expires on Arrival.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Aug. 12.—Spanish-American War Veterans and their friends celebrated today the anniversary of the fall of Manila. The affair, which was under the auspices of Hamilton S. Hawkins Post, No. 42, United Spanish War Veterans, was one of the most complete in arrangement and enjoyment that has ever taken place in this Home.

A banquet, served in the main mess hall, was followed by a programme of brief addresses, readings and music. Among the entertainers were Miss Peggie Petijohn, Charles LaValle and Miss Gladys Smith.

GOES HOME TO DIE.

The death of Percy F. Hyatt, a Spanish War veteran, which took place in the hospital yesterday, furnishes an instance of many similar cases, where veterans seek refuge in the Home when so far gone with illness of some character as to barely survive arrival—too late for medical aid.

Hyatt, a nonmember, was brought to this place from Huntington Beach and while being prepared for the cot in the hospital to which he had been assigned breathed his last. In addition to tuberculosis, he was afflicted with disease of the heart. Hyatt's service in the Spanish-American War was in Co. D, Third Texas Infantry. He was a native of Texas and aged 39.

OTHER RECENT DEATHS.

George Auld, formerly of Co. B, Seventieth New York Infantry, a native of Canada, admitted from Los Angeles in 1914, died August 9, aged 81.

Charles Barton, formerly of Co. A, Eighth Missouri Infantry, a native of Pennsylvania, admitted from Los Angeles in 1915, died August 9, aged 81.

Peter Tobias, formerly of Co. B, Fourteenth United States Infantry, a native of New York, admitted from San Jose, Cal., in 1902, died August 10, aged 83.

Elijah B. Scarbrough, formerly of Co. I, First Nebraska Cavalry, a native of Kentucky, admitted from Los Angeles in 1914, died August 11, aged 80.

Peter Hayes, formerly of Co. A, Eleventh United States Infantry, a native of Ireland, admitted from Los Angeles in 1900, died August 12, aged 74.

LINEMEN STRIKE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 12—About 150 linesmen of the Southern Sierras Power Company struck today as the climax of a dispute over wages and the closed shop. The men demanded $4.50 and eight hours and the company declined to yield, offering $4 for eight hours as against the present nine-hour system.

The strike extends through Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, and through the desert and mountain regions north to Nevada.

The Pacific Light and Power Company men, who are paid $3.75 for nine hours, are not involved in the strike.

The men claim the trouble dates from the change by the company of the schedule in February, prior to which time they were paid $4 for eight hours. The working hours in that month were extended to eight hours.

SERIOUS ROW.

The row between San Diego Democrats over the Congressional nomination is apparently serious, for in a campaign which he has just completed in this county, Atty. C. C. Crouch, "dry" Democrat, has publicy flayed Congressman William Kettner.

Crouch finished his speaking tour of this county at Chino tonight. He has spoken to several thousand persons, calling Kettner a "pork-barrel politician," and charging he is backed by the Tia Juana race track and the San Diego liquor interests.

ESCONDIDO ARRANGES PEACE PIPE PAGEANT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ESCONDIDO, Aug. 12.—A reminder of the early days of padres during the construction of the California chain of missions will be staged during the presentation of the Moosa Indian Peace Pipe Pageant Friday and Saturday evenings, August 18 and 19, and for which all details of arrangements have been completed, the play being given in an open-air amphitheater under the historic oaks of Woreland Castle, twelve miles north of Escondido, the home of the author and manager, I. J. Frazee.

More than 117 years ago, during the erection of the San Luis Rey Mission, four miles east of Oceanside, the Indians were sent to the top of Palomar Mountain, thirty-five miles distant, with instructions to prepare and bring back for incorporation in the building two beams, thirty feet long, 14x14 inches.

When the trees had been felled and hewn to the desired dimensions they were sprinkled with holy water, and the Indians were instructed that only on condition that the timbers did not touch the ground en route could they be used in the building operations.

On the way down the steep sides of the mountain an accident caused one of the beams to come in contact with the ground. It was accordingly condemned and left where it had become "polluted."

The other reached its destination without mishap and became a part of the building composition. It was dug out of the ruins of the mission when restoration operations were begun by the late Father O'Keefe, and by him given to Mr. Frazee, in whose possession it has since been.

Borne by Indians from the nearby reservations, including Pala, the beam will be brought into the pageant during the Indian professional, which will include the entire cast of sixty-five persons. It will be deposited on the natural-earth stage in front of the open-air amphitheater.

Los Angeles and Pasadena people are to be prominent in the presentation of the pageant. The music, written for the occasion by W. M. Bower of Los Angeles, will be directed by him, with a sixteen-piece orchestra under his charge.

Of the fairies, nineteen will be girls of Pasadena, where Miss Isabel Frazee, a sister of the author of the play, is teacher of the English department of the High School. The fairies are to be presented under direction of Miss Gertrude Rettic, a student of eurythmicism, who is to give the "Indian Dance of Life," her own arrangement.

Miss Helen Frazee, who takes the dual parts of Mejella, priestess of Kitshi Manido, and Wahwonia, the wife, and Jenkinson Frazee, who assumes the role of Ab, the warrior, are teachers in the public schools of Los Angeles.

Ellen Beach Yaw and Dr. George Wharton James are to be present and contribute to the success of the pageant.

PRIMARY LAW TEST.

Supreme Court will be Asked to Rule on Question of Omitting Bordwell's Name from Ballot, in Action Against County Clerk.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 12. — County Clerk W. B. Williams was informed over the telephone this morning that a petition would be filed in the State Supreme Court at San Francisco for a writ of prohibition to compel Williams to leave Walter Bordwell's name off of the Republican ballot to be used at the primary election on the 29th inst. The petition will be filed by Attorney George P. Adams of Los Angeles.

Mr. Williams has already completed the printing of ballots for the primaries. After receiving a telegram from Mr. Bordwell instructing him to leave Bordwell's name off the ballot, Williams asked Dist.-Atty. L. A. West for a ruling. West ruled that Williams could not leave the name off the ballot, and Williams followed that ruling.

The action to be brought in the Supreme Court will be a test case.

CATHOLIC DAY AT EXPOSITION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 12.—Catholics from all points of Southern California are here tonight for the two days' Catholic celebration at the exposition. The programme began with a parade at noon today by the crack Y.M.I. band and drill team of Los Angeles.

The drill team gave an exhibition drill at the Plaza de Panama this afternoon. Tonight the most pretentious open-air ball ever given at the exposition was held on the Plaza de Panama.

The plaza was brilliantly decorated and spotlights added to the beauty of the scene. Eight pretty girls of San Diego parishes, carrying white swagger sticks with red and green maline bows, acted as hostesses.

Five thousand persons engaged in dancing on the great plaza, while many others looked on, tonight.

Tomorrow the military high mass at the organ will begin the services, and a full programme has been planned for the entire day.

GAS PLANT SOLD AT ESCONDIDO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ESCONDIDO, Aug. 12.—At an auction conducted today by the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Company, trustee, the plant of the Escondido Utilities Company, making gas and electric current, was sold for $10,000 to Miss Mary K. Wohlford, a daughter of A. W. Wohlford, president of the Escondido National Bank.

She has a controlling interest in the stock of the Escondido Mutual Water Company, owner also of a hydro-electric system, supplying power and current to its stockholders, within and without the city, in competition, for the last few months at least, with the Utilities Company. The plant was installed a few years ago at a cost of $39,000.

WIRELESS STATIONS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BEAUMONT, Aug. 12.—Officials of the Southern Sierras Power Company state that the company is now conducting experiments looking toward the establishment of wireless stations throughout the territory in which it operates. The difficulties of communication in the past during the storm periods, when telephone wires from the generating plants in the mountains were down for days at a time, will be done away with under the new system. No public business will be handled by the wireless stations, the service being restricted to private use, except in cases of emergency.

CHARGE YOUTH WITH EMBEZZLING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 12.—Search through several western States for an alleged embezzler ended here today with the arrest of George W. Sloan, aged 22, and the recovery of $20,000 in negotiable mining stock said to have been taken from the Arizona and Arkansas Mining Company, with headquarters in Little Rock.

Sloan was accompanied by his young wife, who said she knew nothing of the charges against him. She had $12,000 received from the sale of the mining shares in her possession.

The prisoner said he was employed in the offices of the company and that the stock was part of an issue that had not yet been authorized. He declared his willingness to waive extradition and return to Little Rock.

Sloan was traced to Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and finally to this place. Little Rock authorities were notified of the arrest.

THE BOY PROBLEM

It is one of vital interest to every parent; it must be solved properly. His school life is one of the most important factors in a boy's proper development; it is the time that the man-to-be is being formed physically, mentally, morally. I honestly feel that aside, from the sacred desk itself, that this work for boys, this life of service in building up the best in boys, is the greatest work in the world, fraught with the greatest possibilities— and this is the spirit back of The San Diego Army and Navy Academy. Its instruction is thorough; it has secured many of the highest recognitions possible from the government and from the universities; but the feature that should appeal most strongly to a thoughtful parent is its emphasis upon character training. None but Christian teachers are employed and its enrollments are being zealously guarded to prevent the admission of students whose influence should possibly prove hurtful.

Read What Some of Our Patrons Say And Place Your Boy Where He Can Get the Best.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Irving Crowell, South Flower St., Los Angeles.—We feel that our boy has gained so much in so many ways since being with you that we are glad to recommend your school in the highest terms.

Mrs. Le Roy H. Harrod, Los Angeles.—We wish you the greatest success with your school and trust next year will bring you an increased attendance and with many kind thoughts for what you have done for our boy, Mr. Harrod and I want you at all times to feel that you can call on us to recommend your fine school.

C. H. Akers, Editor Arizona Gazette, Phoenix.—By this I wish to express to you the keen appreciation of both Mrs. Akers and myself for the great benefits gained by our son, Harlow, in one short year attending your school. The best of it all is the fact that the boy himself is pleased. With best wishes for your school, sincerely.

D. K. Edwards, Fidelity Savings and Loan Association, Los Angeles.—I regard your academy as an institution of high purpose and one that produces good results, educational, moral and physical, on the boys. I am pleased with what it has done for my ward, Captain Howard Seaton. Hon. W. J. Hunsaker, who is much interested in Howard, concurs in the above.

Chas. W. Gates, Pasadena.—I am glad to repeat my commendation made at the close of your school last year. This has been Carl's most successful year. Wish you continued success.

Arthur W. Savage, President of The Savage Tire Co., San Diego.—It is much pleasure to express my appreciation of your splendid organization, and resulting benefit to my son Eros of the San Diego Army and Navy Academy. He has almost completed four years of study, combined with highly moral, mental and physical training, which has been a source of great satisfaction to his parents. You have our very best wishes for the future success of the Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Miller, Rancho Fransara, San Dimas, Cal.—It gives us great pleasure to be able to tell you how pleased and gratified we are with the wonderful progress our boy has made, since entering your Academy last September. We feel that we cannot commend too highly the spirit of your school and the excellent training received by the Cadets mentally, morally and physically. We are convinced that we have found just the school where emphasis is placed just where it should be and where the best in the boy is brought out. We congratulate you on what you have accomplished and wish you all the success in the world.

Tennessee Society.

The Tennessee State Society will meet next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in The Times auditorium. Mrs. Patti Ayres of London, Mrs. H. Langdon and C. L. Morie will sing. There will be readings by Mrs. Charles L. Higgins, Mrs. Nannie Atkins and Miss Sallie Stone. After this programme there will be dancing and refreshments.

Los Angeles members of the Nebraska State Society at Long Beach are arranging a reception and picnic at the Long Beach auditorium for next Saturday. The Long Beach Municipal Band will play and other music will be furnished by male quartettes and choruses. Former Nebraskans will make short addresses and there will be a programme of sports.

Anniversary Meeting.

An anniversary meeting of the Young Zionist Association will be held next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at Music Hall, No. 232 South Spring street. M. J. Finkenstein will speak on the "Historical Significance of the Destruction of the Second Temple," and Harry Epstein will talk on "The Labor Problem Concerning the Immigrant Jew." There will be music, refreshments and dancing.

Traffic Signal Test.

The Public Safety Committee of the Council has given a permit for the trying-out of a new electrical traffic signaling system at Third and Broadway and its members will attend a demonstration on Tuesday or Wednesday. A. W. Kent, the inventor, says with his device a traffic policeman will be able to stand on one corner and operate magnetically-actuated signs on all four corners simultaneously.

On Campaign Issues.

Frank W. Emerson, lecturer, will speak before a mass meeting of the Boyle Heights Randall-Dale clubs, in the Breed street school auditorium, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. [illegible]MINE FOR GASES.

[illegible] United States' Contribution to Asphyxiating Gases Used in War.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] Much of the asphyxiating gas used in trench warfare in Europe comes, in the form of bromine, from the salt works in Ohio and West Virginia, according to the Geological Survey. In a bulletin covering the production of salt and bromine in 1915, the Federal bureau says:

"Bromine is made in connection with the manufacture of salt in the Saginaw Valley, Michigan, in the Ohio Valley, Ohio and West Virginia. In Michigan bromine has been marketed in the form of fine chemicals, but as a result of the great increase of its use in the war in Europe, a large quantity is now being marketed as bromine itself. The bromine produced along the Ohio River has in part been exported to be made into fine chemicals.

"The production in 1915 was 855,857 pounds, valued at $856,307, an increase of 278,866 pounds in quantity and of $653,252 in value.

LUKE M'LUKE'S SAYINGS.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] When the boss wants to compliment your work the mail is speedy enough. But when he wants to register a kick about your work he does it by wire.

As long as a girl's ears are hidden she doesn't seem to care if anything else shows through.

After seeing how much the women use on their faces, a man wonders if there will be enough paint left to go around so the house painters won't have to go out of business.

It is a mean thing to say, but it is true. When a man pays $2 for a box of candy it is going to some other woman. And when he pays two bits for a box of candy it is going home to his wife.

When we are tired, it is overwork. But when the other fellow is tired, it is laziness.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to carry a gold-headed cane?

Sometimes a girl gets a reputation for being bashful and reserved when what ails her is the fact that she knows that her complexion would rub off if she ever let a man touch it.

The most cheerful man in the world isn't the fellow who has just learned from his wife that he talks about other women in his sleep.

Brood Chicks under Feather Duster.

[New York World:] Using a feather duster as a brooder to substitute for a cannibal hen, "Shorty" Eberle saves the lives of some of his chicks.

When Eberle is not busy as manager of the Postal Telegraph Company he devotes his time to raising fancy chickens. When one of his hens was not busy scratching she gave her time to digesting some of the brood she had recently hatched.

Eberle noticed the chicks began to disappear. One by one they went until he discovered the hen's appetite was stronger than her mother love. A heavy ration of ground bone and hamburger steak didn't appease her. She ate another.

Then, with a cunning he didn't expect of himself, he threw the hen out, bought a big feather duster and suspended it in the coop. The chicks snuggle among the feathers and are perfectly content with their inanimate mother.

The Deutschland's Wireless.

[Baltimore American:] How it was posible for the Deutschland to cross the Atlantic and keep in touch with her home port by means of wireless without detection also has leaked out. The Deutschland is equipped with a new kind of wireless, a German invention, that is part of the equipment of all German submersibles and warships. Her operating radius enables her to talk with Heligoland, which is in tune with the submersible's apparatus. So fine can these instruments be tuned that other stations cannot pick up the messages. Not even the powerful stations at Sayville or Tuckerton can tune with the submersible except at the will of the commander of the submarine.

At Rest.

MASON GOES BEYOND.

After Year of Illness, Final Call Comes to Man of High Standing in Masonic Fraternity. Funeral to Be Held on Tuesday Afternoon.

Herman M. Lieberson of No. 1385 Allison avenue died early yesterday morning at the Sisters' Hospital, where he had been for about a week. He had been an invalid for the past year. The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon at the chapel of W. H. Brown, No. 1047 South Figuerea street.

Mr. Lieberson leaves the widow, Mrs. Mary M. Lieberson and one daughter, Mrs. R. I. Sutton, of this city. For thirty years he was a resident of Rochester, N. Y., where he conducted a large baking establishment. He came to Los Angeles sixteen years ago and for several years was in the bakery business here, but retired several years ago.

Since young manhood he had been deeply interested in the Masonic fraternity. He was a member of the Knights Templar Commandery at Rochester and was also a member of the local Shriners' Temple. The funeral services will be under the auspices of the Masons.

DEMOCRATS MEET.

Old-Timers' Club Hears Party Platforms Discussed.

John W. Mitchell was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at the weekly meeting of the Old-Timers' Democratic Club. Mr. Mitchell said the gathering recalled to his memory the party conventions of years past, in which he had seen the same men who sat before him. He compared the Democratic and Republican national platforms, saying that in essentials there was small difference between them. John W. Carter, Internal Revenue Collector, and Robert Adcock also spoke.

The Old-Timers' Club will hereafter meet at 2 o'clock on Saturdays instead of 3 o'clock, the hour originally fixed. During the last week 100 names of men who voted in California before 1900 were added to the roll of members.

Missouri Offers a Poser.

[Schuyler County Republican:] How is it that a manacled convict can escape unhurt by leaping from a train running at the rate of thirty miles an hour, when every time the average citizen slips in alighting from a car he injures himself so severely that the railway company must pay him big damages?

This over a quarter mil- and will require over forty carloads of cement. There are seventeen arches, forty feet between centers of buttresses with a radius of twenty-three feet on the upstream face. Over half a million feet of lumber is required for the forms, and a sawmill of large capacity was installed just above the dam. Logs are dragged down from the surrounding mountains. Lars Jorgensen, inventor of the type of dam named after him, is on the ground superintending construction.

A remarkable tram with 4800 feet of track runs from Silver Lake to the Agnew dam site. A 500-foot spur extends to Agnew Lake, and from that point barge transport is employed half a mile, after which comes 2200 feet additional track to the Gem works. The long tram, electrically operated by cable, has a maximum horizontal curve on 100-foot radius, with 67 per cent. maximum grade, and minimum of 10, the car running back by gravity. This car weighs a ton, carries four and a half tons, and is not commended to timid persons for passenger service. A long aerial tram is used to deliver slide rock from the mountainside to the dams for concrete work.

Two thirty-inch pipes 4500 and 4900 feet long, respectively, one for each unit, will carry the water from Agnew dam to the generator water wheels, and a four-foot pipe 4700 feet long from the Gem dam to a junction with the smaller pipes at Agnew. The pressure in these pipes will be 774 pounds to the square inch. The large pipe will tap Gem Lake twenty feet below its original level. All the large pipe comes from the Llewellyn Iron Works, Los Angeles, and costs about $50,000 on the ground. In the two-story power-house is a twenty-ton crane manufactured by the Baker Iron Works. The first of two 8000-horse-power water wheels weighing eleven tons each is now being installed. The plant will be connected with the control station in plant No. 5, Bishop Creek, and with the Pacific Power Corporation Nevada transmission line, so current can be supplied as required anywhere on the Southern Sierras Company lines in Southern California, the Imperial Valley and across the Mexican border or on the Pacific power lines in the Nevada mining camps.

On the ground and in charge of the work are Fred O. Dolson, superintendent of operation and construction of the Nevada-California Company; C. O. Poole, chief engineer, and E. J. Waugh, resident engineer. W. N. Chatfield, manager of the company, spends much time there. Duncanson & Haraldson of San Francisco are the contractors.

Far up on Leevining Creek along the wonderful highway leading to Tioga Pass and the Yosemite, the Pacific Power Corporation is starting work on another $1,000,000 plant, also of 16,000-horse-power capacity. Dams will be built on Rhinedollar, Saddleback and Tioga lakes, and the grand Leevining Creek Falls, now a 2000-foot thread of glistening white, looking like silver inlay in the magnificent scenery of the canyon, will go through a pipe next year to do man's work instead of delighting his esthetic nature.

Silver Lake falls and what will shortly cause them to disappear.

In about thirty days all the water now going over this magnificent 2000-foot series of drops will be abruptly diverted to the plant of the Pacific Power Corporation. The falls are just above Owens Valley and are among the most beautiful in the high Sierras. The first drop is higher than Niagara. Below are two of the seventeen huge reinforced concrete arches in the Gem Lake dam of the power project, seen from above. They are forty feet across and will be seventy feet high. The completed dam will be the longest of its kind in the world and will itself cost about $250,000.

ERA OF GREAT PROMISE DAWNS ON WATERFRONT

HERALDING the light of a new era at Los Angeles Harbor, joy and satisfaction have marked the funeral of the late lamented strike of longshoremen and dockworkers. Yesterday employers declared the open shop has come to abide and employees were busy under conditions measurably better for all concerned than those which obtained before the walk-out two months ago.

The strike has hit labor-union bossism hard, has crumpled the walking delegate, has proved a mighty victory for industrial liberty—and has yielded results potent for the upbuilding of the port.

Conspicuous among the results to which employers and satisfied employees pointed yesterday is the sudden and complete reorganization of the water-front working forces. This has resulted in higher labor efficiency almost overnight and in steadier employment for the workingmen.

Before the strike two classes of union workmen existed. These had the properties of oil and water; they would not mix, or do each other's work. The longshoremen refused to work on the docks and the dockworkers declined to go onto vessels and unload cargo. It was against the rules of unionism. Now that the men have gone back to work at the employers' terms, they are required to go anywhere the foreman tells them. Result, a great saving of time, the steady employment of one crew of men, and happy foremen.

NOT SO ELSEWHERE.

In contrast with the firmness and unity which have characterized the handling of this strike by Los Angeles Harbor interests, northern ports, with the exception of Seattle, are still tied up, and squabbles with the unionites stifle trade. In San Francisco union men who went to work have presented new demands; employers and men are still bickering, to the great detriment of the Golden Gate's trade. Freight is still piling up, or is weighting ships tied to silent wharves.

Another great improvement accomplished as a result of the strike was the establishment by the employers, a few days ago, of a central labor bureau. Before the strike it was the custom for the foremen to send to the labor-union headquarters for workmen. Now men will be hired regardless of their affiliations from a free employment bureau.

The Los Angeles police force, Chief Snively and Lieut. Spellman, in charge of the squad at the harbor section, are getting deserved praise for the large part they took in the settlement of the strike. Prompt, heady work at the moment when it was needed was the service rendered by both special and regular peace officers during the strike. The presence of the officers undoubtedly kept down much disorder, and was a great factor in the breaking of the ill-advised strike.

Employers are now turning away applicants for work. Full crews are the rule, both on the wharves and in the lumber yards. There are as many men at work now as there were before the suave walking delegate called the men out on strike, and conditions are far more satisfactory to both employer and employee.

OLD BUNGLING SYSTEM.

When a vessel docked with cargo, under the old regime, the employers generally telephoned union headquarters for longshoremen and dockworkers. The union bosses sent men who were in good standing with the unions, without regard to their fitness. When the longshoremen had finished unloading the vessel they would under no circumstances stow the unloaded cargo away, or load it on trains or trucks. That labor was for a different class of union workmen. The dockworkers' boss would then be called upon for men, and union dockworkers would finish the unloading job. Hence the two crews would put in but half time, and the employers could not choose their men.

Under the reorganization of the working forces the employers get their help from the central labor bureau. A man is not asked whether he is a union man or independent workman, whether he is a longshoreman or dock worker, but whether he is experienced at unloading and handling cargo and a fit workman. He then goes on board vessel or stays on the dock, as the foreman directs. A picked crew of efficient workmen is thus kept at work twice as long as formerly, to the great benefit of the men who are really industrious and skillful.

COMPLETE CHANGE.

The open shop now rules in all departments of the docks and lumber yards, whereas at some of the docks none but union men were formerly used, with the resultant waste and dissatisfaction of the foremen. Union men are not discriminated

CONTRASTS IN LABOR STATUS.

Strike troubles have ended at this port; the northern city is in the grip of a grim struggle to break union bossism.

Any man competent to hold the job is free to seek it here and work at it without interference; Bay City union men eat out their hearts in idleness when they cannot bribe union business agents to give them work.

Employers here hire men they select, free from interference; in the north they must pay extortion money to union officials if they get efficient workmen.

At this port the union-made distinction between dockworkers and longshoremen has been abolished, in the interest of efficiency and steadier work for the men; at San Francisco the distinction exists, with all its economic defects.

Girl Who Was Clawed by Leopard in Film Plant Can Never Play Her Beloved Instrument Again, Doctors Say; Seeking Damages.

Miss Louise Ogden, a 19-year-old girl residing at Santa Susana, Ventura county, filed suit yesterday through her attorney, Drew Pruitt, for $10,000 damages against a local film company. According to Mr. Pruitt she visited the film plant the 8th inst. While she was walking through the grounds a leopard grabbed her through the bars of his cage and so lacerated her hand and arm that physicians say she can never again play on her violin, which was the great joy of her life. She was regarded as a player of great promise.

Unique Manifesto.

WEARIED BY FIBS, MAKES DIVORCE SECRET PUBLIC.

E. B. DRAKE, the attorney, has been troubled by his conscience every time a solicitous friend has inquired about Mrs. Drake, because he has always responded that she "is quite well, thank you, visiting her folks in Iowa," when, in fact, she was suing him for divorce in Reno. So. Mr. Drake yesterday issued a manifesto to his fellow-townsmen, setting forth the facts in the matter and requesting that in the future they avoid the subject.

From the manifesto it appears that Mr. Drake married Clara Louise Kellogg in this city April 14, 1908. They separated last summer, after a property settlement was made, and Mrs. Drake was granted an allowance. Thereupon she left for Reno, established a residence, and three months ago secured a final decree of divorce, alleging "mental incompatibility."

Mr. Drake said yesterday: "It's been darned embarrassing riding around among 40,000 Iowans here, and having each one of them ask me how my wife is, when I haven't a wife any more, so I just decided to stop it by letting 'em all know about it at once. Mrs. Drake and I quit as good friends, without noise or sensation and without regret. There is no room for scandalous talk and this statement ought to squelch all gossip about the affair."

Mr. Drake has practiced law here for about twelve years. He is Past Exalted Ruler of Lodge No. 99, B.P.O.E., and formerly lived in Kentucky. Mrs. Drake formerly lived in Iowa and was widely known in the Wilshire district, where she entertained frequently.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Attendant Prevents Panic Over Small Blaze at Film Show.

A small blaze in the film operator's cage of the Gem moving-picture theater at Seventh and Main late yesterday afternoon created a small panic among the audience. Quick thinking on the part of an attendant, who leaped in front of the audience and told them the true magnitude of the fire, probably saved injury and possible loss of life. The damage was estimated at $10.

ASK HURRY ON GAS RATES.

A communication filed with the City Clerk yesterday by a committee of citizens asks the Council to take action to insure an early hearing on the matter of a reduction of gas rates.

STRIKERS UNDER PERMANENT BONDS TO KEEP THE PEACE.

WITH the strike troubles at the harbor almost passed away, because of the determined attitude of the lumber-yard operators to maintain open-shop conditions, and the efficient protection afforded free and independent workers by Chief of Police Snively and his corps of patrolmen who were stationed in the harbor district, the few remaining trouble-makers will stand in contempt of court if they commit any overt acts.

The temporary restraining order, which covered about all the prohibitions possible, and which really only allowed the strikers to "be good," has been made permanent.

Yesterday, in the case of the San Pedro Lumber Company, et al., plaintiffs, vs. the International Longshoremen's Association, et al., which includes about 130 defendants individually, besides the association, the following order by Judge Curtis was entered in the Superior Court:

"It is hereby ordered that the temporary restraining order issued in the above-entitled cause by Frederick W. Houser, presiding judge, on the 11th day of July, 1916, be and the same is hereby converted into and shall stand as a preliminary injunction. It is further ordered that the plaintiffs shall file an undertaking in the sum of $1000, conditioned as by law provided."

His Purpose.

ARCHBISHOP TO SAVE MISSION.

Will Begin Humble Work at Old San Fernando.

Fled from Oaxaca Disguised as Lowly Peon.

Plans to Spend Last Days in Aiding Poor Mexicans.

Driven out of Mexico, the land where the best years of his life were spent in Christian work, barely escaping with his life, and reduced to temporary penury, Archbishop E. G. Gillow of Oaxaca has undertaken the task of restoring a part of the San Fernando Mission. It is his purpose now, in his declining years, to prepare a chapel there and quarters for himself, so that he can preach to the poor Mexicans and teach their little children the Catholic faith.

The actual restoration of the mission began only a few weeks ago, and so anxious was the archbishop to keep his plans in connection with this secret that it was only after repeated tales of some mysterious work going on there that the truth became known.

The archbishop was loath to discuss any phase of his new undertaking. "It is not that I personally care," he said, "but any story of activity on the part of the bishops in the United States is nearly certain to reach Carranza and his men in Mexico.

"Carranza says that it is the bishops here who are trying to bring about intervention. For this reason, and because of the consequences to others, I have remained in the background in the work of the church since my escape. It was this that kept me from taking part in the Candle Day services at San Fernando last Sunday. Although my heart was there, I felt compelled to sacrifice my own wishes and remain away. I went over there yesterday and the people told me about the beautiful service.

HELP IS NEEDED.

"One of my reasons for selecting the old mission at San Fernando is because of the large number of Mexicans in the village, who have no one to teach them, no one who says mass in the language they know. These poor people are sadly neglected and will welcome anyone who can teach them."

Although his great wealth before the trouble there was the talk of all Mexico, Archbishop Gillow is now living through the aid of those in charge of St. Vincent's College. He refused to say just how he is able to carry on this new work of restoration, but said that he has been working in this direction for a week or so.

The story of Archbishop Gillow's escape from Mexico reads like romance. About two years ago this man, now 75 years old, who for years has been one of the most dignified and revered Catholic prelates in Mexico, left behind him a rich estate and saved his life only by journeying to the American line in the guise of a decrepit peon.

His estate, near Oaxaca, was one of the largest and richest in all that part of Mexico. A $40,000 wheat crop had just been harvested on his lands and was to be started the next day for the market in a long train of cars, when the revolutionists descended upon him. They set fire to several small buildings and then appropriated the entire train of wheat. They took charge of the engines, and, drawing the wheat away, they sold it. Next they attacked his large country home, almost of the proportions of a castle and filled with priceless relics and works of art.

Believing that his life would be forfeited if he remained, Archbishop Gillow hastily hid what he could of his valuables by burying them and fled to the hut of a peon near by. From the windows of the crude dwelling he gazed all night up the hill through the windows of his own palace on scenes which he never would have thought possible. The ribald followers of the bandit leader arrayed themselves in his costly-jeweled robes and mitres, and, besotted with wine from his cellars, passed the night in an orgy of dissipation.

SAVES WONDROUS CROSS.

With the dawn of the morning the archbishop devised a scheme for his escape. He borrowed a crude suit of clothes, a pair of old black spectacles, and carefully constructed some false whiskers. Thus disguised he quietly stole forth, and by dint of stealth and much bravery finally succeeded in reaching El Paso.

There he landed—one of the foremost Catholic figures of the western hemisphere and a man whose great wealth had been the talk of an entire country—with nothing to his back but a dingy and ragged suit of clothes and only a few dollars in his pocket.

He was welcomed by Catholic clergymen of this country, although he came as poor as the peon whose clothes possibly saved his life. Since his coming from Mexico many tales of how he buried much of his great treasure have been told. It is said that among the rich jewels that he has saved in this way is a wonderful emerald cross, worth a fabulous amount of money. When questioned about it, the archbishop refused to commit himself, but smilingly evaded it by replying that people like to tell tales of that kind.

And now, with his vast estate gone and expatriated from the land where all his life's work was performed, an old man, he is to restore a chapel and other quarters in this old mission and there spend a part of his remaining days, like the padres of old, teaching the poor Mexicans and their little children.

FLOOD CONTROL PLANS.

Flood control plans covering eighty square miles in the Gardena Valley, prepared by J. W. Regan, engineer for the Los Angeles county flood control district, were approved last Thursday night by resolution at Gardena by the federated civic societies of the south and west portions of the valley. The plans provide for taking care of the storm waters originating in the southerly part of Inglewood and territory south. When completed, Mr. Reagan says, the dams will prevent the inundation of approximately 3000 acres of valuable land and will give Gardena Valley a direct outlet to the ocean for its storm waters. The estimated cost of the work is $60,000 to $70,000.

F. H. Ottelien, ousted treasurer of the Home Builders' Company, yesterday made a statement, which he declares sets forth the general situation regarding the affairs of this corporation. The statement was given in the presence of M. H. Withers, who is the leader of one of the factions in the contest to control the affairs of the Home Builders, and each of these men declared that they and those they represented would stand for no compromise measure.

"A meeting has been called by stockholders of Home Builders, the object being to secure the removal of the present board of directors," said Mr. Ottolien. "The chief cause of Home Builders' troubles is the fact that some of the old management have had a great deal to say about our affairs and at present have control of finances and general supervision of the business.

"A pet project that they want to get through is the levying of an assessment. This was favored by a number of directors who at present are stating to stockholders that they are not in favor of an assessment. This, of course, is done to get on the good side of our stockholders, so as to get their support, but finally, when these parties get into power, as they hope to do, they would then put through an assessment. This would freeze out some of the stockholders.

"A great many of our stockholders would lose their holdings in case of assessment, and those who have their all in our corporation are especially bitter against the old management. Some who have as much as $10,000 invested here are now compelled to work for $10 a week; some have suffered even more because of their losses. The assessment is especially favored by some members of the old board.

PRESENT PROSPECTS.

"I have been with the Home Builders for a number of years and am thoroughly familiar with the assets and financial affairs. Our income or earning power at present is greater than all overhead expenses and interest charges. Liabilities have been reduced considerably. We owe a few thousand dollars in open accounts at present.

"The corporation can go along in its present condition indefinitely without resorting to assessments, and can hold on to the real estate without sacrificing. Our assets consist of about $630,000 in contracts, trust deeds, mortgages and bonds. From these we have an income of about $4000 per month. We own about $270,000 worth of unimproved real estate, some of this being fine residential lots in Hollywood. There are also some first-class industrial sites, with spur-track facilities, on East Seventh street, near Soto. We also own three or four small subdivisions of from thirty to 100 lots that are within thirty minutes from Fifth and Spring streets. With a revival of the real estate market we should be able to either develop these or dispose of them as a whole.

"Stockholders can readily see the fairly healthy condition of the concern, and for this reason it is imperative that we have a representative stockholders' board. I am working in conjunction with the Stockholders' Committee, and we have pledged ourselves to stand for no compromise and that we will stand pat for a stockholders' board.

"Some of the gentlemen we will support are Kelly J. Tinker, largest individual stockholder in the corporation; W. M. Belding, who controls 30,000 shares, and who at one time had charge of construction work on the Panama Canal; Edward Healy, who has $11,000 in the corporation and has strong support from his community in Long Beach; Col. Frederick D. Butterfield, a prominent business man of this city, who has a large amount invested in Home Builders; James C. Whittier, a retired attorney, who has taken a very active part in Home Builders' affairs and the movement to oust the old management.

"These men of integrity and business ability will stand for stockholders' rights only.

WANT NO RECEIVER.

"Joy A. Winans and associates are now in control, and this is entirely against the wishes of the stockholders. It is imperative that the stockholders be brought together to have their say as to who shall represent them. Stockholders should be very cautious about giving proxies, so that they may not be used to their disadvantage.

"In one of our recent meetings one of our directors allowed personal feelings to prevail and wanted to place the corporation in the hands of a receiver. These are the men who must be eliminated, as they are not working for the stockholders' interests.

"With the gentlemen on the board as mentioned above, we will have a business administration, and I believe this corporation has a better chance than any other building company in Los Angeles to again distribute profits to stockholders at a future date. Of course, these would be small profits, but our stock would be in demand on the open market, and stockholders would realize more in this manner than either by receiver or liquidation.

"On Friday, August 11, Miss Wilson, secretary, and myself, treasurer, were ousted. This, I consider, means that our corporation has been handed over to Mr. Winans entirely."

WINANS'S STAND.

Mr. Winans, who is one of the three directors threatened by the move of the stockholders, declares he does not believe they would make such a mistake as to vote out of office a board that has done much to put the company's affairs in shape. He declares that the board has been economical and businesslike in its work.

FILES ANSWER ON GRADE CROSSINGS.

CITY MAKES REPLY TO CASE STARTED BY PASADENA.

Maintains Interlocking Device at Aliso-street Bridge is Desirable and will not Stand in Way of Better Things—Gives Part of What is Wanted.

Just why the cities of Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra have made the city of Los Angeles a party to their cases against the Pacific Electric Railway and the Santa Fe and Salt Lake railroads in regard to grade crossings is something City Attorney Stephens does not know, he told the City Council yesterday in outlining the city's answer to the cases before the State Railroad Commission.

While maintaining the city's position in not admitting the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission the city agrees that the crossings between here and Alhambra complained of are dangerous and states it has adopted a general policy that all dangerous crossings at grade shall be eliminated at the earliest possible moment.

In regard to the allegation of the three cities that the interlocking device at the Aliso-street bridge unduly retards traffic and that the grade itself should be eliminated the city's position is that the Aliso-street crossings are particularly dangerous and that it is necessary they be made safe with as little delay as possible, and that the interlocking system will to a great extent eliminate the danger and does not depend at all upon the general elimination of grade crossings. The interlocking plant will not stand in the way of the better thing but does give the city part of what it wants, the City Attorney said.

The city's answer maintains that the complaint of the three cities as against it does not contain a statement of fact sufficient to constitute a cause of action against Los Angeles.

MUST SHARE COST.

ARROYO SECO WALL POLICY.

The rule was laid down by the City Council yesterday that it will not defray the expense of proposed flood control works in the Arroyo Seco, but will co-operate with property owners. In two applications made the City Engineer was instructed to ascertain if the property owners will bear their proportion of the cost.

One request was that the city construct a concrete wall in the bed of the Arroyo Seco near Avenue 52, the estimated cost of which is $3000. Such a wall would protect city as well as private property and the city is willing to bear its share of the expense. The second request was for the construction of a wall on the east side of the Arroyo Seco from the Salt Lake Railroad's Glendale line at Cypress avenue to Avenue 26.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTS.

CLASSES OF SERVICE.

In connection with the construction of the proposed municipal street lighting system in East Los Angeles district, including Bairdstown, and the proposed construction of a system in the Hollywood district, the Board of Public Works has asked that the Public Service Commission fix rates for furnishing and maintaining the following classes of street lighting service: 1000 C.P. 20-ampere street series lamps, 600 C.P. 20-ampere lamps, 400 C.P. 15-ampere lamps and 80 C.P. 6.6-ampere lamps, ornamental post lighting on a basis of r price per kilowatt hour, including current, renewal of lamps and maintenance.

The board says the fixing of rates at this time is necessary in order that it may determine the number of lamps which can be maintained in the districts mentioned under the present appropriation fixed by the Budget Committee of the City Council.

TWO FUNDS TO AID WORK OF MISSIONS.

CREATED BY WILL OF LINCOLN UNIVERSITY MAN.

Both will be in Force After Death of Widow—One is to go for Medical Service in India or Korea; Other to Missionaries' Support.

Robert Laird Stewart of Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, who died at Alhambra July 28, last, created by his will two endowment funds for the benefit of Presbyterian missions, the funds to be in force after his widow's death. His will was filed yesterday on the petition of the widow, Sarah E. Stewart. The estate, valued at $20,000, consists of stocks, bonds and securities. After several bequests Mrs. Stewart is given a life interest in the estate.

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America is given $5000 in trust for the Sarah Ewing Stewart Endowment Fund, the income to go for the support and maintenance of medical missionary work in Korea or India. Mr. Stewart's idea is to defray the expenses of hospitals in those fields.

The sum of $5000 is also given to the same board for the creation of the R. L. Stewart Endowment Fund for the support of missionaries on the frontier.

Nettie and Alice Stewart, Mrs. Ward S. Brush, Mrs. Alice McJ. Morrow and Mrs. Jane McJ. Morrow, nieces, are given $1000 each; Mrs. Anna M. McJunkin, a sister, $1000.

INCORPORATIONS. The Burgan Preventorium Company, incorporators J. H. Burgan, A. W. Seddon and H. H. Stone; capital stock $50,000, subscribed $3.

BURGLAR POISONS DOG.

During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bonhauser Friday night their residence at No. 2817 West Seventh street was entered by a burglar, who looted the house after giving poison to the pet dog. Mr. Bonhauser and his wife returned home just as the burglar was leaving the house. They chased him several blocks in an automobile before he made his escape by leaping over a high fence.

JUDGE IS HONORED GUEST OF JURORS.

TALESMEN GIVE A BANQUET TO EXPRESS ADMIRATION.

Importance of Jury Service and Educational Value of Attendance at Court Emphasized in Speech, and Reforms in State Penal System are Advocated.

Possibly for the first time in the history of the county, a group of jurymen Friday night gave a banquet for the judge under whom they had served because of their appreciation of his handling of cases in which they participated. This event occurred at the Hollenbeck Hotel cafe and Judge Craig was the guest of honor. William E. Bowles, several times foreman of the jury of Department 18, was toastmaster, and among the former jurors who spoke were Arthur P. Olinger, Charles L. Hart, James W. Somerville and W. H. Monroe.

In responding, Judge Craig declared preparation for an external foe is all well and good, but there are many menaces from within the government, particularly because of the increase in crime, and that the citizenry should at all times be prepared for sacrifices to assist in the carrying out of justice by service on juries.

"I believe that a law should be enacted compelling jury duty, or at least attendance at court, by all citizens at some time in life, preferably in younger years, when they would learn the necessity for obedience to law in a more striking way than they can get by merely reading about enforceemnt of the statutes," he said. "The courts can and should be the greatest universities for the education of people in civic matters and in the principles of political economy."

Judge Craig also advocated the establishment of a State farm for care of epileptics and one for criminals who are weak minded, but not sufficiently so to warrant sending them to asylums. The building and maintenance of all State roads by prison labor was also favored by the jurist, who declared such a system would not only save the State a large sum of money, but would guarantee the health of prisoners.

ANGELENOS IN YOSEMITE.

Vacation Travel to the Valley Said to be Increasing.

Southern California was well represented in the Yosemite Valley during the past week. From Los Angeles went fifty vacationers, and from other places many more. The valley has kept its spring beauty much later than usual this season, owing to the great amount of snow in the high Sierras and the falls, which are still pouring large volumes of water into the valley.

Motor travel is on the increase, more going into the valley by automobile than all other ways. Several hiking parties arrived during the last two weeks.

Among the arrivals during the last week were the following: From Los Angeles, W. L. Grant, Maggie Grant, Clifford Grant, Edith Bawl, Grace Bawl, I. Jones and wife, O. Meyers and wife, J. Noland and wife, H. Meyers and wife, Mrs. W. H. Perkins, J. M. Hartell and wife, E. A. Williams, wife and child, M. L. Elliott and wife, W. B. Coladal, Anette Coladal, Dr. W. A. Weldon and wife, Cora H. Van Horne, Mrs. Keith Eskridge, Keith Eskridge, Robert Path, Ruby House, A. L. Drew, Adelina Drew, Dr. P. O. Lundin, Dr. G. P. Hunter and wife, Mary C. Herrigan, Miss O. B. Wilson, S. A. Brown, R. W. Supler, Frank Anderson, J. D. Womer, Bessie Womer, Esther Bell, Helen Hudson, Dr. E. R. Hillikin and wife, John A. Murphy and wife, W. E. Spruce and wife and R. R. Coladal and wife.

ENLIGHTENS JURORS.

Judge Discusses Technicalities for Benefit of New Venire.

In order that jurymen may know what the attorneys are talking about, Judge Craig yesterday morning discussed a number of legal technicalities for the benefit of the newly-impaneled venire for his department. He took up the matters of circumstantial evidence, reasonable doubt, capital punishment and similar topics and briefly outlined their meaning in order that the instructions in coming cases may not be misunderstood.

This is the first time a new departmental trial jury has received such a lecture and is an innovation that will be followed regularly in the future.

CHOICE OF THREE LINES.

Tickets from Los Angeles to Oriental Points are Interchangeable.

All tickets from Los Angeles to Honolulu, Japan, China and the Philippines will be interchangeable with the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, Pacific Mail and Canadian Steamship companies, according to an announcement yesterday by D. F. Robertson, manager of the travel agency of the California Savings Bank. Under this arrangement tourists to the Orient can travel without delay between local points in Japan, China and the Philippines on any steamers of those companies.

Mrs. Wellington Vanatta, Mrs. L. M. Hackney, Mr. and Mrs. William Waterhouse, Mrs. Mary L. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. James Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, Miss M. A. Keith, J. D. Benning, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Cook, Miss Blossom Cook, Miss Dorothy Cook, Howard Taggart, Roland Bristol and Mrs. Bessie Long, who will sail on the Tenyo Maru a week from next Saturday, will be the first passengers from this city to benefit by the new arrangement.

DROPS ITS HOT BRICK.

Municipal League Decides to Let Budget Matter Alone.

While repeating its belief that $500,000 can this year be diverted from construction by the Public Service Commission to pay interest on aqueduct bonds, the Municipal League yesterday wrote Mayor Sebastian that it would take no further action in connection with this year's budget unless the Mayor deemed it to the interest of the city to investigate the matter. In that event the Municipal League says it will be glad to co-operate.

The league says it believes it altogether unnecessary to answer the charge openly made before the City Council that it was acting in the interest of the power companies, as it has already advocated that the city secure a complete monopoly of the power field here.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

The City Council yesterday appropriated $50 to defray the expenses of Fire Chief Eley in attending the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs, to be held in San Diego August 21 to 26.

Fall Suits Arrest Attention

Striking effects in fur and cloth dominate the fashion field

IT WAS A HUMMER.

That Booth banquet was also a cracker-jack, happily concocted and happily digested. Willis H. Booth is growing every day. As a political speaker he has become a great success—wide in his range, sure in his expression, and appealing in his manner.

AN INEFFICIENT CROOK.

A Long Beach highwayman who robbed his victim of five cents (all the money he had) and overlooked or scorned to take his gold watch, was guilty of culpable inefficiency.' Possibly it may have been remorse and conscientiousness that overtook him after getting the five cents which he probably expended at the nearest saloon for a schooner of lager or a draught of cool and refreshing gin. Those Progressive anarchists never seem to have any practical sense.

HARNESSING WOMEN TO PLOUGH.

Among the horrible features of this horrible war is the enslavement of noncombatants. Women and children to the number of 25,000 have, it is stated, been taken by force from their homes and sent here and there at the will of the German military authorities to work in the fields. The women between 14 and 55 years of age were taken from Lille, Roubaix and Turcoing districts and put to work in the fields. The German government stated that the people were employed on harvest work for the benefit of occupied provinces with a view to feeding inhabitants who might otherwise perish of famine owing to the Franco-British blockade policy against Germany.

IT IS NOT TO LAUGH.

The sealers (of weights and measures, not fur sealers,) have invited Gov. Johnson to attend their September 4 session. In view of the probable results of the August 29 primary on the Senatorial question, if Hiram speaks to the sealers his remarks, while saturated with bitterness, may not be devoid of interest.

Lieut.-Gov. Stephens did not attend the meeting of the Professional Chauffeurs' Association to listen to the address of Mr. Gillons on the subject of the "Uses of Lubricants." He should have been there, for he needs lubricants to alleviate the pain of the sores caused by a drop from a $9000 to a $4000 wage. The public should sympathize with poor, hornswoggled "Steve," instead of laughing at him.

ANZACS MAKE GOOD.

Britain's fighters from the Antipodes are living up to their slogan, "Advance Australia." On the western battlefront the capture of Hill 160, after one of the most desperate engagements in the war, fell to the prowess of the colonials from the greatest island on the globe. Not only did they perform this desperate feat, but they are holding the position against the pick of the Kaiser's magnificently-trained army, fighting under strict orders to recapture the hill at any cost.

Australia, which in many of its physical conditions resembles California, evidently produces the same brand of manhood. The Anzacs have never faltered from the time they made an almost impossible landing on the Gallipoli Peninsula against heartbreaking odds to the moment of their last triumph on Hill 160.

Although she occupies a part of the globe far removed from war's alarms, Australia has believed in and practiced military training for her citizens. The splendid result on the manhood of the country produced by such training is conclusively evidenced by the hardihood and heroism of her citizen soldiers in the part they are taking in the gigantic European struggle.

PERPETUATING HATES.

What kind of a peace is possible when the allies avow their intention to perpetuate the hates of war by refusing to hold commercial intercourse with Germany and Austria after the termination of the war?

One of the impossible conditions of the peace which Britain suggests is that the central powers shall indemnify the allied powers for the expenses of the war. With what shall an indemnity of over fifty billions of dollars be paid? All the gold and silver coin in the world amounts to less than ten billions of dollars. The present indebtedness of Germany and Austria-Hungary amounts to more than thirty billions of dollars. If to this be added an indemnity of fifty billions and German and Austrian bonds were issued in payment, the total indebtedness of these countries would amount to $1420 per capita of their population, or $7100, for each adult male, or 80 per cent. of the value of all the real and personal property in Germany and Austria-Hungary. To pay the interest on eighty billions of indebtedness at 4 per cent. would require a yearly contribution of $284 from each adult male—a sum greater than the average income of most of the workingmen.

If Germany and Austria as nations were blotted from the map of Europe, their territory divided among the allies, their public debt repudiated and their public and private property confiscated and offered for sale to pay the indemnity demands, there would be nobody to buy it. As it now appears, repudiation by all the warring powers is inevitable.

THE THREATENED RAILWAY STRIKE.

If we are to have in this country a general railroad strike we are facing a national calamity—one which perhaps can only be averted by instant, fearless and effective action by the President of the United States.

The representatives of 400,000 railroad train hands have rejected the arbitration offer of the railroad companies and insist that every one of their demands be met, or if not they will strike and tie up every railroad in the country. In this course they are backed by Sam Gompers's Federation of Labor. The demand of the railway employees is that they shall be paid annually one hundred millions of dollars more than they are now receiving. The companies cannot pay this unless the Federal board will authorize an increase in freight rates. If such increase is allowed the consuming public must pay the bill. If not allowed the railroads must discontinue operations or go into the hands of receivers.

The mischief of yielding to the unconscionable demand of the strikers may not stop with the exaction of $100,000,000 even if the Federal board authorize an increase in freight rates, for it may be followed by further demands for two or three times that sum. Yielding would involve practical confiscation of the railroad property of the country for the benefit of a federation of men who in their demand are making of themselves the equals of robbers who stop a stage.

The disaster that would visit the people of this country from a railroad tie-up can scarcely be estimated. The running of food supply trains is necessary for the sustenance of the people, particularly in the carrying of milk which is vital to the needs of children and invalids.

The only power that can prevent the strike is vested in the government of the United States, and the one man who can put that power in motion is the President of the United States. This can be done under existing laws to prevent and punish interference with the United States mails and with interstate commerce. It will be remembered that President Cleveland put down a railroad strike at Chicago with United States troops commanded by Gen. Miles.

The necessity for government intervention is as much greater in the present exigency as the needs of the nation are greater than those of the city of Chicago.

If the threatened strike can be prevented in no other way, let the government take instant possession of all the railroads in the country, run the mail trains and the food-supply trains, guard them with United States soldiers, and arrest and incarcerate all strikers or others who attempt to interfere with them.

If power under existing laws is lacking to do whatever it is necessary shall be done, let Congress, which is now in session, enact the needed law.

The direst sufferers by a general strike will not be the wealthy, who can afford to pay increased prices for food. It will be the people in moderate circumstances and the poor people.

It is for President Wilson to show whether he has the disposition and the courage to save the people of the land from the calamity with which they are menaced.

God send him a clear judgment and a brave heart!

HUGHES AS A CAMPAIGNER.

The Republican National Convention builded even better than it knew when it nominated Charles Evans Hughes for the Presidency. He has stepped to the front and by his powerful and well-timed utterances has proved himself to be a great leader of great statesmen and orators in the greatest nation in all the world. He does not mince words in dealing with existing conditions. In his Fargo speech he said of President Wilson's administration:

> "The government of the United States is recklessly wasteful, shamefully incompetent and extravagant, a reproach to the intelligence of the people because of its inefficiency.
> "The Rivers and Harbors Bill, known to the people as the pork-barrel bill, is largely money wasted, as there is no expert examination to determine what expenditures are necessary."

Log-rolling in Congress, encouraged and sustained by President Wilson, brings the blush of shame to the cheek of every American. It ought to be stopped. Mr. Hughes promises to stop it if he is elected. He will be elected, and what he promises he will perform.

Wilson is endeavoring, with the aid of the pie counter, to force through the shipping bill with its $50,000,000 preliminary appropriation. Senator Jones estimates that if it is passed and shall remain a law it will cost $750,000,000 to create the tonnage necessary.

In his St. Paul speech Mr. Hughes differed from the Wilsonian estimate of the American people. "We are," said our great Republican leader, "a spirited people. We are a people who can protect ourselves. We are not too proud to fight." Mr. Hughes rightfully characterized Wilson's Mexican fast and loose no policy as "a spectacle showing inefficiency of the first magnitude. Wilson's punitive expedition into Mexico punished nobody but Americans. Any American soldier killed in Mexico was killed by American bullets that we let go over the border."

Mr. Hughes defined a united party as one that included every Republican and every Progressive who left the party four years ago, with the door open for good Democrats who are sorely tried at this time.

Mr. Hughes is generously according to Mr. Wilson what the latter, early in his administration, declared he would favor. He is giving him "pitiless publicity." He is giving it to him with respect to the pork barrel, and with respect to southern sectionalism, and with respect to his removing a scientist from office to make room for a deserving Democratic horse doctor, and with respect to his submitting to have our mails censored and our ships searched and their cargoes of food confiscated by England, and with respect to his bluff-and-back-out Mexican policy, and with respect to his abandonment of about every doctrine announced in the platform on which he was elected, and with respect to his all-around egotism, inefficiency, procrastination and pusillanimity.

In a few terse sentences in his Billings (Mont.) speech on Friday Mr. Hughes said:

> "I believe that in this country we must be strong enough and able enough to prevent abuses, to prevent unjust discrimination, to prevent monopolistic practices; fearlessly to prevent any action inimical to the public interest while at the same time we encourage honest American enterprise, seek an expansion of our trade, endeavor to have our foreign commerce extended and in every way make the American name commercially a name of the first rank throughout the world."

Compare Wilson's "to-proud-to-fight" definition of our position as a nation with the following ringing sentences of our Republican leader: "I desire, with respect to American rights, that no one need hang his head in shame. We are not a warlike people. We do not mean to threaten anybody. We do not want anything from anybody that we are not entitled to, but when we say a thing the whole world should know that we mean it and that we are able to enforce it."

Concerning the doctrine of protection to American industry Mr. Hughes said: "In 1912 the Democratic platform declared a protective tariff was unconstitutional. Now they are coming around to the idea just about that much [indicating a few inches] on the dyestuffs question. When it comes to a question of tariff the Democratic party hasn't any principles at all. It is simply a party, so far as the tariff is concerned, for votes only."

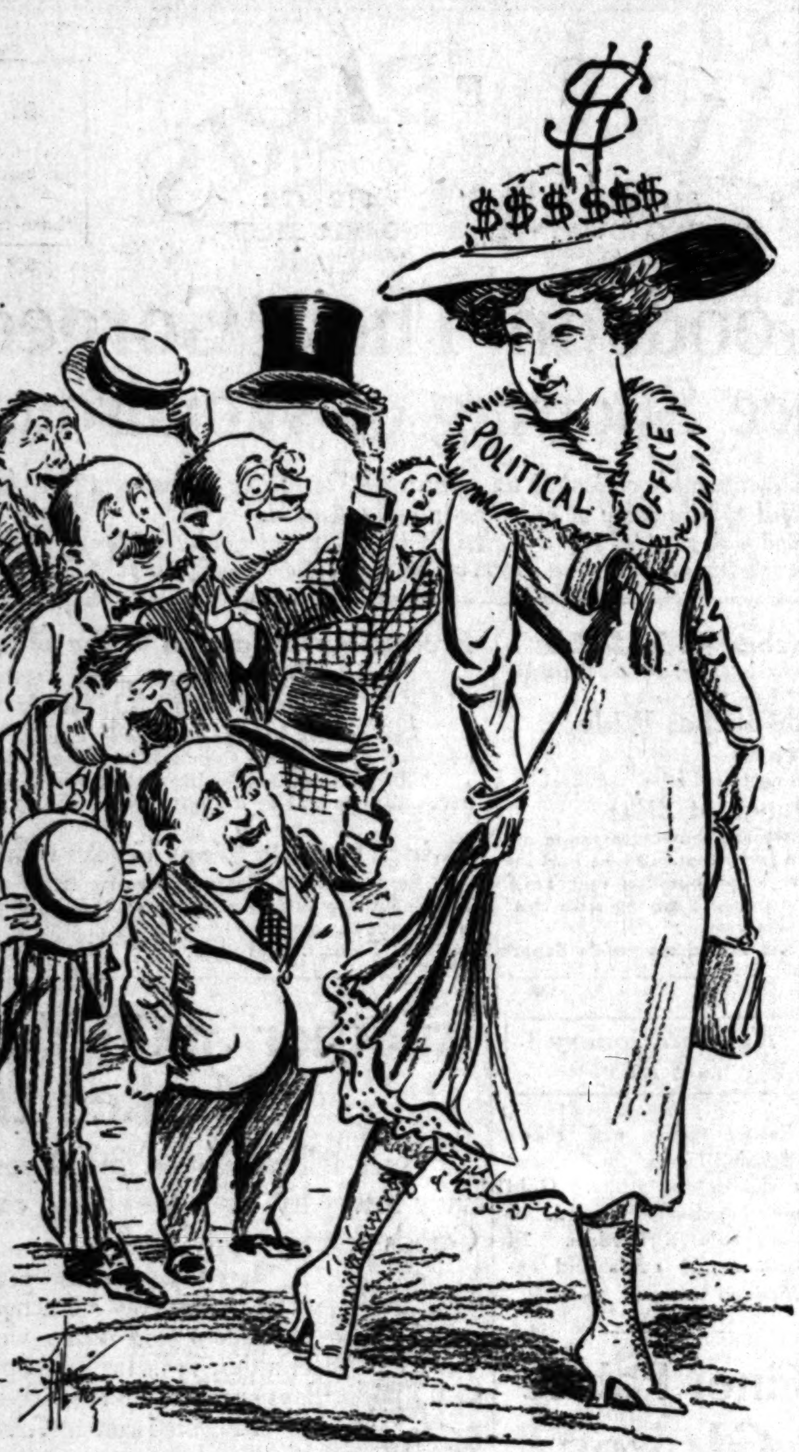
"The Democratic party," said Daniel Webster, "has seven great principles—the five loaves and the two fishes."

The latest explanation of the purposes of the party of which Mr. Wilson is leader is that the first duty of a Democrat is to get a Federal job and his second duty is to keep it.

The American people are weary—oh, so weary—of Wilson. They want a man in the White House, not a meddlesome, muddlesome prater. They want Hughes.

And they will have him—sure.

Never Lacks Admirers.



THE STATE FIGHT.

Gov. Johnson has been playing the political market almost continuously for the last two years, and he seems invariably to get in wrong. He was on the wrong side of the party preservation question and lost heavily in votes, which are the cash of a politician. He made another bad guess when he tried to corner the May Republican primary for the United-Republican ticket and lost heavily again. He went to the Chicago Progressive convention as an alternate, after declining to stand as a regular delegate lest it might injure his chances to win a Republican Vice-Presidential nomination, and picked another loser. His attempt to colonize for the Republican primary by getting all the Progressives registered as Republicans does not seem to have been more successful than his other efforts. While his personal following of 6500 office-holders have all changed their registration, this movement has not extended to any marked extent to the rank and file of those outside the Republican party. Too many voters remember that they took an oath when they registered and their consciences are not as accommodating as those of the Governor and Chester Rowell when it comes to foreswearing or violating an oath.

He who attends one of the Governor's hyphenated, personally-conducted political meetings, or reads the extracts of his addresses in the press, discovers that the Governor is floundering hopelessly about in the attempt to make oil and water mix. He took the lead in forming the Progressive party in California because, he said, "the Republican party has become so corrupt that it can never win back the confidence of the great mass of honest voters." Only three years ago the Governor made this pronunciamento. Then he led his children out of the benighted land of Republicanism across the desert and on to Armageddon. In California the manna fell from heaven in the form of 6000 State jobs, but elsewhere the heavens were brass.

When the going in the wilderness proved rough the great mass of his followers became homesick for Republican prosperity and turned back. The Governor's position is not a happy one. He led his chosen people out of bondage, but now he is following them back, and he is not exactly in position to dictate terms to the Republican Pharaoh as he finds himself the leader of an insurrection that failed. Such are generally elevated to high places on their return, but at the end of a hempen rope. He hoped to send his name down in history as a Cromwell; he will be classed instead with Guy Fawkes.

According to his own choice declaration, "The best part of the Republican party embarked in the Progressive movement, only the fraud and corruption remained Republican." Yet he is now placed in the humiliating position of begging of this "fraud and corruption" its indorsement of his candidacy for the United States Senate.

So the Governor has attempted to discriminate still further. He now says the Republican party is pure, with the exception of those 1200 regularly-elected State and county committeemen who indorsed a genuine Republican for the United States Senate and tore the mask of hypocrisy from the Governor's guilty brow. Yes, there are four others—Gen. H. G. Otis, M. H. de Young, John D. Spreckels and Joseph R. Knowland. The supreme crime of these four is that they are the publishers of four Republican newspapers that have dared to demand that Republican primaries shall be held in the interest of Republicans only.

Lieut.-Gov. Stephens's position is equally unhappy. He figured that in accepting the Johnson appointment as Lieutenant-Governor he was escaping from the rigors of a hard and doubtful campaign into the warmth of a sinecure that would make him Governor by the first of the year. Now he has discovered that he would not be Governor, not even in name, should Gov. Johnson cease for any reason to be the chief executive. The duties and the expense of the executive office would devolve on him, but none of its emoluments. The prospect for the Governor's election to the United States Senate means a prospect for insolvency for the new Lieutenant-Governor. The other alternative is that he has given up a $9000 a year job to accept one at $4000.

How truly spoke the ancient philospher: "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

The restaurant workers of San Francisco are out on a strike. If the movement should reach Los Angeles and take in some of the alleged "musicians," there would be no public demand for calling off the strike.

One of the strong points in the argument for the greater navy is the fact that Miss Josephine Daniels won't have it to play with.

UNITIES IN EDUCATION.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

BY CHARLES F. THWING, LL.D., President of Western Reserve University.

THE times are emphasizing the principle of individualism in education. From this principle arises the inference, and from the inference the application, that education should be made different for different individuals. It should respect the differences in the intellectual origin, ability and disposition of each child. It should be observant of the probable future of the child. Early in his life should the process of differentiation begin. The probable brevity of life, the certain brevity of life's occupation, the desirability of achievement, render early specialization necessary. Therefore vocational courses, industrial training, manual education are introduced into the schools and are urged upon the uninstructed homes.

There is one type of child for whom vocational education may be made prescriptive. It is the boy who must stop his education as he enters his teens. He is in real and dire peril of having no trained facility. He finds his way into the doorway which is most open and this doorway usually leads into a blind alley which has no doorway at all at the other end. With a power trained in the schools he might be able to enter some calling, both profitable and progressive.

But in the whirl of the present movement for diversity and differentiation it is well to reflect upon the essential elements and common unities of education.

One great unity lies in the dominance of the moral element. Every child is to incarnate the cardinal virtues and the cardinal graces. Honesty, justice, bravery, temperance, foresight are fundamental. Courtesy, graciousness, consideration, faith and faithfulness, truth and truthfulness, grace and graciousness are primary. Whatever may be the content of learning and whatever the trade or profession which is chosen, these moral elements are necessary in every condition.

The intellectual element is also constant in all the increasing diversity. The intellectual element is less learning than the results of learning, less knowledge than the results of knowledge, and less organization than the results of coworking. It stands for reflection, for thinking as an act and for thoughtfulness as a mood, for the weighing of evidence, for the assessment of truths at a fair valuation, for a putting together of the like and for the separation of the complex and the unlike. Reasoning stands out as a central unit in all the constant diversity.

A third unity is found in the willingness to work. Education should not be interpreted as play, nor the school-time as a holiday. Students should not be idlers. Each should earn his bread and certainly his cake. The sooner he recognizes that he is one of life's toiling millions and not an idler among the scores, the more precious and the more effective will the whole educational process prove to be.

A fourth unity to be emphasized relates to the attitude which the student bears to life. That attitude may be that of the rebel. He is in a revolution against society and government. Society is wrong, the community is unworthy. He is set to right the wrong, to make the community worthy. In the unwillingness of the people to assent to his view he becomes an outlaw. A second attitude may be that of the observer, either interested or unrelated. The student stands like a watcher on the seashore, looking at a ship in distress. Not for him is it to get out the lifeboat or to fling a lifeline. "Those men who are losing their lives took their risks," he reasons, "and they lose. I am happy, content, comfortable!" A third attitude which the student may assume is that of the helper. He is to be a helper in life's struggle, to strengthen human hopes, to deepen human lives, to eliminate the unworthy, to lessen passion and to promote noblest ongoings. A unity which the schools should promote is the unity of men working together for life's betterment, for the realizing of life's hopes, for the lessening of life's agonies, for the enlargement of life's horizon, for giving to life cubical relationships.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

SLAUGHTER.

"We killed a thousand Germans," remarks the dauntless Russ; "this sort of thing determines the victory for us. We captured many rifles, a mortar and a bomb and other warlike trifles, which shows we're going some." "As frolicsome as kittens we marched into the fray and slew ten thousand Britons," the fighting Germans say. Each day we read the story of death and all its works, of Frenchmen dead and gory, of desiccated Turks. The Prussian and the Roman go forth to fight each morn; perhaps they shear the foeman, and maybe they are shorn; the sum of all their striving is useless, empty, vain: The warriors surviving may brag of those they've slain. Far better would be boasting of fields of oats and rye, of corn ears fit for roasting and pumpkins ripe for pie; of orchards nobly bearing and gardens filled with greens, and hardy vines a-wearing a wealth of Lima beans, of large green watermelons grown in the fertile mud—but kings and kindred felons are not yet tired of blood.

WALT MASON.

Gags and Paradoxes.

"I was too," the other defended himself, heatedly. "How about yesterday when you wanted to carry an umbrella. I said it wouldn't rain and it didn't."

"Well," the other retorted, unwilling to relinquish his stand, "you made a mistake that time and got it right."

Con Cuchillo.

CHILE CON CARNAGE.

BEING THE PARTICULAR PEPPER IN SOME PERSONAL OPINIONS

Of Don yo de Chiltepin.

This earth's a Babel of tongues, nations, colors, creeds and Previous Condition—powders. A hundred philosophers, a thousand arm-chair pedants, and a million Katydids shrilling in the green grass just outside the fences of Thought are trying to resolve it to a common tongue. The nearest they get is Dog-Latin or "Sus-Pup" or Esperanto. They forget that mankind is all the same thing; and that all the picturesque variants that startle our childish eyes and coagulate in our unweaned mental tummies are mere masks, and go no deeper into Human Nature than the flour on a woman's nose or the renewable rubicundity of her cheek.

People differ Inside, not by nationality, creed or party, but just each by himself—and they don't differ so much, even then. A 10 per cent. change either way would put banker and burglar, savant and savage, saint and sinner, maid and moll—all at touch of elbows. Ten per cent. sounds little (till the bank charges it,) but it is that Ruling Minority which sings, differentiates and fusses all the other 90 per cent. of the world. Why, for that matter, we are each of us corporeally 50 per cent. water. After cremation a 200-pound spouse can cuddle in the handbag of his mourning relict. All the different noses, cheeks, skins, eyes, colors from Hottentot to a Gibson Girl are not 1 per cent. apart in our total 100. All the languages, idioms, classics, slangs of the world are as little aparted. All the differences of taste, manners, morals, customs, costumes—to the student of man they are merely as the superficial features by which we know one friend from another. They are species, not genera. There is only one genus Man.

But for our personal use we always unconsciously divide Mankind by the only satisfactory division by which you can solve the whole world—the Number Three. From the Holy Trinity down it is the Inevitable Digit. Seven is a Superstitious symbol of the Soothsayers; but Three is our fundament. "There's luck in odd numbers"—and Three is the first odd number. It's just a sore thumb stuck up to indicate that significant digits are to follow.

Who's the World? Our friends, our enemies and the Outsiders. What's the Family? He and She and Love. What's a Child? Father and Mother and It.

You can split a Dollar in halves—but there's the interest—or an apple in twain—but there's the core! Even in material things. And nobody ever did nor ever will divide a thought, a hope or a deed by Two!

But Three works anywhere. This week I have to do a special sum in Division—and there's the answer.

There are only Three Kinds of People in the world:

Those who understand California.

Those who would if they had the chance.

Those who couldn't even though they lived here till the Day after Judgment.

At San Fernando Mission, the other day, I stumbled upon a wonderful sight. Five thousand candles were flickering under those venerable arches in memory of a day when no American west of Boston knew there was such a land as California. And 6000 Americans of Now—of well-nigh every nationality, creed and complexion under the sun—celebrating this memorial day with not only reverent attention, but with holy Dollars to keep this romantic memory alive, and this monument which is the foundation of our history today. And I never saw so many Americans so hushed and self-forgetful.

And I know that hundred-millioned other humans would have felt the same way if they could have been there. And the burning of the candles as a way to raise funds to restore the old church was a poet's thought—and proved mighty in "Business." We "Material" Americans probably merit all the scoldings we get; but we're as full of Sentiment as a 13-year-old girl. California is a Sentiment! And those candles kindled it anew. That hundred dollars' worth of wavering tapers brought over 3000 in sober coin to keep the huge adobe church of San Fernando, founded in 1797, from sprawling in utter ruin with this winter's rains.

And a rich, educated couple—not "Tules," but residents of California—looked at those guttering candles of inspiration and patriotism and said in my hearing:

"What a waste of wax!"

In 10,000 years they wouldn't "Savvy" California!

"I would rather be Roger Casement on the end of his rope than the King of England on his throne!" wrote someone to The Times the other day. It struck me. I always did like the Irish; but it struck me as a historian, too. Impulsiveness is sometimes truer to the long tune of humanity than calculation is. Even this day more can spell the martyr's name than know the baptismal titles of His Majesty. This is as true in Great Britain as in the United States. A century from now it will be equally true.

Do you perhaps recall what King of England it was who hanged Robert Emmet? It chanced to be the same monarch who favored the American Colonies with the Stamp Act. But you do recall Emmet, as noble, as lovable, as knightly a character as history holds. And no manlier words ever came into our literature than he said before his judicial murderers.

But I must catch my breath before I can catch up with my opinion of chuckleheads that hang the people they are afraid of and make them immortal martyrs, instead of laughing them out of court and into oblivion.

BLASTING
Made my trees
grow twice as fast

"The trees that I planted in blasted ground show a growth of 75 to 100 per cent. over the trees that were planted in ground not blasted," says Mr. Smidt. "They also appear healthier and more satisfactory in every way. I have just bought 1,100 more prune trees and would not think of planting them without preparing the ground with

GIANT FARM POWDERS
STUMPING — AGRICULTURAL

Hundreds of fruit growers have found, like Mr. Smidt, that trees set in blasted beds grow faster and larger and bear earlier than trees set the old way. These men have found also that the Giant Farm Powders—Eureka Stumping or Giant Stumping—are the proper explosives to use in tree planting. They pulverize the soil for several feet in every direction, instead of caking and packing or throwing it high in the air.

Be sure your dealer supplies you with the genuine Giant Powders and blasting supplies, made especially for Pacific Coast conditions. If you do not know where to get them, we will see that you are supplied.

Six Times as Many Babies Die in August as in December

This the United States Government has discovered. It is summer complaint that kills more babies in summer—and summer complaint almost always comes from raw cow's milk.

To keep your baby serene and happy through the long hot days and nights—nurse him if you can. If you can't, give him the nearest thing in the world to mother's milk—

Nestlé's Food
(A Complete Food—Not a Milk Modifier)

Don't force your baby to struggle through his hardest time on raw cow's milk, which alone does not give him the right substances to build brain and bone. Don't try to force his little stomach to struggle with the indigestible curd of cow's milk. Don't expose your baby to diphtheria, scarlet fever, and summer complaint. Cow's milk brings all these to babies.

Your baby will grow big—have a good digestion—and be free of sickness if you give him Nestle's—it contains all your baby's needs—it is digestible for the most delicate little stomach and is free from all germs.

Cow's milk is the basis of Nestle's—but cow's milk, purified, from clean dairies—with the tough curd modified, with the baby's needs added. It comes to you in a powder—packed in an air-tight can. You add only fresh water and boil. It doesn't sour. It is safe.

Send the coupon for a sample can (enough for 12 feedings) and see how Nestle's makes your baby happy.

BLACK EYE FOR SORE SAM LAW.

Massachusetts Court Holds it Unconstitutional.

Basis on Which Labor Boss Hoped to Govern.

Labor is Property, Repeat the Supreme Judges.

The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, by the unanimous decision of its members, has declared the anti-injunction law of that State unconstitutional. The decision is one of particular importance and it is of special interest in California at this time, because of the constantly-menacing action of labor unions and the determination of business men of this State that industrial freedom must and shall be maintained.

The Massachusetts law, which has been declared unconstitutional, has been adopted as a model by the American Federation of Labor, and that body has demanded its adoption in every State, while union labor has been instructed to secure a pledge for its support from every candidate for election to a legislative office.

It is known as the model anti-injunction and anti-conspiracy law, which sore Sammy Gompers has been trying to foist upon every legislature and compel its adoption. The decision as to its unconstitutionality is made by a court of the highest standing and the soundness of the opinion is sure to attract the widest attention.

The decision declares that the statute violated the due process clauses of both the State and Federal constitutions and the equality clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, and that it was invalid because it was an attempt by the Legislature to strip the court of its inherent judicial power.

In an analysis of the decision of the Massachusetts court, Hon. Daniel Davenport, general counsel of the American Anti-boycott Association, says:

"The importance of this decision cannot be overstated, for it sets forth clearly the insurmountable obstacle which the Federal and State constitutions present to the carrying out of Mr. Gompers's programme to strip the courts of the power to issue injunctions in labor cases. He has been at this work for more than twenty years before Congress and the various State legislatures, and it was for the purpose of accomplishing it that he put his vast organization into politics.

"During that time he has presented to Congress and the various State legislatures innumerable bills with this object in view, and has urged them with a persistence worthy of a better cause."

Mr. Davenport then quotes copiously from explanations made by Gompers in the American Federationist, fully setting forth his purposes to secure legislation declaring that labor is not property. Commenting thereon, Mr. Davenport says:

"In opposing this programme, I have always contended that labor is property and that the right to labor, to make contracts for labor, to sell and buy labor, and to carry on business are property and property rights in the constitutional sense, protected by the constitutional guarantees from legislative invasion the same as any other species of property, and that any attempt by legislation to withdraw them from that protection by declaring them not to be property would be a nullity and futile, and further that all attempts to strip courts of equity of their power to protect property by the injunctive process would be void as an invasion of the judicial function exclusively vested in them by the constitution."

The case on which the decision of the Massachusetts court bases its decision was that of John Bogni, et al., vs. Giovani Perotti, et al., which the court declares was a contest between two labor unions seeking similar employment as laborers in the building trades.

The opinion sets forth the situation in the case, wherein the plaintiffs alleged that the defendants conspired to deprive them of employment and threatened that if they did not desert their own organization and join the organization of the defendants the latter would cause them to be discharged from their employment; that the defendants used unlawful pressure, intimidated employers by threats of strikes and otherwise, and that this conduct was plainly calculated to harm the rights of the plaintiffs.

But the defendants justified their conduct under the provisions of the Gompers law, which declared that the right to labor and to make and modify contracts to work shall no longer be a property right.

The decision of the Massachusetts court says: "That the right to work is property cannot be regarded longer as an open question," and it then quotes various decisions on that point to the effect that labor is property and as such merits protection, and the right to make it available is next in importance to the rights of life and liberty, and one cannot be deprived of it by the simple mandate of the Legislature, as it is protected by the fourteenth amendment and by numerous guarantees of the Constitution.

The decision further says: "If a laborer must stand helpless in a court while others there receive protection respecting the same general subject which is denied to him it cannot be said with a due regard to the meaning of the constitutional guarantees that he is afforded the equal protection of the laws within the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States and similar provisions of our own Constitution. . . . To the extent that the laborer is not given the same security to his property by the law that is granted to the land owner or capitalist, to that extent discrimination is exercised against him. . . . The courts must be open to all upon the same terms. . . . It is one thing to affect the scope of equity by extending or restricting the branches of that jurisprudence which courts may administer; it is quite a different matter to enact that same citizens may resort to it while others may not.

"Without discussing other aspects of this proposition it is enough to say that the power of courts to afford injunctive relief cannot be impaired by the Legislature in such a way as to prevent its use in favor of one property owner when it is preserved for the benefit of other property owners. It is an elementary principle of equity that an injunction never is issued except to prevent irreparable injury. If the statute means anything more than this there would be other difficulties about its construction which need not now be elaborated. . . . The plaintiffs by their bill set forth a plain wrong done to themselves by the defendants. The invasion of their constitutional right is direct and substantial. They have indubitable standing to raise the constitutionality of a statute which shelters such conduct. Recognizing every presumption in favor of the validity of statutes enacted by the Legislature, we are all of the opinion that the instant statute cannot be sustained."

NEW DYE COMPANY.

Articles of incorporation were yesterday filed by the Submarine Shine Remover and Dye Works, Incorporated. The corporation is capitalized at $25,000. The amount of stock subscribed for is given as $2500, of which amount $1500 is paid in. The incorporators are H. M. Benson, Louis Benson, A. Benson, J. Berger and Dave Kaplan. These, with Attorney Max Rapaport, will be the officers. The corporation's principal place of business will be No. 204 South Broadway. As soon as a suitable location can be found special machinery which is now being manufactured to the corporation's order under the patents which it controls will be installed.

STEALS TO GIVE WIFE PRESENT.

San Diego Churchman, in Jail, Accused of Looting Stores.

John Ford Harrison, who says he is a churchman of San Diego, was arrested yesterday afternoon by department store detectives of the Nick Harris agency and lodged in the City Jail, charged with grand larceny. A quantity of silverware, said by the detectives to be worth $1000, was brought in as evidence, it being charged that Mr. Harrison has systematically looted Broadway establishments as a shoplifter.

Mr. Harrison told a pathetic story of how he was endeavoring to get together a nice present for his wife, who is returning from the East shortly.

While Peace Smiles Here.

UNION-WARPED BAY CITY REAPING THE WHIRLWIND.

With the strike at Los Angeles Harbor won in the interest of industrial liberty, and with wonderful improvement in conditions here, both for employers and the employees, San Francisco is struggling desperately against the grip of the union-labor boss. The woes of the Bay City are heightened by contrast with happy developments at this port. The penalty of years of submission to union rule, competent observers declare, is being reaped in the north.

The present struggle at San Francisco is regarded as momentous. It is declared a revolt against the worst tyranny an American city has endured since the Boston Tea Party.

The business men are winning by steady pressure, and because they have on their side an army of labor union members who have been the victims of the bosses' extortion, or have lain idle because they would not bribe the business agents of the unions to give them work.

But there is the depressing fact that, even if the restaurant strike results in victory for the employers, the labor-union crowd will still dominate the water front, unless a new and determined fight is made there. Longshoremen and dockworkers who went back on the job there after the recent strike did so as union men, under union sanction. The open shop has yet to win its way there.

For years San Francisco unions have boasted it is the strongest labor-union city in the world.

Anyone who has walked from the ferry along Market street to Kearney or beyond knows that it also has had the most beggars of any city in America. Since the strike began many of these mendicants have found jobs.

Thousands of members of labor unions who have paid dues for twenty years or more, and who have always obeyed the arbitrary rules of the union bosses, hope that the business men will win so that a man may be free to get a job for himself on the best terms he can. As it is now their unions not only refuse to supply them with work, but they threaten them with dire penalties if they work without the permission of the union.

No more pathetic sight is to be found in all San Francisco than outside the offices of these labor unions. Scores of shabby union men standing about waiting to tell the business agent the story of a starving family and to implore him for work. At last, when the dapper union official comes out, he gives scant heed to any of them, unless perchance some new arrival with money invites him to have a drink.

"You're a fool to try to talk to him without money," one workman advises another. "If you must have a job go down to the corner saloon and borrow enough to tip the business agent."

For years and years these good union labor men have been paying a tribute of this sort to some union official or another at San Francisco. The union bosses have automobiles and fine homes. The men who do the real work have nothing—oftentimes not enough to eat and wear.

Every Bay City employer who goes to the business agent knows he must pay him or he will be given a crew of drunkards and incompetents.

"If you want a good, young crew that can do twice the work of older men, it will cost you something to get it," says the business agent, and if the employer hesitates, he adds: "You better get men young enough to keep out of the way of machinery because this employers' liability law will make it far more expensive for you if one of them is injured."

Of course the employer wants the best men he can get, so he pays the bribe. As he leaves, some of the men who have no money to pay the business agent, but who want work, hasten in to see the secretary or the business agent.

"Do you think we draw our pay just to get you fellows jobs?" is the harsh answer that greets their application for work. "If you want us to get you a job, why, put up your money."

Until the last few years it was quite possible for a union workman to get a job independently of the business agent, but in the last two years especially the laborite bosses at San Francisco have given contractors and other employers to understand they would incur the displeasure of the union by hiring men except those sent from the union office, and now it is well nigh impossible for any man to get work there without the aid of the bosses.

Some of the men are actually hungry, and it is the height of irony to make them listen to an oration about the generosity of the union in paying for the funeral of some member, or to an oration on the possibility of a pension being granted all members over 60 years old. The pension may possibly be given them three years from now, but unless the business men win this fight a lot of good union men will have starved before that time.

"If we had only had a newspaper as fearless as the Los Angeles Times here in San Francisco our fight would have been started and won in the pre-exposition days," said a member of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce recently. "Why, even the policemen, the newspapers and everybody else in San Francisco have been intimidated by these labor grafters."

GET MUCH PUBLICITY.

Newspapers and Magazines all Over United States and in Canada are Telling Readers About Attractions of Los Angeles and California.

The report of the publicity bureau of the Chamber of Commerce for the month of July shows the greatest amount of publicity in papers of national circulation of any month in the history of the organization.

News items appeared in 6385 papers in forty-eight States and Canada. Feature stories to the number of 1867 appeared in fifty-two of the larger newspapers, covering every State and Canada, while eight stories, together with eighty-one photographs, appeared in forty-four magazines of national circulation.

This service has gradually grown through the development of a carefully planned system, which not only advertises Southern California in a most favorable way, but it also is a co-operative service that saves the publications of the country thousands of dollars a year. As a matter of fact, during the past four months if these same stories had been purchased by the various publishers and paid for at the customary rates, the cost to the newspapers and magazines would have exceeded $225,000.

FOR NEW LAND OFFICE.

Government Authorizes Four More Clerks for Imperial Valley.

Receiver Mitchell of the local Land Office has been authorized by Washington to employ four additional clerks to prepare the Imperial county land records, for the opening of the office at El Centro on September 1. With this force there will be seven men on the work and there will be no trouble about having the records in shape by the time they are needed in the Imperial Valley.

The requisition for the extra men will be made from the eligible list in the local civil service office. When the first appointments were made six names were given Receiver Mitchell, out of which two selections were made. Notices were sent out and not one of the half-dozen responded. Then another requisition of six names was furnished and out of this number three were secured.

against in the hiring of water-front workers, but they are told that their buttons will not do them any good at work, and they must go where they are sent.

Los Angeles Harbor could accommodate more shipping. Bickerings with the unions at San Francisco are holding up vessels with cargoes for the south. Having reorganized their forces into efficient crews under the open shop, employers at the local port are waiting with a degree of impatience at the procrastination of San Francisco water-front authorities and those at other northern ports, in their dealings with the unions.

Wharf companies and lumber-yard heads praise the manner in which the strike situation has been handled by the police. Chief Snively and Lieut. Spellman, they say, have shown good judgment and capability. Because of the disposition of sufficient numbers of men at strategic points, there has been less than the usual amount of lawlessness common to strikes.

NEW HOPE GIVEN TO MANY WOMEN.

RECORD OF TRAINING HOME FIRST TEN WEEKS.

Positions Found for Sixteen of Twenty-nine Released from Jail and Only Two Rearrested, According to Secretary's Report. Instruction and Advice Provided.

Since the opening of the Women's Training Home, No. 1632 Santee street, on June 3, last, a refuge for women just released from jail or for those in destitute circumstances, twenty-nine women have been taken care of, and positions found for sixteen of them. Three of them with their children, have been returned to their former homes in other cities, according to the report of Mrs. Frank Stoddard, secretary of the home. Only two women who have entered the home have been rearrested.

The Women's Training Home is the first institution of its kind in the city and occupies the house which formerly contained the Florence Crittenton Home. Early in June after the building had been secured, rent free, an appeal for furniture and household equipment was made and the public answered so generously that enough furniture was supplied to fill the twenty-three rooms of the institution.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors a resolution was passed thanking the public for its swift and extensive response to the appeal.

The home is conducted as a refuge for women who have been arrested and wish to escape from their former surroundings following their release from jail. A cottage on the back lot has been furnished and is now used to house children who would ordinarily become charges of the police department. Women for whom positions have been found, may continue to board at the home by paying a small sum.

The object of the home is to give instruction in practical subjects to women who become charges, and thus enable them to honestly earn a living. The Women's Training Home is not connected in any way with the Women's Home at No. 6616 Thorne street, Garvanza.

BENEFIT FOR ORPHANS.

Rebekah Lodge No. 267 will give a prize Leap Year ball and card party in Silver Swan Hall, No. 116½ East Third street, next Monday evening, for the benefit of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows' orphans' home. There will be prizes for best dancers and winners in the card games.

OUND MILLION DOLLARS ALL GONE TO THE DOGS.

MILLION DOLLARS gone to the dogs and yet that million not only remains intact, increases! Not a paradox; mere statement of the actual fact that echoes across her length breadth with the barks of canines valued at that prodigious sum, that each year the echo is increased by the progeny of the kennels.

Anoakia's of Airedales has furore the past never did quite recover from the thrill that great Airedale Ch. King Oorang gave to sportsmen. Around the world his name went without challenge. However, none but an experienced eye could denote a lesser value in the other massive-jawed canines that C. Shuttleworth, capable manager of Anoakia kennels, led out one by one from their quarters.

Few dogs would cause more exclamation than the Russian wolfhounds of Anoakia's kennels. There are about a dozen of these aristocrats. No dog has been more used as artists' subjects. Radium China, one of the choicest of the slender-boned beauties, won thirty-three American points at various shows. These dogs all average at about the $2000 mark in value.

One of the rarest canines of today is the English sheep dog. By many it is supposed to be the oldest breed of dog. Anoakia's specimen is something of a marvel, standing about three feet high, with a great, shaggy coat hiding even his eyes, and looking for all the world like a traveling fur rug.

In all, there are at the Anoakia kennels fifty dogs, estimated to be worth about $25,000. All the bitches are kept on the house grounds and the puppies and males are kept on the spacious grounds adjoining. Here every convenience is established on a scale that substantiates an expenditure of another $25,000. Each individual run and kennel is built around a great hall used in damp weather. At the front of the building are the office and trophy-room. The latter is done in red and black, the colors used in all the Anoakia show exhibits. The great number of sterling silver cups in the cabinets richly describes the quality of canine at Anoakia. There is a separate cooking-room back of the main building and on one of the hills back of the estate is a dog hospital.

CHAMPION TOY.

A kennel world-renowned for its toy dogs is that belonging to Mrs. Anna Bell—the Madero kennels at Bairdstown. There are forty dogs, none of which weigh more than nine pounds. "Billy Boy," considered the best Yorkshire terrier of all time, weighs but three and one-half pounds. In practically every show in which he has been entered both in England and this country, Billy Boy has been awarded best dog—any breed—in the show. He is 4 years old, and was brought to this country just before the outbreak of the great war.

No blue book of dog aristocracy would be complete without mention of Mrs. John S. Cravens's "Peek," Little Man, which though it does not weigh five pounds, is valued at $5000. Little Man revels in all the follies his station allows, and it is a habit of the Craven menage to put Little Man on the dinner table and let him wend his way in and out of the glasses as he goes from guest to guest.

Another member of dog nobility is Pat, the 12-year-old Irish terrier belonging to Mr. Coppel of Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena. Pat is half blind and toothless and therefore excusably cross, which makes him not the pleasantest of companions. But Mr. Coppel loves Pat even in his infirmities, so he rented a house at $75 per month, engaged a maid to attend to Pat's wants and a second maid to wait on the first maid, and every day Patrick goes for a ride in a high-powered car!

November 23, 24 and 25 of this year the Southern California Kennel Club will give its show at which many of the best kennels in the State will have exhibits. Mrs. Cockins, enthusiastic champion for all breeders of good dogs and herself the possessor of a fine lot of cocker spaniels, is largely responsible for the arrangements for this show.

TO RAISE IRISH FLAG.

Under the folds of the Stars and Stripes the new Irish Republican flag of green, white and gold, made historic during last Easter week, when it floated over the greater part of the city of Dublin, will be raised from the ramparts of Selig Zoo, on Admission Day, next Saturday, when the sons and daughters of Old Erin will gather under the auspices of the local branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom, a nonsectarian organization. There will be athletic sports and games during the afternoon, while the dancing of Irish gigs, reels and hornpipes will be featured. The executive direction of the picnic and reunion is in charge of M. W. O'Donnell, P. F. McCarthy, Peter Spellacy, Lawrence Braneck, James F. Kennally and P. C. Mulqueeney.

CAT CALLS: A JULY PASTORAL.

FIRST WEEK.

July 1.

It has been a bully night. All the neighborhood cats met in a convenient yard between two bungalows and talked things over. Old Grandfather Wellington White was late, Tiger and that sissy Persian got into a scrap, but we had a pretty good time. Think I ate a bit too much this p.m.—caught a large, juicy gopher, a few grasshoppers, found a pan of milk at the back door of the brown bungalow, then, as I ambled across the street, noticed the fishman had dropped some perfectly good scraps.

July 2.

Nothing much doing. There is a new cat moved into the neighborhood. Wonder if we will like it?

July 3.

Life is just one thing after another. In the first place, lunch was rather prolonged. Found a pile of raw meat scraps by the brown bungalow's back steps. They put out food for stray cats, I heard them say, so I stray over frequently. At home the family had put out a saucer of tuna for me—then, passing through a strange yard on my way to a Feline League meeting, I saw a package hanging from the back screen door, so I gum-shoed up the steps and by standing on my hind paws, yanked it down; it proved to be four pork chops. I dragged the bundle off to a quiet spot, worked and worried with teeth and claws, finally got one end open—masticated two chops and sort of mussed up the others. Guess they weren't hurt much.

Well, then as I was crossing the avenue I was nearly run down by one of those jitney busses. Confound the jits, anyway! It startled me so and I hate to lope out of the way of something just after a hearty meal. So by the time I reached the Feline League meeting I felt one of my dizzy spells coming on.

When we all met around the garbage can late tonight one of the Black Twins said he heard one of the humans in the bungalow say that she would have to see if the Humane Society would not come up and take away some of these stray cats that made the night hideous. It made us all feel sort of worried.

July 4.

A clear, pleasant night. The bunch went rat hunting, had a bully time, got back about 4 o'clock this morning and gathered around our favorite garbage can to divide the spoils. I suppose we did make some noise. Anyway, a human threw a French-heeled slipped from an upper window.

July 5.

A foggy night. Mrs. Maria Grayfur is going to call on the new cat. Will tell us tonight how she likes her.

July 6.

Another foggy night. Absolutely nothing doing.

July 7.

This afternoon being sunny, four of us were out on the back fence. I had eaten an extra hearty lunch and was just dozing when shrieks sounded from the next yard. There the daughter of one of our dearest friends, a long-legged, rangy kitten with a sweet, wistful expression, just budding into young cathood and named Delia Damb, had climbed the pepper tree and could not get down, so was sending out the S.O.S.

When we got there her frantic mother was dashing madly around the foot of the tree. The Black Twins tried to go up after her, but could not make it. Maria Grayfur was squalling at the top of her voice; Grandfather Wellington White gave a good deal of advice in a quavering voice that no one paid any attention to, while through hedges and over back fences trooped many cats.

The humans came out of all the houses and stood around. The girl who feeds us brought out a saucer of cream and put it at the foot of the tree, to entice Delia Damb, but she only yelled the louder. Finally a young man, who seemed quite bored, volunteered to climb up and get her. He did so, picked up Delia Damb, who did not give a bit of trouble, and started down, which was not so easy. He slipped twice, tore his nicely-pressed gray trousers, skinned his knee and at the second slip he squeezed Delia Damb too closely and she scratched him. Well, when he had put our little friend down, he looked cross and muttered savage things under his breath and glared at the girl, who grinned as though she was to blame, which was foolish, because he did not have to bring her down from any treetop. Seems to me Delia Damb was the one solely to blame.

We got so excited talking it over when we all got together about 2 o'clock this morning that we simply had to go on a gopher hunt to work off steam. I caught two large ones and ate them. Didn't get home until 7 o'clock. Spied one of my family starting out on a before-breakfast health walk, so dodged into the rose shrubbery, as I felt one of my dizzy spells coming on.

SECOND WEEK.

July 8.

Slept all day. In the cool of the evening wandered over to our meeting place. There, sitting alone under a heliotrope bush, sat that lovely yellow cat, Emogene, niece of Mrs. Maria Grayfur. She is really a mighty sweet proposition and they say she gets together the most delightful meals. Well I sat down and started in to make a hit, when around the corner of the garbage can stalked Aunt Maria Grayfur—she is always snooping around before I can get in two words to Emogene.

Maria looked wan, and sitting stiffly down on a large toadstool, began to wash her face. "I didn't get ten winks of sleep last night," she murmured wearily. "The mockers kept me awake."

Good! I am glad of it.

July 9.

A hot day. I pawed an antique lamb chop out of the Jones's refuse can. Didn't taste very good. We have found a way to get under one of the bungalows. We go in by the gas meter and our voices sound so hollow and weird as we yell to each other. It is great fun frolicking down there.

July 10.

A hot day. My sister says that Maria Grayfur likes the new cat, so we are all going over to call.

July 11.

Hot as blue blazes today. Titus Tortoiseshell appeared at our usual late soiree with his head tied up, and he looked mighty droopy. Said he slipped on a banana peel. Of course, that didn't get by—we all discussed it freely after he left, and of the two probable reasons the one the majority of us agreed upon was that he had mixed up with some strange cat and come off second.

July 12.

It was so warm that only about half of our crowd appeared at the usual trysting place around the garbage can, and the heat seemed to get on everybody's nerves. The Black Twins pulled off an awful fight, a cousin of Titus Tortoiseshell's seemed to be batty and went screeching up and down the yard, and even dear, good Grandfather Wellington White was irritable to every one. By that time hair brushes, slippers and old magazines began to fly from bedroom windows and sleeping porches, so we all sneaked home.

July 13.

Had a severe dizzy spell tonight and could not get out to the garbage can.

July 14.

Found half a rabbit fried a la Maryland on a newspaper at the back door of the brown bungalow. The family had been called to the beach, it seemed. I ate that. Caught an immense gopher and ate that. After finishing off lunch with a lot of tiny breakfast sausages my dear friend, our cook, gave me, I sat down by the bamboo hedge to wash my hands and face.

Just as I was finishing my toilet Maria Grayfur came around the corner, the maddest-looking cat I ever saw. Said she had just been to a meeting of the Bacon-Shakespeare-Which Club and they had had an election.

"What do you think, Tom? The candidate we wanted wasn't elected president. A dark horse—I mean cat—was put through. Sally Angora then arose and said it was ail unparliamentary. Lulu Tortoiseshell spit at her. Sally whirled around and scratched back. We all took sides then, and you just ought to have seen the fur fly. I think I shall resign."

I was thinking of Emogene, so didn't pay much attention.

THIRD WEEK.

July 15.

More talk about the Humane Society among the humans. One asked why was there not a law to license cats just the same as dogs, to prevent so many strays; also a law to punish the people who are vile enough to abandon cats. Good idea.

July 16.

A pleasant, moonlight night. I was late at our meeting. When I arrived all our set was there, and Delia Damb was sitting on the garbage can. I saw a big pan of milk, to which no one seemed to pay any attention, so I started to lap it. Before I finished two strange cats pulled off an awful fight.

July 17.

A dog broke up our gathering tonight.

July 18.

Had a hearty supper at two different places. We must have made more noise than usual tonight, for about 3:30 a.m. profane language and various missiles began to fly. A military brush from a balcony just grazed my whiskers, which startled me so that I had a slight dizzy spell.

July 19.

Had a pretty bad fight myself tonight. Lost some more hair. I really must get some hair restorer before Emogene sees me.

July 20.

July 21.

A most scandalous thing has just happened and the cats all blame me. It came about this way. I wandered through the fence to Titus Tortoiseshell's house, went up the back steps and the screen door was ajar, so I glided in. One day I got in there and found the refrigerator door open and I had a real good time. Well, all was confusion in their kitchen. It seems that their Kentucky uncle had just mixed a good stiff eggnog after a most famous family receipt, and just as some one was placing the glasses on a tray another member of the family dashed in from the dining-room, struggling between frowns and giggles: "For Pete's sake, wait a minute! We will have to postpone our little party an hour or so. The minister of the —— street church is coming up the walk."

"Well, what in the world is he coming here for?" rasped the Kentucky uncle. "I thought you people attended another church, occasionally."

"We do, but I think he must be coming to call on Cousin Susan, who is spending the season with us. I know she has been going to his church," thoughtfully remarked the hostess.

So they put the tray of glasses down on the sink shelf and all started for the front of the house excepting uncle, and I heard him creaking upstairs.

Now, I just love anything with cream in it, and thought I would just take a sip, so I jumped up on the shelf and lapped from the first glass. Um, gee! Before I withdrew my head from that tumbler most all of our set had sneaked in through that partly-opened screened door and were lapping up eggnog. Of course, some glasses got tipped over, but the silver tray kept the contents from being lost and, on the whole, we were pretty quiet, until one of the Black Twins knocked a glass over on the floor with a quick movement of his tail. Then it occurred to us it would be well to beat it.

I was the last one to go, and, funny thing, I couldn't find the way out. I started for the cellar door and then found myself on the back stairs. Finally, after a couple of wrong starts, I found the back door opened quite wide by the outgoing cats. However, it wasn't a bit too wide for me, and I staggered over in the general direction of the garbage can, and what a sight met my eyes! Tiger, with glassy eyes and bristling back, was spitting at dear old Grandfather Wellington White, who was trying to tell a silly story. One of the Black Twins was daring his brother to walk the top of the high board fence, that sissy Persian was trying to fight everybody, and Titus Tortoiseshell, on two legs, was attempting to step off the latest cat trot—at least that is what he said he was doing. But the most shocking part of the entire spectacle was to see Mrs. Maria Grayfur, that eminent cat, one of the directors of the Feline League, ex-president of the Bacon-Shakespeare-Which Club, swirling around and around in close circles with glassy, fixed gaze, while about every third round she uttered a husky whoop.

It was too much for me, and I have left the maudlin bunch and have tottered over to sit down under the clump of bamboo. Oh, my head! I would not care if the whole blamed Humane Society should come along right now. I think I am going to have one of my dizzy spells!

Loops.

NOTED FLYER COMING.

Seal Beach Management Engages Aviator, Inventor of Fireworks which, Day or Night, Traces the Trail of His Course Through the Air.

Those in charge of amusement affairs at Seal Beach believe they secured a prize attraction when they booked Joe Boquel, the aviator, who, on the 6th inst., in San Francisco, made the world's record of thirty consecutive loops in one flight.

Boquel's first flight will be made today at 5 o'clock and again at 9 p.m. He will continue flying throughout the next two weeks, closing on Sunday, the 27th inst.

Boquel is appearing under the personal direction of Art Smith and William Bastar. His only flights now scheduled for Southern California will be made at Seal Beach, for immediately upon finishing his engagement here he will leave for Speedway Park, New York.

Boquel's flights are not only remarkable for skill in looping, but he is said to have discovered a new variety of fireworks, adaptable to either night or day, which makes his bird work in the air intensely vivid, and which leaves a trail through the atmosphere, marking exactly where he has been, and which outlasts all other airmen's fireworks in its staying qualities.

Melodrama.

BATTLE IS WON BY SAND-LOT QUEEN.

CHARGES MAN ASSAILED HER WITH LARGE ROCK.

Declares She Outwitted and Disarmed Him; Keeps Him Prisoner Till Officers Arrive—Trouble with Alleged Worthless Checks Back of Spirited Affray.

Despite infirmities of age, Mrs. M. H. de Turk, picturesquely known as "Queen of the Sand Lots," because of her sand holdings in the Los Angeles River bed, proved yesterday that she is still a man's equal in strength and more than a match in wits.

Early yesterday morning, she declares, she was murderously attacked by Edward Shafer, a friend of her son, who demanded that she cash what she says was a worthless check. At her refusal, he is alleged to have attempted to beat her up with a large rock. According to the story she told Deputy District Attorney Heinecke, who issued the complaint against Shafer, the latter had passed several worthless checks on her.

"He was such a good friend of my son I made no complaint when he passed the first bad paper. A second check came back and when he came in and demanded that I give him money on a third, he was refused and then tried to strike me with a rock he had evidently brought in," she said.

"He was chasing me around the room when I yelled, 'Sic 'im, Tige! Grab 'im!' Shafer thought a dog was going to bite him, but there wasn't any dog. While he was looking for the beast I knocked the rock out of his hand, jumped out of the room and locked him in."

Mrs. de Turk called the Sheriff's office by telephone and while waiting for the officers was joined by W. C. Fry. Shafer, with an ax he found in the room, battered through the door and was pounced on by Mrs. de Turk and Mr. Fry as he came out. He was held until the arrival of Deputy Sheriffs Rankin and Sweezy, who took him to the County Jail, where he is alleged to have confessed to passing worthless checks not only here, but in Mojave and Calabasas.

Mrs. de Turk gained wide publicity when she stood off a group of rival contractors from her sand lots with a shotgun. They had refused to pay a slight advance in price and sought to cross the De Turk lots to reach other sand. To this the woman strenuously and successfully objected.

Several days later an unknown enemy fired a charge from a shotgun at her through a window. Some of the shot passed through her hair, but she was unharmed. Mrs. de Turk also had considerable trouble with her husband at one time, that fight also being over possession of the sand lots, which have netted the woman a snug little fortune.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless,) and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

(Toilet Talks)

A simple method for completely removing every trace of hair or fuzz is here given. This is painless and usually a single treatment will banish even stubborn growths. To remove hairs, make a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be certain you get delatone.

TERMS HIMSELF JEAN VALJEAN.

Prisoner Says He's Victim of Circumstances.

Once Convicted on a Charge Later Disproved.

Declares Prison Record the Cause of Arrest.

Held in the County Jail to await the arrival of officers from Albuquerque, Quinn Miller, a young insurance man of San Diego, yesterday declared himself a modern Jean Valjean, a victim of circumstances.

Arrested by private detectives on a warrant charging fradulently obtaining $5000 from the First National Bank of Albuquerque, Miller insists the only reason for his arrest lies in the fact that he was at one time sentenced to prison and served a short time, before it was discovered that he was practically innocent of the crime then charged against him.

At that time, 1912, he was taken in custody for forgery. He had assigned a claim for $4200 belonging to the Buckman Springs Lithia Water Company of San Diego, was found guilty and sentenced to San Quentin. Less than two years later, the files of the company produced a telegram from the president to Miller, authorizing him to assign the claim, as the defendant had stated in his trial, but had been unable to prove.

OUT ON PAROLE.

When the prison authorities were informed of this, the State Board of Pardons immediately paroled the young man and he returned to San Diego to start life anew. He was successful in real estate and insurance, and about eight months ago came to Los Angeles and operated here and in the suburbs.

The present charge against Miller is based largely on circumstantial evidence. A man of his description entered the Albuquerque bank on August 30, 1915, an hour before regular opening time, and presented a letter of credit calling for $5000. The letter was properly attested by a notary, apparently, and the assistant bank cashier paid out the money.

The notary seal contained the initials "S.D.C.," which the bank was informed represented the Southern Deposit Company of San Diego. Private detectives working on the case developed positively the facts that the man who had cashed the forged letter was in El Paso on August 29 and in Albuquerque on the following day. They went to San Diego, and there the finger of suspicion was pointed at Miller.

QUESTION OF IDENTITY.

Search of seal-making establishments found one in which the proprietor stated the man who had had the seal bearing the "S.D.C." made, resembled Miller in appearance. He remembered the incident, because he remonstrated about these letters, declaring that this was not the proper abreviation of "San Diego, California."

When Miller was taken in custody by the detectives he was immediately turned over to State Parole Officer R. E. Langworthy, who, under the statute covering paroled persons, has the right to hold him until the case is cleared up. Miller endeavored to prove an alibi yesterday. He secured the statement of two officers who declare they saw him in San Diego on the day the fraud was committed in New Mexico. He also showed a picture taken in a San Diego park about that time, and developed and delivered by a San Diego photographer on August 29.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF CURRENT POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

The receptions accorded Willis H. Booth, the only Republican candidate for United States Senator, throughout Southern California during the past week have been gratifying to himself and the rank and file of the Republican party, but not surprising. That he is riding on the crest of a mighty wave of resentment against Johnsonism cannot be disputed. The people, by their enthusiasm for Mr. Booth and the whole Republican ticket, are showing their supreme disgust for the tyrannical rule that has been a blot upon this great commonwealth for six years or more. As a usual thing it is a difficult task to get a crowd to receive a candidate, but the campaign of Mr. Booth is proving an exception to the rule. Everywhere he is greeted by immense gatherings, all of them being significant in that he has followed in the wake of Hire'm's southern tour, which was marked by thin crowds and no enthusiasm except that generated by the men and women of his vicious machine. They have to be enthusiastic or lose their jobs. It seems almost incredible that more than 3000 men and women should turn out to a political meeting in a city the size of San Bernardino. And the fact that so many did assemble to greet and hear Mr. Booth the other night shows the wonderful sentiment that has been aroused for him and against Johnson. The same happy condition prevailed at Riverside, Pomona and all of the score or more of towns and cities visited.

If Mr. Booth and those interested in his candidacy had no other argument against Hire'm, the fact that he cannot vote the Republican ticket at the coming primaries is sufficient to thoroughly discredit the man in the minds of all Republicans. No one but such a man as Johnson would have the gall to ask voters of another party to make him their candidate. However, a man who would dupe a gullible politician as Johnson did with poor W. D. Stephens when he influenced him to give up his seat in Congress to be the "next Governor" (which job he cannot get unless by some hook or crook he should be elected to it) is capable of most anything. Johnson has openly avowed that "I am not a Republican. I am for Hughes, but I am also for the Progressive party." Isn't it a crying shame that California has a primary law that permits him to rant up and down the State with his name on the Republican ballot? He is registered as a Progressive and when he goes to the polls on the 29th inst. he cannot vote for himself for the Republican nomination. He wants you to do it, though, and there are some foolish enough to believe that a substantial number of Republicans will obey his wishes. What an awakening there is ahead for Hire'm. He is destined to get the lickin' of his life.

Speaking of renegades of the Johnson type, but not quite so notorious, Stanley Benedict should not be forgotten. Stanley was made a part of the Stephens deal when it was decreed that he should try for Congress in the Tenth District. Of course he has nothing to lose in the event of defeat, which is about as certain as the surest thing you know because he has not resigned his position as State Senator. In this he aped Hire'm, who was smart enough to keep his seat in the Governor's chair and take a chance for the Senatorial toga. Like Johnson, Benedict is asking for the Republican nomination. He is a confessed Progressive-Democrat, but was unable to secure enough signatures to his nominating petitions to get on the ballots of the two parties. The Tenth District is overwhelmingly Republican and there are two real Republican candidates. It is not to be reckoned that Benedict can grab a majority of the Republican votes and there is every assurance that he will be eliminated at the primaries by either George W. Prince or Capt. Osborne.

It occurs to The Watchman that there is much ado about nothing in connection with the question of printing the primary ballots with the name of former Judge Bordwell eliminated. If they can be printed legally in that way certainly no harm can be done to the Republican nominee; but if there is any chance of legal entanglement that would jeopardize the validity of the election it is absurd to take that chance. While it is true that voters have cast their ballots for men who died between the date of their announcements and elections there is little possibility of them so far forgetting their duty in the Senatorial contest. Mr. Bordwell has made the statement throughout California that he is not a candidate and has asked the electors to give their solid support to Mr. Booth. There may be a few who will not know of the jurist's withdrawal, but they will be so few that the votes given him will have no effect on the candidacy of the Republican choice. As a matter of fact the type of voter who will go to the polls with no particular interest in the eletcion, simply determined to vote because he believes it a duty, is as liable to take a vote away from Johnson as he is to deprive Mr. Booth of his support, and all of this glorification on the part of the machine organs appears to have no foundation. Californians are making up their minds and they will march to the polls prepared to vote for or against Mr. Booth and the weather van points toward his election, despite the iniquitous primary law and the countless obstacles that the crooked machine is putting in his way.

The right of a civil service employee to speak his mind on political questions or candidates is upheld by the civil service rules, but it was necessary for the commission to take decisive action on the question to settle it to the satisfaction of at least one aspirant for office. The ruling was made in the case of Fred Frank, a deputy in the office of Registrar of Voters McAleer, who was charged by a candidate for the Assembly with pernicious activity. It developed at the hearing that Mr. Frank had refused to support the candidate and that was taken as a reason that the deputy was active in behalf of another candidate. Uncle George Alexander, chairman of the commission, who knows a thing or two about politics, threw the case out of court after hearing some fifteen witnesses. All had seen the defendant at political gatherings, but the chairman could see no reason for dismissing the deputy. As a matter of fact there is not one employee out of ten who is not personally interested in politics. They should be. It is the duty of every citizen to be and only condemnation is fit for the man who would deprive them of that American privilege.

A report emanating from Sacramento is to the effect that the Prohibitionists have been promised financial support aggregating more than $1,000,000 for their battle in this State. The report has not disheartened to the least degree the men and women who are determined to keep California prosperous. They believe that the people are not willing to annihilate one of the State's biggest industries and are satisfied to leave the matter to their sound judgment. The Prosperity League promises to be one of the most potential factors of the fall election and if 50 per cent. of its members go to the polls there can be no question as to the result. President Watt Moreland says 90 per cent. of the members will vote and he declares that even Southern California will roll up a big majority against prohibition.

Voters in the Second Supervisorial District are learning a few things about Dick Snorton, the incumbent. He has fooled them as long as he could and now they are prepared to have a change. Whether he will be succeeded by F. C. Langdon or Mark Jones is a question, but either would make a first-class Supervisor and one is sure to win.

Reception for Patton.

A large crowd of Democrats and other friends of George S. Patton, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, gathered under the old grapevine at San Gabriel last night and tendered the aspirant for office a fine reception. The principal speakers were E. J. Hamm of San Gabriel, George Dennis and Dr. George Winfield Scott of Los Angeles.

CAPTURED BY BRITISH.

The First Undersea Merchant Boat had Unfortunate Trial Trip.

[New York Sun:] Before the German merchant submarine now in Baltimore harbor had so much as started for this country her predecessor, the first submarine of the Deutschland type, was captured off the Irish coast by the British navy on her trial trip.

This first undersea craft of the Deutschland type is now in England, according to a report on file here. Aboard her when she was captured by British warships were several scientists expert mechanics and sailors, all of whom are now interned in England. The capture of the initial merchant submarine intended for trans-Atlantic service was effected because of engine trouble which developed off the Irish coast. For reasons of policy the fact has been kept secret by the British Admiralty, but the facts are on file with the United States officials in Washington, it is said.

CAMP LIFE ON BORDER SEASONING MILITIAMEN.

Service is Developing Volunteers into Soldiers Fit for Any Campaigning—First Shock of Roughing Passed, Boys in Uncle Sam's Uniform Learn to Appreciate the Meaning and the Value of Discipline.

BY HENRY L. MARSHALL,

With the Seventh California Regiment at Nogales.

IF YOU have saved up all the resounding platitude of patriotism until you feel that the soldiers on the border must get your message or perish come on down here and tell us what a noble bunch of boys we are, not forgetting first to get permission from the colonel or from some other authority in leather leggings.

And the boys will listen with perfect, respectable and wooden attention. And, after they have been dismissed, you are quite liable to hear a chorus of a hundred of so roaring the stentorian battle cry of the border, which is:

"War is hell, but ain't this a hell of a war!"

The American soldier likes his sentiment upside down. He isn't always saddest when he sings, but he is liable to be burning with a real to protect his home and country the while he puts all patriotic sentiment in pillory. The oratorical egotist will find him cold. You will travel far and in many climes and fail to find a man whose patriotic fires are more heavily banked, or who will respond quicker when the proper chord is struck.

SOLDIERS' OWN SONGS.

Not less than a dozen songs have been written and especially dedicated "to our brave boys on the border" in the past two months, and they have furnished a few minutes of disparaging comment and offhand parody, after which the men returned to the welding of "barber shops" for "The Sweetest Girl in Monterey," "The Old Gray Mare," "Dear Old Girl," "Memories," and, later in the evening, as tattoo approaches, such songs as the immortal "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and the soldier love songs that have persisted since the Civil War. The American soldier is as sentimental as if he did not wear the olive drab of Uncle Sam, but he wants it dished up in his own peculiar way.

And if you perchance had intimate acquaintance with some one of the members of the organized militia before the order to the border came you would be surprised to know that a change has come upon him and that he has doffed many characteristics with his civilian clothes.

There are men here who in civil life lost the talent of real laughter, and they are reckoned among us as squad leaders in deep-chested mirth. Humorists have been discovered whose conversation at home was as entertaining as a vacant church. The army has jogged sleeping faculties awake that for years had been covered with the atrophia of business. The army is good for the liver and a good liver will make a man laugh.

THE LESSON OF SERVICE.

Like his English cousin, it is a prerogative of the American soldier to grouch about things in general, and he exercises this right with a certain cheerfulness that removes the sting. It is only the outsider who misunderstands. It is a very crass mistake to believe that a soldier is peevish merely because he makes peevish remarks.

That is why a few callow journalists have told the public what was far from being true—that the organized militia is dissatisfied with the life and the treatment. One of these camps is a poor place for a youth with a pencil and a connection with a newspaper, for it is the task of a wise old hombre to glean truth from a number of thousand of joshing, trick-playing, fun-loving men. Many of the lurid penny-dreadful tales that have appeared concerning the organized militia on the border were born of a prearranged meeting of the interviewer and the camp humorist.

But the real irritation of the first few weeks of camp life are passing away because of the splendid medicine of discipline and drill, and grouches that developed at first have proven not to be chronic. It is a distinct physical and mental shock to change forthwith from a civilian to a fighting-man-in-the-making. The hard ground of a barley field of midsummer takes the place of the clean white bed, and the tin basin filled with brown water is the substitute for the enameled bath tub and a choice of faucets. The man who roared if the waiter was tardy with the finger bowls now takes his beans and rice pudding, prunes and boiled beef all on one tin plate. And he learns very shortly that the grub is good—that it is cooked well and under sanitary conditions, although served in a way that is a shock to those whose lines have long fallen in pleasant places.

This is the important first step in the making of the civilian into a soldier—to harden him to the rough life of field service, to stiffen his mental resistance against petty things that irritate, and to accustom him to the system of being as little trouble and as great a help to Uncle Sam as is possible.

That is where Bryan's overnight army shows its absurdity, and that is why it seems wonderful that men who know are as patient with the pacificists as they have continued to be up to the present time. Drill and discipline must go on for months before it is practical to move any body of troops into a strange country, where the unpreparedness of the body would expose it to a greater danger than from bullets.

BETWEEN ORDER AND CHAOS.

The low hills above the city of Nogales mark the line between a country in a fine state of civilization and a country in ruins. The town is surrounded by the Sibley tents that contain over 25,000 of Uncle Sam's soldiers, who are streaming endlessly along the narrow streets, pushing and jostling good naturedly and noting with mild curiosity the ragged Mexican guards who lounge along the street that is bisected by the international line.

Carranza's soldiers in the trenches above the town slip off their cartridge bandoleers and in ragged overalls and sockless feet, come into Nogales to earn a couple of dollars unloading freight cars. And it matters not to them if they are hired by the United States government or by a Nogales merchant. If they did not earn a few dollars of American money they would starve. Stretched along the Southern Pacific track from Nogales to Tucson, and from Tucson to Yuma, are Mexican section hands who smile widely and wave their arms as the troop trains pass. They are largely deserters from the various armies of Mexico, and they are well satisfied to stay on this side of the line. Mexicans in Nogales are friendly, but they walk in the street for the most part, and leave the sidewalks free for the American soldiers.

STIFFENING-UP PROCESS.

Long and intensive drilling in the humid heat of an Arizona midsummer is giving the men a test that is fitting them for a campaign anywhere. The soldier of the organized militia that was made from the old National Guard is far from being a soldier on a parity with the regular, but he is acquiring snap and precision, and what is more important, is learning to sink his individuality and obey commands. The regular soldier, trained expertly for years, responds to a command as perfectly as a room is flooded with light by the turning of the master switch. His brother, the militiaman, is slower, but not greatly so, and as the days pass there is less and less reason for the drawing of comparisons.

The other day there was a line two miles long composed solidly of armored trucks, drawn up for government inspection outside the city of Nogales. There is more rifle and side-arm ammunition ready for issuing at this point than the United States ordinarily owns the whole country over.

Every man in the army, cook, corporal and colonel alike, is undergoing the severe and steady test that means efficiency on the field of battle, and when that battle comes, if ever, there will be the revealment of the reason for drill and discipline. The organized militia will be ready. And there is strong reason to believe that the time will come when the pacifists will be extremely glad that this is a fact.

THE NOGALES MERCHANT.

This city of a scant 10,000 people, Americans and Mexicans counted, is undergoing a feverish business boom. The provision stores are crowded all day with men detailed from regimental commissaries, buying the small things not included in the regular grub issue. The soda fountains, drug stores, skating rinks and picture houses are jammed with brown-clothed humanity day and night, but especially at night. The freight and express offices are generally a day behind in checking the huge piles of packages that pour in from the thoughtful ones at home, and all day long the soldiers unload supplies from the long lines of freight cars.

The First National Bank of Nogales is experiencing a business revival. Bank clearings from this city have begun to soar, after three years of fluctuation caused by the national embroilment in mercurial Mexico. The Banco de Sonora, after months of barred and shuttered windows, has opened for business on the American side.

The influx of soldiery cannot, of course, boost business to the place it held in Nogales in normal times, for this city is the important point of entry for the magnificent State of Sonora, and is the feeder in and out for the whole Mexican country down to Mazatlan.

Carranza's brass band of ragamuffins gives a twice-a-week concert in the Plaza on the Mexican side, and plays the Mexican airs with an indefinable rhythm that baffles the American bandsman, and in the American park the regimental bands take turns supplying citizens and soldiers with programmes from "Slippery Sam Rag" to Tannhauser.

Rest assured, people of the homeland—the boys in the Seventh and in the organized militia are doing well. It doesn't look as if they will be home very soon, but when they do come home they will be a real and formidable unit in the scheme of protection which this country so sorely needs.

FOR ARMY MOUNTS.

National Horse Breeding Association Seeks Co-operation in Crossing of Arab-bred Horses with Native Mares as Preparedness Move.

Stating that the raising of horses is the slowest element of preparedness and that we need to "mobile" all our resources if our army is to be sufficiently equipped, a request for co-operation with the National Horse Breeding Association in the crossing of Arab-bred horses with native mares has been received by Gen. Harrison Gray Otis from H. K. Bush-Brown, secretary and treasurer of the Arabian Horse Club of America.

"Three years ago," says Mr. Bush-Brown's letter, "I organized the National Horse Breeding Association for the purpose of raising Arab-bred horses from native mares in sufficient quantity and at such cost as to make them available for use in the army. The horse has now become of such demand and our experiment has been so successful that we are greatly extending our operations in the western States.

"It is our purpose to have at least one breeding establishment in each State so as to test soil and climate to ascertain where the best type can be produced. The results coming to my notice from the State of California leads me to believe that the conditions in California are about perfect.

"I understand from Mr. Tully that you have one or more ranches where you are breeding Arab horses and I want to ask to what extent you can extend the production, using the best available common mares. Also if you would be willing to co-operate with the National Horse Breeding Association."

CANADIAN PICNIC.

Attractive Programme Arranged by Year-old Society.

The Canadian Society of Southern California will hold a basket picnic at Sycamore Grove next Saturday afternoon. The ladies will serve refreshments to all wearers of the maple-leaf badge, and field sports and a series of contests, for which prizes will be awarded, will be held. The music will be supplied by the Scottish Pipers' Band, and the sons and daughters of Canada will sing old songs, tell old tales and indulge in a day of general festivities.

The society is about one year old and is organized along lines similar to the various State societies, which have been formed by former residents of the different States for the purpose of keeping alive the old-home spirit.

Among the speakers who will address the gathering will be Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Tyrone Power.

PUBLIC MUST DEMAND END OF JUGGERNAUTS.

Head of Traffic Squad Delares Present Year Most Disastrous to Life and Limb Ever Known, Here or Anywhere Else—Asks Examination of Drivers and More Drastic Enforcement of Legal Penalties.

BY LIEUT. J. L. BUTLER,

In Charge of Traffic, Los Angeles Police Department.

THE statistics so far available brand the year 1916 as the most disastrous to life and limb ever known, viewed from the standpoint of traffic accidents. So far the year promises to surpass its predecessor by at least 25 per cent. in killed and injured.

This is not a local condition, but obtains in all cities and thickly-populated communities throughout the country—particularly those cities and communities where the population is dense and the number of motor vehicles per capita is high. The theory, which is a plausible one, is that the increase in density of population and motor vehicles will result in a corresponding increase in accidents incident to persons and vehicles using the highways. This theory is not true in all cases, as some cities take precautionary measures, and prevent certain classes of accidents which occur in other cities for lack of such precautions.

The public who use the highways have awakened to the fact that a great number of these accidents are absolutely unnecessary and avoidable, and are forming safety-first societies and clubs all over the United States. They are sending lecturers to the schools; they are taking motion pictures, showing the dangers of street traffic accidents, and how to avoid them; they are holding meetings, to which officials are invited, to discuss with the organizations, methods of accident prevention, and never fail to impress upon the officials their sincerity in their desire to be of service to the community in the suppression of this needless waste.

MOST DRIVERS SANE.

I believe that fully 90 per cent. of all motor vehicle drivers are conscientious citizens, who desire to obey the rules laid down by the authorities for their guidance, realizing that the intention of the law makers was to devise a plan which, if adhered to, would minimize the danger incident to travel on the highways, and who, obeying the law themselves, are justly incensed at the small percentage of drivers who by their reckless disregard of the law menace the lives and property of the many.

I know that the majority of our citizens who pay taxes to build and maintain our magnificent system of streets and boulevards, resent their usurpation by a few reckless, selfish individuals, to the terror and often exclusion of the many, and feel that the authorities should take steps to suppress this recklessness.

The authorities themselves feel that something should be done, but usually find themselves handicapped either by inadequate laws or the means of their enforcement.

There is one cause of accidents which could be eliminated at small expense as compared to the loss sustained through accidents arising therefrom. I refer to the inexperienced driver. There is a very large percentage of accidents due to the fact that drivers are not conversant with the traffic laws, or do not possess the requisite skill to properly handle their cars in time of emergency, to avoid an accident.

So long as there is no method which will compel new drivers to inform themselves as to these matters, just so long will the public suffer from accidents clearly due to this cause.

As a remedy for this defect in our system, regulating the operation of motor vehicles on the highways, I believe each applicant for a driver's license should be required to pass a written examination as to his knowledge of the laws governing the operation of vehicles, and demonstrate his ability to drive in all conditions of city traffic, before he is given a permit.

If this were done and each driver compelled to carry at all times while operating a vehicle, an identification card, containing his photo and general description, the identity of drivers could be much more easily established than under the present system.

This would automatically remove the ignorant, incapable driver from the streets, and the public would feel a sense of security from accidents due to a lack of knowledge and skill in the operation of motor vehicles.

It is not argued nor presumed that a system of examination would be a panacea for the epidemic of accidents now so prevalent throughout the country, but it would eliminate those due to ignorance.

"DID NOT KNOW."

Under the present conditions, though ignorance of the law excuses no one, the peace officers and courts are human, and the plea that the driver "did not know," very frequently tends to cause leniency on the part of the officers or courts, as the case may be.

Under the proposed system, a driver could not hide behind the "did not know" excuse, because he would have to know before he could obtain a permit to drive. This being the case, then all violations would be prima facia wilful violations, and the defendant could be dealt with accordingly.

These examinations should be held at regular intervals of not to exceeds two weeks, at the various county seats, or other towns and cities designated by the motor vehicle department, said department to supervise the examinations.

The examinations should be practical, based on the State law, and the questions should be free from technicalities and ambiguities, in order that persons of limited education might not be unnecessarily handicapped.

Students' permits could be issued by the motor vehicle department, same to be valid for a period of two or three weeks, during which time the student would be permitted to operate a vehicle while accompanied by a licensed driver at his side.

If the students failed to pass the examination, the permit could be renewed for a like period, and the student allowed to take the next examination.

As to puresent drivers, the law could provide that any person who held an operator's license issued three months prior to the taking effect of the act, would be considered as possessing the requisite knowledge and skill to pass such examination, and could therefore waive the examination, and issue, upon proper application, a license card, as prescribed for new drivers. This would eliminate the needless examination of thousands of drivers, and effect a great saving to the State in the matter of clerical help.

I believe that permits should be denied persons who are deaf, are minus a limb, or so defective in sight as to be unable to read signs or distinguish signals readily.

I believe the present system of fines is, generally speaking, when properly administered, effective in suppressing the offender who pays from his earnings the penalty for his transgressions, and deters others in similar walks of life. There are those, however, who violate the law with impunity, to whom the maximum fine would be a mere pittance. To this class of violators the penalty must mean some personal deprivation, such as the suspension or revocation of his permit to drive, or the revocation of the car license.

This authority should be vested in the magistrate having jurisdiction in the matter, and should be in lieu of or in addition to any other penalty, in the discretion of the court. From the order of suspension or revocation of a driver's permit, or car license, the defendant could appeal to the board of State examiners, who should have power to restore the same if the facts warranted such action; but in any case, the order of the court should remain in effect unless reversed by the board.

Of course, there is the possibility that judicial clemency might be obtained in these cases, the same as under the present system, under certain circumstances and in localities where courts are likely to be influenced by the possibility of future favors at the hands of influential politicians.

PUBLIC MUST INSIST.

This possibility is within the power of the people to remedy, for if they are in favor of and insist on law enforcement they will get it; but if they are indifferent and do not assist the officials and courts in the discharge of their duties they need not be surprised to find these officials lax and indifferent in the discharge of duties they have sworn to perform.

Along with this system of examinations should come one of inspection, in which inspectors, working under the direction of the motor vehicle department, would co-operate with local authorities in the enforcement of the State law.

Where local authorities fail or refuse to enforce the law the motor vehicle department should have authority to send magistrates from other jurisdictions to co-operate with its inspectors, independent of the local authorities.

In addition to this certain officials of the motor vehicle department should be vested with the powers of a magistrate and authority to co-operate with inspectors in any part of the State where proper results could not otherwise be obtained.

Some of the resultant benefits to be derived from this system would be the elimination of the incompetent drivers and the accidents resulting from their incompetency. The placing of the power of license suspension or revocation in the hands of the courts of first jurisdiction, thus getting immediate action, instead of the delay occasioned when the matter must be taken up through the State Department. This deferred action encourages disregard for the law and robs the penalty of its sting.

This system is not a theory. It is, in the main, now embodied in the codes of several Eastern States, and is producing beneficial results, notwithstanding the opposition from certain manufacturers, who probably see in such a law the loss of a few sales, and a few publishers who depend largely on the motor vehicle business for patronage, and who are under certain obligations to assist their patrons in protecting their business.

The skill of European drivers is commented upon the world over, not only by the layman who chances to casually observe his work, but by experts who make such problems their study, and who are competent to judge these matters.

The reason assigned for this skill and the consequent minimum of accidents is unanimously attributed to two underlying causes, the first being that every driver must demonstrate his ability to operate the vehicle he proposes to drive, in a safe manner, and under all conditions of city traffic; the second being the absolute knowledge that in case of violation arrest would follow, and that the arrest would be followed by punishment swift and sure. That is why the reckless driver does not exist in Europe, and it is a libel on American intelligence and integrity to say that the 90 per cent. law-abiding public who desire to use the highways without being in constant fear of bodily harm through ignorant or reckless drivers cannot formulate and enforce laws that will effectually, through education, eliminate the ignorant driver, and through impartial enforcement of the law against all classes of reckless drivers, regardless of position or standing, make the streets and boulevards of this country, which is the boasted leader of the world, in not only the manufacture and sale of automobiles, but in the highest automobile per capita, as safe as the highways of Europe.

TO SEE FAIRIES.

Castelar School Pupils Will Be Guests at Woodley Theater.

Nearly 300 children from the Castelar school are to be given a treat at the Woodley Theater on Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, when they are invited as the special guests of Manager Woodley to see Marguerite Clark in her latest Paramount triumph, "Little Lady Eileen." The Castelar school is situated in the poorest district in Los Angeles, and the little students come from homes where few amusements can be afforded. This will be the first pleasure of this kind these children have had this year and it is safe to say they will heartily enjoy seeing winsome Miss Clark, as the little Irish lassie.

The story is a fairy tale and the little heroine believes implicitly in fairies. A vision of what comes to those who believe in the fairy folk will doubtless create in the mind of many of the children a belief that something of the same good luck might come to them did they only believe and trust in the fairies. The children will be in charge of their teachers and under the management of the principal, R. Pollich.

Miss Hazel Perdue,

New district deputy of the Native Daughters of the Golden West and the youngest person ever reaching the highest appointive office in the order.

N.D.G.W. INSTALLATION.

Ceremonial Conducted by Newly Appointed District Deputy.

Miss Hazel Perdue, appointed recently district deputy by the grand president, Mamie P. Carmichael, installed the officers. Within two years since having joined the order Miss Perdue has risen to the highest appointive office obtainable in the order and La Esperanza Parlor is proud of having the youngest district deputy, as she has just reached the age of 21 years.

After the installation of officers a banquet was served in the lodge rooms at No. 134 West Seventeenth street, which were decorated with potted plants, geraniums and dahlias. The color scheme carried throughout was red and green.

Mrs. Emma Wertenberg, Miss Julie Wartenburg and Charlotte C. Wharton had charge of the entertainment and banquet.

Defense of Budget.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In view of much hostile criticism of the Budget Committee because of its failure to reduce the budget below last year's expense, permit me to make a statement of facts.

Last year this same committee reduced the budget of the preceding year by $137,000. This year, with a larger population and a high-water mark in interest charges for the same area, we reduced the budget over $50,000 below last year, or $187,000 less than two years ago.

It is only fair to let the taxpayers know that the increases in some departments were not caused by us, but by a direct vote of the people and by reason of certain contracts with which this committee had nothing to do, to wit:

Municipal building, annexed territory (contract)	$ 22,000
Election (charter)	100,000
Street and sewer inspectors (ordinance)	31,700
Fire department (two-platoon ordinance)	28,450
Fire and police pensions (charter and ordinance)	2,859
Library (charter and contract)	33,871
Temple Block (contract)	38,625
Police Court Defender (ordinance)	2,710
Total	$260.215
Increase because of annexed territory—
Account of engineer, police, fire, health, assessing, etc., approximately	100,000
Total increases, practically all beyond our control	$360.215

So we are entitled to at least $360,000 credit over last year. Nor does it end here. In the matter of $31,700 for street inspectors, which appears as an expense, almost this entire amount will be returned in fees. The same applies to a degree in some other items in the engineer's expense account.

The city is a large purchaser of supplies of all kinds, which have increased from 25 to 500 per cent. over last year's prices.

Last year we spent nothing for elections. This year we appropriated $100,000, and if the cafe-dance petition goes through it will take $30,000 more.

Last year we received $40,000 from the harbor surplus revenues—this year, nothing.

Among the items of expense which stand against us is a judgment of $40,000 on account of Arroyo Seco floods of 1914. A mere trifle of $275,000 must be spent for sewage disposal at Hyperion.

The people are demanding greater fire protection, more police, more street lights, libraries, parks, playgrounds, health and sanitation. Besides this we are called upon to pay large sums of money for street improvements in front of public property. They are demanding new bridges and repairs on old ones; in fact, more of everything except money with which to pay the bills.

Just a word regarding taxes: At last year's rate of $1.60, a $4000 piece of property assessed at $2000 paid in city taxes $32. This year, at the same assessed value at a $1.40 rate, it will be $28, or $4 less than last year.

The criticism aimed at the Budget Committee has been unfair and not in line with the facts.

We decline to hoodwink the people into the belief that by cutting down the fire, police and health departments (where the largest increases are) good results will come.

In conclusion, we refer you to an editorial article printed on February of this year, wherein it is shown in a list of over twenty-five largest cities in America the tax rate in Los Angeles for municipal purposes is the lowest on the list.

MANY RESERVATIONS.

The time while the camp is open, from June 19 to about October 1, is divided into seven periods. The fourth period was for girls and women, and 182 took advantage of it. Another big party of girls and women will start for the camp tomorrow.

The first period for family outings begins August 28, and over 100 persons are now registered, while about twenty have made reservations for the last two weeks of the season for family outings. For the first three periods this season the playgrounds camp entertained 103 persons in the family party period, which began June 19. On July 3 a party of 105 boys and the 17th another party of eighty boys took possession of the cabins.

These figures indicate that by the close of the season at least 1000 residents of Los Angeles will have enjoyed their outings at the municipal camp this season.

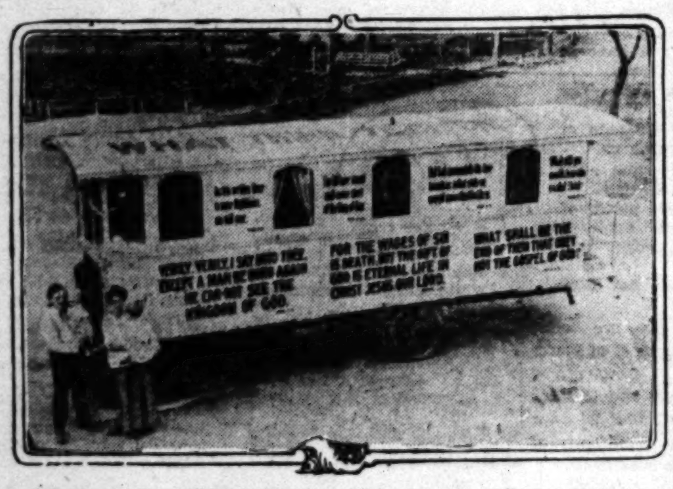
SPREADS GOSPEL FROM CHURCH ON AUTO TRUCK.

TRAVELING in what is said to be the only motor-drawn church in the world, the Rev. Nels Thomson, evangelist, arrived yesterday at Newport Beach to hold services there today.

Mr. Thompson is accompanied by his wife and two small children. They expect to tour the country in their portable church, spreading the gospel. New York City is their final destination on the present tour.

Mr. Thompson built his church on a big Moreland truck, a few weeks ago in San Bernardino. When the "church" is not used as a house of worship it is converted into living quarters for the Thompson family, being equipped with kitchen, library, living, dining and bedroom combined. Usually Mr. Thompson uses the rear platform of his church-car for his pulpit, but in the event the weather is inclement and the crowd not too large, the congregation is invited within. The main compartment will comfortably seat a score or more.

Mr. Thompson built his automobile church at a cost of $4000. He is apparently a simple and sincere man, and depends upon contributions where he delivers his sermons to defray his expenses.



VERILY, VERILY, I SAY UNTO THEE, EXCEPT A MAN BE BORN AGAIN HE CANNOT SEE THE KINGDOM OF GOD.
FOR THE WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH, BUT THE GIFT OF GOD IS ETERNAL LIFE IN CHRIST JESUS OUR LORD.
WHAT SHALL BE THE END OF THEM THAT OBEY NOT THE GOSPEL OF GOD?

Rev. Nels Thompson, his family and his church,

In which he plans to cross the continent, spreading the gospel as he goes.

COUNTY HOSPITAL SECURES BEQUEST.

DESPITE ERROR WOMAN MADE IN WRITING WILL.

Sum Left to "Los Angeles City Hospital" Goes to Other Local Institution, by New York Court Ruling Based on Evidence Reasoned Out Here.

Surrogate Cohalan of the Surrogate Court of New York last Thursday issued an order directing that the $10,000 bequest in the will of Mrs. Lizzie Hastings Holme, which was by mistake left to the Los Angeles City Hospital instead of the Los Angeles County Hospital, be paid forthwith to the latter institution.

This legacy comes to the County Hospital because Dr. C. H. Whitman, superintendent of the institution, read a brief newspaper clipping stating that the $10,000 had been left to the Los Angeles City Hospital.

Upon investigation it was learned that Mrs. Holme was formerly Mrs. Hastings, owner of a large ranch in the Sierra Madre district.

The fact that Mrs. Hastings was accustomed to pass the hospital on her way from the ranch to the city suggested the idea that she must have had the County Hospital in mind, as a study of her will revealed the fact that she had left bequests to practically every person and institution with which she was familiar in her daily life.

Blake B. Gregory, who is named as a legatee, is the son of the former overseer of her ranch, and was only a little boy when she was living there.

When the hospital committee of the Board of Supervisors were advised that the bequest was evidently intended for the county institution, there being no Los Angeles City Hospital, known as such, it was at once decided to send County Counsel Hill to New York to make the necessary representations to prove the actual intent of the deceased.

The matter has been satisfactorily adjusted and Mr. Hill yesterday stated that the county will shortly receive a check for the amount from Edwin C. Hall, executor of the estate.

Blake B. Gregory, No. 2025 La Franc avenue, South Pasadena, is also among the legatees. While Mr. Gregory would not state the exact amount of the bequest, he admitted it is around $20,000.

The New York Foundling Hospital, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Five Points House of Industry receive a bequest of $10,000 each. The entire estate is valued at $800,000.

STOPS HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Detective William White leaped from a street car early yesterday morning at Market and Los Angeles street to rescue R. Nizoguichi, a Japanese merchant, who was being held up and robbed by two bandits. During the melee that followed Detective White arrested Reto Castro, a Mexican, who was identified by Nizoguichi as one of his assailants. Castro was locked up the City Jail on a charge of highway robbery.

OIL STRUCK AT DOMINGUEZ HILL.

Lessees Encouraged to Believe that when They Have Bored Deeper They will Find Deposits of Commercial Value—Now Down Thirteen Hundred Feet.

During boring operations last week the Highland Development Company encountered oil in going through the top sands on the property they have leased from the Dominguez estate. Although the oil so far discovered is not of a commercial grade, the mere fact that oil in large quantities was found in the top sands is regarded as almost conclusive evidence that the real article will be found lower down.

For a long time it has been thought that the land lying midway between Los Angeles and San Pedro and comprising the old aviation field known as Dominguez Hill contained oil-bearing sands. Numerous individuals endeavored to secure from the many heirs of the Dominguez estate a favorable lease on the property for the purpose of finding out whether or not these suppositions had any foundation of fact.

The Highland Development Company, a close corporation, secured the lease and began sinking a prospect well at once. Their efforts have been watched with a deal of interest by people who saw in the success of the project the opening up of another new oil field in Southern California.

With their well down to a depth of a little over 1300 feet, the company encountered two oil sands a few days ago which look very encouraging for the entire success of the scheme. If the operators find what they expect when they sink their hole a little farther, it means another oil field for California and at the very gates of Los Angeles.

Among those interested in the company are: W. R. Wheat, C. W. DeFreest and Milford Steele of Los Angeles, M. K. Harr of Philadelphia and Dunlop Smith of New York.

Messrs. Wheat and De Freest secured a lease on 250 acres of land owned by the Los Angeles Investment Company early in the present year. This property is a part of the Baldwin Hills purchase and the leesees are just getting up their rig. Associated with Messrs. Wheat and De Freest in the Baldwin Hills lease are Dan Murphy and W. L. Valentine.

Told in A Simple Way

Without Apparatus, Inhalers, Salves, Lotions, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.

Heals Day and Night

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different. No lotions, sprays or sickly smelling salves or creams. No atomizer, or any apparatus of any kind. Nothing to smoke or inhale. No steaming or rubbing or injections. No electricity or vibration or massage. No powder; no plasters; no keeping in the house. Nothing of that kind at all. Something new and different, something delightful and healthful, something instantly successful. You do not have to wait, and linger and pay out a lot of money. You can stop it overnight—and I will gladly tell you how—FREE. I am not a doctor and this is not a so-called doctor's prescription—but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic.

I Am Free—You Can Be Free.

My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my mind. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all, and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly. My delight in life was dulled and my faculties impaired. I knew that in time it would bring me to an untimely grave, because every moment of the day and night it was slowly yet surely sapping my vitality.

But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it FREE. Write me promptly.

RISK JUST ONE CENT

Send no money. Just your name and address on a postal card. Say: "Dear Sam Katz: Please tell me how you cured your catarrh and how I can cure mine." That's all you need to say, I will understand, and I will write to you with complete information, FREE, at once. Do not delay. Send postal card or write me a letter today. Don't think of turning this page until you have asked for this wonderful treatment that can do for you what it has done for me.

—I have a two-fold reason in making these prices on dinnerware:

—First, I want the housewives of Los Angeles to appreciate the completeness of my china and dinnerware department.

—Second, I am in this race to win and I've taken the most staple, open stock dinnerware patterns—choice of five of the best American porcelain sets and have priced them this way—while the quantity stated, holds out.

$2.88 Set 26 Pieces, $1.95—The Verona—60 sets only.

$4.55 Set for $2.98—32 sets of heavy pink border patterns.

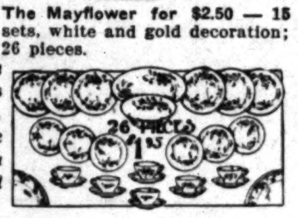
$4.70 Set for $2.98—Blue edge on Westover shape; 37 sets.

$4.61 Set for $2.98—26 pieces of a pretty green, pink colored combination, gold edge and handles.

$5.50 White and Gold Set $3.50—This in 26 pieces.

Note—The valuations are open stock prices for the number of pieces given.

Of course you may add to these at any time, but only one set of a kind will be sold to a customer at these prices. See the window.



The Mayflower for $2.50 — 15 sets, white and gold decoration; 26 pieces.

GIVES CONCLUSIONS ON UNION OIL CASE FACTS.

Court Does not go into Questions of Law and Deems it Improper to Consider Now the Motives and Acts of Stewart Family, Center of Holding Companies' Dissolution Suit.

LEAVING for further consideration the determination of the questions of law involved, Judge Myers yesterday gave some of the conclusions of fact he had reached in the big Union Oil injunction suit which has been on trial for fifty-two days. The court did think it proper at this time to consider the acts and motives of the Stewart family, one of the main issues in the case. This family spoke and acted for the Union and the two holding companies, the Union Provident and the United Petroleum.

The defense urged that the court must stop with the corporate fiction in the case of the holding companies, for the reason that their organization and their existence and conduct thereafter were wholly within the purposes contemplated by the law of California and within the rights guaranteed to them by that law. The court, therefore, the defense contended, must regard them as not merely the legal, but the beneficial owners of the shares of stock in the Union Oil Company held by them.

Putting himself in the place of those persons under the circumstances surrounding them in the early days of the Union Oil Company, the court reviewed the virtual consolidation of the Sespe, the Torrey Canyon and the Hardison-Stewart oil companies, the physical assets of which were transferred to the newly organized Union Oil Company. The consideration was shares of stock of the Union which each of the three companies held as its capital.

EARLY CONTROL.

Prior to 1898, the Hardison-Stewart Oil Company, through its direct holdings of Union shares, in connection with its holdings of a majority of the shares of the Sespe Oil Company, possessed at least the physical power of control of the election of the directors of the Union and the legal power also. As the Stewart family held more than 50 per cent. of the shares of the Hardison-Stewart Oil Company, the physical and legal power of control was at all times vested in members of the Stewart family.

For several years preceding 1898 there was more or less of a contest between Lyman Stewart, representing the members of the Stewart family and their friends, and Senator Thomas Bard, representing himself and members of his family and friends and followers, for the control of the policies of the Union Oil Company. The court held that was not a personal fight of the Union Oil side was led by a man of dominant personality. They differed as to corporate policy. Senator Bard held that the policy of the Union Oil Company should be one of retrenchment while Mr. Stewart contended it should be one of expansion. Senator Bard felt the Stewart policy of expansion would be dangerous to the interests of the Union and likely result in its financial ruin. Mr. Stewart honestly felt the Bard idea would result in dry rot.

"I think it fairly appears from the evidence," the court held, "that Mr. Stewart was right and Senator Bard was wrong."

LAW'S INTENT.

It was the court's impression that it is clearly the policy of the law that a private business corporation shall be guided and its policies determined by the stockholders who rightly possess the power of voting a majority of its shares, and that they shall be accorded that right of determining its policies, whether those policies are good or bad—that is, regarded as business policies, not morally.

In other words, Judge Myers explained, "I think it is the policy of the law that the courts must leave a corporation undisturbed to follow an unwise business policy, if a majority of those who have a legal right to vote its shares of stock so desire. Therefore, I think the policy of the law required that Senator Bard, if he should acquire the legal right to vote a majority of its shares, should have also the right to dictate the policies of the Union Oil Company, so long, of course, as he did so honestly and without oppression."

The contest in the latter part of 1898 reached a crisis. Senator Bard nearly wrested the control of the Union Oil Company from the Hardison and Stewart interests by a device which Mr. Stewart regarded as unfair, with some justice, as the court thought. By strategy and courage he succeeded in overcoming this and retained the physical control.

ANOTHER CRISIS.

A situation developed from which it appeared to the opponents of Mr. Stewart a dissolution of all three holding companies would be unavoidable. A so-called flaw was discovered in the title of the Torrey Canyon Oil Company. Senator Bard's threat to bring about the dissolution of the Union compelled Mr. Stewart and his associates to agree to a dissolution, the condition being that Senator Bard would agree to the dissolution of the Torrey Canyon.

"It seems perfectly obvious," held the court, "that Senator Bard's reason for desiring a dissolution of the three holding companies was to make it possible for him to secure, first, the distribution of the shares of stock of the Union to the individuals who were then shareholders in the three companies, and thus make it possible for him, by acquiring additional shares, to secure a majority of the shares of the Union, and thus dictate its policies."

It was obvious to the court that Mr. Stewart realized this, and it was decided to organize the United Petroleum Company.

"It is clear and undisputed, as I understand it, that the immediate purpose of organizing the United Petroleum was to secure the control of the Union Oil Company, the questions at issue being to whom was that control to be secured, and for what purpose or purposes," the court said.

IN STEWART HANDS.

Upon the dissolution of the three holding companies and the distribution of their shares, the situation would be such that members of the Stewart family and their friends would hold approximately 50 per cent. of the Union, the balance being held by his associate and friends. The obvious result of the formation of the United Petroleum would be to place the physical power and the legal power of controlling the Union Oil Company absolutely in the members of the Stewart family without the assistance or co-operation from their friends or their associate and his friends.

"Not only that," the court said, "but it made it possible for members of the Stewart family to thereafter dispose of a very substantial number of the shares which they thus acquired in the United Petroleum Company without in any manner jeopardizing their physical control.

"Looking through the corporate entity and considering only the capital invested by the different individuals in those securities which were evidence of a direct or indirect ownership in the Union Oil Company," said the court, "the result of the incorporation of the United Petroleum and the manner in which it was carried out and its shares exchanged, was to make it possible for the individuals who were members of the Stewart family, with an investment representing in value the equivalent of one-fourth of the entire capital of the Union Oil Company, to absolutely control and dictate the policies of that organization."

FAMILY COHESION.

Having his attention called by the attorneys for the Union Oil Company that there is nowhere in the evidence anything tending to show directly any written or oral agreement or understanding among the members of the Stewart family to work together, the court held that that was true. The court thought, however, that it does very clearly appear from the evidence that there was at all times a co-operation and unity of action among the members of the Stewart family.

"I think it fairly appears that each member of that family from his knowledge of the character and history of the other members of the family, could and did assume with entire confidence that in any manner substantially affecting the interests of the family as a group, all of those could be relied upon to act in concert, and that there further existed an understanding, not arrived at through any conversation, that such concert of action should and would be guided and directed by Lyman Stewart.

"It has been suggested that the power thus vested in Mr. Stewart rested wholly upon the existence of confidence in his unquestionable ability and his great integrity. I think that is very largely a basis for that situation, but not wholly. I think added to that is apparent the sense of family loyalty and the sense of an obligation resting upon the Stewarts to stick together, which influenced every member of that family."

MOTIVES UPRIGHT.

Lyman Stewart testified that the primary purpose for the organization of the United Petroleum Company was to secure facility of control. He said it was a policy of expansion contended for by the oil men in the company. Whether Mr. Stewart's associate got out of the company or stayed in, the court stated, the group of stockholders which controlled the Union could be formed, if it did not already exist, from the members of the Stewart family alone, and the court added: "I think it fairly appears also that the policies, the stability of which were to be secured, were the policies of Lyman Stewart, without any question whatever."

It also appeared to the court that Lyman Stewart "undoubtedly, honestly believed," and his associate also, "that the best interests of the corporation as a whole and of all its stockholders would be best served by retaining Mr. Stewart in control; his policies were the wise ones, the ones which would make for the future success of the company, and therefore it would be good, not only for the Stewarts," but also for his associates, "and all the other stockholders to keep him in that control."

The court said he was glad to bear witness to the fact that it fairly appears that Mr. Stewart made strenuous efforts when he was endeavoring to sell, and was willing to go to the extent of making a substantial personal sacrifice, for the purpose of securing to all of the stockholders of the Union Oil Company, in the event of the sale, the same added price. The court concluded it was the belief and expectation of Mr. Stewart and those who co-operated with him in the organization of the United Petroleum that if it went through as planned one of the results of it would be that, in the event of the sale, those who became stockholders of the United would be in a better position, a position of financial advantage, over those who were direct holders of shares of Union.

The court wanted to make it clear that the idea of segregating the stockholders was not in Mr. Stewart's mind. As he viewed the situation, the court said, after the organization of the United Petroleum the Stewart family alone could have sold their shares at an advanced price, by reason of the fact that those shares alone controlled the Union Oil Company.

FOR COMPANY'S GOOD.

As to the various financial transactions of the Union Oil Company, Judge Myers said he did not conclude from the evidence that any of those transactions was brought about or influenced by a conscious desire or intent on the part of any of the individuals in question to maintain the Stewart control at the expense of the Union Oil Company.

As to the United Provident Company, the court said it seems clear to him that it was organized as a mere device for the purpose of securing to the persons who then had the power of controlling the Union Oil Company the maintenance and continuance of that control, "after the company should have expanded by additional issuances of stock, without requiring those persons to buy such a proportion of those new issues of stock as would have been necessary to have maintained their substantial relation in regard to control." He believed that all those who participated in the organization of the Union Provident honestly and sincerely believed the adoption of that device was for the best interests of all the stockholders of the Union Oil Company.

HARM AND BENEFIT.

The court thought that the giving of the Watchorn-De Sabla option did result in serious harm to some of the Union's stockholders and indirectly harmed the Union by injuring its credit.

"On the other hand, I think it fairly appears that the existence of this control," the court stated, "lodged where it was, was of real benefit and assistance to the Union Oil Company at some occasions, at least, in its financing operations."

The court said he had arrived at tentative conclusions of law, but desired an opportunity of rereading the arguments of counsel on the law. The remaining question to be determined is the proper procedure next to be taken in the case. The court added that he had arrived at some conclusions, in one or two respects, "on the subject of motives and purposes," somewhat at variance with the direct testimony given by Lyman Stewart and W. L. Stewart, and possibly other witnesses.

Final judgment will be given October 2. At that time there will be filed with the court a certified copy of the dissolution of the Union Provident, if it is dissolved. Steps are now being taken to that end.

TO SHOW RANCHERS WAYS OF BUSINESS.

EXPERT WILL LECTURE HERE ON RURAD ECONOMICS.

Old Graduate of University of Southern California, Famous for His Educational Work, will Return Next Summer to Give Advice on How to Make Farm Pay.

Ranchers of Southern California are to be aided in equipping themselves with the most scientific methods of book-keeping and farm economics through the expert advice of the man who knows more about making the farm pay as a business proposition than anyone else in the United States. The University of Southern California has announced that next summer it will bring Dr. Thomas Nixon Carver of Harvard University across the continent to tell the ranchers of this part of the State how they may best handle the business questions in connection with their work.

Dr. Carver will give several series of lectures on the subject at the university during the six weeks' summer session, and will make a special study of problems peculiar to Southern California, the results of which will be announced and distributed broadcast. His lectures will be open to all.

Dr. Carver, who has degrees from several universities, and is president of the American Economic Association, was for several years advisor on agricultural economics to the United States Department of Agriculture, and traveled through the South helping the farmers there to get on a business footing. He is the author of many books, including "The Distribution of Wealth," "Sociology and Social Progress," "Principles of Rural Economics," "The Religion Worth Having" and "Essays in Social Justice."

There is an element of romance in the return of the famous economist to the University of Southern California. Many years ago he was a student at the university, working his way through and graduating with distinction in 1891.

At Paso Robles.

EARLY HARVEST OF ALMONDS IS BEGUN.

NORMAL OUTPUT IN SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY.

While Crop in Many Sections of the State is Reported Very Short, Industry Being Rapidly Developed and New Orchards are Bearing Well.

The almond harvest has just opened in the Paso Robles section about two weeks earlier than usual. The crop is estimated to be about normal, which speaks very well for that district, as only three other counties in the State report a normal crop. Butte county, which has a large acreage of almonds, reports only 15 per cent., and Colusa county 75 per cent. of normal.

The development of almond orchards in San Luis Obispo county is growing much faster than most people realize. The Paso Robles section now has about 3000 acres planted to almonds, exclusive of the large planting at Atascadero.

The three and four-year-old orchards are producing a fair crop already. It is estimated by Tom Henry, the horticultural inspector of Paso Robles, that the four-year-old Van Wormer orchard will yield about 600 pounds to the acre, while the old orchard near by will run about 1650 pounds to the acre.

Leonard Coates of Morgan Hill, who is recognized as one of the foremost authorities of California on horticulture and who has spent many seasons in Europe investigating both the market and production of fruit and nuts, stated in a recent interview that "The confectioners of the United States import annually thousands of tons of hard-shell, sweet-kernal almonds. The Jordan almond is acknowledged to be the almond of commerce and is grown most successfully on the limestone hills of Spain. Close investigation proves that the conditions of soil and climate which produce in Spain the commercial almond of the world are to be found, so far, nowhere else in the world except on the eastern slopes of the Santa Lucia Mountains in San Luis Obispo county."

KNOCKING ON WOOD.

Supervisor R. H. Charlton of the Angeles National Reserve is congratulating himself that so far there has been no fire worth speaking of within his jurisdiction and the fire season is at least half gone. He attributes this to the fact that exceptional precautions are being taken and that the thousands of campers who go into the big woods are implicitly obeying the orders relating to the building of fires and their extinguishment. But at that Charlton is "knocking on wood."

SHE KNITS FOR CELEBRITIES.

Woman with Single Hand Wins Presidents' Thanks.

Expects to Present Her Next Wristlets to Hughes.

Strange Occupations Pursued by Sawtelle Veterans.

Born with only one hand, Mrs. Mary E. Hogue of Sawtelle has knitted wristlets for the successive Presidents of the United States since the first term of Roosevelt. Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson have all received wristlets knitted by her and have all expressed to her their surprise at the feat.

In 1903 Mrs. Hogue, who has been adept at needlework since she was a child, decided to send a pair of mittens for the small son and daughter of Col. Roosevelt. This she did, and sent with them a letter telling of the manner of their making. She received a letter from the White House expressing the surprise and thanks of the Roosevelt family.

Upon the election of Mr. Taft Mrs. Hogue again decided to knit wristlets for the President, and did the same upon the election of Mr. Wilson. From the latter she received a most commendatory letter stating that it is hardly possible to believe that such work could be done with only one hand. She also knitted a pair of shoes for the Sayre baby, and received from the President's daughter a letter of thanks.

Four days is the time it takes Mrs. Hogue to make the wristlets. Pink and white are the colors used for the Republican Presidents and blue and white for the Democrats. At present Mrs. Hogue is working upon a pair for John McElroy, editor of the Washington Tribune. She states her next Presidential wristlets are to be made for Mr. Hughes.

Mrs. Hogue is 60 years of age, the wife of J. D. Hogue, a veteran. She is a native of Charlestown and has been in Sawtelle for the past two years.

ODD OCCUPATIONS.

Many of the veterans of Sawtelle and the Soldiers' Home have become expert in occupations which are beyond the ordinary. G. F. Griffith, a veteran who has been blind for the past fifteen years, is an expert maker of rose-petal beads. He was one of the first makers of these beads, and at first all his labor was done by hand. Since he began he has invented and made machinery for their pressing and shaping, and his work is known all over Southern California.

For the last six years H. O. Brower, whose death occurred a few weeks ago, has been known in Sawtelle as the "violin maker." He conducted a small shop for the repair and making of these instruments, and from raw materials he is said to have produced instruments of excellent tone and formation. He was 75 years of age at the time of his death.

An expert rose budder is H. J. Conger, a veteran of this group. Roses are the only kind of plants with which he deals, and he is known to have budded eight varieties of roses on one stock. At one time he was the proprietor of a banana plantation in Chile, where he first acquired his aptitude in this craft. He has been a resident of Sawtelle for several years.

FEAST OF ASSUMPTION.

Oldest Church in Los Angeles to Have Two Days' Observance of Important Festival in Ecclesiastical Calendar. Spanish Dinners.

The Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary falls on Tuesday. It will be observed in all Catholic churches, but there will be especial attention paid to this event at the Church of Our Lady the Queen of the Angeles, the oldest church in Los Angeles.

Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and there will be special music for the service. During the day many of the descendants of the early Catholic families of this city will visit the church for devotions.

The Ladies' Altar Society of this church has planned to have a two-days' festival in connection with this calendar event. It will elaborately decorate the court back of the old church and rectory, and there, amidst bowers of evergreens and hundreds of electric lights the women of this society will serve a typical Spanish dinner from 6 o'clock onward on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. They will also serve a Spanish lunch from 12 to 2 o'clock on Wednesday. The public is invited to patronize each of these affairs. Elaborate musical programmes will be rendered in the court each evening by people in Spanish costume.

QUITS RELIEF WORK.

President of the German-Austrian-Hungarian Society Resigns on Personal Grounds—Headed Organization During Two Years.

A. H. Koebig, consulting civil engineer and for the past two years the leading spirit and directing head of the German-Austrian-Hungarian Relief Association, resigned as president of the association last Friday night.

The association was organized two years ago for the purpose of raising funds for the care of the widows and orphans and for the relief of wounded soldiers of the armies of the central empires. The association has raised and forwardel to its agents in the Fatherland between $60,000 and $70,000, besides quantities of hospital and other supplies.

Mr. Koebig gave to the task of raising this money a great deal of his personal time and effort. Yesterday he said: "I am severing my connection with the German-Austrian-Hungarian Relief Association for purely personal reasons and against the earnest wishes of my associates, and my sole purpose in giving the matter to the press is to inform my friends of the fact that I am no longer identified with the association."

For Grape Growers.

SEE FORTUNE IN DUTY REDUCTION ON BRANDY.

SHERMAN JONES, chief deputy in the office of Collector Carter said yesterday that the prospect for the crop of wine-making grapes in the local internal revenue district was never better, and if the government extends the helping hand to the wine-makers by reducing the duty on brandy used in fortifying sweet wine from 55 to 10 cents, as provided by a bill now pending in the Senate, the coming wine-grape harvest will be the largest and most remunerative in the recent history of the industry.

Under the old law the duty on brandy to be used in fortifying sweet wine was but 3 cents a gallon, but the figure was placed at 10 cents a gallon under the law that went into effect October 23, 1914. The collections under the 55-cent duty last year amounted in the Los Angeles district to $161,320, and the receipts for the last year that the 3-cent rate was in vogue amounted to about $30,000.

It is claimed that it is not possible for Southern California wine-makers to compete with other manufacturers if the duty is fixed at the old 55-cent rate; that consumers will not stand for the increase that must be made to protect the wine-makers, and that loss ensues. If the new bill becomes a law, all records will be broken in the production of wine in the local district, it is said, but if the eastern wine-making lobby, headed by Atlee Pomerene, succeeds in boosting the figure much above the 10-cent rate, the result will be disastrous from every point of view in the sweet-wine district.

The season will begin in this section about September 1, and in the meantime the force of gaugers, numbering about thirty men, are getting ready for operations.

FOLKS FROM BACK HOME AT PICNICS.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED TEXANS AT SYCAMORE GROVE.

Missourians Meet in Equal Numbers at Westlake Park and Listen to Speeches and Songs. Lone Star Men Indulge in Oratorical Marathon.

Annual picnics were held yesterday by the folks from back home at Sycamore Grove and Westlake Park. At Sycamore Grove fifteen hundred persons from the Lone Star State frolicked and listened to old-fashioned oratory, winding up the day with a basket dinner, built around fried chicken, with big luscious "Georgia sweets" to top it off.

The same number of people gathered at Westlake Park for the Missouri State picnic, and there was a like number of orations and just as good a dinner.

The first annual Texas picnic threatened to run into a Marathon oratorical contest, for nearly every time one of the speakers finished his talk the picnickers applauded and called for "Moore." As a result it is believed that more Moores made addresses at Sycamore Grove than the audience had anticipated.

Monta J. Moore, president of the society, spoke, after being introduced by E. B. Moore, the secretary. He was followed by "Tex" Moore, the youngest speaker on the programme, and this was the first attempt at oratory he had made since he was 12 years old, he said. After him came Minor Moore and that finished the unusual programme of "Moore" speakers and left room for two other addresses made by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Rufus V. Bowden.

The orators of the day at Westlake Park included Harry M. Irwin, president of the society, who gave the address of welcome; W. W. Middlecoff, George W. Frame, who recited an original poem, "I'm From Missouri, You've Got to Show Me;" John F. Imel, George W. Berry, Rev. Charles C. Selecman and Guy Woodard. These speeches were followed by a song, "Missouri, 'Tis of Thee," by two old colored men.

At both places it was a love feast, where the older folks renewed their acquaintances of other days, and their children and grandchildren met and became friends for the first time.

The oldest and one of the most distinguished guests at the Texas picnic was C. R. Post, father of the late C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Mich. He was a friend of Lincoln and came to California first in 1849. He voted for the admission of the State in 1850. He is nearly 91 years old and expects to celebrate his next birthday here. Among other prominent guests were Lewis T. Carpenter, collector of internal revenue for Arizona and New Mexico; J. H. Maddox, Chief of Police of Tarrant county, Texas, and former Sheriff, as well as a former commissioner and city marshal of Fort Worth. Mrs. Maddox is a daughter of the late Dr. K. D. Maddox. Perhaps no one present had a livelier time than Parker Burnham, city jailer of Waco, Tex., who is having the first vacation he has had in many years.

The Missouri picnic was the medium for the reunion of four schoolmates, who had not seen each other since they graduated from the Harrisonville public school in 1892. They were Mmes. Harry G. Henley, secretary of the society; George Burke, Jack Atwell and Miss Mildred Smith. Each of them had been living in Los Angeles for a number of years unknown to one another. The meeting of the four occurred accidentally. They are planning a dinner party soon.

Contracting Plumber is Convicted of Larceny of Quantities of Fixtures from New Buildings, Which He Installed in Other Houses.

From plumbing to burglary was the step by George Sweetman, who yesterday was convicted of having stolen plumbing fixtures worth several thousand dollars from other plumbers and disposing of them through his own establishment.

According to evidence placed before the jury in Judge Willis's court by Deputy District Attorney Doran, Sweetman's usual method was to keep watch on new building operations and loot the building of the plumbing being installed. This material was immediately employed in furnishing another new building on which Sweetman himself had the contract.

The jury returned to the courtroom after only ten minutes of deliberation and casting a single ballot. The verdict was "guilty." Sweetman will be sentenced on Monday.

Mr. Allison, who is associated with the E. H. Lewis Company of San Francisco, has won a place for himself in the business life of the northern city.

SHOWS CALIFORNIA A HEALTHY STATE.

REVIEW OF VITAL STATISTICS IS GRATIFYING.

Health-seekers Who Arrive too Late Keep Death Average from Being Unusually Low—Birth Rate Grows—Plague-carrying Rodents Being Exterminated.

A study of the report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the California State Board of Health for the past ten years reveals the fact that the death rate for communicable diseases is decreasing each year.

The general death rate is also lower than it was ten years ago, in spite of the fact that a heavy percentage of the deaths reported were caused by tuberculosis and the vast majority of the victims were residents of California for only a brief period. Were it not for this factor, the death rate would be far below what it is and the State would stand high in the list of commonwealths with low death rates.

In this connection California, in common with all other States, is affected by the ever-increasing death rate from cancer, Bright's disease and nephritis.

One of the bright spots in a review of such a dull subject as vital statistics is the fact that the State birth rate keeps on increasing year by year, keeping exact pace with the increase in population.

In the main, however, health conditions in California are good and with the maturing of the plans of the California State Health Board, there is every reason to believe the next few years will reveal California as one of the healthiest States in the Union.

The United States Health Service laboratory, located at San Francisco, is co-operating with the State Health Board in the campaign, started last June, for the eradication of the plague-carrying squirrel and other rodents.

During the month of June, 19,861 squirrels were shot and taken to San Francisco for laboratory tests Of this number thirty-two were found to be plague-infected.

The campaign of extermination is being pushed with vigor and in the months of April, May and June, eigthy-three squirrels were examined and in eight counties found to carry in[illegible].

[illegible] Health Board is convinced that in order to rid the State of these plague-carrying rodents, a vigorous campaign must be waged during the next two or three years. Land owners will be assisted in every possible way in ridding their holdings of these pests and when the work is completed, one of the gravest menaces to the health of the State at large will have been removed.

Russia's Gold and Silver.

[Geographic Review:] Of precious metals and stones Russia has her share. The whole hem of her frontier toward the southeast and China is embroidered with gold, silver, platinum and precious stones. In the Altai Mountains' part of the chain that closes in the empire to the southwest of Lake Baikal, there are some of the largest gold mines of the world, surpassed only by those of California and the Transvaal, and all along the Lena River and the shore of the Sea of Okhotsk there are vast deposits of gold. The Urals are, perhaps, the greatest treasure house, for besides the enormous quantities of metals, base and precious, which they contain, they have a wealth of beautiful semi-precious stones, clear and colorful. In Perm, a city in the Urals, a large stone-polishing industry has been developed on account of them, and here they are transformed into the most delicious and radiant drops of color.

"CATHOLIC DAYS" DRAW THRONG TO EXPOSITION.

MANY hundreds of Catholics from Los Angeles and other parts of California went to San Diego yesterday to participate in the "Catholic Days"—yesterday and today—at the exposition. The Santa Fe ran a special train, that left here at 7:40 o'clock yesterday morning, and extra coaches were carried on the regular train. About 500 Catholics went on these trains, and for hours there was a constant string of autos lining the highways from Los Angeles to the Exposition City.

The committee at San Diego had made extensive preparation for these visitors, and there was something doing every minute, from the time of the arrival of the Young Men's Institute Band and drill team, and their parade to the grounds, up to the close of the grand ball in Plaza de Panama last night. There were games for the children, with prizes, last night, on the Isthmus.

Miss Helen DeVoe headed the corps of seven young women in charge of the ball. Prior to the leap year dance they were the guests of honor at a banquet in the Cristobal Cafe. Miss Frances Cox was chief hostess.

Mrs. P. D. McMahon and Mrs. William John Scholl are in charge of the programme for the reception to be given in the woman's headquarters this afternoon. The programme will include piano solos by Miss Ethel V. Widener, violin numbers by Arnold Krauss, baritone solos by Victor C. Carley, soprano solos by Mrs. B. D. Starke and readings and impersonations by Mrs. Robert Dallzel Jillson.

This morning there will be a military mass at the exposition grounds. Rev. J. J. Clifford, Rev. Francis J. Conaty, Rev. James A. Reardon and Rev. William F. Quinlan will be the officiants.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock Signor Michaele Giovacchini will sing two sacred numbers at the organ pavilion. He will be accompanied by Dr. Roland Diggle at the organ.

Justice White of this city will deliver the principal address on the exposition grounds this afternoon, and President Davidson will present a loving cup to the Young Men's Institute drill team at 5 o'clock in front of the United States Fisheries Building. The acceptance speech will be made by Anthony Schwamm, grand president of the Y.M.I.

MAKE SURE IT'S THERE.

Members of the City Council and the City Club went to San Francisquito Canyon yesterday to inspect the municipal water plant.

NATIONAL MILITARY SERVICE.

(To cast negative vote write the word "not" in blank space. This will negative the entire ballot.)

I am ——— an advocate of national legislation which will place the military policy of the country on the basis of a true democracy as provided in the Constitution of the United States.

I believe this can be brought about only by making all young men who are physically and mentally fit liable for military training before reaching the age of 21.

I believe that such a policy would not only produce the force of trained citizen-soldiers necessary to the preservation of the nation, but would conserve the human resources of the nation so as to reduce the criminal rate, produce a higher type of manhood and destroy all traces of class distinction by training and educating the poor and rich alike in the higher duties of citizenship under the same ennobling and invigorating system.

I believe that the Chamberlain Swiss System Bill (S. 1695,) or legislation along these lines, worked out with the advice of the General Staff of the Army, will solve the problem.

CITY CHURCHES NEAR FIVE HUNDRED MARK

LOS ANGELES IS ATTESTED A RELIGIOUS PLACE.

Some interesting figures on local church conditions are shown in the census of California churches that is in progress under the direction of the California State Church Federation, of which E. Guy Talbott of this city is executive secretary.

Los Angeles has been called the "Brooklyn of the West" because of its many churches and its world-famous preachers. That Los Angeles is an intensely religious city is attested by the fact that there are more than 440 churches and missions in the city with a membership of about 150,000.

The Methodist Episcopal church leads in the number of churches, with fifty-nine churches; Presbyterian, forty; Baptist, forty; Christian, twenty-seven; Congregational, twenty-seven; Catholic, twenty-five; Episcopal, eighteen; Lutheran, thirteen; Seventh Day Adventists, nine; Nazarene, eight; Christian Science, seven; South Methodist, six; Brethren, six; miscellaneous, seventy-nine, and missions, sixty.

The twelve larger Protestant denominations in Los Angeles have a combined membership of 57,637. The Methodist Episcopal church leads with 13,026 members; Presbyterian, 9581; Baptist, 7691; Congregational, 5281; Christian, 5066; Protestant Episcopal, 4937; Lutheran, 2345; South Methodist, 1529; Nazarene, 1406; United Presbyterian, 884, and United Brethren, 580.

Last year these twelve denominations raised a total of $969,582 for church work, an average per member of $16.81. Of this amount, $711,664 was for local church expenses and $257,918 for missions and benevolences. Los Angeles county has 475 Protestant churches with a membership of 101,011, an increase of almost 100 per cent. in the last ten years. The total giving of the churches in the county last year was $2,204,439, of which amount $1,580,008 was for local church expenses, and $624,431 for missions and benevolences.

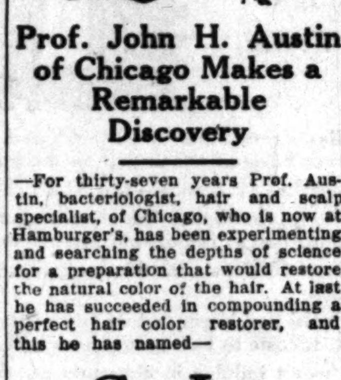
South of the Tehachepi there are 911 Protestant churches with 158,207 members. In the entire State there are 2300 Protestant churches with 313,063 members. The total value of the church property of the Protestant churches in the State is over $25,000,000 and in the city of Los Angeles the total value is over $5,000,000.

The Lone Fly Killed.

[Life:] We visited at the home of a farmer friend recently. It was a rambling house, but every window was either closed or screened. Every door, likewise, was protected against the entrance of insects. There was one lonesome fly in the dining-room, and the housewife was after him with a swatter. The children laughed, and the farmer looked at her with an indulgent smile.

"Ma won't rest till she gets him," said one of the girls, and her prophecy was a good one. Ma finally landed on Mr. Fly with her weapon. Then she picked up his body and carried him to the stove and cremated him.

How much more comfortable that family is than in those occasional country homes where they still shoo the flies away from the dinner table with a sassafras bush!



Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago Makes a Remarkable Discovery

—For thirty-seven years Prof. Austin, bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist, of Chicago, who is now at Hamburger's, has been experimenting and searching the depths of science for a preparation that would restore the natural color of the hair. At last he has succeeded in compounding a perfect hair color restorer, and this he has named—

Co-Lo Hair Restorer

—It is a scientific achievement. In this remedy Prof. Austin has discovered a process for developing the natural color of the hair in a similar manner to that of developing the photographic negative. It is positively the only satisfactory and lasting treatment for restoring color to the hair in a mild, healthful manner.

—Co-Lo Hair Restorer is absolutely harmless and will not injure either the hair or scalp; is not a dye; contains no lead or sulphur, has no sediment; and is as clear as water—a pleasing and simple remedy to apply.

—You yourself may tell which shade you need—it has been proven that when judging the color of hair every man and woman is his or her own best judge. Co-Lo Hair Restorer comes in—

—A7—Extra Strong for Jet Black Hair only.

—A8—for all Medium Brown Shades.

—A9—for all Very Light Brown, Dark and Auburn Shades.

LITHOGRAPHING PLANT.

Eastern Corporation may Build One here for Movie Work.

Samuel Goldfish, chairman of the board of directors of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, who arrived in Hollywood several days ago, has some interesting announcements to make.

"I am trying," said Mr. Goldfish, "to induce the Miner Lithographing Company, through Walter J. Moore, vice-president of the company, who accompanied me on my western trip, to establish a branch lithographing plant here in Los Angeles. The Miner company does its printing in New York City for the majority of all the big motion picture concerns. This printing consists of the billboard posters for the many theaters. Now we have to ship this printed matter by express from New York City all over the country. If a plant were established here we should be able to furnish much better service to a large number of exhibitors, and would save ourselves many thousands of dollars in express charges."

Regarding Famous Players-Lasky activities he said: "The corporation is now producing a minimum of eighty-four photodramas a year. As the average cost of each production is $25,000, you can see that we are under an enormous expense, and as it is planned to produce a majority of these pictures in the West, it is easy to estimate the amount of money we expect to spend in Los Angeles."

An Income for Life.

Of all the investment opportunities offered there are few indeed not open to criticism. Absolute safety is the first requisite, and adequate and uniform return equally important, and these seem incompatible. Aside from government bonds, the return under which is small, there is nothing more sure and certain than an annuity with the AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, by which the income guaranteed for a certain lifetime is larger by far than would be earned on an equal amount deposited in an institution for savings, or invested in securities giving reasonable safety. Thus a payment of $5000 by a man aged 67 would provide an annual income of $620.35 absolutely beyond question or doubt. Call or address I. J. MUMA, Manager, Aetna Life Insurance Co., fourth floor, Merchants' National Bank Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Unusual Exchange Opportunity

I have decided to make Los Angeles my home and will consider transferring my Eastern holdings to the Coast. I own a 4000-acre stock ranch in Michigan, on railroad, close to town, 185 miles from Chicago. It is free of incumbrance and can be divided into smaller tracts. I also own two pieces of Chicago income property, flats and stores, cash value $50,000. These are strictly high class properties, right in the midst of prosperity and have never been on the exchange market. I might consider modern twelve room residence in Los Angeles or vicinity, ranch or other property at conservative honest values. To avoid being the target for professional dealers I withhold my name. I will not consider any replies that do not give fullest particulars.

Three Hundred Million Bushel Crop in 1915

Farmers pay for their land with one year's crop and prosperity was never so great.

Regarding Western Canada as a grain producer, a prominent business man says: "Canada's position today is sounder than ever. There is more wheat, more oats, more grain for feed, 20% more cattle than last year and more hogs. The war market in Europe needs our surplus. As for the wheat crop, it is marvelous and a monument of strength for business confidence to build upon, exceeding the most optimistic predictions."

Wheat averaged in 1915 over 25 bushels per acre
Oats averaged in 1915 over 45 bushels per acre
Barley averaged in 1915 over 40 bushels per acre

Prices are high, markets convenient, excellent land low in price either improved or otherwise, ranging from $12 to $30 per acre. Free homestead lands are plentiful and not far from railway lines and convenient to good schools and churches. The climate is healthful. There is no war tax on land, nor is there any conscription. Summer-Spoiled Skin Removed by Absorption

As undue summer exposure usually leaves an undesirable surface of tan, redness or roughness, often freckles, too, the sensible thing to do is to remove such surface. There's nothing better for this than ordinary mercolized wax, which actually absorbs an unwholesome complexion. The thin layer of surface skin is itself absorbed, gently, gradually, so there's no inconvenience, no detention indoors. Spread the wax lightly over the entire face at bedtime and take it off in the morning with warm water. If you will get one ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, use it for a week or so, you may expect marked improvement daily. When the underlying skin is wholly in view your complexion will be a marvel of spotless purity and beautiful whiteness.

Don't let those summer wrinkles worry you; worry breeds more wrinkles. Banish them by bathing the face in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Used daily for a while this will be found wonderfully effective.

Sanitary.

BIG CLEAN-UP FOR THIS CITY.

Campaign to Get Rid of Dirt in Full Progress.

About Fifth of Municipality Now Renovated.

Object Lesson Expected to Get Wide Results.

Making people clean by comparison is the method which the health department is pursuing in the clean-up campaign which is now in full swing. It is using the policy of suggestion.

"The world almost lives by comparison," remarked Dr. L. M. Powers, health commissioner, yesterday. "If you get everything clean around a man he is going to be clean himself."

In the course of this clean-up there not only will be a good riddance of much bad rubbish, but there is also expected to be no small increase in the death rate of flies, fleas, rats, mice and lice.

Adopting the plan of starting with the worst first, the sanitary department already has cleaned up a lot of "cholo" camps and some places on the east side of the river which were not exactly beds of musk or gardens of delight.

So far, about one-fifth of the city has been cleaned up and it will take about three weeks more to finish the job. The city has been divided into sections and is being systematically gone over as far as possible.

This particular clean-up is devoted to the removal of rubbish which the Board of Works does not get rid of in its periodical visitations. This stuff is composed mostly of old clothes, shoes, discarded mattresses and other noncombustible and combustible things which litter up many yards and afford fertile breeding places for undesirable insects and animals.

CASE OF PREPAREDNESS.

The clean-up is looked upon as preparedness against disease, particularly against typhus and infantile paralysis. There have been cases of both diseases in Los Angeles recently. Typhus cannot exist where there is personal cleanliness. The body louse is the carrier of typhus fever. Get rid of lice and away goes typhus.

Cleanliness does not remove the germ of infantile paralysis, but it does help in a general way to make conditions better for fighting against that strange disease.

In regard to typhus, conditions in Mexico make it very necessary for extra care to be taken here. The first case of typhus here this year came from Seligman, Ariz., and the patient undoubtedly got it at El Paso, where it was brought across the border. Another sufferer here was a man who had to deal with Mexicans. A third case was found in a railroad camp where Mexicans are employed.

"We can handle typhus easily," remarked Dr. Powers. "We know what route it is going to take. It is just like laying for a robber. If you know where he is going you can get him. If all the lice were destroyed there would be no typhus."

There never is any let-up in Los Angeles in the war on flies. This clean-up naturally will mean getting rid of a lot of these pests. The same may be said of rodents—the health department is always on the hunt for them. It has been killing rats and squirrels at San Pedro for the last two years, and has poison out in the fields in that district now.

RAT-PROOF BUILDINGS.

Rodents help to spread plague. Whenever the plague exists anywhere else there always is danger of it being brought to Los Angeles Harbor on some vessel. Dr. Powers thinks that if the city would by ordinance provide that all buildings must be rat-proof, or even if the law was made to apply only to the harbor district, then, if the plague was ever brought to the harbor, Los Angeles would be as safe as San Francisco.

Dr. Blue made San Francisco rat-proof, and the system is being adopted in New Orleans, which recently suffered from plague cases. It is necessary to make buildings in seaport cities rat-proof because there is always plague in the Orient or India, and so seaports are never entirely safe from it being brought to them.

But the main idea of this clean-up is to suggest to people who are not clean that they should become so. As Dr. Powers put it, a clean-up has its influence on every household, because the man who sees things clean around him will try to clean himself up. If a man lives in a dirty house he will get dirty; if he lives in a clean place he will keep clean.

The greater portion of the sanitary force of the department is being concentrated on this work, and it is the opinion at the health department that the results cannot fail to be beneficial to the entire city.

SCOTS IGNORE LIQUOR LAW.

Only a Slight Decrease in Drunkenness Reported from Scotland.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] However drastic the drink order may be considered by some Londoners, these orders are entirely insufficient so far as Scotland is concerned. This fact was revealed this week by Lord d'Abernon, who is at the head of the Central Control Board of Liquor Traffic. He compared the convictions for drunkenness for four weeks ended December 19, 1915, with the figures for the four weeks before the new drinking regulations came into effect.

In London there had been a decrease of 33 per cent., in Liverpool a decrease of 45 per cent., in Newcastle a decrease of 31 per cent., in Birmingham a decrease of 70 per cent., and in Sheffield a decrease of 48 per cent. In Edinburgh there had been no decrease, in Glasgow the decrease had been 18 per cent., in Dundee 12 per cent., while in Aberdeen there had been an increase of 6 per cent.

In England the average decrease per town had been nearly 50 per cent., while in Scotland it was only 6 per cent. It had been reported by men in authority that the treating prohibition had been evaded or deliberately broken.

The members of the Central Control Board, said Lord d'Abernon, possessed very wide powers. Under them prohibition was possible. So far the members had exercised their powers with perhaps excessive moderation, but they would be doing less than their duty if they hesitated to put in force the powers which had been intrusted to them.

MUSICAL

OPERA PROSPECTS.

NEW COMPANY TO GIVE SEASON HERE IN FALL.

Signs point to the ringing up of the curtain on the new operatic year in Los Angeles some time in November or December. The Bracale Opera Company, a new organization, is to bring this about with a two weeks' season at the Mason Operahouse.

According to present plans, this company will open its tour at the Cort Theater in San Francisco, the latter part of October or early in December. After the Los Angeles engagement they will go to New Orleans for a series of performances at the French Operahouse and thence to Havana.

Adolfo Bracale, the manager, is now in Italy engaging artists for the season. Already announced are the following: Claudia Muzio and Anna Fitziu, sopranos; Regina Alvarez, mezzo; Ippolito Lazaro, tenor, and Ernest Caronna, baritone. Riccardo Dellera will be principal conductor.

This will make four opera companies to appear here this season, the others being the Boston, La Scala and Constantino.

Advices are that the Barcale company will have an orchestra of thirty-five, and correspondingly ample cast of principals and chorus.

Lemare Improvisations.

The improvisations of Edwin H. Lemare, organist, who is to play at Clune's Auditorium this afternoon, are said to be astonishingly executed. He furnishes the themes submitted to him with beautiful harmonies and varies their character with artistic effect. Unusual interest will revolve around this phase of his recital, which, beside, holds forth the attraction of a very strongly-knit programme. Another feature will be Mr. Lemare's own compositions.

This noted musician was organist at the San Francisco exposition last year, where his work drew forth remarkable enthusiasm and appreciation.

Following is the programme he will present this afternoon: Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Opus 98 (Lemare,) "Elfantaz (Bernard Johnson,) "Sylvine," from "La Farandole" suite (Dubois;) Sonata No. 1 (Mendelssohn,) "Sposalibio" (Liszt,) Intermezzo, "Golden West," Scherzo, Fugue and Chant du Bonheur (Lemare,) Improvisations on themes submitted by the audience, and concert overture in C minor (Hollins.)

Pianist at University.

A delightful presentation of the familiar and the different made attractive the recital of Clyde Collison recently given before the University of Southern California summer school. Mr. Collison is a pianist of marked artistic attainment. Following is the programme: Sonata in D major, "Pastorale" (Beethoven;) Ballade in F major, Mazurka in G major, Opus 50, No. 1; Mazurka in A flat major, Opus 50, No. 2, and Polonaise Militaire, Opus 40 (Chopin;) "Shepherd's Hey" and "Irish Tune from County Derry" (Grainger,) Impromptu (Marl Blue) and "La Campanell" (Paganini-Liszt.)

At Santa Barbara.

Julian Pascal, local pianist, won the warm appreciate of a large audience at a very enjoyable recital last Thursday evening at the Potter Theater in Santa Barbara. His programme was constructed with able musicianship and artistry.

Singer Re-engaged.

Returns from Mountains.

Miss Edith Norton, coloratura soprano, who has recently located in Los Angeles, has just returned from Mt. Wilson, where she and Miss Dillon, well-known local pianiste, have a summer studio. The two musicians gave a programme of distinct charm at Strain's Camp just before Miss Norton's return.

Talented Child.

One of the most attractive musicales of the week was given at the residence of M. E. Hillis, No. 728 South New Hampshire avenue, a piano programme being presented by little Mathilda Lucas, remarkably talented child. Mrs. Selma Hecht, sister of Miss Lucas, sang at the recital. Little Mathilda Lucas is only 11 years of age.

De Chauvenet Pupils.

Wagner Numbers.

Ray Hastings, organist of Temple Baptist Church, will give a special Wagner recital this evening at 7 o'clock. The programme will include: "Grand War March" from "Rienzi;" "Evening Star" and Pilgrim's Chorus from "Tannhauser;" "Love-Death" from "Tristan and Isolde;" introduction and bridal music (act III) from "Lohengrin."

Closes Course.

Miss Carolyn Alchin has just completed her summer course in ear training and harmony. Among those in attendance were representative teachers of this locality, who expressed their enthusiasm over the work accomplished.

Contrasting Child Moods.

Child temperaments were prettily contrasted in a programme recently given by Carmen Luisa Vignolo, piano pupil of Frederick A. Hermann, assisted by Dorothea Elizabeth Whatley, violin pupil of Karl Becker. Miss Vignolo gave, with butterfly-like brightness and fascination, yet with sincerity and earnestness, a dainty series of numbers, including Heller's "Water Sprites" and Tschaikowski's "Sky Larks" among others. Miss Whatley's dreamily-charming style was displayed to much advantage in her pleasing selections, among which may be mentioned particularly the Schubert "Ave Maria." A composition by Bertha Weber, a Pomona girl, was included in the programme.

CAMERA CLICKS

Carlyle Blackwell of the World is to spend his two-weeks' vacation tramping through the Adirondacks. Accompanied by Clarence Parvey, another screen player, he will leave Fort Lee, N. J., and expects to walk to Lake George in eight days.

Ethel Clayton, at present working under the direction of Frank Crane in "The Scorching Way," has been engaged by a New York modiste to create designs for evening gowns. Miss Clayton has designed all her own gowns for several years.

Kitty Gordon recently purchased a Russian wolf hound named Czar Nicholas from the kennels of the ruler himself. The very first day she put it on display at the Waldorf it chewed an ear off a valuable Chow dog. Kitty is taking out liability and property damage policies on the Czar.

Donald Macdonald of the Universal is producing "The Test," written by Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude. Stars are Madge Kirby and Lee Hill.

NECESSITY'S MOTHER OF NEW MUSTACHE.

If there has ever been any doubt as to the ability of Thomas G. Lingham as a make-up artist, it must be dispelled after an incident which happened this week during the production of the fire scenes in the staging of "The Manager of the B. & A" at the Signal studios. In working in one of the scenes in which he was running about among the burning buildings, Mr. Lingham stumbled and fell forward into a pile of burning refuse. As he fell he threw one arm over his eyes and covered the back of his head with one hand. When he staggered to his feet and emerged from the smoke, he found that one-half of his mustache had been burned off, the other half remaining intact. The situation looked serious for a moment. The mustache was registered in too many scenes for them to be retaken, so there was but one thing left for him to do, viz., make up the other side of his upper lip with crepe hair and go on with the picture. Which he did.

AT THE ALHAMBRA.

"The End of the Trail," a virile drama of the snows, featuring popular William Farnum, will begin its second week in Los Angeles today. It is to be shown at the Alhambra.

Gladys Brockwell is the delightful heroine, and the supporting company includes Willard Louis, H. J. Hebert and William Burress. The production was directed by Oscar Apfel, who has furnished the drama with many beautiful scenic backgrounds, found in the heart of Yosemite.

Napoleon and Sally in a new comedy and the latest "Submarine" story round out the excellent programme.

VETERAN'S CLEVER ACTOR.

Soldier of Civil War is One of U's Best Character Men.

Dr. A. F. Crane, dean of the players of Universal City, and who served throughout the Civil War, is a member of the committee having in charge the arrangements for the twenty-ninth annual encampment of the Southern California Veterans' Association at Huntington Beach, August 15 to 25.

Dr. Crane, who is 74 years of age, enlisted in 1861 at Elmira, N. Y., with the Twenty-third New York Regiment of Volunteers, and later became a member of the 107th New York Regiment. He fought at the battles of Gettysburg and Antietam, and was in hundreds of skirmishes during the conflict. He was mustered out at the close of the war as a second lieutenant.

RIALTO ENJOYS LIVELY MIDSUMMER DAYS.

With "A Pair of Sixes" and "Broadway Jones" on the Rialto, not to mention Theodore Kosloff, Nan Halperin and Alexander Carr, and with three small-time vaudeville houses presenting corking bills, it would be idle to speak of a dull theatrical summer week in Los Angeles. Especially when one considers the names of some of the stars, which include, besides the above, Mary Servoss, Percy Bronson, Douglas MacLean, Frank Darien, Dora Howe, Lola May, Wyndham Standing and other favorites.

Morosco.

"A Pair of Sixes," one of the most successful farces ever written, will go on at the Morosco today. It will be presented by an exceedingly clever cast, including Mary Servoss, Douglas MacLean, Rodney Hildebrand, Wyndham Standing, Lola May and others.

The story deals with the fortunes of two partners of a pill manufacturing business, each of whom claims to be the entire brains of the enterprise, with the naturally consequent squabbling. A game of poker decides the question of which partner shall be master and which servant, the servant meaning a butler in the other's house. There are complicating circumstances such as oaths of silence, misunderstandings with wives and sweethearts, etc., and many amusing attendant happenings.

Orpheum.

Three star headliners top the bill opening at the Orpheum tomorrow. Alexander Carr, famous for his characterization in "Potash and Perlmutter," is the principal newcomer, playing in what is described as a very clever sketch entitled "An April Shower." Carr has a Hebrew role, full of the inherent pathos and humor of that race.

Nan Halperin, the little comedienne who has been winning such success during the past week, remains, as do also the Kosloff dancers.

Burbank.

"Broadway Jones" has been so great a success at the Burbank, with Percy Bronson in the role of the youthful owner of the chewing-gun factory, that it will be held over for another week, beginning tomorrow.

Edith Lyle is charming in the feminine lead in the delightful Cohan comedy, and the others of the cast who are making individual hits include Warner Baxter, Frank Darien, Merle Stanton, Dora Mae Howe, John Burton, Vera Lewis, Fred Butler, Bobby Roberts, Nan Carter, Edward Nolles and others.

Hippodrome.

A line-up of headliners is promised at the Hippodrome on the bill opening tomorrow.

Tom Brown's Minstrels include seven clever boys who will recall the halcyon days of Billy Emerson, Tom Reed, Beverly's Minstrels and others, with a brass band as an added attraction.

Others will be Jack and Marie Gray in a singing, dancing and musical act; Mr. and Mrs. Barney Gilmore, in an Irish playlet entitled "Love at First Sight;" Hal Stephens, in an impersonation of Joseph Jefferson as "Rip Van Winkle;" Pearl Walton, comedienne; Charles Bartholomew, billed as the "Dublin Dandy," and Anna Glocker, in a juggling act.

Pantages.

Scenically remarkable is "The Slave Dealers," which will be presented by Al Golem and company as the feature act of the Pantages bill opening tomorrow. Pantomime and sensational oriental acrobatics are effectively intermingled in the action of the production, it is said. Fourteen persons take part in the ten different spectacles of the act, opening with the arrival of the slave dealers and slave girls, and closing with a highly sensational acrobatic feature.

Rose and Ellis; Mabel Harper, the little "Funbeam" of vaudeville; Storm and Marston in their sketch, "His Alibi;" the Brown-Fletcher Trio, Joe Roberts and the twelfth chapter of the Billie Burke film, "Gloria's Romance," round out the bill.

Republic.

This week at the Republic will see Bert Levey's second midsummer road show. Waneba, the sensational and spectacular oriental dancer, headlines the bill with a new repertoire of the latest far-eastern dance novelties. Georgia Howard, the dancing violinist, has proved a favorite all over the circuit, and should be no less popular at the Republic. Hagan and Ross also have a musical act, in which they sing, yodel and impersonate well-known musical comedy and operatic stars; the Grace Sisters bring a classy singing and dancing act to the popular Main-street theater; Cunning and company will produce spectacular illusions, and the photoplay headliner for the week will be "Broken Fetters," a Blue Bird creation in which is starred the popular favorite, Violet Mersereau.

CIRCUS TURNS TRICK.

How Orpheum Star Left Quiet Home for Bright Lights.

Alexander Carr, who will appear here at the Orpheum Theater tomorrow in "An April Shower," is the son of a rabbi. He was born in Russia, but when he was 5 years old his parents settled in Winnipeg, Can. There the boy was brought up in the serious atmosphere of the rabbi's home. He was given a good education.

The rabbi believed his son to be gifted as an artist, but an artist who was to work with oils and brushes. Carr wanted to be an actor. The father frowned on the stage.

"Every time a troupe came to town I was as close to the theater and to the stage as I could get," he said yesterday. "The climax came when I was 12 years old. There was a circus in town. I joined their company, leaving behind me a note telling my father what I had done, and promising him that I would never return until I could greet him as a star in my chosen profession. And I kept my word."

AMONG THE STORES AND AMIDST THE SHOPS

Along Our Dazzling Streets, where Dame Fashion's Shopping is Done.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

> Now is the time to buy:
> Sugar for the late season's preserving. Sugar has been reduced in price at two different times of late and is now within reasonable reach for putting up the winter's fruits.
> The first sweet potatoes, which have just come into market. Any table novelty is welcome as the season of fresh vegetables wanes.
> All kinds of beans, which have recently been materially reduced in price, making another nick in the high cost of living, which a short time ago seemed looming to extraordinary proportions.

Practical Suggestion.

Even though many of the season's fruits are gone, now that sugar has been reduced in price, the good housekeeper may still stock her shelves economically by combining several kinds of fruits and berries. An old-fashioned manner of preserving is as follows: Make a syrup of a pound of sugar and a half a gill of water to every pound of fruit and add a pint of brandy to every five pounds of fruit. Into this mixture, which may be kept in a stone jar, put the fruit which has been cooked until tender. The fruit may be added from time to time, as it is left over from the table. If covered closely it will not spoil when thus preserved.

"Oh, dear!" sighed a woman, whose life is filled with the cares of a home and family, "I wish I might be a business woman! It is so monotonous to do the same things over and over and, after all, it seems as though just keeping house were merely standing still!"

Her hearers, both business women, smiled a knowing smile, but said nothing of import, knowing that to explain would be useless. So often they had heard that lament and in it's light had examined their own busy, stressful, often heart-breaking years. The disappointments, the constant strain, knowing that to hesitate or stop would mean falling beneath the feet of the hurrying crowd, where some one is always seeking the position held by another—all this passed in review before their mental eyes and they scarcely needed to mention it to each other as they left the home, wherein the lamenting housewife dwelt in sheltered comfort. And yet—and yet—to one, at least, came the echo of a precious stanza filled with courage: "And yet a splendid round; a strife that man may win who dares the knife and plays the game—the game of life!" But does it not require equal courage, or even more, to do without murmuring the small things which are always at hand even in the least seemingly important of lives? Possibly it may take more.

I had a quiet laugh all by myself upon reading a sign in a small shop window, wherein were displayed brilliants of some diamond similitude. "These stones are guaranteed to forever retain their brilliance or money returned." I am still wondering just when the money would be returned—at the end of "forever?"

All Doubled Up!

That sounds like failure, does it not, but I mean just the reverse. The doubling up of which I speak is doubling the business capacity by increasing the size of the shop and taking on an outside space for doing the work. If that does not proclaim success, what could do so? That most interesting place on Hill street, where they make such original and unique stationery, such as silk-lined envelopes, handsome kalograms and in fact the utterly different in all lines of writing paraphernalia, has actually more than doubled its capacity during the past month. That shows what it is to be original and to give to the discriminating something which others have not thought of. There are no cobwebs in the brains which direct that business, even though a web may be upon their sign.

Cotton to Grow.

Just because cotton forms one of the important features of their annual sale, that house of brotherhood, which has recently given to its employees a lovely recreation garden, at the rear of the store, has planted cotton all along the borders of that unique garden. So, next season, when the annual sale begins, the cotton for bedecking the place will be that raised under the shadow of the store.

A Brilliant Thing.

Although not of cotton, the most brilliant bargains which shine forth in that sale is a collection of sequined and pailletted waist patterns and flouncings. At almost unbelieveable prices are these pretty and useful things offered. "First come, first served, and not enough for all who will want them." This is the slogan for this sale.

That is the new note sounded in the advertising of the new coats at that house on Spring street where the man in the eastern market always selects such wonderfully smart garments. "Muffy cuffs," and, one might add, "muffi collars," for the new collars on separate coats are, many of them, up to one's ears and even beyond.

New Blouses.

The first name of about 80 per cent. of the new blouses is "George" and the last name is "ette." This soft, fluffy material remains steadfast in popular favor, and no wonder, since the range of colors is constantly increasing and the pliancy of the stuff renders it amenable to the present modes in blouses. The surface of Georgette crepe is also becoming to most complexions.

Aluminum What-and-how.

The just how much better and the just how much cleaner and several other excellences will be shown during the coming week in a demonstration of aluminum wares at that big house-furnishing store on mid-Broadway. Special prices will also be made for several kinds of utensils. So the housewife who has always wanted her kitchen to be aluminumly illumined may now fulfill her wish.

Oh, dear! I do wish, for the public benefit, those who sell white fox neckpieces would accompany them with a ticket of cleanance covering at least six months. I get so tired seeing dirty—yes, that is the very word—dirty white fox neck furs. Why, I would almost be willing to head a subscription fund for the cleanance of such unsightly obstacles, Wouldn't you join me?

Now, you know, with all their ridicule of our styles, we have not for years—not since you or I or even mother, and, maybe, grandmother, can remember—worn "pinch backs," and yet that is what men are wearing and are to continue to wear during the coming season, we are informed. Haven't you noticed them? Look exactly as though someone had been holding them very tightly around the waist and the creases had roguishly staid in—just to "give the whole thing away."

We're Not Guilty.

Another mode of which we have not been guilty and which we shall not, probably, adopt is the Charlie Chaplin mustache. It looks for all the world like a tiny piece of someone else's 'stache stuck on directly underneath the nose! I always have the uneasy feeling that this extraneous-looking attachment may fall off if the wearer allows any sort of expression full play upon his face. Still, the loss would be scarcely perceptible if it did.

Midsummer Gifts.

It always seems more difficult to find acceptable gifts in summer than at any other time, probably because the season is tired and things Christmasy have not been divulged. For this reason is that high-up gift shop such a boon. There is always something not hackneyed to be found there. Even though it is surrounded by a brace of shops, that one stands out in bold relief and is easily discovered.

Following Fashion's Trail.

Wide silver ribbons are good for girdles.

Many of the new blouses are skirted.

Nose veils will probably be worn all winter.

Cape collars are features of autumn coats.

Meal brocades are in high favor among silks.

None but the slender should wear the flounced skirt.

The vests in the new separate coats are apt to have extremely high choker collars.

There is no prettier way to trim a little girl's frock than with bands of plain material.

Some of the prettiest and most fashionable shoes have patent leather toes and gray kid tops.

The middy has made itself so important that it is now fashioned of taffeta or crepe de chine.

There are many adaptations of the smock used in fashioning the frocks for country wear.

Sports skirts for the coming season will be in checks, plaids and stripes, besides plain colors.

Veils now serve as trimming to the hat, being gracefully draped from the brims of the plain hats.

Evening gowns are likely to have short waists, just as tailored dresses will probably have long ones.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. William M. Ivins of New York has been appointed official dog catcher of Freehold, N. J. She will serve without pay. Mrs. Holmes explained that she had taken care of many homeless dogs and wanted the appointment.

Mrs. Jane L. Armstrong of Rochester, N. Y., has been appointed agent and warden of the Valatie Farm for Women. Mrs. Armstrong, who is the wife of former Senator William W. Armstrong, is the first woman to be appointed to a wardenship of a penal institution in the State.

Miss Mary Barbara Richter of Boonton, N. Y., who was born in an open boat off the coast of Norway and was rescued from drowning in Lake Champlain, N. Y., last summer by George C. Schmittberger, is to marry him soon in a boat in the middle of a lake on the estate of her parents.

Mrs. Robert W. Sheets of Lincoln, Ill., spent an afternoon shopping in Chicago, after which she went to the detective bureau. "My prisoner, please," she said. "His name is William C. Russell. I'm the Sheriff's wife," explained Mrs. Sheets. "I'm also his deputy. Won't you hurry a little? The train leaves at 6:30. You needn't make such a fuss about it," observed Mrs. Sheets, opening her handbag. "See, I've got an automatic here, and it's loaded, too. And here are my handcuffs. This man isn't going to get away." On the Alton "Hummer" Mrs. Sheets took possession of a double seat with her prisoner. She took out the handcuffs, fastened one cuff to one of the prisoner's wrists and the other cuff on one of her wrists, and put the key in her stocking. "Now, William," she said, "don't try to do anything, for I'm loaded. She gave the prisoner another glimpse of the contents of her handbag.

BILL'S BACHELOR LETTER.

Dear Ginger:

Yes, I know the chap, he's just a cockney snob,
A third-rate actor who came here a-hunting for a job.
I rather fear Los Angeles for his pretensions fell—
The trouble with the critter is, we treated it too well.
I'm mighty glad, when he began to sneer and leer at those Who took him for a gentleman, your native dander rose,
When western art and manners he expended his crude wit upon,
You introduced a business toe to his astonished sit-upon.
Next time this dollar-chaser gets too smart and slick and "swanky"
He'll mind his cue when talking to a big red-headed Yankee.
Don't mind if damages on you some police judge should assign,
Your old friend, California Bill, will gladly pay the fine.
We have no native artists here, the fellow said, so we
To play Macbeth in pictures had to use Sir Herbert Tree.
I'll let you in a secret that the public doesn't know,
To prove the English actor wasn't all the bally show.
The only scenes wherein Macbeth to true advantage shone
Were taken on some extra films long after Tree had gone;
And so the few successes in a somewhat dismal whole
Were those where an American filled out the title role.
But talk of the spectacular! Will wonders never cease?
I've seen a try-out of the latest Griffith masterpiece;
The pageant of Belshazzar's feast, with thousands in the cast,
All other scene productions has eternally outclassed.
And all that world-wide drama poured in rich historic flood
Was made from L. A. talent in the hills at Hollywood.
You say you've heard that William has the restless bug again;
Well, yes, you're right, a grand new scheme is buzzing through my brain—
To seize the ball of circumstance and to the four winds toss it,
And incidentally reduce my adipose deposit.
You've heard that Wright and Curtiss have combined new fields to enter,
To make Los Angeles the leading aeronautic center.
Don't smile now at my latest freak or call it an absurd plan,
I've started in to fit myself to be a famous bird-man.
My latest Cadillac is sold and I've commenced to train
In my new Curtiss-Fricker-Taube hydroaeroplane.
No motor cop can make me stop while dazed pedestrians cry,
"Look! look! there goes old Bill, the Barney Oldfield of the sky!"
Among the captains of the air I'll always be on deck,
And either break all speed limits or else my blooming neck.
So when I've learnt the right controls to shift the planes at will,
Expect a flying visit from

Yours,

AVIATOR BILL.

HAPPY THOUGHT CLUB SYMPOSIUM.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

It seems that about every so often it is necessary to discipline the Old Resident. He simply will not behave with that modesty and discretion which should mark the deportment of one who has incumbered the earth for more than half a century.

If he isn't getting pinched for visiting prize fights or flirting with Amazons he is being raked over the coals for exceeding the speed limit. He positively refuses to grow old.

Last week he went the limit. He shaved his face as smooth as a baby's, cut his hair to the bone and then turned in and joined the Boy Scouts. He was seen headed for the hills in a khaki knickerbocker suit and roughrider hat with Indian feathers in it. He spent an hour trying to light a fire by rolling a pointed stick between the palms of his hands and then he took a box of safety matches from his pocket and touched off a cigarette. He carried a set of signal flags, but most of his wig-wagging was in the direction of ordering more refreshments brought up. You'd think he was a division commander by the supplies he wanted. It is almost a cinch that this infant pioneer will never die of thirst.

The scout was seen by Louise Josephine Wiggles out near the cave of the hermit poet of the Verdugo hills. She did not recognize him at first and merely fancied it was some youth trying to flirt with her, but when he gave her the hailing sign of the Sunshine Sisterhood she became wise. "You're a good scout, all right," she exclaimed, "but I'm going to tell your folks. You have no business wandering around the country with a bow and arrow, playing Indian. You're liable to puncture somebody's beehive and let all the honey out."

The venerable scout tried to explain that he was out on location for a moving picture story, but Louise sneered and said he never got that far away from the leading lady.

Then the old man wanted to know what Louise was doing at the retreat of the wild bard without a chaperon, and the literary widow explained with a blush that she felt a bit wild herself.

At the symposium of the Happy Thought Club yesterday the Old Resident was sentenced to cough up a limerick by way of discipline. Without much hesitation he responded with this:

"There was an old geezer of Baird,
Who many fair maids had ensnared,
Each year of his life,
He took a new wife—
'Twas his way of being prepared."

'You can't stump the old scout," exclaimed Esmerelda Hooligan, admiringly.

"Not so you'd notice it," replied the old man with a grin.

Recently a prize competition was announced for the best ballad to a film favorite. Several movie queens have been embalmed in verse, although the contest has been barely started. As an incentive to effort on the part of verse writers and admirers of the voiceless drama the club will award to the favored bard as well as the object of his inspiration a massive and ornate pin of purest metal. These pins are the choicest product of the Llewellyn Ironworks and the design is both unique and beautiful. The winners will prize these pins as among their precious possessions. Announcement of the committee of award will be made at a future meeting, but the contest is open to all who have film favorites and can tell about them.

E. Ebenezer Jenkins, the Jersey skeeter, is a swell admirer of Theda Bara, the fascinating person who has knockout drops for eyes. All the way from Philipsburg he sends this token of his passion:

Theda as Carmencita.

Theda, in thy dark eyes' splendor,
Is expressed love, sweet and tender;
If where love is, God is, too,
Surely, God abides with you.

If night hath a thousand eyes,
All the grace that in them lies,
All the harmonies of Tara,
Dim before the charms of Bara.

Maiden of the glorious orbs,
Thoughts of thee my time absorbs,
Strange indeed that Cupid's dart,
Hath not lodged within thy heart.

Would my soul but voice my heart,
It would praise thee as thou art.
Thou art loved o'er all the land—
Adios! I kiss your hand.

This was about the best offering the secretary had on his desk yesterday in the competition, but he promised to bring some eyeopeners down for the next meeting. With the bunch of bards and bardines and the swarm of screen stars hereabout, there is bound to be something doing.

Myra Marr, the Montecito marguerite, has applied for membership in the club and does not want to be kept on the waiting list too long. She is a winsome little thing and is built on the lines of a grasshopper. But this dainty, spirituelle fairy is quite deceptive. Although she looks as if she were raised on bird seed they do say that when she is turned loose in one of these lobster palaces she goes down the line for everything from caviar to cheese. She was raised by her Aunt Jezebel, of Gomorrah, but ran away when she was sixteen and began to make a living by writing household hints for the fashion magazines—telling how to powder the face, how to stew prunes and other domestic secrets. In her application for membership she wrote as follows:

"Dear Folks: Are the monandriac species such rara avis in Los Angeles that you give them so much advertising and notoriety? Why I know whole droves of them. Out our way the dames are mighty lucky to get one man apiece. Tell the Ancient Mariner—or whatever you call him, that I'll change my first name to Polyan, just for him. If his favorite pastime is making love, why, mine is being made to, and if he thinks flapjacks and maple syrup are food for the gods, so do I, by Heck! Please send me a printed form of application for membership and I'll pad it out. I've simply got to get into that Happy Thought Club, even if I break in—or out—in poetry. Would one become naturalized by marrying a member?"

This latter question was referred to Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes of the club's information bureau. The Cheerful Nut also desired the Professor to state as between a monandriac and polyandriac which was the wilder animal. Dr. Hughes said he wouldn't care to decide offhand.

The Old Resident was anxious to have the marvelous Myra admitted at once, but the president ruled that precedent must be followed. Under the rules but one member can be allowed full fellowship each week and there are two names ahead of that of the Montecito midget.

Uncle William Snaggs, the San Gabriel sage, was still unable to be present on account of being a sufferer from the foot and mouth disease, but he sent this note of appreciation for the remembrance accorded him:

"Kindly convey to Sister Gladys Canby my sincere appreciation of that beautiful floral collar of orange blossoms, but as I already have more orange blossoms on my place than I know what to do with you may also convey to her the intelligence that her highly-appreciated collar causes a superabundance of sufficiency. If there's any more collars to be messenger-boyed or parcel-posted out in this direction let 'em be of the brand that has gone up to fifteen cents straight—because of the war, I presume, like everything else. I need some mighty bad and, as the hard-hearted haberdasher won't let me have two for a quarter, and I haven't got fifteen cents in change, it's up to the sisterhood to eschew sewing socks for soldiers and get a whole lot busy on a collar programme for the benefit of would-be versifiers. In the meantime permit me to sing:

Adieu and Skidoo.

It won't be long 'till the Ides of March,
Whatever that is—it sounds all right.
From one poor man it will take the starch.
For poor Brother Wilson, it means good night,—
Yea, it means good night.

How swift, indeed, is the flight of time,
How fast it flies not a soul can tell.
How short is the hour from chime to chime,
For poor Brother Wilson it chimes farewell—
Yea, it chimes farewell.

How sure, indeed, is the hand of fate
Tracing your doom on the summer sky,
It writes in fire the predestined date
For you, Brother Wilson, it writes goodby—
Yea, it writes goodby.

Enjoyed for a few short years by you,
How wistfully you await the hour
That signifies, Brother Wilson, skidoo—
Yea, signifies skidoo.

The offering was added to the club's interesting collection of campaign verse. It was received with applause by the Republican members and groans by the Democrats. The secretary announced that it was desired to use the entire local membership of the club in the creation of a scene in the new film drama of "Henrietta of the Hungry Heart," and so the members will meet next Wednesday and place themselves in the hands of the director.

Meanwhile all communications, all applications for membership, all entries in the limerick contest, or in the film favorite competition and all suggestions for a design for a club button should be addressed to Eugene Brown, editorial rooms, The Times.

BITS OF VERSE.

You.

You are the twilight when the task is through,
The restfulness when the long day goes by,
You are the dayspring and the sunrise, too,
The rose-dawn on the sky.

You are the blessed rain on desert sands,
The river that redeems the wilderness,
The healing stream that runs through weary lands
Alone to bless.

You are the water when I faint with thirst,
You are the food when I am famishing,
You are the drop of honey in the first
Wild flower of spring.

You are the azure herald of the spring,
The first glad robin song when March is long;
My heart laughs back in rapture welcoming
The first spring song.

You are the Sabbath in the June of year,
The rarest, fairest day when June is come,
The gracious autumn with fruition here,
The harvest home.

You are the strength when heart and soul are faint,
The only perfect rose without a sting,
Why hope to tell you all you are, my saint,
For you are everything.

—[Nelly Hart Wordsworth, in Springfield Republican.

Manet.

Gold holds, God guides, God keeps,
St. Francis's God and Buddha's; still the same,
He who made Plato as a great wind, sweeps
Paul as a piercing flame.

He is the peace we crave,
He is the life; we pause and breathe it not;
He is the vibrance of the thought that gave
The radiance half-forgot.

The old creeds crash apart,
Break in our tired, entreating hands, and fall—
God, the encircling flame, the eternal thought
Is over all.

—[Margaret Widdemer, in Contemporary Verse.

How Love Happens.

How love happens, need we say?
This none knows—but it is May!
How love happens, need we care?
Sweet May haunts the sunkist air!
How love happens, need we tell?
Love leads on a-down the dell,
All young life and hope to follow
Over hill and through the hollow!

How love happens? Oh, it came
Yesterday and years agone,
Silvery dew and sapphire flame,
Dancing in a league of dawn
Whist! the gossamer skirts were spun
Of the silver of the sun;
Velvet shoon of violets made
For fairy feet in yonder glade!

How love happens? Out with that!
Who would know, when love itself
Has stuck a red rose in its hat
And around a violet smiles, the elf!
Just the heart knows, but it beats
With the honey of such sweets.

How could it tell, if it would—
Take love, then, for bad or good!

—[Baltimore Sun.

Starward.

I wonder where your house, is dear?
Is it near the pearly gate,
Or round by the jasper wall so clear,
Where you think of me and wait?
You loved the glorious summer day,
You longed for foreign lands;
And now you dwell at home for aye,
In the "house not made with hands."

Oh, yours to watch the molten sea,
As it laps the heavenly shore;
To join in rapturous melody,
All joyous evermore;
And yours to see the blessed face
Of Him who understands,
Whose love made ready, by His grace,
Your "house not made with hands."

I, too, shall have my house one day,
When earthly things are past,
When by His name who leads the way,
I shall enter home at last.
And may I find it sweetly nigh
To where your dwelling stands,
When on the morning wings I fly
To my "house not made with hands."

"Wear-Ever"

We announce an instructive and interesting

Demonstration of Wear-Ever Aluminum Kitchen Utensils

Mrs. Kinney, the famous demonstrator, has been engaged to tell interested housewives of the superior merits of WEAR-EVER ALUMINUM KITCHEN UTENSILS. This demonstration will cover points of utility, of economy and will show why aluminum yields better cooking results than any other ware. You are cordially invited to attend this demonstration tomorrow.

Start Right! With Wear-Ever Aluminum

WEAR-EVER utensils give enduring satisfaction because they are so carefully made. Again and again, the sheet of aluminum is passed through enormous rolling mills and pounded by huge stamping machines. Any piece that cracks or breaks under the tremendous strain is rejected so that when the utensil is finally pressed from the sheet of aluminum, it stands the hardest kind of wear.

This store recommends WEAR-EVER utensils. Our stock is so large that you can completely equip your kitchen from this famous line.

A Special Demonstration Value

Only provided that you visit the store can you share this fine special. We shall sell a genuine WEAR-EVER one quart sauce pan at 55c—the regular 70c kind. No phone or mail orders will be received at this SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION PRICE.

Satisfaction Is the Only Measurement of Value

NO MATTER what you buy—nor what you pay—the only thing that can determine the value you get is the degree of ultimate satisfaction you derive from your purchase.

And the degree of satisfaction depends not alone on the quality or quantity but upon the intelligence, the thoroughness and sincerity of the service you get—and upon the fitness of your purchase to your particular needs.

Eleven years ago, before our doors ever swung open to the public, the "California" established a satisfaction creed from which there has been no deviation.

We believed then, as we have demonstrated since, that our success lay in your satisfaction and that your satisfaction lay in the genuineness of our desire and ability to really serve you.

And so we have gone critically into the best markets of the world and have sought out the worthiest home furnishings that art and craftmanship have produced. We have secured every price advantage that extensive purchases and spot cash can command—and we have marked these home furnishings on our floors in accord with our one-price system—at the lowest prices for which such home furnishings can be sold anywhere.

And we have gone beyond this—we have brought together an organization of highly competent, experienced home furnishers whose pleasure it is to intimately co-operate with you and to conscientiously assist you in making your every purchase here a source of ultimate and supreme satisfaction to you.

From kitchen chair to finest period reproduction, the "California's" assortments are comprehensive and complete.

We believe you will find a degree of satisfaction and economy in buying here that is very unusual.

We most cordially invite value comparisons and solicit the opportunity to serve you.

had a good share of it, to church music and the Dresden chapel. All his works were sacred except some madrigals and festspiels. The great Bach family was at the head of things musical in Germany about that time, and they devoted themselves to sacred music largely. There were Bachs all through Germany, and they were almost all musical. There was something like a Bach guild in Thuringia. They worked with secular music as well, but they were most eminent as church musicians.

In France, Spain and Portugal they borrowed. The Italians had the field, and so much music that they could afford to lend. Spain never was original save for chorals which were really analogous to English anthems. Furthermore, in Spain, they rarely published, which was unfortunate for the opinion that posterity was to have for them. The English also borrowed from the Italians at the time. With the Puritan reaction in England there came an onslaught on choirs and organs, and everything churchly, until the restoration in 1660, when the Chapel Royal was reinstated. There was a lack of interest in religion in England and the music was dropped, although England has always had a healthy approval of everything done by Purcell and Humphrey.

The hymnology of the church is about on a par with the popular tunes of the day, in workmanship. There can be nothing in music more tawdry than the sort of hymns one is accustomed to hearing in and about prayer meetings and revivals. That they accomplish their purpose I have no doubt, and for that reason there is a place in the world for them, just as there is a place for the "Rosary" and for "When I Leave the World Behind," to cite two of our most dreadful compositions of modern times.

There is room in this world for the prophet and the Pharisee, and there must be songs for both. You cannot bring a sinning peddler to salvation with the "Stabat Mater" sung in Latin, but you have a fair chance of making him see the error of his ways with "Just as I Am," a hymn which Dwight Moody says has brought more sinners to repentance than any other hymn in the past fifty years. It has been translated into almost every language of the civilized world, and that would seem to mean that its influence has not been overestimated by the evangelist. Of course, it is a pretty bad piece of verse, and how anyone can be brought to salvation to the rhyme or tune of it is more than I can understand, and for myself a salvation gained by such means would be a very questionable benefit; but the fact remains, and so does the hymn. The very name of the publication in which the verse was issued for the first time is enough to depress me without hearing the words. The "Christian Remembrancer" brought it out first, and it was soon to spread all over England and be printed in leaflet form and distributed widely. There is a story that the verse reached the composer of the hymn, anonymously in this form, after many years of "frivolous" living upon her part, and that it brought her to a sense of—shall we say the fitness of things—and that the rest of her life was made beautiful by this touching coincidence; but the little story adds that the composer was ill for the rest of her life, and one is torn by wondering whether her music caused her to be so good that she was ill, or she was so ill that she had to be good. Be that as it may, the hymn was very effective; so effective that one missionary who attacked a city or was attacked by a city of such bigotry that he was said to have thrust his first into a lion's mouth, advised his followers (who we shall hope found the field a trifle softened as a result of the first missionary's efforts) to use this hymn in stubborn cases.

The psychology of revivals is most interesting. I do not believe that anyone, not even Huysmans, who seemed to go about literally seeking advanced salvation, could be saved by the Gregorian chant. It takes something violent and passionate to arouse the soul to flights of self-denial. The Roman church never pretended to gain souls by singing to them, and in this it was quite right, considering the intellectual nature of Roman church music.

The most solemn and dramatic song of the Middle Ages is undoubtedly the "Dies Irae." Composed by a monk in the twelfth century, the hymn still brings thousands to a great state of exaltation. But that sort of song, that and the great "Te Deum Laudamus," Bishop Ken's doxology, and the mass of Pope Marcellus, are at the pinacle of church music. But none of these is of the type of hymn with which we save souls in America. We shriek at them and promise them favors, in English so that they may understand, and we exhort them and blame them and threaten them with eternal damnation, and show them what cowards they are; and then we send the scale careering up and down, and before we know it they are on their knees to the good old key of C major.

Play a bit of ragtime to a collection of Americans and see how soon they are off their feet, and with a hymn of the Moody and Sankey type we send their spiritual emotions flying upward.

Issac Watts was the founder of our national hymnology. He felt our need; he felt the fact that we had not had for the first 1600 years of Christianity any songs which we could well be educated into singing ensemble, and he felt the need of the thrill in religion, so he began at the beginning, and the end is not yet. Wesley, too, for the English-speaking world, did wonders in the vogue of emotional singing, and his hymns are still among the most popular. That songs can upset nations is easily provable. "The Marseillaise," for example, has an influence which can scarcely be measured, And for Germany, "Ein Feste Burg," the war cry of the German reformation, is equally stirring.

Luther gave to the Germans many psalms as well as translations from the Latin which served as well as original hymns. Luther was a true composer. He had the right idea about the quickest method of gathering unto himself a flock. But the men who made history in saving souls by songs in the past thirty years were Messrs. Moody and Sankey. They stirred the religious up to the point of mania with their revival sermons and tunes, and the unreligious were soon brought against their wills, even, to repentance. Sankey was aware that the sort of rousing tune he sang would not be in place in conventional religious worship, and was only useable for the purpose of kindling momentary enthusiasm, which was expected to bring the enthusiast back again and by a series of new enthusiasms to lure him permanently from the path of sin. Moody did not sing himself, but he knew the value of singing, and Sankey was a good singer. Both men apparently knew that the worth of a song had nothing to do with its value as a savior. Mr. Sankey brought more men to grace by "Oh, what shall the harvest be, oh, what shall the harvest be" than he could have by lecturing. When he rolled out "Sowing the seed of a maddened brain" the inebriates fell on their knees and pledged themselves to a slow but sober life. But "The Ninety and Nine" goes down as Mr. Sankey's supreme contribution to the choir of lifesavers. That was the tune!

The Latins were strong in counterpoint, but when it came to gathering in the sheep we must give the laurels to the evangelists and their own particular theory.

AN APPRECIATION OF A VETERAN JOURNALIST.

Sketch of the Late Maj. Ben. C. Truman in the "New York Times," on Whose Staff He Served.

In the New York Times is printed the subjoined sketch of the career of the late Maj. Ben C. Truman of Los Angeles, distinguished as a journalist, author and traveler, who recently died in his eighty-first year—evidently written by one who had been intimate with him while he served on the staff of that great New York newspaper:

A man who died at Los Angeles a few days ago was employed by the New York Times when its printers wore silk hats, but walked home nights to Brooklyn and Williamsburg. The man was a compositor then, but followed many other vocations later. He achieved distinction while "swinging around the circle" with President Johnson by sending the Times a dispatch from Chicago that was twelve columns long—said to be the longest telegram sent to any newspaper in the world up to that time.

He became, in his long career, a school principal, a feature writer, a proofreader, war correspondent, dramatic critic, composer of war songs, a playwright, confidential secretary to Andrew Johnson and an officer on his staff, a major in the army, a special agent of the Treasury Department, a paymaster in the army, a Washington correspondent, special agent for the Postoffice Department in charge of the Pacific Coast, an owner of five newspapers, a volunteer fireman, one of Southern California's publicists, a great traveler, a judge of good wines, an expert in food, a noted story teller, and a man of many friends.

His name was Maj. Ben C. Truman, and he was 81 years old when he died on July 18, last, at Los Angeles.

Maj. Truman came to New York City when it had three car lines, which ran a car an hour after midnight. In those days many bohemians used to gather at Pfaff's restaurant in lower Broadway, one of them being Ben Truman. A few of these men are still alive and remember his early history. There was also an old-fashioned saloon in Christie street, where Truman met Stephen C. Foster, the famous song writer. Foster wanted to write a song that would be as "famous as 'Home, Sweet Home,'" and after a conversation with Truman in the saloon composed "Way Down on the Suwanee River."

Maj. Truman was an intimate friend of Collis P. Huntington and was also on the best of terms with John C. Heenan, the "Benecia Boy," and John L. Sullivan. He knew every general in the armies of the North and the South, and many odd characters he had met in China and distant parts of the earth. He had a remarkable fondness for interesting persons, and, sent to Paris in 1889, his headquarters became a gathering place for persons who were either notables or notorious, but who were never dull.

Maj. Truman was born in Providence, R. I., on October 25, 1835, and became a school principal at Canterbury, N. H., when he was 17 years old. He learned to set type when he was 18, and began to write stories for the newspapers a year later. In 1855 he came to New York City and set type and read proof for the New York Times for five years.

Later, when he had developed his ability to tell good stories, he used to derive much humor from the spectacle of the printers in their splendid headgear, plodding miles to reach their homes. There were no busses in the city in those days, and one either had to walk or wait an hour until a car came along.

In 1860 he went to Philadelphia as a correspondent for the York Clipper and as a writer for the Sunday Mercury and Forney's Press. He also wrote criticisms of plays and composed war songs and war farces. John W. Forney recognized his ability and made him a war correspondent.

In 1862, when Andrew Johnson was made brigadier-general of volunteers and military Governor of Tennessee, he selected Truman as staff officer and confidential secretary, with the rank of captain. Truman also acted as war correspondent of the Philadelphia Press and the New York Times until the end of the war. He was elected the first major of the First Loyal White Regiment in Middle Tennessee, and was for a time provost marshal of Nashville.

He remained with Johnson until the end of the war, but went into the field at intervals and served on the staff of Gen. James S. Negley at the battle of Stone River, and with Gen. Kenner Gerrard at the battles of Spanish Fort, Mobile and Blakeley.

While he was war correspondent for the Times he sent this newspaper an account of the battle of Franklin two days before the news of it reached the War Department. The cutting of the wires between Nashville and Louisville enabled him to achieve this "beat." His description of the burning of Atlanta was published in the Times one day ahead of all other newspapers, and he sent the news of the battles of Spanish Fort and Blakeley to the Times and the Cincinnati Gazette five days before other papers printed it.

He also achieved distinction by his descriptions in the Times of the achievements of Thomas near Nashville in December, 1864, and by his "stories" of the battles of Stone River, Missionary Ridge, Resaca and Peach Tree Creek.

President Johnson sent for Truman after the assassination of President Lincoln and made him his confidential secretary, a post he held for eighteen months. During this time he spent eight months in the Southern States as a special commissioner in Johnson's scheme of reconstruction, and two months in Florida and South Carolina correcting abuses of the direct tax commissioners for those two States.

Later he was sent to Europe as a special agent of the Treasury Department, and upon his return the President appointed him a paymaster in the army. He expressed a desire to go to the Pacific Coast, and a special agency of the Postoffice Department was created for him. This gave him jurisdiction from Alaska to Mexico. He held this position for three years, in the course of which he made trips to China, Japan, Alaska, the Sandwich Islands and Mexico.

In 1869, after marrying Miss Augusta Mallard of Los Angeles, Truman went to Washington as the correspondent to the New York Times and San Francisco Bulletin. A year later he returned to the Pacific Coast and was appointed census marshal of San Diego county, after which he purchased the San Diego Bulletin. Two years later he moved to Los Angeles and became the editor of the Los Angeles Express. In 1873 he bought the Daily and Weekly Star from Henry Hamilton, but sold the paper to his printers in 1877.

He was again appointed special agent of the Postoffice Department on the Pacific Coast, and held the office for two years, when he became chief of the literary bureau of the Southern Pacific Company. He held this post for eleven years. In 1890 he went to Chicago and took charge of a Southern California exhibit for the Santa Fe Railroad, and in 1892 he was appointed assistant chief of floriculture of the World's Fair at Chicago.

In the intervals of his busy career Truman owned newspapers in Philadelphia, Nashville and San Francisco. He wrote books about Southern California and the civil war.

He remained a loyal champion of California until the end, and was active almost up to the day he died.

MEN AND EVENTS.

George Lamb of Indianapolis, who has just been placed on the retired list with a pension by the Big Four Railroad, has worked for the railroad since 1863. In his service of forty-four years as an engineer his train never killed or injured anyone.

Alonzo R. Gilman of Berwick, Me., has made a musical instrument in the form of a piano from rocks. It is played from a keyboard in the same way as a piano, the rocks being struck by hammers. Mr. Gilman was seventeen years in selecting rocks of the proper tone, and now the massive piano, which weighs 900 pounds, is in the home of Charles R. Gilman, the inventor's brother, at Hampstead, N. H.

Charles A. Gilman of St. Cloud, Minn., is running for a term as State Senator, which will round out for him a full half century in legislative life, begun in 1868 and including two years as Speaker of the House and two as Lieutenant-Governor.

William Rosweldt, a young farmer of Greenville, Wis., has a suffragette cow. She will not permit a man to come within her stable. To milk her Rosweldt disguises himself by putting on a Mother Hubbard and a bonnet.

John Henderson, colored, of Chicago, objects to being told by officials of a funeral benefit association that he is dead unless he receives the $100 funeral benefit allowed in such cases. He has filed suit against the Colored Medical Aid and Burial Association, claiming that for weekly payments of 35 cents, if he died he was to have a $100 funeral and if ill $5 a week. He had influenza last winter, he charged in his suit, but when he applied for his $5 a week the officials told him he was dead. Then he told them he wanted his $100.

Mrs. James F. Hess of Martin's Ferry, O., has just registered the fact that she has borne her husband the twentieth child. She is only 44. Only eight of the children are living. There were no plural births.

JAMES BUCHANAN.

BY MADISON C. PETERS.

James Buchanan was born in 1791 near Mercersburg, Pa. The elder Buchanan had migrated from Donegal, Ireland, eight years before. James was a studious lad, entering Dickinson College at 16. When the war with England broke out, although building up a promising practice, he joined an army of volunteers under Judge Shippen. They marched to Baltimore to defend it against the British, but were not called upon and Buchanan, therefore, did not see active service.

He was so engrossed in making a career for himself that he did not give much thought to the fair sex, although he was much sought after, particularly when he became known to fame. Among the belles of Lancaster none was more popular with the young bloods of the day than Anne Colman. She was noted for her beauty, gentleness and tact.

Buchanan was elected to the State Legislature in 1814. Upon the expiration of his term he returned to Lancaster, where he fell madly in love with Anne Colman. After a brief but ardent courtship, he persuaded her to marry him. He was a most thoughtful and devoted wooer, exerting every effort to please Anne, even abandoning his political career, thinking he would be separated less from her were he not a servant of his country.

The young lawyer had reached the zenith of his happiness, betrothed to the woman he loved, succeeding in his chosen career, everything appeared in roseate colors, when he received a crushing blow that turned his day into night. Anne wrote asking to be released from her engagement; he was stunned; he had been so sure of her love that he could not blame her, he only pitied himself and prayed that she might be happy. Why Miss Colman broke her troth was never known, and if Buchanan knew he kept the secret safely locked within his own breast. It was late summer when the engagement was broken, and the following December Anne died, while on a visit to some friends in Philadelphia. Buchanan was almost distracted with grief, and the girl's father felt the keenest sympathy for the young man, treating him as though there had never been any misunderstanding.

Buchanan was so restless that he decided to return to public life and in 1820 accepted the nomination for Congress. When he went to Washington to take up his abode little did he realize that thirty-seven years later he was to enter it as the President of the United States. It is a strange thing that a woman's death could so change the course of a man's life, but so it was, for had Anne lived the name of James Buchanan would perhaps have remained in oblivion.

He always treated women with the greatest reverence, no matter how humble their station in life, but with all his deference to the sex, he never married.

Every honor that America can bestow upon her son she gave to him; Congressman, Senator, Cabinet officer, Ambassador to the Court of St. James and President of the United States.

While he was in the White House he bestowed his affections upon his orphaned niece, Harriet Lane. He did everything possible for her happiness, and she more than realized his expectations. She was beloved by everyone at the Capitol, and carried off the honors imposed upon her with a grace and ease worthy of a woman of twice her years. Had she been his own child the President could not have been more devoted, betraying in his correspondence, which has been preserved, a beautiful interest in her affairs, giving no hint of the cares of a nation that rested upon his shoulders.

At the close of his administration he returned to Lancaster, which held so many sad, tender recollections for him. He wrote a history of his administration, and died in his home in Wheatland in 1868.

XV.

WASHINGTON IRVING.

Never was a man more fitted for domestic ties than Washington Irving, the first American who obtained a European reputation merely as a man of letters, yet circumstances prevented his entering the marriage state. He was born in New York City April 3, 1783, the youngest of the eleven children of William and Sarah Sanders Irving. Washington was one of the first children to be named for a prominent man of the United States, a custom which has since become quite universal. When Washington Irving was a little tot his Scotch nurse followed President Washington into a shop, and drawing his attention to the little fellow said: "Please, your honor, here's a bairn was named for you." The great man was much pleased and putting his hand on the lad's head he gave him his blessing.

In 1805 Irving, who was preparing for the bar, entered the offices of Josiah Hoffman. The Hoffman family took a great fancy to the young man, and had him with them constantly. The second Hoffman daughter was then a shy little maid of 12, and little did Irving think that she was one day to become his fiancee.

When Washington Irving was 25 years old he became engaged to Matilda Hoffman; they were a most devoted couple and were most unhappy because they were forced to have a very long engagement, as the young man had no means with which to support a wife. In a letter to a dear friend, Irving writes: "We saw each other every day, and I became deeply attached. Her shyness wore off by degrees. The more I saw of her the more I had reason to love her—her brilliant little sister used to say that people began by admiring her, and ended by loving Matilda. For my part I idolized her." His love for this beautiful girl filled his whole life. He was poor and could not marry, but he had many arguments with himself about the propriety of doing so even without an income, and while he was looking about on every side for some way to better his fortunes, that he might take to his home this woman he loved so tenderly, her health began to fail and in a short time he was deprived of her companionship. She had taken a slight cold which developed into quick consumption; Irving was with her constantly. Her death cast a gloom over his life, from which it took him several years to recover. Always rather delicate, the death of his beloved was such a shock that he was forced to retire for a time to recover his strength of mind and body.

After his death a beautiful picture and lock of hair was found among his private papers, marked in his handwriting, "Matilda Hoffman." He also kept by him her Bible and prayer book. He lay with them under his pillow in the first days of his anguish and carried them with him always in all lands to the end of his life. In a little private note intended only for his own use were found these words after his death: "She died in the beauty of her youth and in my memory she will ever be young and beautiful." Not an unhappy fate to live thus in the memory of such a man.

Previous to his engagement to Miss Hoffman, Irving had seen a great deal of and written a great deal to Mary Fairlie, of Philadelphia, but his attachment seems to have been purely platonic. Irving took several trips abroad before his appointment as Secretary of the British Embassy and Ambassador to Spain; it was on one of these trips that he met the Fosters, who were to play such an important part in his life. Mrs. Foster had taken her three children to Dresden to finish their education and it was to Emily Foster that he became so attached. Irving had reached the time of life when he wanted to settle down, although he had by no means forgotten his first love, but he was young at the time of her death and it was natural that he should think of marriage again. He was taken with Emily from the first, but was doomed to another disappointment, for Miss Foster could not return his love; in later life she became Mrs. Fuller. He was a persistent wooer and when he realized that Emily could never love him, he determined never to marry, though he was particularly happy when leading a purely domestic life.

In a letter to Pauling, Irving writes: "Your picture of domestic enjoyment indeed raised my envy. With all my wandering habits, which are the results of circumstances rather than disposition, I think I was formed for an honest, domestic, uxorious man, and I cannot hear of my old cronies snugly nestled down with good wives and fine children round them, but I feel, for the moment, desolate and forlorn. Heavens, what a haphazard, schemeless life mine has been, that here I should be at this time of life, youth slipping away, and scribbling month after month and year after year, far from home, without any means or prospect of entering into matrimony, which I absolutely believe indispensable to the happiness and even comfort of the after part of existence."

Whether he gave Emily all the love that he had given Matilda, for whom he had mourned so many years, is not known, but he did feel that she was just the woman who could bring him the happiness which he had been denied. He spent the declining years of his life at Sunnyside, his charming home at Tarrytown, and when he died in 1859, he was buried in Sleepy Hollow, the place he had made immortal.

Lieut.-Col. William Cooper Procter, acting colonel of the First Regiment, Ohio National Guard, which is at the Mexican border, is probably the wealthiest soldier in this country. He is president of the Procter & Gamble Soap Company, draws a salary of at least $75,000 a year, and employs several thousand men and women.

Abram I. Elkus, who will succeed Henry Morgenthau as Ambassador to Turkey, is a lawyer by profession, a native of New York, and of German-Jewish stock. Reuben Borland of Yonkers, N. Y., who was recently elected president of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, began service with the company as a bobbin boy. He has been in the employ of the carpet company, the largest in the world, for thirty-five years. His salary as president, it is understood, will amount to $100,000 a year. His salary as a beginner was not more than $8 a week. Previous to his elevation to the presidency Mr. Borland was superintendent of the plant and in absolute control. He held several executive positions and because of his practical knowledge he was first in line for office of president.

All his works were sacred except some madrigals and festspiels. The great Bach family was at the head of things musical in Germany about that time, and they devoted themselves to sacred music largely. There were Bachs all through Germany, and they were almost all musical. There was something like a Bach guild in Thuringia. They worked with secular music as well, but they were most eminent as church musicians.

In France, Spain and Portugal they borrowed. The Italians had the field, and so much music that they could afford to lend. Spain never was original save for chorals which were really analogous to English anthems. Furthermore, in Spain, they rarely published, which was unfortunate for the opinion that posterity was to have for them. The English also borrowed from the Italians at the time. With the Puritan reaction in England there came an onslaught on choirs and organs, and everything churchly, until the restoration in 1660, when the Chapel Royal was reinstated. There was a lack of interest in religion in England and the music was dropped, although England has always had a healthy approval of everything done by Purcell and Humphrey.

The hymnology of the church is about on a par with the popular tunes of the day, in workmanship. There can be nothing in music more tawdry than the sort of hymns one is accustomed to hearing in and about prayer meetings and revivals. That they accomplish their purpose I have no doubt, and for that reason there is a place in the world for them, just as there is a place for the "Rosary" and for "When I Leave the World Behind," to cite two of our most dreadful compositions of modern times.

There is room in this world for the prophet and the Pharisee, and there must be songs for both. You cannot bring a sinning peddler to salvation with the "Stabat Mater" sung in Latin, but you have a fair chance of making him see the error of his ways with "Just as I Am," a hymn which Dwight Moody says has brought more sinners to repentance than any other hymn in the past fifty years. It has been translated into almost every language of the civilized world, and that would seem to mean that its influence has not been overestimated by the evangelist. Of course, it is a pretty bad piece of verse, and how anyone can be brought to salvation to the rhyme or tune of it is more than I can understand, and for myself a salvation gained by such means would be a very questionable benefit; but the fact remains, and so does the hymn. The very name of the publication in which the verse was issued for the first time is enough to depress me without hearing the words. The "Christian Remembrancer" brought it out first, and it was soon to spread all over England and be printed in leaflet form and distributed widely. There is a story that the verse reached the composer of the hymn, anonymously in this form, after many years of "frivolous" living upon her part, and that it brought her to a sense of—shall we say the fitness of things—and that the rest of her life was made beautiful by this touching coincidence; but the little story adds that the composer was ill for the rest of her life, and one is torn by wondering whether her music caused her to be so good that she was ill, or she was so ill that she had to be good. Be that as it may, the hymn was very effective; so effective that one missionary who attacked a city or was attacked by a city of such bigotry that he was said to have thrust his first into a lion's mouth, advised his followers (who we shall hope found the field a trifle softened as a result of the first missionary's efforts) to use this hymn in stubborn cases.

The psychology of revivals is most interesting. I do not believe that anyone, not even Huysmans, who seemed to go about literally seeking advanced salvation, could be saved by the Gregorian chant. It takes something violent and passionate to arouse the soul to flights of self-denial. The Roman church never pretended to gain souls by singing to them, and in this it was quite right, considering the intellectual nature of Roman church music.

The most solemn and dramatic song of the Middle Ages is undoubtedly the "Dies Irae." Composed by a monk in the twelfth century, the hymn still brings thousands to a great state of exaltation. But that sort of song, that and the great "Te Deum Laudamus," Bishop Ken's doxology, and the mass of Pope Marcellus, are at the pinacle of church music. But none of these is of the type of hymn with which we save souls in America. We shriek at them and promise them favors, in English so that they may understand, and we exhort them and blame them and threaten them with eternal damnation, and show them what cowards they are; and then we send the scale careering up and down, and before we know it they are on their knees to the good old key of C major.

Play a bit of ragtime to a collection of Americans and see how soon they are off their feet, and with a hymn of the Moody and Sankey type we send their spiritual emotions flying upward.

Issac Watts was the founder of our national hymnology. He felt our need; he felt the fact that we had not had for the first 1600 years of Christianity any songs which we could well be educated into singing ensemble, and he felt the need of the thrill in religion, so he began at the beginning, and the end is not yet. Wesley, too, for the English-speaking world, did wonders in the vogue of emotional singing, and his hymns are still among the most popular. That songs can upset nations is easily provable. "The Marseillaise," for example, has an influence which can scarcely be measured. And for Germany, "Ein Feste Burg," the war cry of the German reformation, is equally stirring.

Luther gave to the Germans many psalms as well as translations from the Latin which served as well as original hymns. Luther was a true composer. He had the right idea about the quickest method of gathering unto himself a flock. But the men who made history in saving souls by songs in the past thirty years were Messrs. Moody and Sankey. They stirred the religious up to the point of mania with their revival sermons and tunes, and the unreligious were soon brought against their wills, even, to repentance. Sankey was aware that the sort of rousing tune he sang would not be in place in conventional religious worship, and was only useable for the purpose of kindling momentary enthusiasm, which was expected to bring the enthusiast back again and by a series of new enthusiasms to lure him permanently from the path of sin. Moody did not sing himself, but he knew the value of singing, and Sankey was a good singer. Both men apparently knew that the worth of a song had nothing to do with its value as a savior. Mr. Sankey brought more men to grace by "Oh, what shall the harvest be, oh, what shall the harvest be" than he could have by lecturing. When he rolled out "Sowing the seed of a maddened brain" the inebriates fell on their knees and pledged themselves to a slow but sober life. But "The Ninety and Nine" goes down as Mr. Sankey's supreme contribution to the choir of lifesavers. That was the tune!

The Latins were strong in counterpoint, but when it came to gathering in the sheep we must give the laurels to the evangelists and their own particular theory.

AN APPRECIATION OF A VETERAN JOURNALIST.

In the New York Times is printed the subjoined sketch of the career of the late Maj. Ben C. Truman of Los Angeles, distinguished as a journalist, author and traveler, who recently died in his eighty-first year—evidently written by one who had been intimate with him while he served on the staff of that great New York newspaper:

A man who died at Los Angeles a few days ago was employed by the New York Times when its printers wore silk hats, but walked home nights to Brooklyn and Williamsburg. The man was a compositor then, but followed many other vocations later. He achieved distinction while "swinging around the circle" with President Johnson by sending the Times a dispatch from Chicago that was twelve columns long—said to be the longest telegram sent to any newspaper in the world up to that time.

He became, in his long career, a school principal, a feature writer, a proofreader, war correspondent, dramatic critic, composer of war songs, a playwright, confidential secretary to Andrew Johnson and an officer on his staff, a major in the army, a special agent of the Treasury Department, a paymaster in the army, a Washington correspondent, special agent for the Postoffice Department in charge of the Pacific Coast, an owner of five newspapers, a volunteer fireman, one of Southern California's publicists, a great traveler, a judge of good wines, an expert in food, a noted story teller, and a man of many friends.

His name was Maj. Ben C. Truman, and he was 81 years old when he died on July 18, last, at Los Angeles.

Maj. Truman came to New York City when it had three car lines, which ran a car an hour after midnight. In those days many bohemians used to gather at Pfaff's restaurant in lower Broadway, one of them being Ben Truman. A few of these men are still alive and remember his early history. There was also an old-fashioned saloon in Christie street, where Truman met Stephen C. Foster, the famous song writer. Foster wanted to write a song that would be as "famous as 'Home, Sweet Home,'" and after a conversation with Truman in the saloon composed "Way Down on the Suwanee River."

Maj. Truman was an intimate friend of Collis P. Huntington and was also on the best of terms with John C. Heenan, the "Benecia Boy," and John L. Sullivan. He knew every general in the armies of the North and the South, and many odd characters he had met in China and distant parts of the earth. He had a remarkable fondness for interesting persons, and, sent to Paris in 1889, his headquarters became a gathering place for persons who were either notables or notorious, but who were never dull.

Maj. Truman was born in Providence, R. I., on October 25, 1835, and became a school principal at Canterbury, N. H., when he was 17 years old. He learned to set type when he was 18, and began to write stories for the newspapers a year later. In 1855 he came to New York City and set type and read proof for the New York Times for five years.

Later, when he had developed his ability to tell good stories, he used to derive much humor from the spectacle of the printers in their splendid headgear, plodding miles to reach their homes. There were no busses in the city in those days, and one either had to walk or wait an hour until a car came along.

In 1860 he went to Philadelphia as a correspondent for the York Clipper and as a writer for the Sunday Mercury and Forney's Press. He also wrote criticisms of plays and composed war songs and war farces. John W. Forney recognized his ability and made him a war correspondent.

In 1862, when Andrew Johnson was made brigadier-general of volunteers and military Governor of Tennessee, he selected Truman as staff officer and confidential secretary, with the rank of captain. Truman also acted as war correspondent of the Philadelphia Press and the New York Times until the end of the war. He was elected the first major of the First Loyal White Regiment in Middle Tennessee, and was for a time provost marshal of Nashville.

He remained with Johnson until the end of the war, but went into the field at intervals and served on the staff of Gen. James S. Negley at the battle of Stone River, and with Gen. Kenner Gerrard at the battles of Spanish Fort, Mobile and Blakeley.

While he was war correspondent for the Times he sent this newspaper an account of the battle of Franklin two days before the news of it reached the War Department. The cutting of the wires between Nashville and Louisville enabled him to achieve this "beat." His description of the burning of Atlanta was published in the Times one day ahead of all other newspapers, and he sent the news of the battles of Spanish Fort and Blakeley to the Times and the Cincinnati Gazette five days before other papers printed it.

He also achieved distinction by his descriptions in the Times of the achievements of Thomas near Nashville in December, 1864, and by his "stories" of the battles of Stone River, Missionary Ridge, Resaca and Peach Tree Creek.

President Johnson sent for Truman after the assassination of President Lincoln and made him his confidential secretary, a post he held for eighteen months. During this time he spent eight months in the Southern States as a special commissioner in Johnson's scheme of reconstruction, and two months in Florida and South Carolina correcting abuses of the direct tax commissioners for those two States.

Later he was sent to Europe as a special agent of the Treasury Department, and upon his return the President appointed him a paymaster in the army. He expressed a desire to go to the Pacific Coast, and a special agency of the Postoffice Department was created for him. This gave him jurisdiction from Alaska to Mexico. He held this position for three years, in the course of which he made trips to China, Japan, Alaska, the Sandwich Islands and Mexico.

In 1869, after marrying Miss Augusta Mallard of Los Angeles, Truman went to Washington as the correspondent to the New York Times and San Francisco Bulletin. A year later he returned to the Pacific Coast and was appointed census marshal of San Diego county, after which he purchased the San Diego Bulletin. Two years later he moved to Los Angeles and became the editor of the Los Angeles Express. In 1873 he bought the Daily and Weekly Star from Henry Hamilton, but sold the paper to his printers in 1877.

He was again appointed special agent of the Postoffice Department on the Pacific Coast, and held the office for two years, when he became chief of the literary bureau of the Southern Pacific Company. He held this post for eleven years. In 1890 he went to Chicago and took charge of a Southern California exhibit for the Santa Fe Railroad, and in 1892 he was appointed assistant chief of floriculture of the World's Fair at Chicago.

In the intervals of his busy career Truman owned newspapers in Philadelphia, Nashville and San Francisco. He wrote books about Southern California and the civil war.

He remained a loyal champion of California until the end, and was active almost up to the day he died.

MEN AND EVENTS.

George Lamb of Indianapolis, who has just been placed on the retired list with a pension by the Big Four Railroad, has worked for the railroad since 1863. In his service of forty-four years as an engineer his train never killed or injured anyone.

Alonzo R. Gilman of Berwick, Me., has made a musical instrument in the form of a piano from rocks. It is played from a keyboard in the same way as a piano, the rocks being struck by hammers. Mr. Gilman was seventeen years in selecting rocks of the proper tone, and now the massive piano, which weighs 900 pounds, is in the home of Charles R. Gilman, the inventor's brother, at Hampstead, N. H.

Charles A. Gilman of St. Cloud, Minn., is running for a term as State Senator, which will round out for him a full half century in legislative life, begun in 1868 and including two years as Speaker of the House and two as Lieutenant-Governor.

William Rosweldt, a young farmer of Greenville, Wis., has a suffragette cow. She will not permit a man to come within her stable. To milk her Rosweldt disguises himself by putting on a Mother Hubbard and a bonnet.

John Henderson, colored, of Chicago, objects to being told by officials of a funeral benefit association that he is dead unless he receives the $100 funeral benefit allowed in such cases. He has filed suit against the Colored Medical Aid and Burial Association, claiming that for weekly payments of 35 cents, if he died he was to have a $100 funeral and if ill $5 a week. He had influenza last winter, he charged in his suit, but when he applied for his $5 a week the officials told him he was dead. Then he told them he wanted his $100.

Mrs. James F. Hess of Martin's Ferry, O., has just registered the fact that she has borne her husband the twentieth child. She is only 44. Only eight of the children are living. There were no plural births.

JAMES BUCHANAN.

BY MADISON C. PETERS.

James Buchanan was born in 1791 near Mercersburg, Pa. The elder Buchanan had migrated from Donegal, Ireland, eight years before. James was a studious lad, entering Dickinson College at 16. When the war with England broke out, although building up a promising practice, he joined an army of volunteers under Judge Shippen. They marched to Baltimore to defend it against the British, but were not called upon and Buchanan, therefore, did not see active service.

He was so engrossed in making a career for himself that he did not give much thought to the fair sex, although he was much sought after, particularly when he became known to fame. Among the belles of Lancaster none was more popular with the young bloods of the day than Anne Colman. She was noted for her beauty, gentleness and tact.

Buchanan was elected to the State Legislature in 1814. Upon the expiration of his term he returned to Lancaster, where he fell madly in love with Anne Colman. After a brief but ardent courtship, he persuaded her to marry him. He was a most thoughtful and devoted wooer, exerting every effort to please Anne, even abandoning his political career, thinking he would be separated less from her were he not a servant of his country.

The young lawyer had reached the zenith of his happiness, betrothed to the woman he loved, succeeding in his chosen career, everything appeared in roseate colors, when he received a crushing blow that turned his day into night. Anne wrote asking to be released from her engagement; he was stunned; he had been so sure of her love that he could not blame her, he only pitied himself and prayed that she might be happy. Why Miss Colman broke her troth was never known, and if Buchanan knew he kept the secret safely locked within his own breast. It was late summer when the engagement was broken, and the following December Anne died, while on a visit to some friends in Philadelphia. Buchanan was almost distracted with grief, and the girl's father felt the keenest sympathy for the young man, treating him as though there had never been any misunderstanding.

Buchanan was so restless that he decided to return to public life and in 1820 accepted the nomination for Congress. When he went to Washington to take up his abode little did he realize that thirty-seven years later he was to enter it as the President of the United States. It is a strange thing that a woman's death could so change the course of a man's life, but so it was, for had Anne lived the name of James Buchanan would perhaps have remained in oblivion.

He always treated women with the greatest reverence, no matter how humble their station in life, but with all his deference to the sex, he never married.

Every honor that America can bestow upon her son she gave to him; Congressman, Senator, Cabinet officer, Ambassador to the Court of St. James and President of the United States.

While he was in the White House he bestowed his affections upon his orphaned niece, Harriet Lane. He did everything possible for her happiness, and she more than realized his expectations. She was beloved by everyone at the Capitol, and carried off the honors imposed upon her with a grace and ease worthy of a woman of twice her years. Had she been his own child the President could not have been more devoted, betraying in his correspondence, which has been preserved, a beautiful interest in her affairs, giving no hint of the cares of a nation that rested upon his shoulders.

At the close of his administration he returned to Lancaster, which held so many sad, tender recollections for him. He wrote a history of his administration, and died in his home in Wheatland in 1868.

XV.

WASHINGTON IRVING.

Never was a man more fitted for domestic ties than Washington Irving, the first American who obtained a European reputation merely as a man of letters, yet circumstances prevented his entering the marriage state. He was born in New York City April 3, 1783, the youngest of the eleven children of William and Sarah Sanders Irving. Washington was one of the first children to be named for a prominent man of the United States, a custom which has since become quite universal. When Washington Irving was a little tot his Scotch nurse followed President Washington into a shop, and drawing his attention to the little fellow said: "Please, your honor, here's a bairn was named for you." The great man was much pleased and putting his hand on the lad's head he gave him his blessing.

In 1805 Irving, who was preparing for the bar, entered the offices of Josiah Hoffman. The Hoffman family took a great fancy to the young man, and had him with them constantly. The second Hoffman daughter was then a shy little maid of 12, and little did Irving think that she was one day to become his fiancee.

When Washington Irving was 25 years old he became engaged to Matilda Hoffman; they were a most devoted couple and were most unhappy because they were forced to have a very long engagement, as the young man had no means with which to support a wife. In a letter to a dear friend, Irving writes: "We saw each other every day, and I became deeply attached. Her shyness wore off by degrees. The more I saw of her the more I had reason to love her—her brilliant little sister used to say that people began by admiring her, and ended by loving Matilda. For my part I idolized her." His love for this beautiful girl filled his whole life. He was poor and could not marry, but he had many arguments with himself about the propriety of doing so even without an income, and while he was looking about on every side for some way to better his fortunes, that he might take to his home this woman he loved so tenderly, her health began to fail and in a short time he was deprived of her companionship. She had taken a slight cold which developed into quick consumption; Irving was with her constantly. Her death cast a gloom over his life, from which it took him several years to recover. Always rather delicate, the death of his beloved was such a shock that he was forced to retire for a time to recover his strength of mind and body.

After his death a beautiful picture and lock of hair was found among his private papers, marked in his handwriting, "Matilda Hoffman." He also kept by him her Bible and prayer book. He lay with them under his pillow in the first days of his anguish and carried them with him always in all lands to the end of his life. In a little private note intended only for his own use were found these words after his death: "She died in the beauty of her youth and in my memory she will ever be young and beautiful." Not an unhappy fate to live thus in the memory of such a man.

Previous to his engagement to Miss Hoffman, Irving had seen a great deal of and written a great deal to Mary Fairlie, of Philadelphia, but his attachment seems to have been purely platonic. Irving took several trips abroad before his appointment as Secretary of the British Embassy and Ambassador to Spain; it was on one of these trips that he met the Fosters, who were to play such an important part in his life. Mrs. Foster had taken her three children to Dresden to finish their education and it was to Emily Foster that he became so attached. Irving had reached the time of life when he wanted to settle down, although he had by no means forgotten his first love, but he was young at the time of her death and it was natural that he should think of marriage again. He was taken with Emily from the first, but was doomed to another disappointment, for Miss Foster could not return his love; in later life she became Mrs. Fuller. He was a persistent wooer and when he realized that Emily could never love him, he determined never to marry, though he was particularly happy when leading a purely domestic life.

In a letter to Pauling, Irving writes: "Your picture of domestic enjoyment indeed raised my envy. With all my wandering habits, which are the results of circumstances rather than disposition, I think I was formed for an honest, domestic, uxorious man, and I cannot hear of my old cronies snugly nestled down with good wives and fine children round them, but I feel, for the moment, desolate and forlorn. Heavens, what a haphazard, schemeless life mine has been, that here I should be at this time of life, youth slipping away, and scribbling month after month and year after year, far from home, without any means or prospect of entering into matrimony, which I absolutely believe indispensable to the happiness and even comfort of the after part of existence."

Whether he gave Emily all the love that he had given Matilda, for whom he had mourned so many years, is not known, but he did feel that she was just the woman who could bring him the happiness which he had been denied. He spent the declining years of his life at Sunnyside, his charming home at Tarrytown, and when he died in 1859, he was buried in Sleepy Hollow, the place he had made immortal.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Lieut.-Col. William Cooper Procter, acting colonel of the First Regiment, Ohio National Guard, which is at the Mexican border, is probably the wealthiest soldier in this country. He is president of the Procter & Gamble Soap Company, draws a salary of at least $75,000 a year, and employs several thousand men and women.

Abram I. Elkus, who will succeed Henry Morgenthau as Ambassador to Turkey, is a lawyer by profession, a native of New York, and of German-Jewish stock. He went to the public schools, then to the College of the City of New York, and afterward to the Columbia College law school. Admitted to the bar when he was 21 years old, he steadily rose in his profession. His influence as a counselor and advocate has been cast in favor of higher mercantile standards and for standardization of commercial methods, especially in bankruptcy and in warehousing of merchandise. He is a trustee of the Baron de Hirsch fund and directs expenditures which are made from it for educational and philanthropic agencies in the United States.

OF ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

To G.A.W.

Nymph of the downward smile and sidelong glance!
In what diviner moments of the day
Art thou most lovely? when gone far astray
Into the labyrinths of sweet utterance?
Or when serenely wandering in a trance
Of sober thought? Or when starting away,
With careless robe to meet the morning ray,
Thou sparest the flowers in thy mazy dance?
Haply 'tis when the ruby lips part sweetly,
And so remain, because thou listenest:
But thou to please wert nurtured so completely
That I can never tell what mood is best,
I shall as soon pronounce what Grace more neatly
Trips it before Apollo than the rest.

Recent Portrait Busts.

"Sculpture is the representation of a certain magnitude, in stone or other heavy material, of a complete expression of the living form."

Note well that heavy material must be used, and that the representation must be of "a certain magnitude." Sometimes wood is used instead of marble, iron or bronze, and though the statue may be protected from the wear an dtear of the elements, being placed on a pedestal in a museum, it lacks the effect of permanency that we associate with marble, and moreover it does not suggest great weight, tremendous solidity. The wooden statue is a piece of sculpture, of course, but we do not call it so. We call it a carving.

And what is the "certain magnitude" so necessary to sculpture? In the round, not less than twelve or fourteen inches in height, though in relief the law is not so inexorable. If very small, however, as in coins and cameos, we relegate the relief to the minor arts, though without derogation to its artistic value. It is only that we do not consider it under the head of sculpture, from which we demand "a certain magnitude." Reliefs may be smaller than rounds, as we see in the figures of the Parthenon frieze, which are less than life size, and which yet seem wonderfully "big" and impressive. The background, the "setting," helps the relief, but the sculpture in the round must "stand alone," literally and metaphorically.

Exactly why marble and bronze have been chosen as the appropriate materials for sculpture, the sculptor himself could not explain. He picked them out unconsciously, led by his higher instinct, as best for the representation of the universal and the typical. Sculpture is essentially static, the record of the supreme moment of controlled action or passion, and marble seems to fix the record for all time, and to give it a magnificent importance.

Undoubtedly individuals must have "posed" for the famous statues of antiquity, yet the sculptors have been able to forget the individual and represent the type—which is the enduring charm and triumph and distinction of great sculpture. Undoubtedly, too, these god-like young men and maidens were represented, at least sometimes, as performing definite actions, yet though the actions are often meaningless to us today, the sculptures themselves are as glorious and significant as they ever were. Mutilated by relentless time and chance—headless and armless—they still breathe on, they are as perfect in beauty as before. This wonderful artistic completeness in each of its parts is the gift of sculpture alone, no other art possesses it.

You may ask, and pertinently, why modern sculpture, the representation of the type, is employed so often in portraiture, which seems so preeminently the representation of the individual. Look at Rodin and you will find the answer. It is because in sculpture accent can be had without exaggeration, without the banality of caricature. Again, it is because sculpture lends itself to the simplest synthesis—it is a building up in a truer sense than can be applied to any other art. You reach the individual through the type.

In sculpture we have an art that exists in space exactly and as completely as the model itself. Only color is wanting, and that is often added, though not profitably, for one of the great glories of an art is its limitations. Sculpture has perfection of form, and has no need to call any other art to its aid.

The sculptor, working so surely and subtly toward the delineation of character, is a portraitist always. Sometimes unconsciously. When he is a conscious portraitist, his studio becomes a place of "animated busts," a gallery of men and women so alert, under the restraints of the laws of art, that they seem to conform to the laws of life itself.

This, at any rate, was the impression I got, a day or two ago, in the studio of Julia Bracken Wendt, when I was greeted by familiar faces, grave, gay, lively and serene, and came upon a number of new ones. For Mrs. Wendt, a woman of poetic imagination, has always been interested in human nature, and, of course in the individual quite as much as in the type. As I have intimated, to the sculptor the individual becomes, ultimately, the type.

Curiously enough, though nothing bearing on this question had been said, the friend who visited the studio with me remarked that Mrs. Wendt's portrait bust of Mr. Perry Weidner, on which she was working, suggested the type of the statesman, while that of Mr. Edward B. Butler of Chicago told of the financier. These two busts, as well as one of Judge Rhodes Hervey, are still "in the making," and all will be cast in bronze, the busts of the Los Angeles men to go to the permanent collection of the Masonic Temple, that of Mr. Butler being destined for the Art Institute, of which he is one of the directors. Mr. Butler, it will be remembered, is the donor of the superb collection of eighteen Innesses owned by the institute, a collection worth over $100,000.

Mr. Weidner and Judge Hervey may both deny the soft impeachments of the sculptor, but the portraits are there to prove that she is right. Judge Hervey may be more forensic than poetic in mind and temperament, but a fine artistic sensitiveness is recorded of him in clay. Nor do I believe that Julia Bracken Wendt builded better than she knew. I maintain that she did know.

Another notable portrait that Mrs. Wendt is now working on is the bust of the late Bishop Conaty, slightly larger than life size. It is to be carved in marble. The sculptor took a death mask of this great and good ecclesiastic and it is from this that she is working in the modeling of the portrait. The face of Bishop Conaty, as we all know, had a large nobility of form, a serene benignity of expression, and this fineness of character the artist has expressed, with the added beauty of "type" that, as I have said, adheres to portraiture in sculpture.

More difficult of execution, even more subtly searching than any I have enumerated, is the portrait of Mrs. Seeley Mudd, a feminine type of great refinement and delicacy. Men are "easier" to get (though none is really easy) because of greater ruggedness of form and temperament, and therefore an artist has achieved a special triumph when he reaches the inner shrine of a woman's soul. This supreme victory is Mrs. Wendt's in the present portrait bust, which has wonderful sensitiveness of expression. The very ruff that rolls outward from the slender throat is like the silken calyx of a delicate flower. The portrait is in striking contrast with the small portrait bust of Mr. Jack Wells, a virile sketch of much amplitude of lines and forms, despite its miniature size.

Of Julia Bracken Wendt's recent studies for fountains, sconces and memorial tablets, as well as a few delightfully imaginative figurines, I will write in a future article.

Art Club Activities.

Extending two months longer than at first planned, the traveling exhibition of paintings sent out by the California Art Club has proved to be one of the great art successes of the year and has created a wide interest in California art among clubs and educational institutions. Plans are already completed for a larger and better exhibition of paintings to be at the disposal of clubs and educational institutions the coming year. This new exhibition will be ready to start on its travels the latter part of October. It has already been "booked" by several large organizations, including one in Arizona.

The present traveling exhibition, which has just closed a successful showing in the new Boyle Heights library building, started on its long journey on the first day of last November, and has been constantly on view since that time, with but one or two days between exhibits and eight days for the holiday season. This fine record has been maintained despite the fact that the heavy winter rains made it necessary to reroute entirely the pictures for the month of February and change the entire programme for that month, as many small towns could not be reached.

The exhibition comprises fifty-four paintings of sterling quality. It has been shown in many clubs and schools and in seven public libraries, including the branch at Vernon, the libraries at Alhambra, Long Beach, Fullerton, Boyle Heights, Santa Barbara and Redondo Beach. In the last-named city the pictures were shown under the auspices of the Redondo Civic Outlook Club. In Santa Barbara the exhibition was made a community event, the "art week," for which many of the society matrons gave up their "at homes." Classes from all the public and private schools, from and including the first grade up, visited the exhibition for special gallery tours given by Miss Alma May Cook, who has had entire charge of the work for the California Art Club.

Miss Cook spoke three times each day during the week in Santa Barbara, and gave two evening lectures to large audiences, using the Lumiere color slides as illustrations. She has achieved the enviable record of presenting art before a larger number of clubs and educational institutions than any other person in the history of art in California, having spoken before eighty audiences since last October, with an average of 200 people at each gathering. She has traveled 2000 miles in Southern California, carrying the message of western art, and has spoken before many of the educational institutions as well as prominent clubs. Dates are already being made for her lectures to be given before some of the best-known clubs during the coming year. Miss Cook's work is one of love and devotion to art, for she asks no pay for her services.

The lectures for the 1916-17 season will cover a wide scope, to include the general history of art, American art, one especially on the art of California, and one devoted to the civic art that has been accomplished in this country, with special reference to the possibilities for civic art in the West. These lectures will be so arranged that they may be given as a series or singly, each to be illustrated with color slides.

As this work is being put out entirely as an educational feature by the California Art Club, with the co-operation of Miss Cook, the cost for the traveling exhibitions and lectures will barely cover necessary expenses for transportation, stereopticon machine and the services of an operator. Small clubs will therefore find it possible to avail themselves of this golden opportunity.

Salzbrenner Portraits.

Albert Salzbrenner, a painter from Dresden, who has had his studio in the Waldorf, New York, since 1895, recently painted, in Salt Lake City, the present Smith who is at the head of the Mormon Church. Mr. Salzbrenner passed through Los Angeles last week on his way to San Diego from Salt Lake. In the southern city he will paint the portrait of Gen. J. McClallun.

The artist makes a western trip almost every year. The Pasadenans painted by him in 1912 are C. H. Davis and Adolph Busch. Other well-known Americans whose portraits have been painted by Mr. Salzbrenner are Theodore Havemeyer, Fred Weyerhauser and James J. Hill.

Appreciation.

From a correspondent in Redlands:

"Have just finished reading your Art and Artists with a sigh of satisfaction that you are remaining 'on the job' while the summer laziness hovers over so much of the art world. I wonder if you know how much of a messenger to Garcia you are with your column of refreshing art chat. For years I have picked out that section from the read and relegated Sunday Times and put it in my scrap book—proof positive that there was an understanding soul fighting to keep the fire alive in the public mind of the great Southwest. You've succeeded in fanning the fire into glorious blaze in Los Angeles, I know, for there is so much doing in art circles now."

News and Notes.

Jean Mannheim and Louis Hovey Sharp are at Laguna Beach, "using up some of our superfluous tubes of blue," to quote Mr. Sharp, who adds that he is now painting his first marines since he was in Sicily some years ago.

Stella Trask, a well-known painter of Oakland, has been sketching round Los Angeles for the past few weeks. She expresses herself as delighted with the dun-colored hills of the Southland in summer.

Martin J. Jackson, whose studio is now in the Bradbury Building, recently finished two successful portraits of Los Angeles men, those of Mr. John Minassian and Dr. J. S. Allison. He expects to hold an exhibition soon.

Two well-known painters who are studying the "types" in the neighborhood of Santa Fe, N. M., this summer are Robert Henri and Victor Higgins. Warren E. Rollins is at Zuni.

The American pictures now being shown at Exposition Park will remain through August and September, when they will be succeeded by the annual show of the California Art Club, which lasts through October.

Charles Brown, a New Rome (Wis.) farmer, has taken a contract with the United States department of biology to furnish that organization with 200 crows. An effort will be made to determine which kind of crows are destructive.

Dull Days at Home.

In pursuance of summer social diversions, society has migrated to the country and seaside. Even visitors, who are always inspiration for entertaining, are few now, with the result that, as never before this year, the social calendar is devoid of noticeable festivities. Picnics, swimming parties, golf and tennis are in the fore.

The country clubs—usually the center of town affairs in midsummer—have registered little gayety, and very little is anticipated until the twice-a-month dinner dances are resumed, which will not be until October.

During the week there has been little to engage Milady-stay-at-home. Mrs. James Tabor Fitzgerald gave a stunning little dinner affair Monday evening, in compliment to Mrs. Charles Peyton, who returned to here West Virginia home Thursday, at the conclusion of her annual visit to her daughter, Mrs. Forrest Q. Stanton. The affair was attended by Huber Spahr, who shared honors, and Mr. and Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Miss Nina Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Hollingsworth, the John C. Bannisters and the Forrest Stantons. They occupied a box at the Orpheum later.

The following day was Mrs. James P. Burns's auction bridge luncheon also for Mrs. Peyton, and attended by Mrs. Chappel Q. Stanton, Mrs. Forrest Q. Stanton, Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth, Mrs. Alexander B. Barret, Mrs. Robert P. McJohnston, Mrs. John C. Bannister, Mrs. William Mead, Mrs. Maude L. Baldwin, Mrs. R. H. Edwards, Mrs. Eugene Hawkins, Mrs. Roland Paul and Miss Nina Robinson.

Wednesday brought the marriage of Miss Edna Georgiana Bovard, the eldest daughter of President George Finley Bovard of the University of Southern California, and Mrs. Bovard, to John Sheldon Malcom—an exquisite rainbow wedding, with eight sorority sisters, suggesting by their delicately-tinted, fluffy frocks of net over taffeta, all the rich shadings of Noah's bow—Mrs. Earl Burke and Mrs. Albert Schinneller, in pink; Mrs. Albert Paul and Miss Evelyn Dayman, lavender; Mrs. William Palmer and Miss Evelyn Trapp, sea-foam green, and Mrs. Lemuel Norris and Mrs. Joseph Copp, yellow.

Mrs. Charles Warren Swiggett, matron of honor for her sister, was in her own shimmery white satin wedding gown, and Warren Bradley Bovard gave his sister into the keeping of Mr. Malcom. Frank Robinson, as groomsman, completed the party. President Bovard, assisted by Dr. E. A. Healy, who was former pastor of the University Methodist Episcopal Church, but is now dean of the theological department of the university, read the lines.

This is the culmination of a college romance, and unites a native son and native daughter who have always enjoyed a wide popularity. The newlyweds are motoring through Northern California.

Wednesday also was the garden party and picnic which Mrs. Eliza Adams gave in farewell to Mrs. Frederick K. Adams of the Averill Study Club, who within a few days will start for Rochester, N. Y., her former home. About thirty ladies enjoyed this gracious hostess' hospitality.

Mrs. Charles H. McKevitt opened her West Adams-street home Wednesday for a pretty luncheon compliment to Mrs. Celia A. White and Miss Valentine Hernandez, but recently returned from an extended European trip. Guests were seated at small tables, decked in vivid autumn flowers and foliage, and included, in addition to the honorees: Mrs. Stoddard Jess, Mrs. Joseph D. Radford, Mrs. A. J. Waters, Mrs. Percy Clark, Mrs. A. J. Salisbury, Mrs. Thorpe, Mrs. H. W. and Miss Brainerd, Miss Kibbee, Mrs. E. P. Hubbard, Mrs. Felix Howes, Mrs. A. Lester Best, Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Miss Marie F. Stowell, Mrs. Charles Teague and Mrs. Bullis.

Thursday brought Mrs. Frank B. Ranger's beach party to two New Yorkers, Mrs. M. V. Beach and her niece, Miss Jeanette Belvoir, a boarding-school girl who still has another year before making her bow to society.

Mrs. Joseph Harvey Miles, summering at Hermosa Beach, also chose that day to entertain several friends who constitute a card club, the personnel numbering Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth, Mrs. Stoddard Jess, Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Mrs. E. D. Roberts, Mrs. Richard Vincent Day, Mrs. Owen Humphreys Churchill, Mrs. S. M. Goddard, Mrs. Charles McFarland, Mrs. A. J. Salisbury, Mrs. Oscar May Souden, Mrs. Mary S. Strohn, Mrs. James Tabor Fitzgerald, Mrs. Frank Walsh, Mrs. Leon Moss and Mrs. Seeley W. Mudd.

The party motored down early in the day, and enjoyed a bountiful luncheon. Later the usual auction game prevailed.

Last night was the W. J. Pearson dinner-dance, planned as a happy observance of the birthdays of Mrs. Turner Elmer Weatherholt and Mr. Pearson, with Mrs. Pearson hostess. All the appointments were in pink, and covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Weatherholt, Mr. and Mrs. N. James Cordary, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Witzel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Ranger, Mrs. Katherine Van Alstyne, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott and the hosts.

There are planned for the immediate future a few functions, very informal, as are all midsummer affairs.

Newcomers Entertain.

Bert C. Davis, wealthy sportsman, recently of San Jose, and his sister, Rose Davis Arthur, are now furnishing their new home on fashionable Oak Knoll, Pasadena, where they will give a house-warming soon.

The grounds cover ten acres, and a novel feature is the swimming pool, 50x150, placed in the patio and containing salt water.

Wednesday evening these newcomers entertained in compliment to Prince Roberta Michelo of Italy and Kenneth Newell of San Jose. Among those bidden were Mrs. Henri Bordina of Milan, Italy; Mrs. Frank Deering, Mrs. George Winterbore and Mrs. Walter Dummart of New York; Mrs. Fred C. Adams, Mrs. A. C. Hamiel, Kenneth Hartly, Frederick Hardihel and Morgan F. Hollis.

For Easterners.

Mrs. M. V. Beach of New York City and her niece, Miss Jeannete Belvoir, who are visitors here, have been much entertained all week. Mrs. Frank B. Ranger of Oxford boulevard, with whom they traveled on the same steamer to Alaska last month, gave the ladies a smart dinner party Monday night, and a plunge party at the beach Tuesday. Thursday afternoon a large number of ladies motored to the Venice home of Mrs. Ranger's mother for a swim, the company being augmented for a picnic supper and dancing by an equal number of gentlemen. Bidden were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Elmer Weatherholt, Mr. and Mrs. N. James Cordary, Mr. and Mrs. A. Witzel, Dr. and Mrs. Rea Cowan, Mrs. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Scott, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pearson, Ellis Davis and the honorees.

Leaving their home in the East several weeks ago, Mrs. Beach and Miss Belvoir went first to the Yellowstone National Park and later to Alaska. They have been entertained at Portland and motored from San Francisco to Santa Barbara and Montecito with friends, and later here. They will go from this city to the Grand Canyon and be in New York in time for Miss Belvoir to visit a boarding-school friend in Maryland early in September.

While in the land of the midnight sun, Mrs. Ranger and the visitors were entertained in the "White House" of Skagway by Col. W. L. Stevenson, a close friend of Joe Boyle, the Klondike gold king, who was at the Alexandria a fortnight ago.

Should Mrs. Beach and Miss Belvoir continue their stay this week many additional courtesies are to be extended them, though most of their time is, of course, spent in "seeing California."

Host at Dinner.

At the Maryland Hotel in Pasadena Wednesday night, Mode Wineman, the artist and writer of short polo stories, presided over a smart dinner complimenting Mr. and Mrs. J. C. The Daniels are recent comers to Southern California, and are building in the Crown City a beautiful residence on the brink of the Arroyo Seco, at Lester avenue. Mrs. Daniels was the daughter of O. W. Potter of Chicago, a railway magnate, is decidedly literary and of striking personality.

Bidden were Miss Baxter, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, Mrs. Menzo Williams, Mrs. Harry E. Peterson, Mrs. Clifford S. Now Mrs. Metz.

Miss Etta E. Ayers, for many years supervisor of music in the McKinley Intermediate High School, became the bride of Joseph A. Metz, principal in one of the schools of the city, Thursday night, the service having been read by Rev. T. C. Knowles at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of sixty friends and kinsfolk, who gathered at the parental Vance Ayers home at No. 4306 Halldale avenue. The music was furnished by some of the pupils of the former Miss Ayers, with Miss Irene Adler at the piano, aided by first and second violin and soloist.

The bride, in a gown of white hand-darned net over taffeta, with her veil worn becomingly in a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls, and carrying a shower bouquet of valley lilies and fern, was attended by her sister, Miss Lucile J. Ayers, who chose pink pussywillow taffeta and hand-embroidered lace for her bridesmaid frock. Killarney roses were carried. Jack Metz was best man for his brother and two little girls, Virginia Stewart, a second cousin to the bride, and Buddie Metz, the groom's niece, carried gilded Red Riding-Hood baskets filled with rose petals to strew along the bridal path. Girl and boy school friends ushered and served the buffet supper.

Throughout the house pink-and-rose decorations prevailed, with woods of greenery for a background. A profusion of amaryllis, in pink,

HAIR REMOVERS ARE DANGEROUS

Don't Use Poisonous So-Called Superfluous Hair Removers.

You may escape permanent injury if you use pastes, rub-on preparations and liquid imitations of DeMiracle, the original liquid hair remover, but you cannot escape an increased growth, because such things only remove hair from the surface of the skin.

The safest and surest way to remove hair is to devitalize it. DeMiracle, the original liquid hair remover, does this by absorption, therefore it attacks hair under the skin as well as on the skin.

DeMiracle works equally well for removing hair from face, neck, arms and under arms, or from limbs to prevent it from showing through stockings. Avoid disappointment, buy DeMiracle by name and you will get the only depilatory that has ever been indorsed by reputable physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

In 50c, $1.00 and $2.00 bottles. The larger sizes are the most economical for dermatologists and large users to buy. At all toilet counters or direct from us. The truth about the treatment of superfluous hair mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. DeMiracle Chemical Co., Dept. I., Park avenue and 129th street, New York.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY

Pasadena.

PASADENA society has overcome its summer ennui to entertain two charming young lady visitors from eastern cities—Miss Irene Wood of Boston and Miss Myra Morgan of Washington, D. C., the house guests of Mrs. Sherman Hoyt and her daughters, Miss Ruth and Miss Blossom. Miss Wood was the college room-mate of Miss Ruth Hoyt, as was Miss Morgan of Miss Blossom. The eastern visitors have been the motif for a number of interesting but informal social events, as befits the summer time. Miss Wood is the daughter of William N. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company. Last Tuesday evening Mrs. Hoyt gave a large dinner party for Miss Wood at the Valley Hunt Club, just preceding a dancing party by Miss Beatrice Bush, which was attended by the dinner guests. Mrs. Hoyt and the "big four" went to Coronado Thursday for the week-end. Soon Mrs. Hoyt is to give a dance that is pleasantly anticipated. A dancing party, given last week by Mrs. Hoyt for Miss Morgan, was attended by members of the younger set.

A pretty August wedding was that of Miss Florence Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Stewart, and Earl Penwarden. Rev. Charles F. Seitter, pastor of Washington-street Methodist Church, officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Cora Stewart, maid of honor. Miss Stewart was charming in a pale pink crepe de chine, accordion-pleated, and carried a shower of Cecil Brunner roses. Elmer Awl was Mr. Penwarden's best man, and Mrs. Awl, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the piano. Lovely little Betty Awl was ring-bearer and flower girl, carrying the ring gracefully in a magnolia blossom. The bride was most becomingly gowned in white filet lace over white satin and silk tulle veil. Music was an attractive feature of the occasion. Mrs. Howard McVitty sang "O Promise Me," and Mrs. Awl, when playing the Mendelssohn "Wedding March," was accompanied by Frank Richards and the bridegroom's brother, Walter Penwarden.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Young of Stanford avenue was bright with pink and white dahlias Thursday evening when their daughter, Miss Ethel Young, and Kenneth Rich were united in marriage, Rev. William C. Hull, pastor of the Washington Christian Church, officiating. Fifty friends attended the wedding ceremony at 8 o'clock. The wedding music was played by little Flora Nay, who is a talented pianist at 10 years of age. The bride and groom have many friends in Pasadena, and the wedding was preceded by a number of social affairs.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Bundy, daughter of Mrs. Harlow Bundy, and Leigh Guyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gerald Guyer of Altadena, was received with unusual interest. Both young people are very well known and they have received many congratulations. As yet no date has been announced for the wedding. Azusa.

THIS summer season is proving for all our socially-inclined to be the gayest in many years. This week especially has been marked with many delightful affairs. Last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. T. Lindley on East Center street she entertained with a delightful bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Arthur M. Brown, who, with Mr. Brown, will shortly move to Pasadena. The dining-room was artistically decorated in a color scheme of yellow, dainty little butterflies giving it an enhanced beauty of the gay summer season. Plates were laid for sixteen. After luncheon bridge was greatly enjoyed. The guests included Mrs. Brown and daughter Elizabeth, Mrs. E. V. Rice, Mrs. R. M. Douglass, Mrs. William Griswold, Miss Griswold, Mrs. James R. Elliott, Mrs. William A. Jones, Mrs. John Brock, Miss Watson, Mrs. Arthur Powell, Mrs. Mary A. Fuller, Mrs. Margaret Stair, Mrs. R. M. Philleo and Mrs. J. E. Stair.

Another very pleasant farewell party was given Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. P. Nattatal in honor of Mrs. J. H. Anderson. Mrs. Mattatal and Mrs. C. V. Cain were the gracious hostesses of the occasion. Mrs. Anderson had expected to spend the afternoon with three or four friends, and upon her arrival was greeted by about twenty-five. The home was tastefully decorated in Belladona lilies and ferns. Following a delightful afternoon of stitch and chat, a dainty collation was served. During a residence here of about eight years Mrs. Anderson has made many friends, who will greatly miss her from their circles when she leaves in a couple of weeks for her new home in Oregon. The invited guests were the Mmes. Anderson, C. L. Smith, H. S. Rogers, W. G. Hall, S. A. Ellis, J. R. Eldred, John E. Hill, Carlton Gatton, F. L. Clark, Edwin Mace, Charles Morgan, M. McNeill of Uplands, and Rev. Malcolm C. Martin. They will all visit in their home cities and expect to be away six or seven weeks.

Rivera.

THE Osborn Burke home on the Passons boulevard has been the scene of much pleasant hospitality lately, since the Misses May and Glaynes Murphy have been guests. These popular young ladies are from Fresno, but with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Murphy, were former residents of the Rivera district and have hosts of friends who welcome them whenever they visit the old home. Many pleasant social affairs have been planned for the young ladies, one of the most delightful being the luncheon which Mrs. Burke, their hostess, gave for them at her home Thursday. Beautiful big red dahlias and ferns were used in the floral decorations and the rooms presented a scene of rare loveliness. The afternoon was spent informally, in the manner most agreeable to old and dear friends. Aside from the host and hostess and the honor guests, others at table were the Mmes. A. A. White, W. D. Spencer, Easton, H. R. Robertson, Frederickson, John Lynch, E. H. Root and Miss Kate Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Shade and their son Enos of the Shade road, accompanied by Richard Osmun of Whittier, have returned from a five-weeks' vacation trip in the northern part of the State. They spent some time at the Yosemite Valley, among the big trees, at Monterey, and from the coast motored inland to the Big Sur, spending some time along this majestic river and in the adjoining mountains. While in San Francisco they were the guests of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Magill have a happy custom of entertaining in a good, old-fashioned way on Sunday, and there is seldom a Sunday but what their home is the rendezvous for many relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Magill entertain people of their own or approximate ages, and their son Albert and his young cousin, Ernest Magill, who is spending the summer here from Texas, are most sure to have a house full of young people. Last Sunday the Magills had for their guests at luncheon Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hannah of Huntington Park and H. S. Magill and his son Henry from Pomona.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Walker, who have been residents of the Rivera district for the past three years, are moving the first of the week to Los Angeles to be nearer Mr. Walker's business. They will still retain their orange ranch and will frequently spend the week-end at Rivera.

The members of the Pio Pico Club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. J. P. Magill, Thursday afternoon, and a delicious collation was served. The meeting was entirely informal, no business being transacted, the club meeting in a purely social way. Some thirty of the members attended. The club adjourned the latter part of June to meet in September and the meeting at Mrs. Magill's was not really a club meeting, but a social meeting of the members.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Mather are touring the northern part of the State, driving through in their automobile. They will visit relatives in Humboldt county and spend about six weeks on the road and in visiting places of interest en route.

W. A. Hood of Phoenix was a recent house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Clark of Orange road.

J. J. Haggarty

—There always has been so much talk about the unusually smart style and the exquisitely good quality of the Style Shop's wraps that when we receive something unusual we want every woman to know about it.

—We do want you, who are reading this advertisement to know that this is by far and away the handsomest collection of motor and street coats we've ever assembled—also that they are very moderately priced.

And While They are Exquisite, They are At the Same Time Unusually Wearable

—We don't see how style and quality could be better combined. The materials are those luxurious Bolivias, Broadtails, Broadcloths, Plushes and Wool Velours which speak in a twinkling of Fashion-luxury and which have proven so quality-satisfying.

—Trimmings are of fur—Hudson seal, mole, fox and beaver—or else some new kind of novelty fabric that you have never seen before and that you will fairly love. Linings lean toward the Oriental and have wonderful wear-resisting qualities.

—Wish we could take this whole page to tell you more. It will be better, though, for you to come and see them for yourself.

Some of the Best Values for Monday Are New Flare Model Velour and Mixture Coats at $17.50 and $19.50

—Of course, if a woman is not overly particular she can pick up a suit bargain at any of the stores which have stocks remaining from the Spring and Summer season. But if she would choose from new Fall styles at moderate prices she will select one at the Style Shop.

—Both fur-trimmed and velvet-trimmed suits are specially priced for Monday at $18.75 and $25.00.

Moneta.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS BIGGERT and daughter, Miss Ethel, of Strawberry avenue, were much surprised a few nights since when all doors opened simultaneously, admitting a little crowd of forty friends from points more or less distant throughout the valley. The Biggerts, long-time residents of a large ranch, have recently completed a fine new home, and this event was really a "housewarming." Sumptuous refreshments were smuggled in, but coffee was made right out loud in the delightfully-equipped kitchen. A jollier crowd of old-timers and later-comers never got together. Reminiscence and music sped the time all too quickly. Miss Biggert, herself an enthusiastic musician, presided at the piano, as did also Miss Florence Matson. There were solos by Mrs. Jimmie Woodruff, Miss Biggert, Mrs. Tom Biggert, and there were the old songs participated in by all.

The charming home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Goss on Strawberry street was the scene of a most delightful picnic on Friday. The ladies of the Ways and Means Committee of the Presbyterian Church had some sewing on hand and some plans to make, hence the picnic. Among the invited guests were just a few men, a fortunate circumstance, for without their aid the ladies were wholly inadequate to the task of doing away with the feast they had spread before them.

Practically the whole community united in a shower given for Mrs. C. B. Traveller at the church annex, Wednesday afternoon. The contributions were very generous.

Oxnard.

FOUR young ladies popular in Oxnard society, the Misses Alice Eastwood, Jessie Gill, Mattie Vickers and Florence Taylor, were hostesses at a delightful dancing party given Wednesday evening in Knights of Columbus Hall. They were assisted in entertaining their guests, about seventy-five couples, by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Eastwood, Mrs. A. Gill, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vickers and Mr. and Mrs. George T. Taylor. A color scheme of pink blended atractively with the white and light-green decorations of the hall, and was carried out by pink-shaded lights and large bouquets of flowers. One of the early dances was a pretty favor dance, with fans for the ladies and caps for the gentlemen. The caps were worn during the remainder of the evening, adding a gay note to the scene. A five-piece orchestra of negro players furnished the music. Punch was served throughout the evening, and a delicious buffet luncheon was served.

Mrs. Charles Donlon entertained about forty ladies at bridge and five hundred at her country home near Hueneme Wednesday. Seven tables were occupied with bridge, two with five hundred. Prizes were awarded at each table. An elaborate buffet luncheon followed the afternoon's play. The room were attractively decorated with summer flowers from the Donlon gardens.

Complimenting her guest, Miss Agnes Cooney of Los Angeles, Miss Anna Hernandez was hostess at a merry dinner party Wednesday evening at her home in Camarillo. Music and cards pleasantly occupied the later part of the evening. The guests were: Miss Cooney, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Hernandez and Andrew Sanches.

The seventeenth birthday of Maurice O'Brien was the occasion of a merry surprise party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Brien. About twenty young people composed the party, which gaily bore the young host to a moving-picture show during the early part of the evening, then returned to the O'Brien home for a pleasant social evening. Delicious refreshments were provided by the guests.

Among the most successful of recent amateur entertainments was the extravaganza, "In the Palace of the Queen," given Monday night by the Rebekah Lodge. About fifty singers and dancers, all well-liked Oxnard amateurs, took part in the production, for which the operahouse was crowded. Those taking the principal parts were: Miss Julie Barre, Miss Blanche Eastwood, Mrs. Olive Diffenderffer, Miss Frances Barre, Mrs. Gertrude Treher, Mrs. Hannah Richardson, Mrs. Dorothy Backus, Miss Helen Austin, Miss Ora Carnes, Miss Cecelia Maulhardt, Mrs. Katherine Lisko, Miss Blanche Baker, Miss Berenice Livingston; Messrs. John Roady, Frank McCarthy, Paul Lehmann, T. Lynch, J. Leslie Forster, Fred Pidduck, George DeHoff, Charles Lamb, James Horton, Robert Best and Frank Lilly; little Misses Jeanette and Phyllis Tracy, Gladys Lisko and Master Phillip Tracy; and the choruses were attractive and well costumed.

Announcement has been made of the marriage in San Francisco of Miss Tillie Wedel of Oxnard to Mr. William Morrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrill of Montalvo. Mr. and Mrs. Morrill will live in San Francisco.

A jolly neighborhood gathering was arranged Monday night in Moorpark, when Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Birrell and family were welcomed as residents of Moorpark. They come from San Diego to make their home here.

Mrs. Emil Kettler and two children of Huntington Park have been the guests, recently, of her sister, Mrs. H. L. Bither, and her mother, Mrs. B. Williams. During her stay in Oxnard she was also a guest of Mrs. Charles Eason, Jr., another sister.

Garden Grove.

Tden Groveites have utilized the recent summer solstice for a recent summer solstice for a recreation season. Among those enjoying a stay at the beach are Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Violett, who maintain a cottage at Seal Beach. On Thursday Mrs. Violett assisted her son, Malcom Wharton, in entertaining a number of his college friends at the beach home. Miss Ruth Violett was also a charming aide in the entertainment of the college men and the young women who were invited to meet them. The guests were treated to boating, swimming and all of the other amusements afforded by the resort, and enjoyed the day to the utmost. Three of the guests, Mr. Earl Chapman of Rivera, Mr. Radcliffe of Burbank and Mr. Waterman of Pasadena, were fellow-students of Mr. Wharton at Oregon Agricultural College last year. All of the men are fraternity brothers in Alpha Tau Omega. Another guest was Mr. Paul Davis of Garden Grove, who attended Ann Arbor last year. Miss Flora McFadden of Santa Ana and Mrs. Westover of Yuma, Ariz., were the feminine guests.

Two prominent residents of Garden Grove, Mr. Arthur Schnitger and Mr. Edward Schneider, have been enjoying a glorious two weeks' vacation in Tulare county, whither they motored in Mr. Schnitger's machine. Leaving the automobile at Springville the tourists went on pack horses into the heart of the mountains, camping just outside Sequoia National Park, their time being spent principally in fishing speckled trout from the streams that abound among the big trees. After an interesting stay at that spot the party of two motored to Fresno, where the homeward trip was begun, the coast route being followed and stops at all the beaches on the way being made. Every minute of the trip was enjoyed by the travelers.

Miss Maud Aronhalt very handsomely entertained the members of her music class on Wednesday afternoon, the event being in the nature of a recital and an hour of musical games. Those taking part in the recital programme were: Wilma Ward, Flotial Crane, Mary Crane, Delia Halloway, Helen Wight, Laura Lehnhardt, Walter Lehnhardt, Ruth Allen, Lucile Allen, Lawrence Allen, Ralph Emerson and Thelma Emerson. The guest list included twenty-four people and following the musical treat dainty refreshments were served al fresco.

Tustin.

THE recent "hot spell" has sent a large proportion of society folk of Tustin to the resorts by seaside and in the "everlasting hills." The lure of dashing waves or the cooling breeze of the mountainside have proved irresistible, and those who were not fortunate enough to be able to take vacation trips have been either too busy looking after necessary business transactions, ranch interests, or in trying to keep cool in the shade of Tustin's magnificent trees to indulge in social affairs. One of the most popular recreations has been the jaunt, either long or short, by automobile, and among those who have enjoyed touring in this fashion are F. B. Browning and family, who have taken a glorious four weeks' tour in the Yosemite Valley and in the fishing district on the picturesque Merced River. The journey was made without the slightest automobile trouble, and was taken in a 1912 Cadillac car, which has done faithful service to the tune of 65,000 miles of travel since in the Browning ownership. The glorious tour recently taken is sufficient in itself to endear the efficient and faithful machine to the Brownings, who will doubtless retain the car for many seasons to come for the good that it has done.

Prof. E. M. Nealley, sociologist and lecturer, as well as educator of more than local renown, left Tustin on Monday for an automobile trip into the Kern River section. He is a member of a party of financiers, educators and business men who have joined forces for the finding of a retreat in the remote mountains far from the "madding crowd," where neither telegrams, nor daily papers, nor summons from home may call them back to civilization before they are good and ready to return. Others in the party besides Mr. Nealley are President A. J. Crookshank of the First National Bank of Santa Ana, E. E. Keech, lawyer and politician of Santa Ana; Prof. J. C. Templeton, Superintendent of Modesto schools; Prof. Ayers of the University of Oregon, Coast Representative Shumate of Ginn & Company, San Francisco, and H. R. King, merchant of Seattle.

Another automobiling party is comprised of E. D. Burge and family of this city, who left recently for the mountains near Bakersfield, where they will spend several weeks in what they anticipated would be a most delightful outing. The party traveled in two automobiles, with a trailer attached to one of these carrying camp equipment and supplies. The charming daughters of the Burges had particularly bright anticipations of the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. John Poh and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Nordstrom and daughter, Norma, were among others who sought the pleasures of the seaside, having spent a most delightful week-end at Arch Beach recently. They enjoyed the charm of an old-fashioned camping stay at this picturesque resort.

Gardena.

THE Gardena Wednesday Progressive Club during its vacation, which began June 21, has not ceased all its activities. The parliamentary study section, under the direction of Mrs. H. P. Sweet of Magnolia street, held its third meeting last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Struthers, the club's president. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Jimmie Woodruff at her home on Vermont avenue. The annual picnic came off in June at the ranch home of Mrs. C. W. Stevenson. A second picnic, scheduled for the 14th inst., has been postponed. The social section, holding monthly meetings for cards and dancing, has on each evening a well-filled hall. A summer affair, the afternoon pink tea section, presided over by members of the winning float of Strawberry Day Committee, is so popular that rumors of rugs and ranges for the clubhouse are whispered about. Enthusiastic members are already eagerly looking forward to the reopening of the club on September 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Woodruff visisted Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Boorey of Pasadena on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Messmore of Olive street and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sanderson of Wilmington motored to Skyland, where they are enjoying a ten days' outing.

Miss Gladys Boorey is house guest with relatives in Pasadena, the L. T. Booreys.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stevenson of Strawberry street have with them as house guests Mrs. Katherine Moore and little daughter of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cakebread and son, Theodore, and nephew, Lester Cakebread, motored down the coast line from Antioch and are the guests of Mrs. A. E. Cakebread.

Mrs. A. J. Lightfoot and son, A. J. Lightfoot, Jr., of El Paso, Tex., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Aird as a part of a month's visit to the Coast.

Santa Ana.

THE attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Taylor on South Broadway was made more charming on Wednesday afternoon by the use of Resurrection lilies and pink Maman Cochet roses in decoration. The event for which the floral adornment was made was a Kensington given in honor of Miss Mary de Witt of Medicine Lodge, Kan., and the hostess of the afternoon was Miss Theretia Taylor. Miss De Witt is a charming girl and is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Runyard of South Birch street, and has been the recipient of many social attentions during her stay here. After merry chat over dainty needlework the hostess and her mother served delicious cooling refreshments to the afternoon guests. Those invited to meet Miss De Witt were the Misses Norma and Elsie Wingood, Ramona Clevenger, Lillian Walker, Arvilla Ball, Isabelle Anderson, Muriel Lee, Elizabeth Givens, Merle Obarr, Mildred Cook, Dorothy Mead, Irene Catland, Laura Taylor, Mildred and Margaret Rutherford of Hollywood, Mrs. George Faul, Jr., and Mrs. Floyd Knight.

The lovely Edgewood road home of Miss Mary Taylor was the scene on Thursday of a delightful all-day meeting of the members of the Bible class of the First Baptist Sunday-school. The event was an al fresco one and following the forenoon spent on the lawn, where the ladies chatted and busied themselves with pretty needlework, a bounteous dinner was spread on two long tables under immense walnut trees, vivid red geraniums and potted ferns adorning the board. Covers were laid for forty-five guests. The afternoon was made delightful with readings by Miss Virgil Potts, vocal numbers by Mrs. George Ash, and instrumental numbers by Miss Marguerite West. Honored guests of the day were Rev. and Mrs. Otto S. Russell, Superior Judge Z. B. West and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Black.

Little Miss Marguerite Bonebrae, the charming little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake of South Sycamore street, was the happy hostess on Tuesday afternoon to a party of little folks who helped her celebrate her fourth birthday. A jolly peanut hunt was followed by a grab-bag game and other childish sports on the lawn. At the end of the afternoon a most beauteous birthday cake in pink and white with four shining candles was placed on a small table in the center of the green sward around which the children were seated while ice cream and cake were served in generous abundance. The little hostess received many gifts from her small friends, who included: Justina Palmer, Frances McCarter, Eileen Buck, Velda and Vivian Fraser, Marian Parsons, Margaret Turner, Mary Belle Dyer, Herbert and Clarence de Witt, Newell Vandermast, Maurice Burns, Kenneth Price and J. D. Parsons.

One of the jolliest events of the week was a trip to beautiful Balboa Beach on Tuesday evening by the efficient force of the Santa Ana postoffice chaperoned by Postmaster C. D. Overshiner and J. E. Alexander. The leading event of the stay at the beach was a "wienie" bake on the sands. The trip was made by automobile and appetites were keen by the time the picnic supper was ready to serve. The culinary force included Messrs. L. F. Harvey, W. J. Morrison, Martin Warren and Mrs. Frank Cannon. Seated around a glorious bonfire the seventy members of the party listened to a programme of readings and musical numbers, interspersed with cake walks and choruses sung by everybody in the crowd. A surf-fishing contest was productive of fun galore with G. C. Langley winning laurels. Those in the party were: C. D. Overshiner, Messrs. and Mmes. J. E. Alexander, M. W. Warren, C. F. Severance and family, L. F. Harvey and family, Sam Vogt, Frank Cannon and family, W. C. Ditcher and family, Charles H. Berry and family, G. V. Cook, T. M. Purdom, Frank Hokman, Joe Neusbaumer, Allen Schroff, J. S. Roberts, C. C. Langley, W. J. Morrison, E. F. Thompson, W. R. Harvey, C. E. Lofland and family, Charles F. Johnson and baby, W. J. Lindsay, J. W. Temple, J. B. Anthony, Mrs. V. B. Harris, Mis Cade and G. J. Gibson.

The ladies of the Altar Society of St. Joseph's Catholic Church were hospitably entertained at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Maag on Fairhaven avenue on Thursday afternoon. Lavender asters and pink oleanders were profusely used in parlors and dining-room. Especially welcome guests were Mrs. Joseph Yoch and her daughters, Mrs. Redmond Barnett and Miss Josephine Yoch of Laguna Beach. Miss Josephine Yoch pleased the company with several delightful instrumental solos, and after conversation and needlework, Mrs. Maag and her daughter, Miss Mary, served a delightful round of cooling refreshments. Rev. Father Eummelen was warmly greeted by the ladies and assisted greatly making the afternoon a successful and pleasant one. Besides those already mentioned there were present Mmes. Joseph Young, John Rudolph, Henry Nau of San Bernardino, C. Oelke, Hamaan, Anna Owens, M. Kramer, R. G. Tuthill, Charles Schmiedeberg, F. W. Wagner, G. W. Young, T. F. Doyle, Horace Fine and Henry Cochems; Misses Dougherty, Katherine Oelke and Agnes Rudolph.

Sawtelle.

ONE of the most delightful social events of the summer was the dance at which the tennis club entertained last Saturday night. The affair was held in the Woman's Club House and the ballroom was decorated in greenery and cut flowers. Two hundred and fifty invitations were issued for the affair.

Daily preliminaries are being played on the courts of the tennis club for the fall tournament, which is to take place in the first weeks of September. All through the summer months, small tournaments have been held as a preparation for the large one in the fall and some excellent players have been developed. Niel McClellan is the newly elected president of the organization.

The engagement of Miss Bertha Hague and Arthur Young, both of this city was one of the charming surprises of the past week. The announcement was made at a birthday party given by Mrs. Hague, the mother of Miss Bertha Hague. No date has been announced for the marriage.

Another pleasant prenuptial affair was a shower given on Saturday by the Misses Fay Martin and Pearl May at which the honored guest was Miss Gladys Waterbury. Miss Waterbury's marriage is to take place within the next few months and a group of her friends from this city and from Los Angeles and Santa Monica gathered to shower her with gifts.

The regular meeting of the Five Hundred Club was held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lawrence, Jr., at which, despite the summer exodus of members, nearly nearly all were present. The usual game was played and the evening's pleasure ended with a delightful supper.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Crawford have returned to their home in this city after an absence of some two months. They have been in Colorado for the greater part of this time and have been spending the summer in visiting the many resorts of interest there.

Of the many to leave for San Diego and the exposition are Mrs. D. O. McPhail and Mrs. C. Newland. They left this city on Tuesday and will remain in San Diego for a few weeks, after which they will renew social engagements in this city.

The Woman's Club of Sawtelle has been technically adjourned for the summer, but social meetings have been held about every two weeks at which various projects for the fall have been considered. At present this organization is beginning preparations for a bazaar to be held in the early fall at their clubhouse. This will be the first of a number of affairs planned for the early winter months.

One of the pleasant dinners of the week was that at which Mrs. E. J. Roberts presided as hostess. The affair was given at the Beverly Hills Hotel and covers were laid for twelve.

Orange.

MISS LEONA FREEMAN of this city was one of the guests at a most delightful reunion and luncheon given recently at the home of Mrs. A. H. Small, who now resides in Santa Ana, but who was formerly a popular society woman of Orange. The occasion brought together a merry company of young women, who formed an enjoyable house party several years ago for a stay at Long Beach. While years have brought changes in the lives of these girls, who all formerly resided in Orange, each year has also brought with it a reunion similar to the one just enjoyed, where pleasant memories of that auspicious trip have been revived. The luncheon given by Mrs. Small was particularly happy, the home being decorated with fragrant carnations and delicate fern. Those of the house party who were fortunate enough to be present at the luncheon included the hostess, Mrs. Small, Mrs. Gary Ball of Heber, Imperial county; Mrs. Harry Bourgher of Los Angeles, Mrs. James A. Carroll of Independence, Kan.; Mrs. Edward Bruns of Anaheim, and Miss Freeman of Orange. Mr. Small was the only masculine fortunate enough to be present at this pleasant event, joining in the delights of the luncheon and in the reminiscences of former pleasures enjoyed together by th[illegible] trons.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out, by softly shaded lights, Shasta daisies and asparagus fern for greenery. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Earley, the bridal couples standing beneath a large wedding bell of white and green. The Lohengrin "Wedding March" was played by Miss Hazel Peters. The brides, who were handsomely gowned in white net and satin, each wore a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white rosebuds. They were attended by Misses Loraine Miller and Sylvia Muse, who were very charming in pink chiffon and carried Cecil Brunner roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held and the happy young people departed for a two weeks' wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Compton will reside in Pasadena and Mr. and Mrs. Miller in Los Angeles. Many prenuptial affairs have been given for Mrs. Compton, among them being a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. E. Bly and a crystal shower at the home of Miss Nellie Burns, the latter being given by the supervisors of the long-distance department of the Sunset Telephone Company of which she was an employee for four years.

Santa Barbara.

WHILE tennis, golf and riding have their hold on the society folk of Santa Barbara and Montecito, nothing seems to replace the dance as the favorite form of amusement. Golf links and tennis courts claim their devotees daily, but every dinner party that may follow has its dancing, either at the Santa Barbara or La Cumbre country clubs, or the hotels.

First among the dances of the past week was that Wednesday evening, when, garbed in handsome and quaint costumes, society folks turned out for the futurist ball given for the Belgian relief. Headed by Dr. Benjamin Brodie as America, John R. Whittemore as Uncle Sam and Miss Dorothy Shuman as California, the dancers entered the grand march in gala costume and spent a pleasant evening in dance. There were several little dinner parties before the dance and one general gathering, a "Dutch" affair.

Other dances of the week have been many, one last night given by Mrs. John Codman and Mrs. Cora Ely for the Misses Corinna and Nancy Ely and the Misses Ruth and Rosamond Codman, bringing together a merry party at the Santa Barbara Country Club.

The coming week will see another benefit affair, a "street fair and market," which is to be given for the helpless children of France. This will take place before the Arlington Hotel, Wednesday. Quaint shops will be erected, and there fancy goods will be sold. Automobiles fashioned like stores will border the "shopping district," and the fair waitresses will sell fancy articles for the benefit of the poor.

Santa Barbara's municipal orchestra, which has the enthusiastic support of music lovers of Montecito, was heard in a benefit concert at the Montecito playhouse Tuesday. Dancing followed. Tea was served, with Mrs. C. C. Park, Mrs. William Miller Graham and Mrs. Francis T. Underhill as hostesses.

Ontario.

SIMPLICITY marked the wedding of Miss Martha Hamilton and Russell B. Willingham, which was solemnized at high noon Sunday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Hamilton, No. 763 East D street, Rev. Samuel E. Witty being the officiant. Just before the ceremony, Miss Mary Hamilton, a sister of the bride, with Miss Ora Todd at the piano, sang, "I Love You Truly", and the bridal party entered to the strains of the "Wedding March" from Lohengrin with Mrs. A. L. Hamilton, a sister-in-law of the bride, at the piano. A pink and white color motif was effectively carried out in the decoration of the rooms, roses, carnations and ferns being employed. The bride was becomingly attired in a frock of white French voile. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and was unattended. The wedding ceremony was witnessed by relatives and a few intimate friends only and was followed by a wedding breakfast. Covers at the breakfast table were marked for Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Willingham, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Hamilton, Mrs. N. M. Willingham, J. Willingham, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Johnson, the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel E. Witty, Miss Mary Hamilton, Miss Opal Hamilton, Miss Ruby Willingham, Miss Vera Willingham, Miss Arlene Johnson, Miss Ora Todd, Wayne Hamilton, William Hamilton, Perry Hamilton, Howard Willingham, Mortimer Willingham, Norval Jordan, Lowell Witty and Edson Witty. Mr. and Mrs. Willingham left for a wedding trip to the coast and will be at home at No. 315 North Plum avenue after August 20.

A pretty little home wedding was celebrated Monday morning at 10 o'clock when Miss Mollie Irene Smith became the bride of George Emmanuel Motter, a prosperous young rancher of Covina. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's father, J. J. Smith, No. 201 East E street, and the Rev. T. G. Patterson of Venice officiated. The rooms of the Smith home were effectively decorated in pink roses and plumosus fern. The bride was gowned in white net with taffeta trimmings. The wedding was witnessed by relatives only and Mr. and Mrs. Motter left at once on their wedding trip. They will be at home after September 1, at No. 222 Orange avenue, Covina, where the groom has just furnished a cozy little bungalow.

A merry party of Ontario society buds, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Sell, left Monday morning for Camp Baldy in San Antonio Canyon for a week in the mountains. The party occupied several cottages at the popular camp and life was one gay whirl, a number of men joining the party over the week-end. The young women making up the party numbered Miss Gertrude Bredfeldt, Miss Julia Neales, Miss Ida Hubbell, Miss Gertrude Bryden, Miss Lois Campbell, Miss Eda LeFever, Miss Jessie Fallis, Miss Ardis Richardson, Miss Helen Mertz and Miss Bessie Sheppard.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Burns Hovis (she was Verna Bogart before her recent marriage) were the especially honored guests Tuesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Otto B. Williams entertained with a lawn party at their attractive home, No. 613 West Nevada street. Miss Blanche Williams, who left Wednesday for her home in Indianapolis after an extended visit here, was also complimented. Many gaily-colored Japanese lanterns cast a soft glow over the garden and merry outdoor games served to while away the evening. A light supper was served at a late hour. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hovis, Miss Williams, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rollin Milburn, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Coffey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. N. E. Fielder, Miss Zella Autry, Miss Ina Autry, Miss Ruth Petrie, Miss Dora Westhaver and Frank Northcott.

Historical.

NEW FARRAR FEATURE.

NOTED OPERA SINGER AS JEANNE D'ARC IN BIG PICTURE.

By Grace Kingsley.

Geraldine Farrar will be Jeanne d'Arc, one of the most famous women of history, in the great film drama which the Famous Players-Lasky company is staging at its Hollywood studio and on the Lasky ranch in San Fernando Valley. This promises to be one of the greatest historical spectacles, as well as one of the most wonderful acted photoplays, ever produced. It is being directed by Cecil B. De Mille, who produced "Carmen." The release name of the production is being kept secret. The picture bids fair to far outshine anything the Lasky people have so far accomplished—certainly an achievement.

Meighan to Shine.

Thomas Meighan has returned to the Lasky studio after spending his vacation in the East with his wife, Frances Ring. He will probably be starred in the next picture in which he appears. Mr. Meighan has a very great following among the film followers, who would welcome him as the principal luminary in a photoplay.

Little Marjorie Too.

Marjorie Daw, the clever child actress of the Lasky company will go back to the Famous Players studio in New York, next week, in order to work in two pictures being produced there by the Famous Players-Lasky company. It is possible Miss Daw may be starred.

Big Task Awaits Him.

Christie Cabanne, who has resigned from Fine Arts to accept a director's position with the Metro, will leave for New York early this week. He will occupy the Quality Pictures studio, and his first effort under the new management will be the direction of a fourteen-reel serial starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

Mr. Cabanne yesterday signed a two-year's contract with Metro.

Far From Bright Lights.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison have been at Lake Tahoe for filming of scenes in the new Metro film play, "Mister Forty-Four," a picturization of the novel of the same name. They will remain in the West.

Expansion Note.

Fred Balshafor, western Metro manager, expects two more companies from the East shortly. These will at once begin work at the Hollywood studio.

Busy Bee Stuff.

Sh! Don't mention honey to Wallace Beery, who is directing Carter de Haven in the "Timothy Dobbs" series.

Beery took his company from Universal City early last week to a lovely location near Beverly Hills and at noon the company stopped work to eat their basket luncheon. The irrepressible Carter had disposed of but a single sandwich, when, picking up a stone, he idly cast it into what appeared to be an empty barrel near by. But the barrel wasn't empty. It was loaded with trouble in the form of several hundred bees. They flew out to attack their supposed foe, and the members of the company who weren't particularly shifty on their feet got severely stung, besides which the lunch was left for the bees.

Professional Jealousy Note.

Bess Meredyth, one of the most industrious makers of scenarios out at Universal City, is on her way to Alaska, where she is to take a month's rest.

"I don't want to hear nor think of scenarios," said Miss Meredyth, with emphasis before leaving. "I want to get right away from studios and writing."

"Wonderful country," vouchsafed the interviewer. "I understand a scenario writer from the Fox company is going up there—."

"So? What's she going to do?"

"Well, of course, there is a lot of material up there. Shouldn't wonder if I'd strike off two or three scenarios myself. If there's anything I hate, it's loafing."

Careful Boy.

During one of the exceedingly hot days at Universal City last week, Purchasing Agent Buell heard that several women had fainted on one of the big stages, and directed his office boy to inquire how many were prostrated. The boy, who works in an atmosphere of figures, came back and nonchalantly called out: "Three five-dollar, two three-dollar and three-two-dollar girls!"

Miss Hall's New One.

"Pawn" is the name of an original story, written by Fred Myton of the Universal. Ella Hall will be starred in the five-reeler, and will play the role of a girl who knows practically nothing of the world beyond the pawn shop in which she has spent all her young life.

Sounds Good.

"The Rookie" is the name of a military comedy being produced by the David Horsley company, in which George Ovey is starred, supported by Claire Alexander, George George, Janet Sully, Jefferson Osborne, Arthur Mund, Harry Jackson and Ray Lincoln.

Dodge Trouble.

Bessie Barriscale is telling, this week, of the narrow escape from serious injury she experienced at Thousand Pines recently, where she has been enacting the stellar role in the current Triangle play by Monte M. Katterjohn, in which she will soon be presented by Thomas H. Ince. Under the direction of Charles Miller, she was going through her "business" astride a donkey, on a narrow, winding road in the mountains. Suddenly an automobile appeared from a bend in the road. Miller shouted. Cameraman De Vinna grabbed his camera and leaped to safety. Director Miller seized the donkey by the tail and pulled the animal to the side of the road. Miss Barriscale reached for the limb of an overhanging tree, to which she clung until the speeding machine had passed.

No Race Suicide There.

Four more cages will be added to the arena at the David Horsley studios, upon the return of the Bostock wild animals this fall. They will be occupied by four baby pumas which were born while the beasts were en route to New York several months ago. The little mountain lions are one of the sights at Luna Park, Coney Island.

"War Brides" for Screen.

Nazimova's first picture, which she will make under the direction of the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation, will be a filmization of her vaudeville play, "War Brides."

Likes Warm Studio.

Ethel Ritchie, Balboa's stately beauty, started for Alaska the other day, but suddenly discovered she was homesick, and turned back at San Francisco, returning to Long Beach Friday.

"Reachin'" Comes High.

Gladys Brockwell of the Fox company got a new colored cook recently. After all arrangements had been made except that of pay, the William Fox star asked:

"How much shall I pay you?"

"Eight dollars a week if you do your own reachin', ma'am; $10 if y' don't."

Just Like a Keystone.

Mack Sennett is in New York. The other day, in company with Ad Kessel, he was busy dodging taxicabs at Forty-second and Broadway and attempting to keep his equilibrium on the platform of the elevated.

"Pretty lively, eh?" demanded Kessel.

"Great stuff," responded Mack, absent-mindedly, evidently thinking of a Keystone, "great stuff! We'll use it in the next scene——"

Couldn't Fease Baby.

Little Zoe Beck, the "Universal baby," was in an automobile wreck one day this week. The car she was riding in was badly damaged in collision with an automobile which it met head on in the Cahuenga Pass. When the crash came, the child's mother, who was with her, shrieked with alarm as the little girl slid from her seat, fearing Zoe had been injured. But Zoe looked up with a reassuring smile and said, "cheer up, mamma, the worst is over."

Jennings Does Tame Stuff.

Al Jennings has gone into retirement with one of Universal City's staff writers, and at the end of another week they will emerge with the completed continuity on a big feature story written by Mr. Jennings and which will be produced by the Universal.

In Training.

Gladys Hulette in Thanhouser's "The Shine Girl," soon to be released, rides down the face of a steep cliff to save a baby who has fallen over the brink.

"Weren't you afraid?" a friend asked.

"Not a bit," she answered. "It wasn't nearly so dangerous as riding over the pavements in ———" (name of city deleted by the censor.)

Irvine Arrives.

Director Lloyd Carleton of Universal has commenced the production of a five-reel feature, being made under the working title of "The Road of Destiny." The plot of the story was furnished by Clark Irvine. Dorothy Davenport will be featured, supported by Richard Morris, Alfred Allen and others.

Acquiring His Angora.

It is getting to be quite a fad with the fair visitors at Universal City to bring their cameras and wait for the figure of J. Warren Kerrigan to appear. One day this week he was dodging between the scenery on the stage on his way to his dressing-room. When asked if he had lost something he replied, "Yes, I lost a goat. Just look down that aisle." Along the aisle leading to his room were sixteen girls and women, each with a kodak ready for use.

"One or two are all right," Kerrigan said, "but I can't face a whole army."

NOTABLE FILM WEEK.

STRIKING FEATURES MARK THE PICTURE LINE-UP.

Motion-picture row this week presents more than the usual number of striking offerings. The chief one of these is "The Daughter of the Don," which promises novel and romantically beautiful entertainment, in that it visualizes the history of Los Angeles and of Southern California, brings to life famous historical characters and reproduces features of the old pueblo of Los Angeles. Another photoplay stars the most beautiful woman in the world, Lina Cavalieri. Many popular names appear in the list of sparklers, including Norma Talmadge, Charlie Chaplin, Marguerite Clark, Henry Walthall, Dorothy Bernard, Willie Collier and others.

Majestic.

"The Daughter of the Don," by Winfield Hogaboom, will be the attraction at the Majestic, commencing tonight. This photodrama visualizing Southern California history has been nearly a year in the making and promises to be one of the most interesting picture features ever shown in this city. Not only is there a fascinating romance, but the picture is said to reveal the results of careful research, speaking from historical and archaeological standpoints.

In "The Daughter of the Don" Hogaboom has taken the period of 1846-47, the year which marked the passing of California from Mexican to United States rule, and the stirring events of those days are said to be faithfully reproduced. Famous historical characters, including Gen. Fremont and Gov. Pio Pico, appear and fight their battles over again on the screen.

Palace.

Norma Talmadge will be seen on the Palace screen this week in "The Devil's Needle," a highly-interesting photoplay dealing with drug-habit evils. She is supported by Tully Marshall and a carefully-selected cast. The Keystone will be "Hearts and Sparks," featuring Hank Mann, one of Mack Sennett's cleverest comedians.

In the dramatic attraction Miss Talmadge has the part of a beautiful artist's model, whose troubles drive her to the use of the needle. Tully Marshall appears as her artist employer.

Tally's Broadway.

Lina Cavalieri, known as the most beautiful woman in the world, will be at Tally's Broadway this week, playing the leading role in a highly-dramatic photoplay entitled "The Shadow of Her Past."

The film was produced in Italy and is said to be one of the most beautiful scenically which has been shown in this city.

Krazy Kat and Ignatz Mouse is an added attraction and there will also be a Yosemite travelogue.

Symphony.

"The Devil at His Elbow" is the title of the photoplay to open at the Symphony today, which promises an unusual story. Dorothy Green and Clifford Booth play the leading parts.

An unusually amusing Max Figman comedy will be the added attraction.

Superba.

"The Sting of Victory," with Henry Walthall in the leading role, will be the attraction at the Superba, commencing tomorrow. In this photoplay Walthall plays a double role, that of a young southerner at the outbreak of the Civil War, and later his brother, who has entered the service of the northerners. Both brothers are seen together in several scenes—the curious result of certain methods of trick photography. Antoinette Walker will support the star.

Garrick.

The last week of Charlie Chaplin in "One A. M." commences today at the Garrick. Under the new policy inaugurated by the management the Chaplin comedies are to be shown for two weeks only. The companion piece for "One A. M." will be "The House of Mirrors," featuring Frank Mills. This is a twentieth-century problem play, dealing with the vital questions of the day and abounding in dramatic situations.

In the comedy Chaplin takes the role of an inebriated swell returning home. His adventures with the keyhole, grandfather's clock, tiger rug, goldfish, etc., in the hall, furnish thirty minutes of continuous

Starring young Willie Collier, Jr., in a great heart interest role, "The Bugle Call," a thrilling drama of the plains, will be the attraction at Clune's Broadway beginning today. Young William, junior—who is the son of the famous Broadway funmaker, William Collier, Sr.—although only 14 years old, may be classed as a veteran of the legitimate stage, having appeared in many of his father's popular farces. He is said to handle the leading role in "The Bugle Call" with a deft art that gives the boy hero a wonderful appeal.

In addition to this feature picture the new programme will include a side-splitting Mack Sennett comedy, "Ambrose's Cup of Woe," and a news pictorial.

Woodley.

Marguerite Clark in the delightful fairy tale, "Little Lady Eileen," begun a nine days' engagement yesterday at the Woodley Theater. Little Lady Eileen Kavanaugh is the despair of her school mistress because she will not forsake her fairy tales for the more substantial studies like writing, reading and 'rithmetic. She bubbles over with the spirit of romance, and with the sparkling wit and good humor that is typical of the Celtic best.

The new Burton Holmes travelogue shows some interesting views that will interest those who are enjoying these journeys with this noted traveler.

Miller's.

"Sporting Blood," a romance of the race track, is the Fox feature production to be shown at Miller's Theater starting today. All the glamour, the excitement and the action of the turf are said to be embodied in this story.

Dorothy Bernard plays the heroine, who beats a notorious gambler at his own game by her courage, woman's wit and cleverness.

The added attractions are a new Mutt and Jeff comedy and the latest news pictorial of current events.

Empress.

Owing to the large audiences Marguerite Clark's magnetic personality has drawn to the Empress this week the management has secured the photoplay for an additional day. Instead of closing last night "Silks and Satins," Miss Clark's current vehicle, will be seen for the last times today and tonight at the Empress. This drama is believed by many critics to be the dainty little favorite's most successful picture, and in the audiences this week have been many of her admirers who, although they saw the play on Broadway, liked it well enough to come again. An elaborate new programme will start tomorrow.

"TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR ROOM."

The greatest motion picture ever made. Will begin a one-week's first run at the National Theater, Main street, between Fourth and Fifth, Monday next. A smile and a tear every second during the whole five reels. Almost every one has read the story, but few, if any, have ever seen the picturization of it in California. The picture is protected by copyright, and is the only authentic film production of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." For we—of the older set—it takes us back to childhood days, and all parents should make it their duty to have their children see it, as a moral lesson. It is a heart story of unsurpassed depth—furnishing every phase of the photo play—from high sensation to the love of home and friends. Several prominent Prohibitionists claim this picture will do for their cause what "Uncle Tom's Cabin" did for slavery. You can't afford to miss this great production. Don't forget the date—one week, beginning Monday, August 14. No advance in prices.

VISUALIZES A COLORFUL EPOCH.

ROMANTIC STORY THREADS "DAUGHTER OF THE DON."

Events of "Splendid Idle Forties" are Used as Striking Background for Interesting Plot in New Picture—Familiar Locations will be Flashed on Screen.

"The Daughter of the Don," which goes on at the Majestic tonight, promises to have a wide appeal for lovers of the picturesque and romantic, the thrilling and dramatic. It has a vividly enthralling story centering around the "splendid idle forties," before the energetic "gringo" rudely invaded the country, and put an end to dreamy romance.

Winfield Hogaboom, the writer, has conducted extensive research into the historical data of the period during his long residence in the State. The events in the passing of Mexican rule in California furnish the background and fundamental historical facts for the story. This is the first time this phase of history has been touched on in pictures.

The action begins in Santa Barbara in the summer of 1846, the year that saw the end of the splendid luxury and idleness of the California dons. It found them living without labor, without greed, without ambition, but happy and content, in their life of sylvan peace.

The first scenes of the play show glimpses of the life the dons were leading before the war clouds appeared on the horizon. A fiesta to celebrate the end of the harvest is in progress, and the dons and the donnas, the senors and the senoritas, are making merry.

Young officers from an American warship in the harbor of Santa Barbara are welcomed among them, and the daughter of one of the dons, most beautiful and vivacious of the senoritas, falls in love with a young lieutenant. The very next day comes word that Fremont is marching down from Monterey to attack the Californians in the southland. The war which follows is not a big war, but it is fast and furious.

The scenes of the play are shifted to Los Angeles, with most of the action taking place at the plaza and near the Old Church. The story of the play follows as faithfully as the history the fortunes of the two miniature armies, and through it all is threaded a beautiful romance, the love affairs of the daughter of the Santa Barbara Inn and the young American lieutenant.

There are several thrilling battle scenes, notably that of the San Gabriel River. The photography and setting are said to be above all ordinary praise.

Mr. Hogaboom spent many weeks of arduous labor in research, in order to have each detail of the picture correct from historical and archaeological viewpoints. In his own library he has many books of great value, and his memory has also served him in many instances. Manners and customs of the day, now dimly remembered by the old pioneers, are faithfully reproduced. For instance, it was the old Spanish custom to release a bevy of birds upon the announcement of a wedding engagement, and this is depicted in a charming manner in "The Daughter of the Don."

The picture was produced by the Monrovia Film Company, under the direction of Henry Kabierske, who, among other achievements, directed the famous Mission Play at San Gabriel, Queen Victoria's Jubilee in England, and designed the floats for the Panama-Pacific Exposition Pageant at San Diego in 1911.

Famous historical characters of the "forties," come to life in the film. Many days were spent selecting not only actors of ability, but those who most nearly resembled the originals. Generals Fremont and Kearney and Gov. Pio Pico are among the characters shown.

True Tales.

LEAVES OF JOY FROM A TRAVELER'S NOTEBOOK.

BY HARRY CARR.

ONE MORNING I found myself dumped out on a little railway platform in Fairbanks, Arizona, with the cheery tidings that the train wouldn't be along for six hours.

Fairbanks, Ariz., has a good name. Speaking generally, I am for it, and it has my blessing and my best wishes. But Fairbanks is no place to wait six hours for a train—or for anything else.

It consists of a general store and a railroad station with a reformed road house and a few Mexican shacks.

At the time of my sojourn Fairbanks wasn't enjoying much of a climate. A terrific Arizona thunderstorm had blown up and a terrifying artillery battle was going on up there in the clouds. There may be some who enjoy the sublimities of nature, but not for mine.

We crouched together in the recesses of the old road house, whose bar had been put out of business by the operations of the Arizona "dry" law, and which was eking out a precarious existence by selling meals.

Between ducking every time a flash of lightning ripped the sky open, we considered each other. There was a boozy old waiter, a commercial traveler who made a noise like the roar of the surf on a sea beach when he sucked in his soup; a cowboy, two Mexicans and two slick young men who were on the way to Nogales. It only required one look at them to understand their errand in Nogales. They were sure-thing gamblers, trying to connect with the militia pay day.

Both of them were big and husky and their clothes made more noise than the thunder. One of them had little ratty pig eyes that were red around the rims. The other one wore the inevitable horseshoe diamond stickpin that seems to be the trademark of his kind.

I was not at all surprised when one of them pulled out a couple of crap dice and they began to idly shake them over the table. Nobody seemed to bite, so they put away the dice and the other fellow pulled out a pack of cards.

"What do you say, we make up a game to pass away the time," he suggested, looking around at the drummer and me. I shook my head. The drummer didn't say anything; he just opened his mouth and shoveled in a small lake of soup. A sound followed like a giant suction pump at play.

The two sure-thing slickers exchanged glances and shrugged their shoulders. The lad with the horseshoe pin turned in his chair and surveyed the two Mexicans who were drinking some kind of near-booze concoction at the dilapidated old wreck of a bar.

When he held up the card pack with a gesture of invitation, I wanted to butt in and warn the Mexicans. They were obviously just off the range with their pay in their pockets. But a second look at these two ruffians convinced me that it would be better to leave the poor little vaqueros to their fate.

One of the Mexicans appeared interested. In broken English, he said he wouldn't mind a little game of coon-can to while away the time.

The man with the little rat eyes, who seemed to be the assistant crook, picked the cards, and he and the Mexican retired to the edge of the porch, where they spread out the cards on a sack, just out of reach of the rain. The crook with the diamond horseshoe pin seemed to consider the case beneath his notice.

They played for a long time. Every time the lightning flashed it showed up their figures, the gambler propped up against a post of the porch, the Mexican crouching over the cards in a humble, deprecating attitude, on the opposite side of the sack.

Presently we saw them scramble to their feet and the gambler came sheepishly back toward us, leaving the Mexican to pick the cards.

The pig-eyed one slipped shamefacedly down beside the tough guy with the horseshoe pin and I heard him mutter: "Gimme the price of some ham and eggs. I want somepun to eat."

The man with the horseshoe pin staked him to a feed and they sat whispering to each other for some time. Finally the Mexican wandered back into the road house, still looking humble and deprecatory, but rather bulgy about the pockets.

The man with the horseshoe pin got up and crossed the room to meet him. I saw him hold the loaded crap dice, but the Mexican shook his head. That wasn't his game. The man with the horseshoe pin suggested poker and faro and various other devices of sin and chance, but the Mexican mournfully shook his head.

Finally I saw him brighten up and give assent. The gambler had suggested pool. There was a queer old wreck of a table in the place and three or four dirty old cues.

It was the wildest pool game I ever saw. It was four bits a ball. The Mexican used his cue like a man spearing fish. He would get his eye fixed upon the pocket like one in a frenzy. With a sudden leap forward, he would make a wild lunge. Half the time the pool ball saw what was coming and jumped off the table onto the floor.

Every once in awhile the Mexican would miss altogether and his cue would drive a furrow in the green cloth, which was already so cut up it looked like an European battlefield. But somehow or other the ball always seemed to frantically take refuge in the right pocket. I think myself that the Mexican simply scared the balls into the pockets. All the gambler could do was to stand by and watch him win.

Well, anyhow, the gambler, with lips that trembled with muttered cuss words, kept digging into one pocket and then another for money, and the Mexican's pockets kept bulging.

At last the train was heard whistling in the distance and I went out to gather up my belongings. As I went out at the door I heard the gambler say something about "all on one shot" and I saw the Mexican nod his head.

When I came back they were leaving for the train. The two gamblers were quarreling and cursing each other as they walked to the depot. The humble little Mexican was standing all alone on the porch of the tumble-down old road house. His head was bent over and he was rubbing something on his breast. Just before I turned the corner I looked back and he looked up at the same moment and I saw what it was that he had been polishing.

It was the horseshoe diamond pin.

Judge Embarrassed.

[Indianapolis News:] The English bulldog was the joy of the household. He responded with a wag of the tail and a jerk of the head to the name Judge.

It so happened in the next square there lived a man who, either through honor or the dignity attached to a life at the bar, was also known as Judge.

Judge, the dog, had strayed from the family fireside.

Judge, the man, at the same time, was en route to his car.

"Judge, come here this minute," he heard in a sweet feminine voice. The "he" stands for both the man and the dog.

Both stopped, turned short, and looked at the woman.

He, the man, lifted his hat.

He, the dog, was even more familiar and ran toward the woman.

And, of course, social customs do not include the introductions that necessarily followed and the embarrassing apologies that were made.

THE STRANGLING OF SIR ROGER CASEMENT.

BY TOM FITCH.

It has been the custom [illegible] civilized nations for their [illegible] consider, respectfully if not [illegible]ably, requests made for [illegible] mitigation of punishment of [illegible]victed offenders. In the case of poor, deluded Sir Roger Casement the request of thousands of [illegible] Englishmen that the death [illegible] be remitted was contemptuously [illegible] regarded, and the British government committed the blunder [illegible] was even worse than a crime [illegible] strangling Sir Roger to death.

England is hated and [illegible] nearly all other nations because [illegible] has ever been rapacious and [illegible]less in her dealings with them. [illegible] woodsman on the bank of far [illegible]ern rivers mutters a curse in French as her troops pass by. The [illegible] Indian motions in dumb appeal to his gods against her, and the [illegible] in the Antipodes looks upon her [illegible] as a symbol of oppression.

To comprehend the situation [illegible] Ireland, and the sentiments of the Irish toward England, and the causes of the insurrection known as the Sinn Fein rebellion, one must read Irish history. Not Irish history as concealed by the cunning sophisms of Froude, or as distorted by the careful omissions of Hume, or as softened and decorated by the splendid rhetoric of Macaulay, [illegible] Irish history as recited in the [illegible] and unpalliated records of English parliaments and courts.

Several hundred years ago England invaded and conquered Ireland and she has ever since ruled Irishmen as conquered enemies. Sometimes under general laws, sometimes under special laws, sometimes without any laws at all the victor [illegible] her yoke upon the neck of the vanquished and the vanquished [illegible] ceased to seek an opportunity to throw off the yoke. Other peoples who were conquered by England acquiesced more or less willingly in her rule, but Irishmen living outside of the province of Ulster [illegible] as alien in spirit as in the days of Brian Boru, and there has been no century and scarcely any decade without an Irish insurrection, or without plot and continuous [illegible] disturbance.

The Irish feeling against England was partly the cause and partly the effect of the severity of England's methods of dealing with Ireland. Never since Carthage was destroyed by Rome was there exhibited such cruelty, such rapacity and such brutality by the conqueror toward the conquered as was displayed by England toward Ireland for hundreds of years. The forms of oppression changed, but the fact of oppression remained unchanged. The progress of civilization did not abate it [illegible] time did not ameliorate it. The policy of England has ever been that the growth of Irish manufactures must be prevented, that all Irish industries except cultivation of the soil must be discouraged, that the land must be kept from Irish ownership and that industrially, commercially, politically and socially Irishmen must be kept under the [illegible].

The British Parliament enacted laws that prevented an Irishman from inheriting his father's estate unless he would abjure his [illegible] faith and adopt that of the Church of England. If he would do this his father's estate would be settled upon him in his father's lifetime and his father prevented from selling or mortgaging it. Few Irishmen would take the oath of abjuration of the old faith and adopt the new one. If they did so they had to violate two out of the ten Commandments to start with [illegible] they had doubts about the [illegible] of the guide board to glory [illegible] them.

Irish children received but a [illegible] education because their parents would not send them to Church of England schools, where twice a day they were required to repeat a catechism the spirit of which was that their parents, being Catholics, were only fit to be hanged in this world and damned in the next.

A priest who taught an Irish boy the multiplication table could be sent to jail for the offense, and a father who sent his son to France for an education was condemned to [illegible] months of imprisonment.

No Irish Catholic could become a member of Parliament, or a [illegible] or hold any office under the crown, and if he desired to sail the ocean blue and fight and, if need be, die for Great Britain on the [illegible] of one of her frigates, he would have to die forward of the mast and as a common sailor.

He could enlist in the army [illegible] though he had the ability of a Wellington and the bravery of a [illegible] he could never wear an [illegible] epaulette.

An Irish Catholic was [illegible] as a juror, or a gamekeeper, or a lawyer, or a member of a [illegible]tion. He could not inherit or [illegible] a gift of land from a Protestant and he could not purchase land that had been confiscated from a Catholic.

The only farming that he could [illegible] and keep out of jail was to [illegible] and then he would only be [illegible] to make a profit equivalent to [illegible] third of the amount of the [illegible] paid. If he made any larger [illegible] he was required by law to pay [illegible] to his landlord two-thirds of the [illegible]cess or be evicted from the [illegible].

Gradually these laws against [illegible] men have been repealed, and [illegible] best thought of British [illegible] has been of late years directed toward giving Ireland home rule, [illegible] effort opposed by the people of Ulster. But the memory of [illegible] turies of oppression is not [illegible] removed from the Irish con[illegible]ness. In the palace of the [illegible] at Florence, stands a bronze [illegible] representing Cain standing [illegible] lifeless form of Abel. The [illegible] the first murderer presents [illegible] ful lines exactly as they were [illegible]eled hundreds of years ago. [illegible] then nations have changed [illegible] rulers, their boundaries and [illegible] forms of rule; the map of [illegible] has been remodeled; dynasties [illegible] risen and fallen and [illegible] have lived and died, but [illegible] and wicked expression [illegible] artist placed upon the face [illegible] remains as fresh as when [illegible] the Magnificent first [illegible] statue in his palace beside the [illegible].

So stands Britannia in the [illegible] of the ages with the record [illegible] crimes against Ireland graven [illegible] chisel of history upon her [illegible] the waters of all the waves [illegible] sumes to rule can never [illegible] the telltale lines.

It will not inspirit [illegible] who are loyally fighting and dying [illegible] in the trenches and on field and [illegible]ands for her on [illegible]tals to read that the government [illegible] England would not spare the [illegible] poor, misguided Sir Roger [illegible] or even suffer his corpse to be [illegible]orably interred, but [illegible] a pit and covered it [illegible] lime.

Literature and Art — New Books Book News

CONDUCTED BY GORDON RAY YOUNG.

THE PRESS

A GREAT AMERICAN NOVEL, MODERN AS A NEWSPAPER.

Rupert Hughes in "The Thirteenth Commandment", Which Is "Thou Shalt Not Spend All Thou Earnest." Has Written the Novel of the Hour—A Splendid Picture of "Keeping up Appearances" and Story of a Girl's Efforts to be Economically Independent.

AT LEAST for the hour, The Great American Novel has appeared. Men worn out with [illegible] have in their elder years [illegible] hopeless, as William Dean [illegible], and explained plausibly [illegible] the phenomenon was a vanity [illegible].

[illegible] have taken upon themselves the role of John the Baptist [illegible] cried out with acclaim at the [illegible] of Theodore Dreiser, and [illegible] to time at the approach of [illegible] of less stature. Certainly not even the most inspired—[illegible] most observing, who are eminently better equipped for prophesying—[illegible] so recently as four [illegible] have thought themselves [illegible] to touch the latchet of Mr. Hughes. Even then he was [illegible] laborer with words. Few [illegible] he would ever get off his [illegible] and be anything more than [illegible] entertaining, softly satirical and amusing writer. But those were but the toil of the ap[illegible] in the workshop.

[illegible] development of his style and [illegible] may be followed. They did [illegible] grow better with every [illegible] But they grew better with [illegible] books. Then some three [illegible] "What Will People Say?" [illegible] It was distinctively new, [illegible] beneath the silken, high-[illegible] prose. A few felt inclined [illegible] that Mr. Hughes had al[illegible] and could write a Great [illegible] Novel. "What Will People [illegible]" wasn't; less because of the [illegible] than because the [illegible] was not a Great American [illegible]—it was a great society novel. [illegible] came "Empty Pockets," a [illegible] story, and "Clipped Wings," [illegible] of a woman's adjustment of [illegible] life to a career. Both were [illegible] entertaining, but weaker [illegible] and more narrow in [illegible] even the ultra society [illegible] preceding them. Now comes ["The Thirteenth] Commandment."

[illegible] often in these columns [illegible] our hat at the ceiling [illegible] with delight. We have [illegible] so far as to wonder if [illegible] had not atrophied the [illegible] enthusiasm; if a blase [illegible]ward "great" books would [illegible] and cautiously modify [illegible] for even what the judg[illegible] "great." But it was [illegible] to visit the haberdasher [illegible] Thirteenth Commandment" (Harper & Brothers) ar[illegible] [illegible] hat went to the ceiling [illegible] of delight are echo[illegible] this column.

[illegible] next generation or the [illegible] of this may think [illegible] course, "The Thirteenth [illegible]" can have no perma[illegible] in American literature [illegible] William Lyon Phelps has told [illegible] freshmen what he thinks of [illegible] to do with the fact [illegible] the novel of the hour—of the [illegible]—and is written with a [illegible] of style, as artistry of meta[illegible] simile, a keenness of [illegible] accuracy of character [illegible] that may well keep it as [illegible] Great American Novels. [illegible] well, too. That is chiefly [illegible] novels being "too good" [illegible] The main trouble is there [illegible] to buy.

[illegible] "Thirteenth Commandment" [illegible] on the unwritten law [illegible] Bayard Kip remarks was [illegible] by Moses to the Jews who [illegible] closely observed it [illegible] the centuries: "Thou [illegible] spend all thou earnest." [illegible] up to the appearances of [illegible] wealthy, dipping hazard[illegible] future incomes, paying a very little—on charge ac[illegible] the one characteristic and [illegible] weakness of the Ameri[illegible], particularly of the city [illegible].

[illegible] Hughes is by no means the first [illegible] use the theme; sociol[illegible] novelists and preachers [illegible] have gone into the sub[illegible] always with more vehe[illegible] art—hence, with less [illegible]. The great novelist con[illegible] in other words, he holds up [illegible] mirror of reality within [illegible] only those essential [illegible] and details that heighten [illegible]. Mr. Hughes does this [illegible] degree. Nothing [illegible] to his study of spending [illegible] has appeared; and [illegible] is as applicable to life [illegible]—villages, too—as to [illegible].

[illegible] hunger of women is a [illegible] of what women suffer [illegible] of fashion is conveyed [illegible] of Daphne while [illegible] through exclusive shops: [illegible] to realize that the [illegible] models were looking [illegible] and saying to [illegible] it was built on yes[illegible]. The edict had just [illegible] the high places that [illegible] silhouette" was no [illegible] It would soon be in[illegible] in skirts and [illegible] followed the body and [illegible] would bring discredit [illegible] and brothers and hus[illegible] the shameless creatures [illegible] did not dare."

[illegible] of Daphne's sister [illegible] exquisite spendthrift [illegible] there if the edict [illegible] says they [illegible] she plunges [illegible] into debts for gowns and gems and gaiety. She repays him by being beautiful, by kisses and hugs, and after their quarrels over expense, sends him enthusiastically into debt for some extravagant present to celebrate the reconciliation. But Leila is no vampire, not of the "kept" class. She is loyal and generous—and weak in a human way.

Fine Character Work.

Mr. Hughes's characters are not the rubber stamp pictures with which many makers of even rather good fiction decorate their books, although Duane, the aristocratic millionaire, is a type usually found in his later novels. Leila is not wholly new, but Daphne is. So are Bayard, her brother, and Clay, who is most of the time her fiance. Mr. Hughes has not tried to make Daphne "irresistible," he has not made her exactly "charming"—but one doesn't dislike her at any time, sympathizes with her much of the time, admires her some of the time, and feels that she is a human being all of the time.

On the verge of marriage, while in New York to buy her trousseau, she becomes disgusted with the extravagances of women and their dependability on men. Mr. Hughes has with bold artistry heaped into the story the exhaustive details of what it takes to dress a woman in New York, particularly a bride. And Daphne's sudden resolution to become self-supporting not only seems natural, but is one of the few things she does in the story that appeals directly to the reader's admiration. However, it may be said that she does nothing at any time to offend respect for her. After many disappointments—as an actress, and as a worker at poor pay at this and that—she eventually succeeds.

Why Women Leave Home.

Mr. Hughes remarks: "There is much foolish protest against the nowadays woman who goes into business outside her home. But the fact is that it is her business that began it. Her business left the home first and she is merely following it to the places where new conditions and inventions have centralized and mechanized it.

"New conditions have taken her distaff and her wash-tub and her cookery and gossip into the woolen mills and steam laundries and restaurants and telephone exchanges. She had to go thither to do her necessary work. Even the entertainers, the singers and dancers, tellers of stories, who used to stir the seraglios and the castle halls have been gathered into the operahouses and theaters and into vaudeville and moving-picture palaces."

But though justified by him in going out to work as Daphne does, yet he finds they must share culpability with men. "However it may be with heroines and saints, the average woman is just as amorous as the average man, just as mischievous, and in her own way nearly as adventurous. It is one of the most arrant hypocrisies of fiction and one of the worst venerable lies of custom to pretend that a woman is always overpowered by a man's strength and lured by his wiles, deceived by his false promises or betrayed by her own superlative altruism.

"Now that women are swapping their privileges for their rights, they must claim the lofty honor of being responsible for their own sins—at least as far as anybody can be responsible for anything."

It would be sadly misrepresenting to convey the impression—likely enough from these excerpts—that Mr. Hughes is parochial. He seldom interrupts his story to make extensive comments; but when he does, they are to the point.

For interest, the sheer interest of what a paragraph or a page contains, Mr. Hughes has a facility nothing short of fascinating. There is much intensively attractive about his way of writing. The style is highly colored, perhaps a bit hectic at times, but still held within bounds by his precise and discerning selection of phrases and words. He is colloquial, even slangy, and yet never without dignity in his style.

variation of the dominant motif and runs, now loudly, now tremulously low, through the 550 pages. But there are many motifs. "The Thirteenth Commandment" is a prose orchestration of pronounced themes in American life: The woman alone and seeking to support herself, the dangerous passion of delayed marriage, the sacrifices of parents for children—all are present, but the dominant motif is indiscreet spending.

Plot Simple, Background Complicated

The plot is not complicated. The background is, however, a remarkably detailed and complicated study of the resultant disobedience to the thirteenth commandment.

The chief artistic contrast is in the characters of Daphne and Leila, neither of whom is otherwise than human, but who have widely variant temperaments. The prolonged love story, with its multitudinous incidents all vivid and variegated, between Daphne and Clay, is the pronounced narrative theme; and it involves Daphne's often perilous relations with Duane, her various attempts to work, her strongest temptation and self-victories.

Mr. Hughes is commendably plainspoken in phases of sex temptation —but the artist always. He is more effective than a congress of preachers because he shows the temptation with its resurgent impulses instead of merely talking against it as though it had cloven hoofs and wore horns.

Gilbert Cannaan,

Attracting attention as one of the most brilliant of young English realists. Author of "Three Sons and a Mother," (just published), "Jean Christophe," (translation), and many novels and plays.

With Clay, the narrative theme involves his effort to make a sustained splurge before Daphne, followed by the distressing humiliation in an expensive restaurant, his wild jealousies, and final success as a contractor for munitions when the war breaks.

Many minor characters appear; some of them, as Daphne's father and Dutihl, the wizard—fascinating, but somewhat unreal—who extends credit on his bewitching gowns and tempts matrons to the sin of charge accounts, are unusually drawn; and all the minor characters have essential places in the story.

"The Thirteenth Commandment" is modern as this morning's paper, and ends with the picture of the riotous wealth that came with the tremendous profits from munition sales. But the spenders have not learned their lesson—not even from the distressing depression and stringency that preceded the boom when all suffered, and Leila was reduced wailingly to soiling her pretty hands in her own dishwater.

There is irony and dramatic mastery in Mr. Hughes's concluding chapters, following as they do with climactic force upon the humiliation of that near-poverty which the spenders thought had taught them their lesson and an abiding respect for the unwritten commandment.

Similes and Allusions.

The style texture is much like, but more felicitous, than anything Mr. Hughes has previously written; and it had then made him among the most entertaining of the people who write.

No novelist in many, many years has made, or attempted to make, such use of classical allusion and particularly of biblical lore, for effective similes. He has shown, perhaps unintentionally, what strength and beauty of expression may be had from the Book, which the young generation scarcely reads and the older seldom uses; though everybody knows there is no other source offering so great wealth of vivid similes and allusions. But since it has been decided that Jehovah is not vertebrate and that Moses wasn't up on geology, the Bible has waned as a factor in literary style. In the use he has made of it, Mr. Hughes is especially to be commended; for in a novel so modern that use has been attempted with daring and effected with nothing less than mastery.

"THE UNSPEAKABLE PERK."

Samuel Hopkins Adams, remaining in much the same frame of mind as that in which he wrote the amusing "Little Miss Grouch," now brings forward "The Unspeakable Perk" (Houghton Mifflin Company,) written around a coquettish young lady and a capable young man who not only admits, but emphasizes the statement, that he is shy.

The atmosphere is soldier-of-fortunish, with a clamorous scene in which the peons of Caracuna throw mud on the American flag, and the Unspeakable Perk, the southern man with the self-conscious sense of honor, the ex-ball player, the Englishman, and even the Teutonic diplomat who is suspected of stirring up the trouble, dash into the fight while the patriotic Miss Brewer cheers them on.

The Teutonic government has made things troublesome in the little bubbling republic for the United States just about the time that Miss Brewer and her millionaire papa, accompanied by a pertinacious suitor, arrive. The bubonic plague is thought to exist, but official doctors find it to their interest to call it the "fever;" and all await with eagerness the arrival of the famous American doctor who is a man of influence and capability.

Miss Brewer, however, feels no anxieties. She discovers Mr. Perkins, ostensible a student of bugs, and flirts shamelessly with him, seeming to think that a man who wears goggles such as he must be handled with less finesse than normal fellows. Perkins is called "the unspeakable Perk" after he hastily leaves Miss Brewer when she has been insulted by the drunken diplomat. Of course, in due time, it is explained that he had reason for the seeming cowardice and that in reality he is quite a brave man.

"The Unspeakable Perk" is light and entertaining, unreal and satisfying as a fluffy bit of fiction. Both of his recent novels seem quite a pronounced departure for the serious-minded Mr. Hopkins, who has evidently found it more to his liking to write light novelties which, with large type, wide margins and coarse paper, are expanded to the bulk of full grown novels.

THE ITALIAN POET.

DANTE: How to Know Him. By Alfred M. Brooks. Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

DANTE: By Jefferson Butler Fletcher. Henry Holt & Co., New York.

Two books on Dante coming at practically the same time would indicate that his classic has not "waned" so much as a prodigiously iconoclastic critic of Philadelphia has recently, with some length of language, tried to show.

Prof. Brooks's "Dante: How to Know Him," is a condensation and interpretation of the "Divine Comedy." A condensation only in the sense that he has paraphrased and translated the poem; not in the sense of a synopsis. This treatment, together with a short introductory study of Dante's life and character and a detailed explanation of his conception of heaven and hell, as they serve for the stage of the poem's action, make the book admirably suited to the needs of the student.

Prof. Fletcher's "Dante" is more thoroughly analytical. One who goes to it without previous study of the poet will gain much but miss more, and the various aspects of the poet treated with scholarly insight and elaboration. It is shown that though the poet, like Chaucer, wrote in the common language (when the common language was considered vulgar,) as though consciously differentiating nobility of blood in his word texture, explicitly differentiated them in his teaching.

Prof. Fletcher points out that the "Divine Comedy" is imperishable, though Dante somewhat over-cherished the polished phrase, because of its unquestionable sincerity, knowledge of life and philosophy, and even though to him "art was only the handmaid to political, moral and religious teaching." The influence of the Guelph and Ghibelline factional wars on Dante, who was an advocate of the Ghibelline, or Emperor's party, is given close attention; and instead of making an effort to present anything resembling the poem in its entity, Prof. Fletcher has illuminated comments with quotations.

The book, which is a recent issue of the Home University Series, is divided into three main parts: "Dante's Personal Confessions;" "The Teaching of Dante," and "The Art of Dante," and the scope is not confined to the comedy alone.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Sex Self-government.

A curious and interesting, and by no means weak though highly idealistic, argument is advanced against "co-suffrage" in "Diplomacy, or Separate Self-government for Each Sex." Richard Luby of Monrovia is author, typesetter, printer, binder and publisher, and has therefore been able to get his message out without trimming it to meet commercial necessities.

His views may properly be called eccentric, but Mr. Luby is by no means a "crank;" he has knowledge and statistics and a forceful way of arguing, though his argument is nothing less than astonishing. He thinks it blazing nonsense that men and women should be "coed," that is, co-educated, co-government and co-workers; saying that men are not fit to govern women and women are not fit to govern men. He believes that in no other way can women be fully emancipated, and suggests, or rather outlines, an organization for them which is called "The Legions of Light," and which will leave to co-suffragists that sort of politics which is a "pretext for obtruding themselves among male politicians, especially strangers." The executive authority is to be vested in a Grand Regency of seven members; this is to be assisted by the legislative body known as the "Grand Imperial Galaxy," and the Legions of Light are to be established among women; to whom co-suffrage is repugnant; through the United States and Canada.

Mr. Luby expresses his view plainly on the evils of co-education and co-politics, and thinks the relation tends to abase both men and women.

Southern California Magazine.

Vol. I, No. 1, of the Southern California Magazine, a monthly published in Pasadena by John Arden Reaves, has appeared. The first number is dated September. C. Mial Dustin is the editor. This first number is called "Pasadena Art Number" and contains many illustrations from photographs artistically the equal of any and superior to most in current publications. The color effect of both the cover "Where the Almonds Bloom in February" and of "Across the Eucalyptus and Orange Groves to the Snowy Sierra Madre Range" on page 3, is just about all that the artistic photographer and pressman can put onto paper.

The leading article, "Pasadena, the Ideal Home City," is by the editor. Among the other contributions are "Modern Astronomy" by Walter S. Adams of Mt. Wilson Observatory; "Two Days in Southern California" by George A. Damon, Dean of Throop School of Technology; "Town and Country Homes and Gardens" by A. Russell Freeman; "The Pasadena Rose Tournament" by Maitland L. Bishop, all of which are illustrated.

The magazine is distinctive, and the publisher has admirably met what he calls "a growing demand in this section for a high-class publication which would typify the spirit of the West."

Suplemento Ilustrado de California.

Closer relations and better understanding between the Americas are among the aims of "Suplemento Ilustrado de California," a brightly illustrated monthly magazine published here in the Spanish language. Its major field of circulation is in South America, according to the statement of the publishers, but the contents are just what the name implies—Californian. The July issue carries a considerable number of advertisements of Los Angeles business houses and also attractive news pictures and well-written comment on current world events—the exploit of the Deutschland, a historical sketch of the cruise of the Moewe, a personal view of the Kaiser in war time. The typographical appearance and press work are distinctly good. An unusual feature is the inclusion of English-Spanish lessons, arranged in serial form and designed for at-home study.

Honor for Rupert Brooke.

Rupert Brooke, the young soldier-poet, whose "Collected Poems" was published last autumn by John Lane Company, has received high American honor. The Henry Howland memorial prize of $1500, every second year awarded by Yale University to "the citizen of any country for marked distinction in literature, fine arts or the science of government," on June 21 was accorded this young poet, who, not yet 29 when he perished, hurried home from America to serve his country at the outbreak of the great war. On his way to active service with the Dardanelles expedition Brooke suddenly became ill and died.

Teakettle Economy.

Lissie C. Farmer, author of the recently published "A-B-C of Home Saving," believes, like Watt, that one should watch the teakettle. "Every time your teakettle boils," she says, "a lot of steam goes to waste that should be utilized by cooking or reheating something in a steamer or bowl set down into the top of the kettle. Small quantities of eggs or oysters can be daintily cooked in this way, and a host of things that one usually cooks in a double boiler or steams in a steamer can be cooked as well over the wasted steam of the water boiling in the teakettle. You can also cook an egg or two, warm over many things in a bowl set down into your boiling coffee pot."

Hint to Authors.

Much of "Body and Spirit," Dr. John D. Quackenbos's recently published book, was written, says the author, after he had given himself literary suggestions at night to take effect at waking. This has been Dr. Quackenbos's habit for many years and in this way he has written many addresses, poems and important papers. Others, he says, have been inspired by him to work along this line during sleep, and thereby have reached conspicuous results. One well-known authoress, according to Dr. Quackenbos, has trained herself to go daily into the auto-suggestible state at 11 o'clock; and what she suggests to herself materializes at the end of an hour of cosmic action in the form of short stories, novels and plays which have brought her large financial returns.

Began History at an Early Age.

Roland G. Usher, author of "Pan-Americanism" and "The Rise of the American People," began the study of history when he was a very small boy. He remembers having held forth to the family circle for a couple of hours, at the age about 12, on the life and career of Henry VIII, talking without notes. But his interest in modern history was always paramount and he says that for a long time he used to go to sleep with a one-syllable life of Napoleon under his pillow, in order that he might wake up in the morning at 5 or 6 o'clock and read in bed before the family were up.

Chambers Forsakes Society.

Robert W. Chambers has forsaken the society novel, to write another historical romance. He has chosen for his field the opening of the great European war and the new tale is said to be one of tremendous action and thrills. "The Girl Phillipa" one day is cashier in a quiet little restaurant in Northern France and the next finds herself completely enmeshed in a gigantic plot to steal the secret of the famous Harkness shell.

Literary Editors to Choose Title.

An important novel to be published by Small, Maynard and Company in September, is ——— by Arthur Hodges, the ——— being the only designation this mysterious book has as yet, pending the selection of a title by the bookselling fraternity and the decision to be rendered by the judges, Mr. Edwin F. Edgett, literary editor of the Boston Evening Transcript; Mr. Sidney Williams, literary editor of the Boston Herald, and Mr. H. R. Bangs, literary editor of the Boston Post. Hundreds of titles have already been sent in and announcement of the winning one, for which a cash prize of $100 will be paid, will be made on September 1.

"No Sech Animule."

Have you ever heard of a blue tiger? No, it isn't a game, or a drink, or even a swift moving automobile. It is an animal just as its name implies and it is supposed to be a native of Central Asia. A specimen of this "Flying Dutchman of Zo-ology," as scientists and explorers are wont to call it, has never been caught. No one knows whether there are many or few, but Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews, Assistant Curator of the American Museum of Natural History, has gone to Asia to find out and determined, as well, to bring one home, dead or alive. If anyone can do it Mr. Andrews can. Though only a young man he has had years of experience hunting for rare zo-ological specimens. Before he started on this trip to hunt the blue tiger he hunted rare whales, and since hunting whales is not an every-day matter, and few people know anything about it, Mr. Andrews's account of his whaling experiences as given in his new book, "Whale Hunting with Gun and Camera" (D. Appleton & Co.,) is well worth reading. The illustrations are from actual photographs, some of them showing whales estimated to be eighty or ninety feet long, weighing thousands of pounds and traveling in schools or alone as fancy seemed to lead them.

Mr. Burgess's New Theme.

Gelett Burgess's ingenious mind seems capable of creating the most involved complexities and the most transparent lucidities. He is versatile, interesting and seldom misses the target. Once in ten years or so he hits the bullseye with such a true ring as to make the other literary sharpshooters raise their caps in respectful admiration. His greatest successes have been in diminutive form. Such a performance was the famous quatrain extolling the "Purple Cow." Since its appearance in the Lark, a "precious" San Francisco monthly issued by the Bohemian group now scattered over the world, millions of people who read English have decided that they'd "rather see than be one." Then he launched the book that gave an old word a new meaning, "Are You a Bromide?" All America uses the words bromide and bromidiom scarcely thinking or perhaps unaware that they have their origin in this little volume in which the sulphitic theory is disclosed to the world.

And now, departing entirely from the path in which he previously found success, he produces a cameo-like portrait of a lovable French youth who was transformed from a boy into a man by his baptism of fire at the Marne. It is said to be a true story. Partly it is in the words of Coco, himself, partly in Mr. Burgess's. B. W. Huebsch will publish "War the Creator" this month.

Dial Changes Hands.

It is announced that the Dial Publishing Company has acquired from Herbert S. Browne and Waldo R. Browne, the complete ownership of the Dial and that hereafter the business management of this publication will be under the direction of Martyn Johnson.

"THE PHANTOM HERD."

B. M. Bower has thrust the Happy Family of the Flying U into moving picture work in "The Phantom Herd" (Little, Brown & Co.,) and makes it plain that in her opinion the real West—the West of men who can ride and shoot and rope—has never been shown by the movies.

"For film purposes, the West consists of one part beautiful maiden in distress, three parts bandit, and two parts hero. Mix these to taste with plenty of swift action and gun smoke, and serve with bandits all dead or handcuffed and beautiful maiden and hero in lover's embrace on top. That's your film West"—so says Luck Lindsay, who knows the real cow country but has been directing slush pictures.

On the understanding that he could put on some real western stuff he gets the Flying U outfit to come to Los Angeles; but gets into trouble because the prominent writer of western stories doesn't know the West well enough to see that the production made of his lurid scenario—one of the kind wherein the heroine shoots and wrings her hands at the same time—an extravagant burlesque.

But the Happy Family, as will be remembered by all who have met its members in previous stories, is not made up of quitters. Andy Green and Big Medicine, Weary and Happy and the others conclude that they will back Luck in putting on one big, five-reel, genuine, honest picture of cowpunchers and the cow country.

They dig down into their bank accounts, and the party goes to New Mexico and puts on "The Phantom Herd"—the picture is indorsed by the Cattlemen's Association.

The book shows in detail familiarity with moving-picture work, the trials and accidents that beset the producer, both mechanically and artistically; and though it lacks all the conventional requisites of the western story, or novel in general, being without a heroine or "love," it is exceptionally entertaining and not inferior to the other stories of the Flying U.

TWO KINDS OF PIRATES.

FILIBUSTERS AND FINANCIERS: The Story of William Walker and His Associates. By William O. Scroggs. The Macmillan Company.

Prof. Scroggs has written with elaborate historical detail and strong narrative interest of William Walker's attempt to found a "republic" in Southern California, of his more spectacular and more nearly successful seizure of the Nicaraguan government, and of "the part played in Walker's career and in Central American politics by American financiers and captains of industry; the designs of Walker upon Cuba; his utter repudiation of the annexation of his conquests to the United States; the appeals of Central American governments to the leading European powers for deliverance from filibusters; the thinly veiled machinations of Great Britain, Spain and France against the American adventurers."

Though what he did had no particularly far-reaching effects, Walker's career was one of the most spectacular recorded during the past century; and curiously enough his fate rather closely resembles that of the imperial filibuster, Maximilian, who also met with dramatic failure.

INDIANS IN VIRGINIA.

THE CONQUEST OF VIRGINIA. By Conway Whittle Sams. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

The title of "The Conquest of Virginia" is misleading, or rather insignificant, though the book is excellent. It is a detailed study of the Indians in Virginia at the time of the colonial settlements, the information being based upon the writings of contemporaries, and telling of the Indians' mode of living, their manners, customs, morals, politics, government and manner of warfare, of their religion, medicine men and burials.

Prefatorially the author says that "many excellent histories of Virginia have been written . . . It has been the method of the other writers on this subject to regard the acquisition of territory we occupy as a 'settlement' by the English, a peaceful kind of settlement, one might infer, and the Indians, and the troubles with the Indians have been made to occupy a comparatively inconspicuous place in the narrative." He has emphasized the character of the Indians and their relation toward the settlers, quoting extensively from such records as were made at the time.

CHINESE REVOLUTION.

Gardner L. Harding, author of "Present-Day China" (The Century Co.,) was probably the only white man in China who enjoyed the complete confidence of Dr. Sun Yat Sen and his party during the recent revolution. He was with Dr. Sun the night the revolution broke out. He followed the campaign from Shanghai to Nanking, where he was the only foreign correspondent with the besieging northern army, with whom he entered the city and witnessed the terrible three days of sack and slaughter with which they took revenge. After the collapse of the revolution Mr. Harding set to work to find out just what the republic had accomplished in China. In Peking he scoured obscure parts of the city where no foreigner had ever thought it worth while to go, interviewing suffragists, students, political leaders, teachers. He went over the cotton factories of Shanghai, studied coal mines, railroads and financial conditions with one point in view—the possibility of Chinese industrial growth for the Chinese themselves. Mr. Harding is convinced that the republican movement, far from being a flash in the pan, is a symbol of a profound and universal regeneration in China, and this is said to be the guiding idea of his book.

"THE WHITE PEARL."

Edith Barnard Delano and Samuel Field have made a fantastic romance, obviously out of a moving-picture scenario called "The White Pearl" (Duffield & Co.) in which the theft of the great pearl by a Chinese coolie from the forehead of Buddha is the chief dynamic factor.

The coolie steals the pearl from the god of a Japanese isle, and is in turn killed by an American sailor, who, dying, gives it to Robert Alden. He in turn gives it to his beloved Nancy, daughter of an honest skipper, and she wears it about her neck.

Alden, Sr., raises a rumpus when he finds that his son is engaged to a poor sailorman's daughter; and the poor, honest sailorman has his pride stirred, so both parents try to break off the engagement. Nancy sails with her father; and Robert, who is commissioned by his father to attend to business in Japan, goes as a stowaway to be with her.

After a wreck she is washed upon the isle from which the pearl was stolen. It is recognized by the Japanese, who have never seen a white maid before and treat her as the daughter of the god. Nancy's troubles are not over, however, and after being kidnaped and sold to a tea house frequented by sailors, she is finally rescued and eventually made happy by reaching Robert's manly arms.

Women Our Industrial Reserves.

The labor reserves in America to supply the existing demand are women, asserts Frances A. Kellor in the current issue of the Engineering Record. Many thousands of them have already been drawn into industry for the first time without adequate provisions for housing and protection being made for them—the usual wasteful American way.

PERSONAL—
the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerable greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry. WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

TO LET—

The Belmont Apts. Figueroa at 10th St.
The Belcamp Apts. 2407 West 9th St.

If you are thinking of changing your apartment, it will be to your advantage to investigate and consider what the BELMONT or the BELCAMP have to offer. Remember, our houses are not like others.

"They're different."

We labor mentally and physically in an unceasing effort to make our guests happy and contented—to make each of our houses, to each of our guests, in every sense of the word,

"THE PLACE LIKE HOME."

It may cost just a little more to live with us, but we give you more for your money than any other like institution.

We insist that every employee give quick, cheerful service. We insist on the kind of service that comes running and smiling. We insist on the brand of service with brains behind it. We insist on the kind that anticipates your needs and desires. "Not how little, but how much we can give," is our motto. We strive to meet the needs and desires of every individual guest. No reasonable request is ever refused—many unreasonable ones are granted.

No houses on the Coast entertain so lavishly as we do. During this warm weather we are having many out-of-door excursions, such as swimming parties at Bimini, picnics at Santa Monica Canyon, where we are all going today in automobiles, beside our regular card parties, teas, dances and indoor amusements. By the way, our enlarged lobby gives us a ballroom unexcelled by any in the city. The floor is the best money could buy. Our library is being constantly increased by the addition of the new books, and our billiard and pool tables are always in first-class condition.

If you are not perfectly satisfied where you are, call and let us show you what we can do for you. Talk with our guests and learn how they feel.

The Belmont, $30 and up.
The Belcamp, $20 and up.

RUMOR'S BUSY SUMMER SEASON

Air Full of Reports of Big Business Moves.

Broadway Merchants Keeping Everybody Guessing.

Important Building Projects Being Discussed.

Rumor, the busy dame who adds so much interest to life in lively communities, where things are happening, is having a particularly busy season in realty, building and business circles in Los Angeles. Her gossip is a fairly good indication that the great development activity to which everyone in the city has been looking ahead since prosperity began sweeping over the East is imminent. Even more tangible evidence, of course, is furnished by the important projects of all kinds now actually going ahead or definitely in sight, but the significance of rumor's report is not to be overlooked.

South Broadway and West Seventh street are more frequently mentioned by rumor these days than any other portions of the downtown district. Some of the many reports of developments on these rival thoroughfares are merely the outgrowth of the speculation that has constantly existed with respect to both ever since Seventh street began to woo the Broadway merchants. The wish has been father to the thought in many announcements of business moves on these two streets, as the boosters for one or the other have let their eagerness to claim or hold coveted merchants run away with them. Just enough actual business changes take place to keep interest in the game from lagging.

Every concern of importance on Broadway has been solicited and importuned many times in the past three years to pull up stakes and move to West Seventh street. All have been offered inducements and near-inducements galore to make the change. Similarly, every concern from Seventh street north on Broadway has been approached almost weekly by interests seeking to cart it farther southward on the same thoroughfare. Whenever a Broadway merchant sees a real estate man in his office, he knows at once what is wanted.

FEATS OF RUMOR.

Rumor said there would be an exodus of upper Broadway houses to West Seventh street when the J. W. Robinson Company started its magnificent $1,000,000 mercantile palace at Seventh and Grand. The New York Store, the Ville de Paris, Coulter's, the N. B. Blackstone Company and other well-known establishments, including many lines, were all expeditiously conveyed (by rumor) to Seventh-street sites west of Hill. All have since been removed in the same neat and easy fashion at various times to locations running all the way down Broadway to Pico and out West Seventh street to Figueroa, with stops at points on Olive, Hope, Grand and Flower. A number of upper Broadway concerns have actually made changes, some taking leaps of considerable length and more or less into the dark, but save rumor, none has to date succeeded in moving the large concerns mentioned.

Every actuality of today, however, was yesterday only the subject of rumor, and this busy gossip may not be ignored by those who would real-

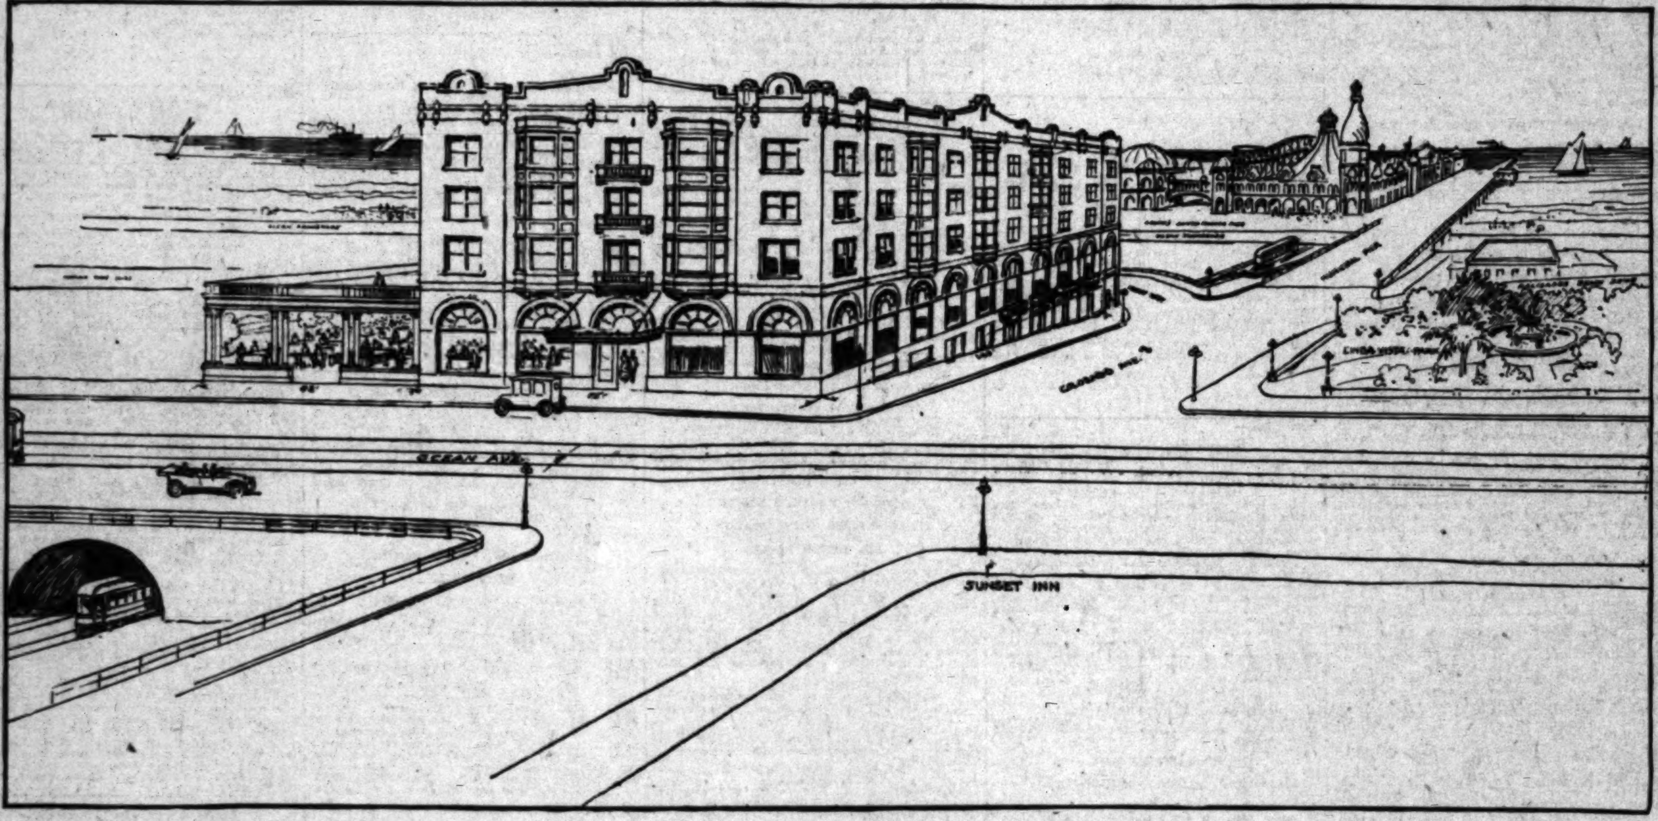
Modern Hostelry for Advancing Shore District of Santa Monica.



Fine improvement projected in new North Beach subdivision.

As the architect's drawing shows, the hotel will overlook the mammoth amusement pier now being constructed by Charles I. D. Looff. The Pacific Electric's airline route to the surf will go directly under the building, the site of which is in the Looff Santa Monica Pier Tract, now being placed on the market by W. I. Hollingsworth & Co.

North Beach.

LARGE HOTEL TO FACE NEW PIER.

FINE IMPROVEMENT PROJECTED IN SANTA MONICA.

Plans Being Drawn for Hundred-and-fifty-room Structure to be Erected at Ocean and Colorado Avenues in Recently-opened Shore Subdivision.

One of the most important developments in a series of notable developments that have focussed attention upon the North Beach district of Santa Monica during the present year is disclosed in the announcement upon the part of the owners of the Looff Santa Monica Pier tract of their plan to build a modern fireproof hotel building in that subdivision. Working drawings for the contemplated improvement are now being prepared by Ellet P. Parcher and Edward A. Strong of Hollywood.

The site of the projected building is at the northeast corner of the tract, which gets its name from the fact that it directly overlooks the mammoth amusement pier now being constructed by Charles I. D. Looff, and which is being placed upon the market by W. I. Hollingsworth & Company, of this city. The structure will front upon Ocean avenue, Colorado avenue and Appian Way, the last named of which streets has recently been extended from its former terminus at Seaside Terrace directly northward through the property.

Along Ocean avenue the building will have four floors above a deep, well-lighted basement for a frontage of seventy-five feet, being adjoined on the south by a one-story glassed-in porch forty-two feet in width, which will be used as an open-air dining-room. The frontage on Colorado avenue will be 150 feet and the slope downward to the shore from Ocean avenue is such that a considerable part of the Colorado side will have a five-story elevation. Space for stores will be available on both Colorado avenue and Appian Way.

The hotel will be of reinforced concrete construction and will probably be faced with brick and terra cotta. It will contain 150 guest rooms together with a large lobby, main and private dining-rooms. Provision for surf bathers will be made in the basement.

The plans call for a large amusement room under the dining porch, circular wells in the floor of the latter permitting diners to look down upon the dancers below. The present Pacific air line route to the surf will go under the hotel.

Representatives of Mr. Looff stated last week that work would be started at once on the companion structure to the large building that has just been finished on the shore end of the new pier and which will form, with the completed edifice, the approach to the long line of buildings and amusement devices extending along the 1055 feet of the pier's length. The new building will be two stories in height and 75x110 feet in size. Its first story will contain billiard tables and bowling alleys, while the second will be given over to assembly purposes.

Work on the pier itself is being rushed, the defeat of the strike at San Pedro having made possible the shipment of great consignments of piling that had been held up at that port. Piling is now being driven and capped ready for the deck at the rate of over 100 feet a week. Structural operations are being carried out as rapidly as the supporting platform is made ready.

SELL ACRE PLACES.

Garton & Torian report recent deals in the vicinity of Hawthorne and Inglewood, as follows: To James H. Neville of Prescott, Ariz., improved acre site, $1900; to May Shakespeare of Los Angeles, improved acre site, $1500; to J. N. Presnall of Denver, half-acre plot, $750; to Miss Gertrude Kinney, half-acre at Hawthorne, formerly owned by F. A. McDowell, who receives a bungalow at No. 1305 East Fifty-ninth street in exchange and adjusts difference in values. The same firm reports the exchange of a seven-room bungalow in Hollywood owned by F. O. Johnson for a property at Alhambra owned by J. C. Ross, and the sale of an acre plot at El Monte to Cora Williams.

ON EAST SIDE.

E. S. Van Bus Kirk is preparing plans and taking bids on material for twenty houses in the McCarthy Company's new Terrace tract in Boyle Heights. The houses, it is announced by the company, will be built on Mott street, between Sixth street and Stephenson avenue, on Guirado street between Camulos and Mott streets, and on Orme street, between Stephenson avenue and East Sixth street.

TO NORTHERN FIRM.

San Francisco Wholesalers Secure Space in North End District.

The W. Ross Campbell Company, through Richard C. Willis, is concluding negotiations for long leases and improvements on a South Los Angeles-street property between Second and Third streets, owned by Mrs. Florence Y. Boothe of South Pasadena. An architect has been employed for the remodeling of the four-story and basement building on the property, the work to include new store fronts of plate glass, marble and ornamental iron and new passenger and freight elevators. Within the past few weeks the Southern Pacific Railway Company has installed a spur track in the rear of the block.

A long-term lease for ground floor and loft spaces in the building has just been closed with C. F. Weber & Company, a Pacific Coast firm with main offices in San Francisco, and which has had its local office and showrooms for the past several years on the fifth floor at No. 512 South Broadway. The concern handles school, church and theater furniture.

IN NEW CITY OFFICE.

Santa Fe Occupies Quarters in Consolidated Realty Block.

The Santa Fe Railway Company has occupied its handsome new quarters at No. 611 South Hill street on the ground floor of the Consolidated Realty Building. E. W. McGee, general agent, has overlooked nothing that will add to the comfort and efficiency of this modern office. Intercommunicating telephones, a pneumatic tube system, new up-to-date ticket cases and counters are among the features installed.

The decorations and fixtures are typical of the Southwestern States traversed by the Santa Fe Railway, being a Mexican adaptation of Spanish architecture. The walls are of weathered redwood. Counters and wainscoting are finished in dull black enamel. The floor is in mosaic marble. The Maltese cross and circle so well known in the Santa Fe trademark, has been used as part of the design on both floor and pillars. Lester H. Hibbard and H. B. Cody were the architects who handled the designing work.

MACARONI PLANT SOLD.

Important Culver City Industry Bought by Globe Milling Company.

One of the most important of recent industrial moves in this vicinity was the purchase during the past week of the Panama Macaroni Company at Culver City by the Globe Milling Company of this city. It is understood that the Globe interests not only acquired the business, but the property and holdings of the macaroni company, and will continue in the manufacture of the latter's Red Mark brand, which has become a household byword in this section.

The plant at Culver City is now being remodeled and repainted. It is stated that the output under the new management will be a carload or more a day.

WITH THE BUILDERS.

Residences of All Sizes Being Planned and Started in Every Part of Los Angeles; West Side Particularly Busy at Present Time.

New homes in increasing numbers are springing up all over Los Angeles, especially in the west-side residence districts, where the construction activity is beginning to resemble that of the busier times of the past. Permits were issued, contracts let or plans completed for a large number of places during the past week. Among these were the following:

Sixteen-room house for C. B. McCoy, No. 1703 Virginia road, La Fayette Square; twelve-room house for M. B. Loy, Harvard boulevard, near Wilshire; two twelve-room double houses for Mrs. Sidney A. Graves, St. Andrews place and Rosewood avenue; twelve-room house for E. C. Hauser, No. 1717 Virginia road, La Fayette Square; twelve-room double house for Mrs. Minerva C. R. Birch, No. 5525 Carlton way.

BUYS FINE HOME.

Chicago Manufacturer Pays Cash for Large Ardmore-avenue Mansion.

One of the notable residence transfers of recent months in this city was concluded during the past week when Edward R. Hibbard, a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, purchased from Mrs. E. K. Sibley the handsome dwelling at No. 612 South Ardmore avenue. Peck & Hollweuel, the agents who handled the transaction, report the consideration at $40,000 cash.

The house contains twelve rooms and is elegantly finished throughout, the ground-floor rooms being in hardwoods and the upper story in white enamel. A mahogany stairway in the main hall is one of the attractive features. The site is 95x150 feet in size. The new owner will enlarge the present garage to give it a capacity for several machines.

Mr. Hibbard has spent several winters in this city, and last year leased a fine residence on Wilshire boulevard. He expects to make his home in the Ardmore-avenue place for the greater part of every year from now on.

BELVEDERE HEIGHTS.

The purchase of 100 feet of frontage on Eastside boulevard, in its Belvedere Heights property, is reported by the Janss Investment Company, Mrs. A. Netfour being the buyer. The price is given at $1750. Mrs. Netfour has already started a six-room bungalow. Sales during the past week of moderate-priced bungalows at Belvedere Heights are reported by the Janss Investment Company to the following: F. M. Keen, four-room house, $1600; E. A. McKay, seven-room bungalow, $2350; Mrs. M. Price, four-room house, $1150, and A. S. Kerry, four-room bungalow, $1750.

INCOME BUILDINGS.

New Flat and Apartment Projects Going Ahead All Over City.

Several new apartment and flat projects were announced by builders, architects and contractors during the past week as being ready to go ahead in different parts of the city. Plans have been completed for a two-story brick flat to be erected by William G. Donald on West Adams street, near Grand avenue. The building will contain sixteen suites of three and four rooms each. Work is to be started at once on a twenty-four-room frame apartment-house for Mrs. Arline J. Holt at No. 1710 Vine street, Hollywood. A frame apartment-house of like size is to be begun this week by D. H. Mauerhan at Harold way and Western avenue, Hollywood.

The contract has been let for a twenty-four-room flat to be built by Ella J. Davies on Westmoreland boulevard, between Sixth street and Wilshire boulevard. Plans are being drawn for a twenty-room flat projected by R. L. Brought on Fountain avenue, near Gower street, in Hollywood. W. H. Foster has let the contract for a twenty-room flat at Thirtieth street and Kenwood avenue. Work will begin this week on a twenty-room flat for Anton Kravchyk on third avenue, near Twenty-third street. R. J. King is about to start a sixteen-room flat at Nos. 1826-1832 South Hobart boulevard.

PERRIS VALLEY SALES.

Harford and Greenleaf of Perris report the closing of two important real estate deals the past week. In one deal Frank Schrott sold his 120-acre alfalfa ranch, three miles northeast of Perris, to Mrs. Mary Timmons of Anaheim for a given consideration of $42,000, of which $12,000 is stated to have been cash. Mr. Schrott accepted for the balance a ten-acre Valencia grove near Anaheim. The other deal was the sale of Alfred Peterson's 100-acre alfalfa ranch, six miles north of Perris, said to be valued at $50,000, to A. F. Narver, a wealthy cattle man of San Diego. Mr. Narver gave in part exchange 160 acres in the Imperial Valley near Seeley, valued at $17,500, the balance being adjusted by mortgage. He expects, it is said, to engage in the cattle and hog business quite extensively, this being the second Perris Valley ranch he has purchased in the last six months.

DENTIST BUYS GROVE.

An important realty deal of the week was the purchase by Dr. Frank C. Campbell, a local dentist, of a twenty-acre orange grove in the Placentia district, from Elmer Thompson. The consideration is given at $35,000. An attractive villa adorns the property, and Dr. Campbell will move his family there to live. The grove is planted to late Valencias.

FOR SALE—

THE CUYAMA RANCHO.

The property of the Perkins Land Company, 20,000 acres lying in the southeast corner of San Luis Obispo county, about 8000 acres, and balance in northeast corner of Santa Barbara county, all level and very rich soil, elevation about 2300 feet, and very perfect climate, soil all virgin, the place being vacated as a cattle ranch, surveyed, maps filed, and now ready to be sold in lots to suit. Water plentiful at from 50 to 100 feet, where wells have been bored. New town of Cuyama has been laid out and new boarding-house being completed and will soon be ready for the public, as also a postoffice has been applied for. A new well at the boarding-house will be started about July 1, same already arranged for. Telephone line will also be extended from Maricopa, Kern county, Cal., about 30 miles; this valley is exceptionally rich, and will be rapidly settled, reached by rail to Maricopa, thence by team or auto. We will try to fit terms to each individual need. The cities of Ventura, Santa Barbara and Santa Maria on the coast are all pushing for roads into this new territory, realizing it will soon be settled. It is not often settlers have the opportunity of buying direct from the original owner instead of the property having first passed through the hands of various exploiting promoters and agents. Until postoffice is established address PERKINS LAND COMPANY, Maricopa, Cal. F. C. Cherry, Manager.

FOR SALE—"THERE IS A REASON" WHY OUR lima bean and sugar beet land is selling when other subdivisions are at a standstill. It is this, we are producing from 10 to 18 tons of sugar beets per acre WITHOUT IRRIGATION and our sugar percentage for several years has averaged better than 20 per cent., at present price of sugar beets this means from $70 to $126 per acre. Lima beans for several years have averaged $5 per cwt. or better. We have lands suitable for both products, also alfalfa lands for which we have large FLOWING artesian wells, some of them flowing over 100 miners' inches. Last, but not least, you buy direct from THE OWNERS, which explains the fact why our prices are from 1-3 to ½ less than is being asked for similar land in other localities, as we do not have to pay some realty company from 20 to 30 per cent. for commissions, etc. Write for maps, booklet, price list, etc. THE PATTERSON RANCH COMPANY, SALES DEPARTMENT, Oxnard, Calif.

FOR SALE—

I will give a farmer 8 years to pay for 10, 20 or 40 acres of as good farm land as can be found in the State. Will stand bank appraisement.

Can pay down anything, from nothing to as much as he wants, 6 per cent. on deferred payments. Will make special inducements to right man.

I own this land and can sell it $25 to $50 an acre cheaper than the adjoining land was sold for because I am not paying any commission. The lowest price is $125, the best is $150 per acre and the land owns the water. I have only a few parcels left, so see me immediately.

R. L. CLOGSTON,
733 South Hill St.

FOR SALE—

List your country land for sale or exchange. We will personally inspect your property, and if it has real value, will make a special effort to sell it.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY—

FOR SALE—TO SETTLE AN ESTATE.
We offer a large vineyard property at a very reasonable price, $112,000. This year's gross crop will amount to nearly one-third of the asking price. One half of this year's crop goes with the place. It is not a show place, but one that produces the income. Last year's crop was 335 tons of raisins.

It will take $25,000 cash in addition to this year's crop to handle it but after the first payment easy terms can be arranged. No exchange considered. Vineyards are the properties that bring the largest returns in proportion to value. Prices of raisins and conditions look good for a number of years to come.

This is an investment worthy of consideration if you have the cash. If interested write for full particulars.

ORANGE & LEMON GROVES—
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted.

FOR SALE—FORCED SALE OF ORANGE GROVES, oranges and lemons are bringing splendid prices. Orange groves and other real estate are now looking up. Real estate values in Southern California have undoubtedly touched bottom and from now on must assuredly enhance in value. TO CASH BUYERS at the low prices here quoted, "which are made to insure immediate sale," you will make more money in investing in one or more of these groves than you will by loaning your money. Have sold two orange groves this week. Ten acres, Upland district, over 1000 trees, has been considered one of the banner income orange groves. Income year prior to the 1913 freeze $6000 cash. Year previous $4500. Prior to the freeze this grove sold for $30,000 cash. Owner refused an offer of $22,500 cash. Holders of a trust deed mortgage on this grove have this week instructed me to close the property out at the low price of $11,000 cash. 15 shares San Antonio water stock valued at $4500 included.

Lemon crop setting, double water right, excellent soil and location. Owner now up against it. Sacrifice sale $12,000.

Only $22,000, 20 acres, splendid condition, well located, crop estimate 10,000 boxes. To close an estate only $22,000. No exchange on above groves. 15 years selling Pomona Valley real estate.

STOCKS AND BONDS—

THE MT. GAINES GOLD MINING COMPANY.

The Mt. Gaines is a famous old producer of the Mother Lode Gold Belt, California. It has produced over $1,000,000 gold from workings above the 900 level. The main shaft, sunk to the 1300 level, encountered the ore shoot at that depth. Indications are that production between the 900 and 1300-foot levels will equal that from the upper workings, and this development covers only a comparatively few acres of the company's great estate.

The Mt. Gaines Gold Mining Company has been reorganized and is under new management. Capitalization only $150,000. Property equipped with 20-stamp mill. Value of surface improvements alone estimated at almost the amount of the capitalization. Property comprises 500 acres, 200 patented, and is traversed by four vein systems, one of which is traceable for 6000 feet. A vigorous campaign of development is planned and it is anticipated that Mt. Gaines will be on a producing basis before long. With modern equipment, oil flotation process and economical management, dividends should soon follow.

Some stock is available at 15c. Purchase should be made AT ONCE in order to secure it at that price.

Vodkaless Russia.

[Detroit Journal:] Lo, the poor Russian! Since vodka has been prohibited crime has decreased 62 per cent., suicide has diminished, hospitals that once were overcrowded are now unfilled, efficiency in factories has increased 15 per cent., savings deposits have increased 10 per cent., fire damage has fallen off 38 per cent., people are eating better food, the clothing and grocery trade has enjoyed an excess of profit, imprisonment has decreased 72 per cent. and the death rate from drunkenness has decreased enormously. These most interesting statistics must be discounted in a large measure by the fact that the war has operated in precisely the same way in France. Cheer up; what drink is not doing powder is doing.

HAWKEYES HOLD GREAT PICNIC.

Twenty-five Thousand Attend Summer Reunion.

All Day and a Part of Night Given to Festivity.

Speakers Praise Iowa, but Joy in California.

That the annual summer picnic of former residents of Iowa has grown in importance as an institution was proved yesterday, when more than 25,000 persons from the Hawkeye State gathered in Bixby Park, Long Beach. Never has a summer Iowa picnic been so well attended. It was the most important of all State gatherings in point of numbers, organization and enthusiasm.

Alumni of the State University and the officers of the Iowa Association of Southern California were in charge. City and county headquarters were under trees which border the park. Each big spruce or pepper bore a sign which directed the huge assemblage to their own town or county. Nearly 3500 registered at the Polk county headquarters, which included the city of Des Moines.

Political candidates who were fortunate to hail from Iowa found in the picnic an excellent opportunity to make votes. Among these were William H. Fuller, candidate for Superior judge; Assembly candidates J. A. Rominger, Henry W. Wright and Harry A. Wishard; and Frank R. Baker, who wants to be District Attorney.

TWENTY THOUSAND DINE.

Th picnic, contrary to the usual custom, was an all-day-and-part-of-the-night affair. Many began to arrive at the park at 9 a.m., and at noon more than 20,000 had gathered to enjoy basket lunches. Five hundred gallons of coffee were served to the holders of badges, by the local Iowa association, headed by President J. G. Spielman.

Judge Fred H. Taft, president of the Southern California Iowa Association, presided at the series of addresses given in the afternoon. So large was the crowd which gathered to hear their native State praised that many on the outside of the huge circle of humanity could not hear the speakers. Col. J. J. Steadman gave his views on a recent trip to Iowa, and compared conditions there with those in Southern California, to the detriment, somewhat, of the former. The speakers were Col. Frank H. True, president of the Federation of State Societies; J. G. Spielman, head of the Long Beach society; former Congressman Edward Hooker Gillette, president of the Pioneer Lawmakers of Iowa; Dr. Margaret V. Clark, who spoke on "The Women of Iowa," and Frank Merriam, candidate for the Assembly.

Among the distinguished Iowans who were present was Calvin Manning of Ottumwa, who had the honor of notifying William McKinley of his nomination for President.

The Iowa motto, "Our Liberties We Prize and Our Rights We Will Maintain," was lettered on a huge banner over the speaker's platform. One of the distinguished men who addressed the assemblage stated that more than 200,000 of the people of Iowa took the liberty of coming to Southern California, and are maintaining the right to enjoy this beautiful climate and the unsurpassed advantages of this section.

Late in the afternoon the crowd drifted toward the amusement center, where bathing and visits to the various attractions occupied their attention. At the dinner hour another basket lunch was enjoyed on the lower floor of the Auditorium. In the evening the crowd of Iowans watched the display of the high tides on the beach front, and danced at the Majestic pavilion.

The Iowa association holds a midwinter picnic each year on February 22, at Eastlake Park, goes to Long Beach for a summer reunion on the second Saturday in August, and on Admission Day a banquet is held in Los Angeles.

CHANGING HER NAME.

Why Should a Woman Have to Take Her Husband's Name.

[Columbus Journal:] An exchange discusses the question, Why shouldn't a woman keep her own name after she is married; why should she not hold to her maiden name and thus preserve her personality through her married life? There are many reasons why this should be. Sometimes a woman who has a pretty surname marries a man who has an ugly name. In that case the woman ought to be able to retain her own name, if she chose to, and the man, to escape his ugly name, ought to change his rather than the woman adopt it.

It ought to be left with the woman whether to change her name or not. The present style simply implies the absorption of the woman by the man, and she, so far as name is concerned, no longer exists. Sometimes it may happen that the woman's name stands for a noble lineage, but that, too, must be forfeited to the matrimonial necessity as it at present exists. This does not seem right. A compromise might be effected so that if Miss Amanda Washington marries John Smith she might be known hereafter as Washington-Smith, or Smith-Washington. Better that than Mrs. John Smith.

WITH the spirit of freedom typical of the State of Arizona, the Hassayampa Society omitted as much as possible a set programme at the big annual reunion and picnic yesterday at Ocean Park. It was a day of the many renewals of acquaintances and old-time friendship, more than 2000 coming from various Southern California cities to participate. While there were a few short speeches, an address of welcome by Mayor S. L. Berkeley of Santa Monica, and a few events, there was nothing that would tend to draw the Hassayampans away from the pure enjoyment of a free day at the beach.

ROMINENT FEATURES ARE METAL SHARES.

Rails Continue Under the Handicap Resulting from the Dubious State of the Labor Situation and Manifest Marked Heaviness Before the Close of the Half-day Session of the New York Exchange.

[illegible] YORK, Aug. 12.—Metal shares were the conspicuous features of today's short session, which was characterized by the usual week-end settlement of professional contracts. Rails continued under the handicap resulting from the dubious state of the labor situation and manifested marked heaviness before the close.

The rise in coppers, which ranged [illegible] 3 points, was based on reports that foreign interests, chiefly [illegible], were about to close contracts for enormous quantities of the metal running into the common. American Smelting and [illegible] shared in the movement, [illegible] was well sustained. [illegible] without much significance except among shipping issues, Mercantile Marine, preferred, [illegible] an extended decline of 2½ on announcement of the plan of readjustment with a 1-[illegible] for Atlantic, Gulf and [illegible].

[illegible] equipments and motors [illegible] ground or registered moderate gains with an additional 5 for General Motors, which attained a new high record of 585. Miscellaneous specialties were relatively quiet and irregular. Total sales of stocks amounted to [illegible] shares.

[illegible] news of the day included [illegible] of francs, with no material change in sterling or rates to [illegible] centers other than Paris. Contrary to expectation, the bank statement failed to reflect the week's [illegible] of gold from Canada. Instead of an actual cash gain, [illegible] loss was disclosed in that [illegible] a loan expansion of more than $23,000,000 and a [illegible] in excess reserves of more than [illegible].

[illegible] were steady today with [illegible] offerings of the new French [illegible]. Total sales of bonds, par value, $[illegible]. United States government bonds unchanged on call during the week.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

[illegible] end of a moderately active [illegible] irregular week found the financial district more than ever in doubt as to the outcome of the controversy between the railroad managers and the [illegible] organized employees. [illegible] of the mediation conference, [illegible] Wall street seemed so [illegible] was followed by some heaviness in important rails, but the list in general held firm as a final break was not reached.

Another unfavorable condition was furnished by the government crop report, which bore out some of the more pessimistic estimates of damage to corn and wheat in the West and Northwest. In spite of these disclosures, little impression was made upon prices of stocks most likely to be affected by reduced crops.

Elsewhere the market presented unusual features and cross-currents. The nominal decrease in tonnage for July shown by the United States Steel Corporation indicated no cessation in that important industry and the quarterly and monthly statements of independent manufacturers of fabricated steel and iron were of the most hopeful tenor.

Coppers recovered from their long period of comparatively inactivity on signs of a renewal of last year's enormous inquiry from abroad. It is understood that Great Britain is in the market for supplies in the metal running into the millions of pounds.

MINING ISSUES IN STRONG DEMAND.

Big Jim Reaches Dollar Mark. Other Oatmans Bring Firm to Higher Prices—Sharp Advance Expected in Union Oil—Investment Shows Improvement.

The public continued to evidence strong interest in the mining list at Saturday morning's session of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. There was also a good demand for oil and industrial issues. Big Jim fulfilled predictions made early in the week and touched the dollar mark. Although the quotation dropped to 96 at the close, this was not wholly unexpected as some of the speculators who bought the stock at cheap prices could not resist taking profits. However, from present indications it looks as if the present upward movement in Big Jim will shortly carry the stock to a level where it cannot fall back below 1.00. Yesterday's sales of over 13,000 shares brought the week's transactions close to the 75,000-share mark. Carter showed improvement and closing sales were recorded at 7. Ivanhoe and Iowa were firm and Tom Reed sold at 1.53. Five thousand shares of Gilt Edge sold for 1½ and a like amount of Gold Range brought 2½. Buying orders for United Northern were unusually heavy and a total of 12,000 shares changed hands during the day. Union Oil was firm at 82.00 but bids for the oil leader were more frequent than for some days. It is expected that the quotation for this stock will advance sharply within a few days as the litigation through which the company has been passing for some months is about over. Los Angeles Investment moved up to 62 and 300 shares sold at that figure. Bonds were inactive and but little attention was bestowed on bank stocks.

CANADIAN CROP ESCAPES FROST.

WHEREFORE CHICAGO WHEAT MARKET IS EASIER.

Timely Weather Appears to Have Saved from Destruction, at Least for the Moment, the Hard Work of the Farmers in the Dominion—Corn Shows Strength.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Almost complete escape of the Canadian crop last night from expected serious damage by frost tended today to ease down to some extent the wheat market here. Closing prices, although unsettled, were ⅛ to 1 net lower, with September at 1.42⅞ to 1.43 and December at 1.40@1.40⅛. Corn wound up ⅝ to 1⅜ higher and oats gained ⅛ to ¼. Provisions finished at a range varying from 30 decline to a rise of 10. Timely weather changes saved the Canadian wheat provinces, at least temporarily, from crop losses. Corn developed strength, influenced largely by the bullish nature of the Illinois State crop report. Oats bulged as a result of Canadian damage reports. Provisions averaged lower with hogs. Besides shipments of lard and meats were less in volume than at this time a year ago.

LIQUIDATION ON SHORT SELLING.

OFFERINGS WELL TAKEN AT END OF MARKET.

No Rainfall of Importance Occurs in Belt and Predictions are Generally for Clear Weather Over Sunday — Exports Run Ahead of Those of Last Year.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 12.—Renewed liquidation and fresh short selling was witnessed today but offerings were well taken and the market toward the end showed indications of being in a rather well-sold-out condition. No rainfall of importance occurred in the belt and the predictions were for generally clear weather over Sunday. Oklahoma is still in need of rain, and unless this territory and parts of Texas receive good soaking rains shortly, a mighty protest is apt to go up in that region. Clearing weather east of the Mississippi is more conducive to crop failure. Exports since July 14 are running well ahead of last year, although the stocks of cotton in English centers are below those of last year fully 50 per cent. American mills are well aware of the present indications for an inadequate yield this year and foreigners will shortly concur in the same opinion. The result will be that buying from spinning sources, both American and foreign, will assert itself on any further lowering in the basis. The carry-over of the past two years, if present crop prospects maintain until the end of the season, will no doubt be called upon to serve the world's needs.

TIME TO SELL BIG JIM.

For the past month I have been advising you to buy Big Jim at prices ranging from 70c to 90c a share. I did this because I had knowledge that a pool had been formed to buy up the floating stock. If you had followed my advice you might now have a nice profit, as the stock sold as high as $1.00 a share yesterday. I do not know of any good news impending that will send the stock much higher. Therefore, to all those who acted upon my advice, I say

Take Your Profit—Sell Your Big Jim

You may make more money by holding it but since you have a good profit, don't be too greedy—you cannot go broke taking profits.

COMMERCIAL.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Nothing has transpired in the rice market for some time. Louisiana and Texas mills are closed and the clean rice left on hand is strictly limited. Blue Rose and fancy heads are held at top prices but Japs and low grades are a drug on the market. There remains unsold of the California crop 250,000 pockets. The demand from Cuba and Porto Rico has stopped and as a result California mills have no place in which to dump their surplus. This has caused a decline of half a cent a pound with further drops in sight. The new crop looks fine and unless something unforseen occurs California will raise a crop of 3,000,000 pockets. Practically the only variety of rice raised in this State is Japanese, and as Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas have a 40 per cent. increased acreage, many of the local jobbers expect to see this kind of rice bring unusually low prices. Although the Japanese colony in California, which numbers approximately 60,000, eat from 1½ to 2 pounds of rice per capita per day, they use only rice imported from their own country. The same is true of the Chinese. This leaves the great bulk of the California crop to be consumed either by the whites in the State or to export it to outside places. In the opinion of F. E. Harris, who is a heavy handler of California and imported rice, prices paid for the staple the coming season will be exceptionally low, which ought to result in a greatly increased consumption on the part of the American public.

In the fresh fruit list, peaches and nectarines showed a stronger tone yesterday and prices for both varieties were boosted considerably. The best grades of peaches are now bringing 90 cents to $1.10 a lug and nectarines are selling all the way from $1.35 to $1.50 per lug. Coincident with the advance in the price of white onions recently, brown sorts were raised yesterday to $1.90 and $2 a sack.

As there was no session of the Produce Exchange Saturday morning prices for butter and eggs remained the same as the day previous. According to Secretary Stanley, the receipts consisted of 237 cases of eggs, 40,100 pounds of butter, 2000 pounds of cheese, 1936 sacks of potatoes, 9 sacks of beans, 7 sacks of sweet potatoes, 1372 boxes of apples, 55 boxes of plums, 1869 boxes of pears, 705 boxes of nectarines, 1223 boxes of peaches and 527 crates of grapes.

Billiard Champion Willie Hoppe and G. Butler Sutton have met in title tournament and special match games more than any other two players. Hoppe has won all the contests and will play a 1500-point match at the 18.2 balk line style in St. Louis, next October.

ULTIMATE CAUSES OF THE WAR.

BY WALTER LENOIR CHURCH.

To the army in Italy Napoleon said: "We have nothing! The enemy has everything! Let us take it!"

In that statement of the typical warrior is found one ultimate cause of war—the selfish desire to take by force and arms that which belongs to another.

To dispose of the ethics in the situation all that seems necessary is for that other to be declared "the enemy."

Then might makes right. To take and to hold becomes the paramount duty, for self-preservation is the first law of nature—and the last. War once declared, then each contestant must win, die or adjust himself to the inevitable.

The same principle applies whether the contest be with ballots, bargains, or bullets, the last resort of the unsatisfied.

By necessity, from the beginning, man has become a fighting animal. The first man born killed the second, and even in Eden brotherhood failed when interests conflicted. To this good day revenge follows jealousy, capture follows on the heels of cupidity, and war dictates policy however it may fail to change principles. Thus it comes that the chief aim of men and nations is to dominate other men and nations for self-betterment in material things. Even religious wars have always a material benefit in the background. The church militant—not the church spiritual—is the church triumphant.

Mahomet conquered most of the then desirable world with one simple slogan, "Be my brother, and pay me tribute, or I kill you." Without that dominating personal demand what victorious force could there have been in the published cry, "There is but one God—and Mahomet is His prophet"?

Without the all-pervading popular hope for loot and land, Peter the Hermit could never have organized the great crusade to wrest the tomb of Jesus from the unbeliever. To most conquerors of nations a tribute-paying foe is better than a dead foe. But there have been exceptions. The ways of diplomacy are peculiar.

What was Rome's most bitter war cry? "Carthage must be destroyed!" Why? Carthage had become Rome's great commercial rival—and Carthage was not!

But consider one wonder of the great world war. After all the noneradicating centuries those reincarnated, resistless Roman legions madly march to the tune of "Tipperary" against their ancient foes, who would storm the gates of hell, chorusing "Die wacht am Rhine!"

What is, hath been.

What hath been shall come again.

Humanity is on the wheel of its own destiny, born of its own deeds, repeated or atoned as the clock of the universe strikes the hours. It is ideas that count—men and nations, empires and dynasties are but incidents in the evolution of ideas.

All down the ages two great ideas have fought for supremacy—the destructive against the constructive. With sword and pen, with brush and chisel, with hammer and saw and trowel, in song and story the irrepressible conflict rages.

Armageddon is a campaign of ceaseless centuries—never just one decisive battle. The fortunes of that war still vary. The cost is never considered—never could it be estimated.

What if the pyramids of Egypt and those greater star temples of the western world cost each a million lives?

What if countless ruthless legions died to enlighten mankind with the civil law of Rome?

What if unnumbered martyrs suffered hell on earth in the hope to escape hell hereafter?

What if it takes twenty million heroes and billions of money to win for the right that mighty part of Armageddon now being fought in Europe as war was never waged before?

Those who fall—like the leaves—shall come again, and the price paid in money is too small to be considered.

To die in battle is not more horrid than is death from many a disease. The money spent but changes its channels of circulation.

Besides, it is only justice to consider that every life on earth lives, while it lives, on other lives; and when it dies, it dies that other lives may continue longer.

It is not strange that even the most altruistic assume that their own lives will be counted among those that continue.

Such a hope is but part of that essential selfishness of self-preservation without which the human race long ago would have passed away.

Cry "Peace!" as the dreamers may, war—in some form—is still a joy, when not a fear to the human heart which forgives wrong done to others which redounds to its own benefit.

This is a heritage but few escape. Every normal reincarnated child is a scrapper—a fighter or a warrior, according to environment and prenatal education.

Even the Amazons are fast coming back to earth again.

Unnumbered hosts of the dark ages again people the earth. Furious Frank and fiery Hun once more throng mountain, plain, city and town, village and hamlet, shouting the same old battle cries in newer words. Granted that most of them have a thin or thicker veneer of civilization. Boast as we may, we secretly know that

"The lady's colonel and Mickey O'Fernal are brothers under their skins."

Close up against those skins lurks the savage — the caveman, or the Cain—each grimly muttering:

"It is to fight, or to fail! It is to slay, or be slain!"

No, that is not misanthropy. It is not even pessimism. It is simple disillusion heeding the scream of the whistle commanding to all, "Stop! Look! Listen!" Must one reason with a ravening wolf, a famishing leopard, a starving bear, a bloodthirsty tiger, a prey-mad lion, or even a fierce-eyed eagle whose nestlings shriek for flesh? Was not Christ, their would-be Savior, crucified by those who hated because they feared Him?

Moved by the hate of a modern hour, did not thousands of "good citizens" fervently "thank the good God" when Booth slew Lincoln?

Fewer fanatics expressed such gratitude for Garfield's fate, and fewer still for McKinley's. And yet fewer still, in this fair city, for those assassinated by the bomb whose roar was heard around the world.

Standards of morals vary — and perhaps we are, in spite of all, on an upward curve of the spiral that leads toward perfection. But, if we are, many there be who do not dream it.

Of all rank fools, of tongue or pen,
The rankest they who don't know when!

We know that the spirit of war—the very spirit of ruthless rapine—is in man's blood. Its essential ultimate causes exist as constant forces in human nature itself. Those direful forces soon converge to a malignant focus whenever the angle of direction is turned.

Our only safety, first and last, is paramount preparation to maintain an all-conquering peace with anyone or all who may be tempted to offer the gauge of battle.

War is a mere surface symptom—not the disease that is rooted in the very warp and woof of human consciousness.

War, as any other symptom, appears in evidence whenever conditions compel.

Given Europe's condition in 1914, war was as certain as centrifugal force. What else but war could result with commercial competition rampant, food and finance congested here, wanting there, and hoi polloi misrending Henry George.

In spite of all precedent, "wisdom" waited to reason further with passion born of prejudice and parley with unreason bred of revolution. Too late the procrastinators knew that war was the inevitable ultimate — was born of necessity that knows neither ethics nor law.

That there are worse things than war is proved by the eagerness with which war is accepted as a choice of evils. As every world movement is a compromise, so neither defeat nor victory will be unmixed good or evil.

Whatever the primary result of the devastating peace that must some time end this war, the multimillion ghosts that keep on crowding Walhalla will not have been sped in vain. Their departure stimulates congested circulation, as cupping relieves an overblooded body.

Russia was in travail—and is born again.

The soul of a nobler France is reincarnating.

The heart of England knows itself anew.

Austria and Italy are growing better acquainted with themselves and with each other.

Germany, which long looked through a glass darkly, now sees its mission and its destiny face to face.

The sidelights on Mexico and Japan are not cast for naught. Mexico is suddenly a nation born of banditti.

But the wonder of all is Japan. The spirit of old Nippon also was released by a seafaring man from a corked bottle long hidden by the sea.

Wherever Commodore Perry is, incarnate or not, perhaps he remembers how the opened ports of his warships forced open the seaports of Japan. With all Byron's pathos and regret he also well might sing.

"What thou wert, my fancy made thee;
What thou art, I know too late."

Japan in the east and America in the west are living monuments that the human race is still progressing. Long may they clasp hands across the sea.

Whatever man or nation does is human, and helps work out the problem of the race. But nations also are ever weighed in the balance, and thus far every one has been found wanting.

As yet there has been no such nation as Lincoln dreamed — with that "government of the people, by the people and for the people which shall not perish from the earth." But our own nation is still striving to become such.

Wise men of old teach that every nation also has its recording angel—one of a great, invisible and invincible band leagued to dispense retributive justice. Their stern mission is to make all things even, and they have choice of every agency.

In Europe they compel the titanic perpetrators of many national sins to mete out direst retribution to one another.

One dominating power was used to force all into the caldron of purification.

The dreadful punishment is for all to see.

To call the role of national and international crime perpetrated through bloody and cruel centuries would be a tale too sad for tongue or pen.

Each chastened sufferer has its own bete noir — its Banquo ghost that will not down till the uttermost farthing be paid.

For of nations also was it written: "Be sure your sin shall find you out."

And "whatsoever you do to another, that thing shall in fullness of time be done unto you again."

Peace, like war, is born of two—the permitted and the permitter.

Over every nation there always hovers the grim specter of foreign greed, of neighborly rapacity.

Its evil eye ever watches; it is a patient devil! With arrow or bow it waits till temptation and opportunity meet. Then woe to that peaceful nation which still relies on Right without Might.

As nations are now constituted, peace is a privilege — not a right. That privilege may be enjoyed so long only as it may be compelled at the ever-ready cannon's mouth.

That is a reincarnated Dark Ages condition that today stares us in the face.

TRADES FOR GROVE.

The exchange of a twenty-acre improved orange grove at the corner of Jane and Lincoln avenues in Riverside for 1033 acres of wheat land in the Park Valley in Utah is reported by the firm of Campbell & Harvey as agents. The seller of the grove was a Los Angeles man, who purchased it two years ago from a wealthy Englishman and who has spent considerable money in improvements. On the property are 1800 navel trees and fifty walnut trees over a score of years old. The man who becomes owner of the property by the trade is Alexander Karyakin. The deal, according to the agents, involved a total property valuation on both sides of about $80,000.

SECURES BEACH LOTS.

Edwin J. Bowes, Jr., president of the Bowes Realty Company, reports a deal whereby G. C. Wharton has become the owner of three properties, valued at $5200. At Hermosa Beach Mr. Wharton acquired a corner lot, facing upon three streets, and at East Newport a lot on the Ocean Front. Ten acres of orange grove land at Rialto also figured in the deal, ten shares of water stock being included.

Busy Season.

ly keep posted on developments. Rumor keeps on insisting that the Ville and Blackstone's, at least, have determined to abandon upper Broadway. Nearly everyone now believes it. The latest stories about the big stores that have stayed "put" so long in the face of all the desperate efforts to move them are consequently worth listening to.

Blackstone's, which rumor has moved lock, stock and barrel to both Seventh and Olive and Seventh and Broadway in rapid succession within a few weeks, is now being transported on the wings of report to two different corners at Ninth and Broadway. It will be apparent that the old-time Broadway concern could not occupy two places at the same time, but rumor has more than once performed the feat of putting two stores in the same place at the same time—hence the latest miracle is not to be wondered at. The Ville has been picked up bodily by rumor and dropped at corners on West Seventh and lower Broadway all in a day.

Rumor has been saying lately that the Hamburger interests, the Isaacs interests and other interests, whose identity even she does not vouchsafe, have bought Blackstone's out and that a new and larger "Blackstone's" under their management will occupy a great modern building to be erected on the Hooker estate site at the northwest corner of Broadway and Ninth street. One version has been that the interests reported to have bought Blackstone's have also bought the site on which the reported new store building for the reported new concern is to stand. Even now, however, the report is going around that it is the Fleming-Gillis site at the southwest corner of the same two thoroughfares that is to get Blackstone's and this report is being whispered quite loudly. Rumor gets out of the tangle by asserting that anyhow Blackstone's will take one corner and the Ville the other.

WHO TOOK THE LEASE?

None of the heads of the firms involved in this complicated and much-tangled story of rumor are casting much light on the subject. The heads of Blackstone's are in the East and Manager Wilson isn't saying anything. The Hamburgers avow "there is nothing in it." The others are mum, or state there "is nothing for publication." Meanwhile architects are laying out floor plans for buildings of mysterious purpose for downtown corners and mumbling incoherently to all inquiries.

To add to the baffling mystery of the whole situation, someone has just closed a long-term lease on the entire new seven-story building at No. 908 South Broadway. Even rumor won't say who it is.

Rumor's steady job is, of course, to gossip about Broadway's store movements, but the general comment in which she indulges as a sideline covers a wide and interesting field.

OTHER PROJECTS.

Rumor is building several fine hotels in Los Angeles at this time. One tall structure she has been hinting about for a long time has just been started by Frank Simpson at Sixth and Grand. Another, discussed for some weeks, is likely, according to its sponsors, to go ahead at once. The business of the Hayward Hotel, it is said, has grown to such proportions that an extra story will be added to the present building at once. Rumor talks of splendid hostelries at Sixth and Hill, where the First Methodist Church now stands, and on the former Home Builders' site at Eighth and Spring. The finest tourist caravansary in Southern California, she is wisely declaring, is about to be started out in Santa Monica Canyon in the city's recently-annexed Westgate district.

Rumor is particularly positive about two magnificent new churches which she says are to be started in this community within the next few months. One of these is the $350,000 house of worship for which the First Methodist congregation over two years ago bought a site at Eighth and Hope. This building, it is reported, will not be delayed much longer. The starting of a beautiful $250,000 edifice at West Adams and Figueroa for the Roman Catholic worshipers of St. Vincent's parish, says rumor, awaits only the coming of the new bishop, plans having already been prepared by a leading eastern architect. The buildings of the new and greater St. Vincent's College are to be started at the same time on West Sixteenth street, according to the same authority. A $1,000,000 hospital for the Pacific Hospital Association is one of rumor's latest subjects.

Rumor says that her perennial talk about a great union terminal at the Plaza will soon be something more than talk, and she has much to say in a vague, mysterious way about wonderful industrial and freight facilities about to be created in the same vicinity. The huge $10,000,000 wholesale terminal on East Seventh street, she promises, will be begun sooner than has been announced by its projectors, construction bids being now under consideration. The mammoth Pacific Electric shops in the industrial suburb of Torrance, she avows, will certainly be started this fall, and she whispers that they will be larger and than anyone has yet dreamed.

THE NORTH END.

Closely following the actual opening of several new stores on the northern portions of Broadway, Spring and Main, come assertions from rumor that others are coming. One of these establishments, it is declared, will be opened in the old Boston store building at once. Rumor hints that a prominent eastern architect has already been retained to design the exterior of the $600,000 theater, studio and office block projected by the Stability Building Company at Third and Broadway and that work on this important structure will be started within sixty days.

Rumor is positive that all the serious obstacles to the opening of Bunker Hill at Second street and the creation of a great boulevard out West First street have been cleared away and that the enormous traffic of west and northwest Los Angeles will soon be pouring directly into upper Broadway,—Hill, Spring and Main streets instead of being forced, as at present, to go around the hill by way of Seventh street. Several improvements of a most substantial and modern character, rumor affirms, are being projected by various north end property owners for immediate construction when all doubt about the early creation of these traffic outlets has been set aside.

To attempt to list all the minor projects coming under the head of general building operation now being heralded by rumor would require almost as much space as a catalogue of the [illegible] character now actually [illegible] All parts of Los Angeles [illegible] nessing a renewed [illegible] every quarter is to be [illegible] sion of important projects [illegible]

MAY SUSPEND ART FROMME.

Vernon officials are considering the advisability of "suspending" Art Fromme. Art did not look good in his last appearance, having lost a lot off the edge of his delivery, and doubtless will benefit by a rest. However, the reason given for his proposed suspension is a bad rib. In case he is laid off, Walter Doane will be reinstated and taken with the club to Salt Lake.

In the Sierras.

AUTOMOBILING INTO TROUTLAND.

HOW THE PAIGE GOT TO THE FISH PARADISE.

North of Bishop is a Lake Known to a Few Favored Motorists—The Roads are Tough Going, but Can be Negotiated Even with a Trailer.

Big, gamey trout from a beautiful Sierra lake just below the snow line were Stanley Smith's reward in abundance for overcoming unusual traveling difficulties on a recent trip to certain unrivaled fishing waters on the eastern slope, north of Bishop. The Paige distributor used his Paige roadster and carried his camping outfit on a trailer. The trip was a success, both as a motoring experience and in getting fish that in size and number would satisfy the ambition of the most ardent angler.

The motor tour brought all the gratification that comes from the passing of difficult conditions without a sign of trouble. Leaving in the afternoon, the night stop was made at Willow Springs, in order to make an early start to get over the Mojave desert. The following day the long trip north through desert all the way to Bishop was made in time to arrive at Bishop for dinner. This was a 220-mile run, made with the 1200-pound trailer behind the Paige, at a consistent twenty-five-mile-an-hour speed. As the road contains many long stretches of heavy sand, narrow tracks, mountain grades and other difficulties, this speed is as much as the road will stand for a machine pulling a trailer. After spending the night at Bishop the Paige party pulled over the famous Rocky Mountain grade north of that place, where the rise is 3000 feet in three miles. It is desert road, alternating rocky and sandy, with absolutely no water, no shade, and the climb was made all in the sun. Mr. Smith has made the grade before, and seen many motorists on it, and was astonished that his Paige did not boil; it was the first time he ever saw the climb made by any car without boiling. Bear in mind that he was taking a 1200-pound trailer over behind his machine, and it was all intermediate and low-gear work.

From the top of this grade the car was continually climbing into the high Sierras. While it was still a desert run, the mountains were continually coming nearer and they were the high ones, completely snow-covered. At a certain point the Paige distributor drove his roadster and trailer off the main road and headed for a little lake which is known by a favored few automobilists. The elevation is above 9000 feet. Snow comes down almost to the shore on the mountainside. And here is where the rainbow trout grow big and gamey, beyond fishermen's keenest desire, in the water kept cool by the melting snow. The party caught in the lake trout from twelve to twenty-four inches long and one that measured thirty-two inches. It was a wading job; there is no boat on the little pool nestling in the shadow of the giant peaks. The stream which flows out of the lake is ideal for casting, with big, beautiful pools which can be reached from thirty feet back from the bank, and trout of eight to twelve inches that seize the fly or spinner with a rush and fight all the way to the net.

On the return trip Mr. Smith came back in a hurry, breaking camp and getting into Los Angeles in less than one and one-half days.

'Way up in the high Sierras

At one of the scenic little lakes which are paradise for fishermen. Stanley Smith, in a Paige roadster, recently returned from a fishing trip in this region and reported wonderful scenery and excellent fishing. This particular lake, known by only a few favored motorists, is over 9000 feet in the air and is surrounded by snow-covered mountains. Snow banks reach almost to the lake shore and add a decided contrast to the wonderful blue of the lakes. Both stream and lake fishing are above the average and the fish caught are from twelve to thirty-two inches in length.

MULFORD AND LENTZ TAKE PIKE'S PEAK HONORS

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Aug. 12.—Rea Lentz of Seattle, driving a nondescript car, won the free-for-all automobile race to the summit of Pike's Peak today in 20:55:6. Ralph Mulford in a Hudson was second in 21:40:5 and Fred Junk third in 22:46:7. The course is twelve and one-half miles with an ascent of approximately 6000 feet.

Lentz's victory gives him a cash prize of $2000 and the first leg on the Penrose trophy, which must be won three times before ownership is established. Mulford took down $1000 for finishing second.

Today's event ended the three-day racing programme on the new mountain highway and while Lentz carried off the honors in the feature race, Mulford holds the record for the fastest time to the summit, made yesterday when he drove across the finish line in 18:24.

Much of the race was run through a driving storm of rain, hail and snow. Spectators who had journeyed far up the mountain to watch the drivers far below them shivered in the cold. Goggles worn by the racing crews were covered with frost and were thrown aside.

Harold Brinker and Barney Oldfield, who also raced in this group, finished in 22m. 51.6s. and 29m. 27s., respectively.

HAMPATS CRUEL TO BEAVERS.

Vernon Takes Both Games from Portland Bunch.

Web-footers Played Worse than Sandlotters.

Patterson had Grip; Team Went on Alone.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Adding to the other well-known horrors of war another double-header was staged at the ball park yesterday.

The Beavers spilled both games and regarded it as a regular part of the day's routine. The scores:

No. 1—Vernon, 6; Portland, 4.
No. 2.—Vernon, 5; Portland, 2.

Swiping peppermint candy from the baby or stealing grandmother's spectacles never was anything like this.

Without detracting any from the glory of the Hampats it may be stated in the interest of common truth and justice that the Beavers played the worst article of ball displayed here this year, and that is saying considerable in view of the fact that Oakland has been in this town several times.

They threw away the opener in the fourth with a smear of misplays that can be seen on the sand lots any Saturday afternoon free of charge. Grover Lowdermilk sat into the supper shift by way of making his Coast League debut, only to see a masterful four-hit exhibition ruined by three flagrant and likewise fragrant errors in the eighth.

PAT WAS AWAY.

The Vernon athletes were forced to go through both combats minus their high command. The grip still has everything from a toe hold to a hammerlock on Patterson. Patterson was seized with a high fever when his club made four runs in one inning on Thursday, and his temperature went up again when the club scored four in the fourth yesterday. It is believed, however, that he will be able to attend today and relieve Capt. Ray Bates of the grave responsibilities that have weighed on him for the past forty-eight hours. The worst that we can wish Ham is a speedy recovery, and an early return to the coaching line. Having the grip bears no resemblance to a picnic, and is not to be chosen in preference to a joy ride. The grip makes you sore from the liver out, and you don't know whether you are afoot or horseback, although at times you suspect that you are in a flying ma-

TAKES MONEY IN AUSTRALIA.

AUTOS COST TWICE AS MUCH AS IN UNITED STATES.

On the Road, Gasoline is Ninety-six Cents—Tires also Cost Like Thunderation—Roads in New South Wales do not Compare with Those in California.

Americans have no cause to complain over the hardships of motoring, declares Alvin Taylor of Alvin Taylor, Ltd., Sydney, the largest motor supply house in Australia. The conditions in this country are ideal, and they have made possible more motor cars than in any other part of the world. "But you Americans do not appreciate this fact until you have been brought face to face with motor conditions in other countries," said Mr. Taylor.

Alvin Taylor, Ltd., are the distributors for the Master carburetor in Australia, and he was here as the guest of Charles G. Harness, manager of the local factory branch of the Master.

"Motor cars cost about twice as much at home as they do in this country, and they cost from four to five times as much to run. Petrol (gasoline,) tires, oil—all are many times more expensive than they are here.

"I understand there has been a great commotion over the high price of gasoline in this country, and the unprecedented increase in cost during the last two years. But the increase here is as nothing compared with what we have had to stand in Australia. Gasoline on the road is 96 cents a gallon. The wholesale cost to dealers in any lot from ten gallons to 10,000, is 58 cents. Lubricating oil sells at a similar rate. So, you see, if one has a car that delivers twenty miles to the gallon the gasoline cost alone is practically 5 cents a mile.

"It may readily be appreciated that the study of carburetion has been a very important one, and the carburetor that gives the best service is the one which attains a reputation. That is why I took on the Master line. I have had it for seven months and it has met with instant favor. Under all conditions the Master has proven the most economical and powerful carburetor we could obtain. The average reduction of fuel cost has been from 25 to 40 per cent., and when one figures this at the prevailing rates, one can see what carburetion means to the Australian motorists.

"In New South Wales we have no road that would earn that name in America—they are mere trails across the country. Los Angeles county's boulevards are better and smoother than Sydney's sidewalks. However, this does not prevail throughout the continent. The state of Victoria is spending $20,000,000 a year for good roads, and some of them rival those of California.

"The good-roads fight is starting in New South Wales, however, and in the near future we will take our place among the states that have excellent road systems.

"I believe that had Australia good roads to any extent right now the number of automobiles on the continent would double in two years, despite the high cost of supplies. I might mention, in passing, that gasoline is no higher in proportion than tires. There are two duties, one of 60 cents a pound and one of 35 per cent. ad valorem. If the duty on a tire is higher by the ad valorem duty than the poundage duty that's the tax imposed; all of which aids the motorist greatly—not.

"In importing cars there are several duties to be paid. In the first place, there is the chassis duty. Then the body duty, which is the same for all cars, $125. (It costs as much to bring a Ford body into the country as it does to bring in a Rolly-Royce.) The top and windshield (hood and screen in Australianese) require still another duty, the lamps and horn another, the tires another, the spare wheel or rim another, and the tools ever so many more, according to their class."

CORD TIRES VS. FABRIC TIRES.

MAIN POINTS OF DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THEM.

Cord Tire has for its Basis Several Layers of Light, Strong, Flexible Cords—Road Obstructions and Inequalities are Taken up with Little Effort.

"Now that motorists are becoming more and more interested in cord tires, I am receiving a surprisingly large number of inquiries from persons who want to know just how cord tires differ from fabric tires," says Eddie Lingenfelder, branch manager, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

"A cord tire is so-called because its carcass is built of layers of parallel cords, similar to a fishing line, instead of cross-woven fabric. Goodyear cord construction has for its basis several layers of light, strong, flexible cords. By laying certain plies in one direction and other plies in a cross direction, the strength which is found in cross-woven fabric is insured.

"By superimposing these layers of stout but pliable cords, one upon another, a flexibility follows which absorbs road obstructions and inequalities, giving more comfort to the passengers.

"A long time ago Goodyear weighed and demonstrated this style of cord construction against every other. We have proved to our satisfaction that it is best calculated to secure the results sought, and after conducting all manner of exacting tests, we are convinced that the cost per mile of Goodyear cord tires is lower, that they consume less power than ordinary tires and greatly reduce fuel consumption."

RACINE TIRES ARE BIG SUCCESS.

Making a special trip to Utah for the express purpose of developing and extending the distribution of the Racine horseshoe tire in that district, Roy R. Meads of the Los Angeles Saddlery and Finding Company left the city Wednesday and expects to make his headquarters in Salt Lake City for the next ten days, where he will consult with leading Utah distributors.

Just prior to leaving on his present business trip, Meads said: "The success of the Racine horseshoe tire here in the West is an absolute certainty. After seven months of actual distribution in every part of California, Nevada and Arizona, not one of these tires has been returned to us for adjustment. This is the only case I know of that such a record has been attained. This record is doubly exceptional when one stops to consider that this tire costs less than any other high-class tire on the market.

"Over at Oatman, Ariz., and in that vicinity there are hundreds of Racine horseshoe tires in actual service and our distributors there have not heard of one single complaint and a number of these tires have given considerably over 12,000 miles of service, notwithstanding the terrible condition of roads in that district."

Meads will probably also visit the trade in Idaho and on his return to Los Angeles will accomplish considerable promotion work in the San Joaquin Valley.

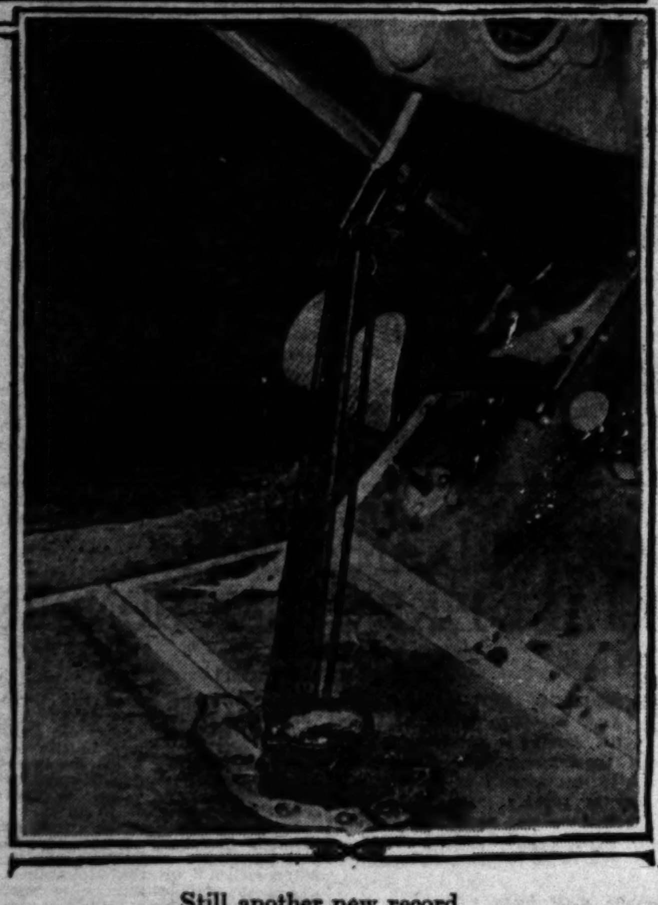
SAN FRANCISCO-LOS ANGELES Sealed HIGH GEAR



Still another new record.

Mrs. Harris Hanshue, wife of the manager of the local Apperson factory branch, who has established a new record for women pilots between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Mrs. Hanshue drove the transcontinental Apperson from San Francisco to Los Angeles in high gear. As shown in the lower picture the shift lever was entirely removed. High gear was the only possible gear of any kind, color or description.

All in High Gear.

APPERSON ROADAPLANE SETS ANOTHER RECORD.

AFTER having been driven across the continent from New York to San Francisco in the record-breaking time for women pilots of eleven days, eight hours and twenty-eight minutes, a six-cylinder Apperson roadaplane roadster was taken in charge at San Francisco and driven in high gear to Los Angeles by Mrs. Harris M. Hanshue, wife of the manager of the local Apperson factory branch, alone.

This is the first time a woman has driven a car in high gear between the two cities and there is additional glory in the fact that Mrs. Hanshue's total previous experience at the wheel of an automobile did not amount to 100 miles. The fact that she was able to handle the car so successfully with only one gear available is said by Mr. Hanshue to be positive evidence of the ease with which the Apperson can be handled even by an inexperienced driver.

SPLENDID RECORD.

In the run from New York to San Francisco, the Apperson roadaplane covered 4100 miles. All but 600 miles of this distance was covered with a woman at the wheel. During the 600 miles she slept on the rear seat of the four-passenger roadster. The gasoline consumption for the long run averaged 13.7 miles per gallon and a gallon of oil sufficed for 874 miles. This trip was made for the purpose of arousing interest in the movement to provide a permanent system of illumination for the Statue of Liberty.

Before Mrs. Hanshue left on her trip to Los Angeles from the northern city, the car was sealed in high gear by a committee of Bay City newspaper men. The inland route was followed, but a side trip was made to Stockton and this increased the total mileage and also the difficulties for the driver and car.

At Tracy, the bridge over the Tuolumne River was out and it was necessary for Mrs. Hanshue to make a detour of six miles to Empire and return. This detour led through deep sands and across hundreds of irrigation ditches. It was twelve miles back to the highway and with only one gear available Mrs. Hanshue showed an expertness at the wheel that would have done credit to a seasoned tourist and meant much more to her as the amateur she says she was at the start of the trip. The total mileage on the high gear run was 621 miles, due to the side trip to Stockton and the detours. Despite the heavy work in the sand and the frequent grades, including the celebrated Ridge south of Bakersfield, the Apperson roadaplane under Mrs. Hanshue's driving returned an average of fifteen miles to the gallon of gasoline.

MERCER ENTERS FIVE SPEED CARS

IN THE VANDERBILT CUP RACE AT SANTA MONICA.

Eddie Pullen will Captain the Team, Seconded by Guy Ruckstell and Joe Thomas—Barney Oldfield's is the First Cup Race Entry.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 12.—Five racing creations will be the contribution of the Mercer factory to the Vanderbilt Cup and International Grand Prize races to be held at Santa Monica on November 16 and 18. That the Trenton aggregation will endeavor to annex the two coveted cups is apparent by the entry of this array of talent.

The Mercer team was entered last week by George Bentel, Pacific Coast distributor for the Trenton product. Much speculation is being made as to what the five entries will consist of. It is rumored that two new 300 cubic inch displacement racing creations will head the list. It is said that these cars will be capable of 120 miles an hour. In addition to these cars dame rumor has it that a stock roadster will comprise another of the quintette of distance-annihilators. The great success accomplished with this new stock creation on the Chicago speedway in May and on the highways all over the United States where a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour has been reached, has led the Mercer factory to the realization that one of these cars would stand a great chance at the big cup classics.

In addition to the 300 cubic inch jobs and the stock roadster, the remaining two cars will be the ones which achieved such great success in Coast racing events last fall.

Eddie Pullen, Mercer racing star, will captain the team. He will be seconded by Guy Ruckstell and Joe Thomas. Pilots for the other two entries have not been announced yet, but it is thought that they will be local drivers.

The first entry to be received by Paul Derkum, race manager, is that of Barney Oldfield, master drive of the world. Within twenty-four hours after entries opened the master driver had forwarded his blank and check to Race Manager Derkum. Oldfield does not name the car he will drive, and for this reason his entry is shrouded in a veil of mystery.

NEW ADDITION TO SPEDOMETER PLANT.

The Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation of Chicago, Ill., the world's largest producer of speedometers, automobile vacuum systems, motor-driven tire pumps and other motor car accessories, has just announced the purchase of the entire business of the V-Ray Company of Marshalltown, Iowa, the widely-known spark-plug manufacturing concern.

V. N. Hansen, president of the V-Ray Company, has already identified himself with the Stewart-Warner organization and will have charge of the spark-plug end of the business.

The V-Ray spark-plug has established an enviable reputation as a high-grade product. Despite the fact that it is more expensive than many of its competitors, the demand for it has been so great that the Marshalltown concern found itself unable, because of limited manufacturing facilities, to fill the orders. Now that the huge Stewart-Warner organization has taken it over, however, it is announced that there will be no further difficulty in supplying the demand.

TIOGA PASS IS SCENIC WONDER.

Ellery Grade Proves a Very Interesting Spot.

Careful Driving Needed in a Few Places.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISHOP (Cal.) Aug. 8.—A masterpiece of highway construction, a master-key to a mountain-walled wonderland! That describes the Tioga Pass route over which Los Angeles motorists touring via El Camino Sierra now go to the Yosemite. And the grandest, most spectacular, most charming part of it is the winding way of fifteen miles or so leading from Mono Lake to the summit through deep, abrupt, beautiful Leevining Canyon. This is a State Highway. From the lake to the pass it makes an ascent of nearly [illegible] feet and attains an altitude a few feet less than 10,000—the highest of any wagon road in California. In all that climb there isn't a rise or a curve over which the motor of any car won't go purring easily on second.

WORTH IT.

That road cost $150,000, and it's worth it. Every foot of it opens a vista in any direction such as only over-rated Switzerland is supposed to afford. Each turn reveals new [illegible], new heights, new depths, new coloring. Particularly is this so in the canyon proper. There the highway is called Ellery Grade, in honor of the man, who, as State Engineer, conceived and constructed that part of it. On this grade, with its hairpin bends and horseshoe curves, the autoist experiences all the thrills of real mountaineering without the usual attendant dangers; for the mountainside thoroughfare is blasted out of the solid granite, perfectly walled up and balanced, and everywhere smooth and of ample width, with plenty of turnouts. There is little chance of meeting a car suddenly because the road is visible for miles, up and down. The atmosphere is clear and the great gorge [illegible] and bright.

DANGEROUS.

There are places where your auto going over the edge would mean a whirl of 1700 feet or so to the bottom and perhaps into the white-churning, roaring creek. But there's no more reason for going over the side than there would be for ramming your machine into a wall or driving from the Palisades into the Pacific Ocean, and there have been no accidents. It is a keen pleasure to drive up, to view the towering mountains ahead, chief of which is Mt. Dana; to inhale the cool breath from the snow patches above, to drink from the icy brooks bubbling down the slopes to the reach of your hand. It is inspiring to see a long, slender, silvery strand glistening miles away in the morning sunlight, a streak of snow as you believe, take on life and motion as distance decreases, and turn into a tumbling waterfall. This is Leevining Creek falls, near the head of the canyon, and from various points along the highway 1600 feet of its scintillating beauty is unfolded. And beyond that come the lakes—Rhine-[illegible], Saddleback, Tioga, and many more, crystalline mirrors framed by green meadows and bordered with evergreens; their waters so clear the lazy trout can be seen moving back and forth, often making a flashing leap for a grasshopper or fly as you spin by.

All this and much more the motorist beholds and absorbs in the much-too-short time between starting from the Mono Basin and passing over the summit for the rapid descent into the park over the government road, which begins in the mile-high pass, half meadow and half forest, where the California path [illegible]

And this is but a sketch, but a brief, incomplete outline of the glories of that trip. Sunrise in Leevining Canyon, sunset on Tuolumne Meadows from Tioga summit, a night beneath warm blankets close to a snowbank under the calm stars up there in the new world El Camino Sierra has opened—these are joys that will be more than trimmings in the feast of scenery always spread for the man or woman who has toured Tioga.

NEW CONTROL FOR ENSIGN CARBURETOR

Announcement was made this week by the Ensign Carburetor Company, No. 149 West Pico street, manufacturers of the Ensign carburetor, that a new type of top control adjustment had been developed by them and would henceforth be used as standard construction on all carburetor bearing the Ensign trademark.

In speaking of the advantages of the new construction, Mr. O. H. Ensign, inventor of the carburetor, which bears his name, said: "There are two ideals in carburetor construction which we have never lost sight of; and they are efficiency and simplicity. From the very moment that it was put on the market, more than three years ago, the carburetor has made a reputation for itself on an efficiency basis.

"Due to the peculiar construction of the mixing chamber, and the action principle upon which the Ensign carburetor operates, the results obtained with our carburetor have been eminently successful in every respect and for every duty imposed upon it. Motor cars, trucks, aeroplanes, tractors and motor boats are now being equipped with the Ensign to get better working results."

MILLER CARBURETOR WINS ANOTHER RACE.

The Los Angeles-made Miller carburetor won another victory at the [illegible] 300-mile race August 5. Eddie Rickenbacher won first, [illegible] second, and Milton third, all three using Miller carburetors. This is another demonstration of the wonderful supremacy of the Miller carburetor.

As a result of the unprecedented demand in the racing world the factory of the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company has increased its production until they are now turning out [illegible] carburetors per day.

A sensational four.

This new Stearns-Knight four put in an appearance at the Lynn C. Buxton plant the other day and created quite a sensation. Before it had been on the floor a day Mrs. J. M. Meredith had closed a deal and driven it from the salesroom.

Hurrah—

STEARNS-KNIGHT FOUR AT LAST HITS TOWN.

THE first of the new Stearns-Knight fours has been received by Lynn C. Buxton, Southern California distributor for the car, and now is in the hands of its owner. The new car came as a surprise for the local sales force while Mr. Buxton was at the factory. The graceful lines which prevailed in the body of the eight-cylinder car have been adapted to the four, thus greatly improving its appearance, and the new car is one of the handsomest fours ever brought to the Coast.

The body of the car has been redesigned in such a way that it is right up to the minute. The stream lines have been emphasized, and the few angles which remained in last year's four have given away to graceful curves.

The first of the new models had not been on the floor long, until Mrs. J. M. Meredith, an owner of one of the early Stearns-Knight four-cylinder models, visited the salesrooms. She was much impressed with the new car, and a deal was soon completed whereby she became its owner.

Advices received from Mr. Buxton, who was at the Stearns factory all last week, indicate that motor materials will be harder to procure than ever this season. Prices will advance stiffly, it is believed, during the next few months, as the demand for metals of all kinds is much greater than at any time since the beginning of the European war.

On this account motor car manufacturers are facing the necessity of either raising prices, or lowering the quality of their cars, for the same quality cannot be built into a car now as a year ago for an equal outlay of money. One of the first to announce an increase in price for the coming season was the Stearns organization. On the first day of August the price of the Stearns-Knight eight was advanced $50.

Business conditions throughout the East could not be better, writes Mr. Buxton. Especially is this true of the motor car market. While a year ago trade conditions were excellent, they have shown a steady gain, despite the sharp advance in prices, with the result that never before was the motor market in such a healthy state.

Building Activity.

NEW FRANKLIN LOOKS LIKE REAL SENSATION.

WITH the return to Los Angeles a few days ago of Ralph C. Hamlin, the secret of the building activity on the lot north of Hamlin's South Flower-street home of the Franklin and Scripps-Booth automobiles was revealed. The lot, 50 feet wide by 155 feet deep, will be covered by a two-story structure that will be an addition to the Hamlin holdings. A pretentious structure to correspond in architecture to the other building, now less than four years old, is to be erected.

When completed the two buildings will provide Hamlin with a Flower-street frontage of 137 feet and a total floor space of almost 30,000 feet. The front of the lower floor will be used as a second-hand department salesroom. The second floor will house the mechanical department for the entire establishment and the rear of both lower floors will serve for storage purposes. A section of the north wall of the old building will be removed to give access to the new.

Mr. Hamlin has been absent on a tour of the East for a month and upon his return received a telegram from the factory at Syracuse notifying him that one of the new series 9 Franklin touring cars is now en route here. Its arrival is dated for next Wednesday or Thursday, and preparations are being made for the reception of the car that will mark the most distinct advancement in Franklin construction.

"This new car is the best-looking and best-built Franklin ever produced," said Mr. Hamlin. "I believe it is as near perfect as it is possible to make an automobile. It might very well be called the tailored automobile, so carefully made is every unit to fit and operate harmoniously. I rode in the car in the East and must admit that it exceeded even my expectations. There is a surprise in store for everybody when this car arrives, as the Franklin company has spared absolutely nothing in the making of it."

Strenuous.

VIM TRUCK TRAVELS OVER ROUGH DESERT COUNTRY.

ON THE return of F. M. Headlee to Los Angeles yesterday there was completed one of the most remarkable long distance truck runs ever carried out in the Southwest.

Fighting every kind of weather, every kind of roads, long mountain grades, wide stretches of sandy desert, Headlee piled up a total of 3500 miles through the very roughest of the desert regions of California, Arizona and New Mexico.

He sent his truck through mud up to the hubs, successfully negotiating sand stretches that stalled pleasure cars, and crossed twenty-three mountain ranges, having an aggregate of 800 miles of steep grade work, more than most trucks get in a year's travel.

Headlee has been gone since the middle of May, at which time he started his trip in the interest of the Harold L. Arnold organization to establish Vim truck agencies through the Arizona territory controlled by Mr. Arnold.

According to Mr. Arnold, this truck run just made by Mr. Headlee is as formidable as any undertaking ever made by truck in the annals of a commercial vehicle. It is a performance much more strenuous and equal in mileage in making the run from Los Angeles to New York City.

Headlee crossed the sand wastes of the Mojave Desert, Great Lava Beds of Northern Arizona, high plateau region around the Grand Canyon and the arid and sandy stretches of the Painted Desert. He sent his Vim through the petrified forest and along the slope of the White Mountains in Eastern Arizona. From Springerville he crossed the Transcontinental Divide at 8250 feet elevation, just west of Soccorro, N. M., he turned south through the desperately rough country in the neighborhood of the Elephant Butte Dam to Deming, N. M., negotiating a country where no motor truck had ever turned its wheels before.

After touching the border of Mexico, Headlee turned West again and fought his way over the great peaks and mountain ranges to Lordsburg, Duncan, and away up to the copper camps of Morenci and Clifton. From that point he crossed over the mountains to Globe, Ariz., then made a detour to Tucson, Bisbee and Douglas, then to Florence and Phoenix, LENGTHY JOURNEY FOR MOTOR CAR.

Taking a motor car from California to New Zealand seems like quite an undertaking. However, that is what J. E. Cook, who has been staying with his son at Fillmore, Cal., is about to do. Of course, there is a Dodge Bros. dealer in New Zealand, but Mr. Cook has had such success in driving his Dodge car through the mountains of Southern California, and it is working so perfectly after the 5000 miles he has driven it, that he doesn't propose to break in another car. He prefers to use the old one, so he is shipping it from San Francisco when he leaves for his home in New Zealand.

As to the opportunity for investment in New Zealand, Mr. Cook thinks there is no country on the globe that holds more promise for the young man of energy and perseverance, even though he is short of funds.

Real Tests.

GOVERNMENT TRUCKS PUT TO HARD USE.

PROCESS OF ELIMINATION IS WATCHED WITH INTEREST.

Achievements of the Moreland Trucks in Army Service Entirely Satisfactory—Establishment of El Paso Branch Expected to Liven Interest in Local Product.

Field Manager Arthur H. Hertz of the Moreland Motor Truck Company has just returned from a trip over the Arizona and Texas territory and reports the motor truck situation at fever heat along all the border towns.

The extensive use of the commercial car by the United States Army has awakened the people to the possibilities of motorized transportation, says Mr. Hertz.

KEEN INTEREST.

Hundreds of prospective truck buyers have watched with keen interest the government process of buying, that of elimination, or the survival of the fittest. A great many makes of trucks have been discarded, having proven entirely unfitted for the hard usage to which they were subjected.

The establishment of a Moreland branch at El Paso has been heartily approved by many prospective truck purchasers, and three orders were closed on the opening day.

The achievements of the Los Angeles-manufactured trucks in the army service has become well known, as has the successful use of distillate fuel, and, according to the Moreland representative, a large number of Moreland trucks are certain to be shipped into Texas in the near future.

NETWORK.

A complete network of Moreland branches and service stations are to be established throughout Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, as the demand for the distillate-burning truck in that section is increasing daily.

The trucks shipped to the Texas territory will be specially designed and constructed to meet the requirements of the various local conditions.

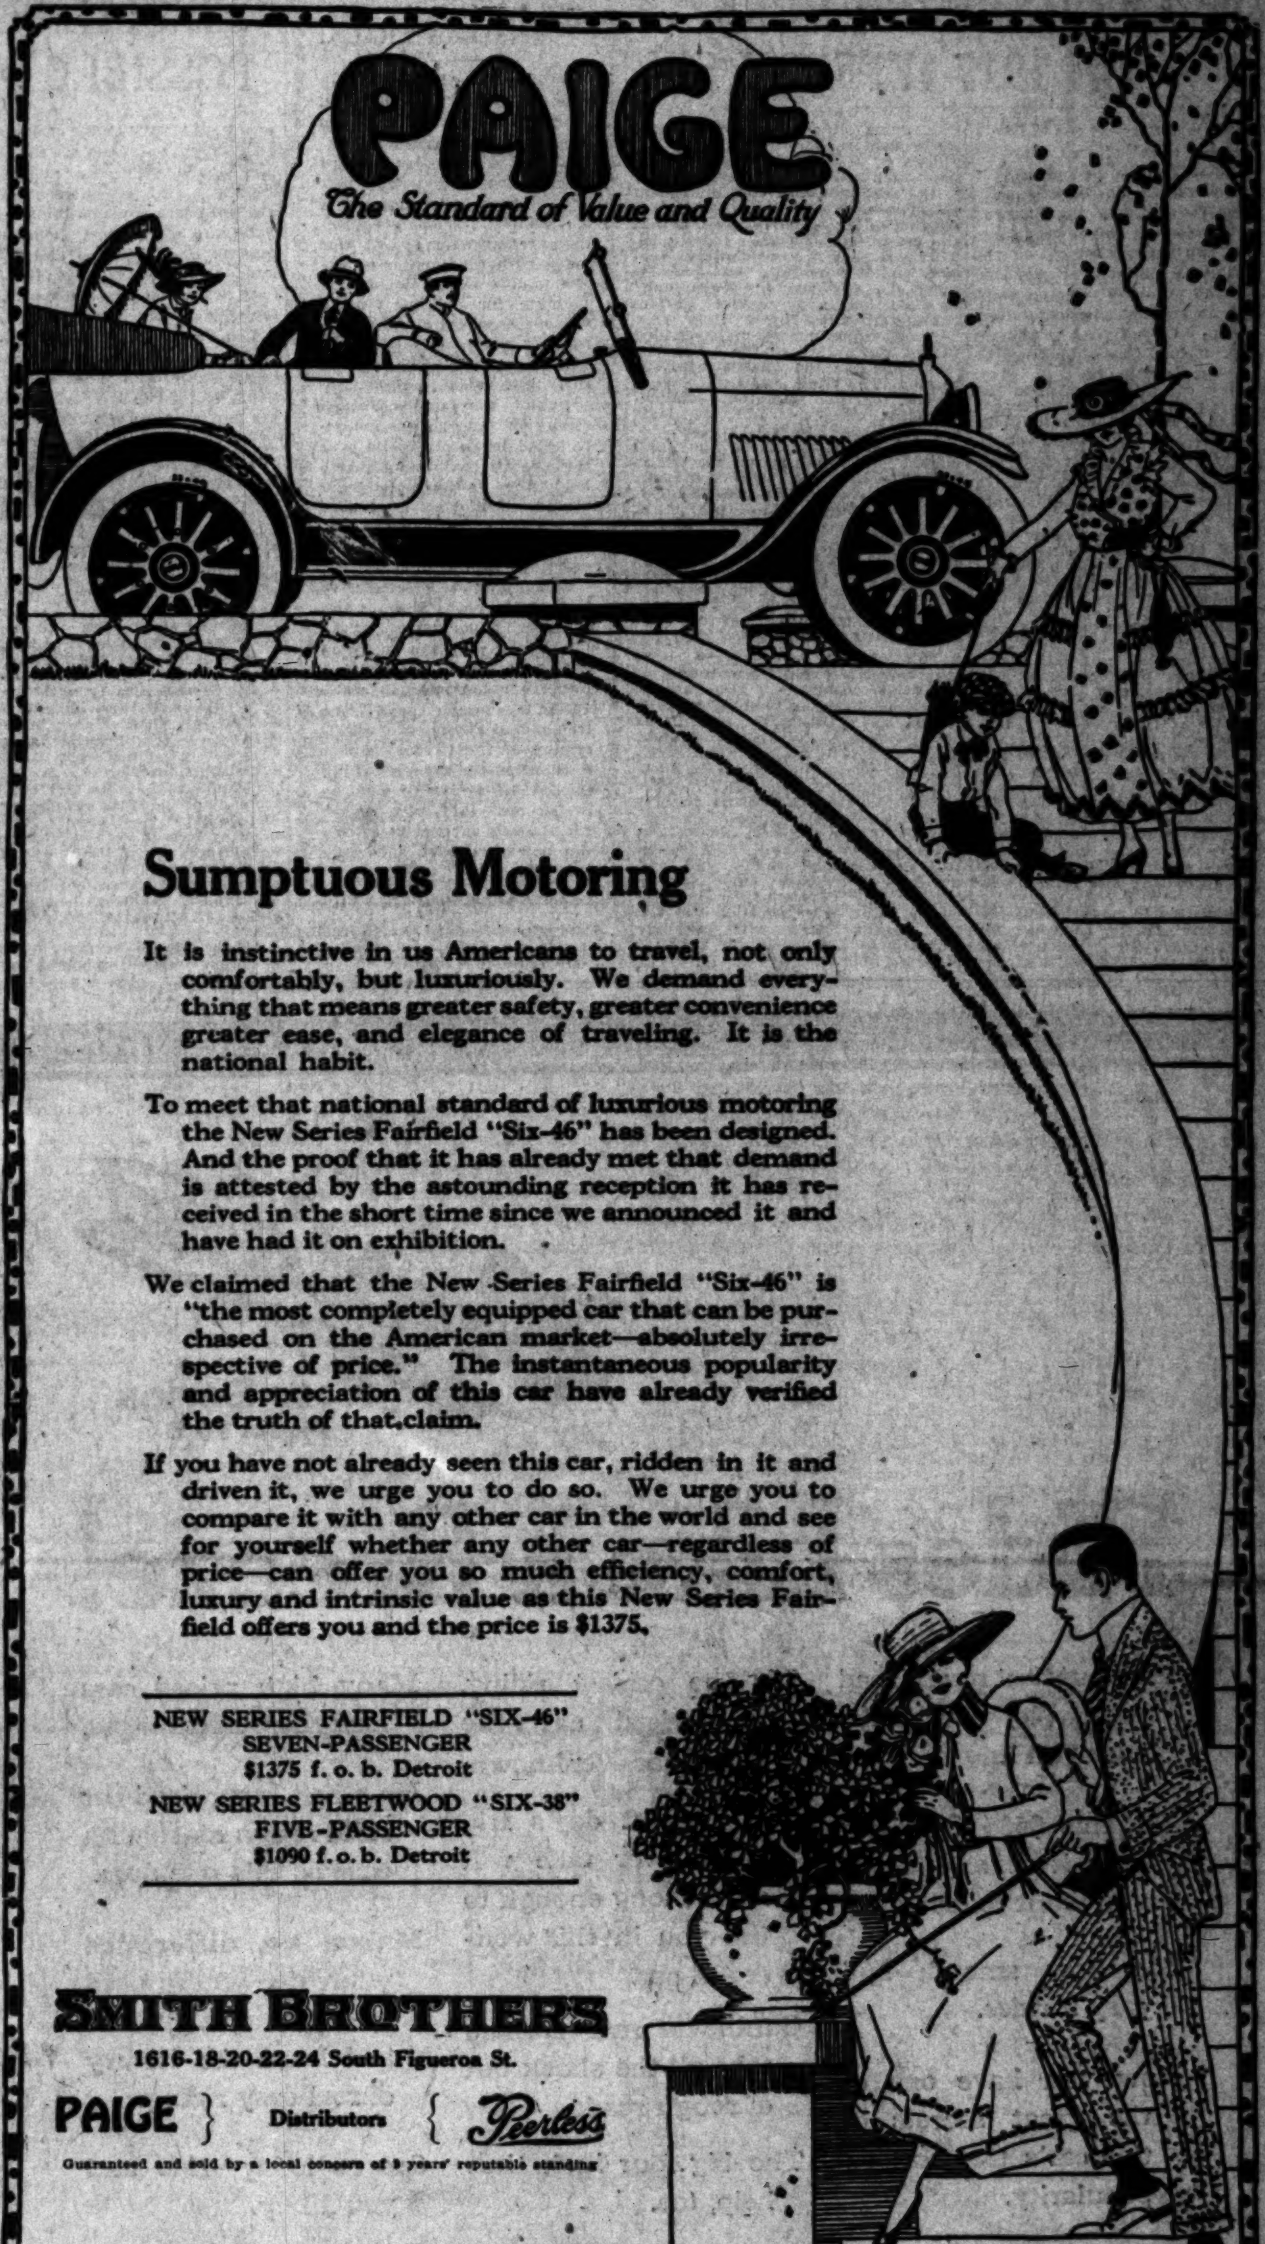
This is an important decision on the part of Manager Moreland, which means that the Moreland users in the new center of commercial car activities will enjoy practically all the advantages of home manufacturing.

MAXWELL LANDS ON SPEED MARK.

Another highly cherished record for automobile speed fell by the roadside last week, when Ray McNamara, piloting the same Maxwell "25" roadster he had used a few days previous in smashing the Portland-Spokane and intermediate marks, drove from Spokane to Seattle, Wash., in eleven hours and fifty-five minutes.

McNamara's time out of Spokane was officially checked by the prominent newspapermen of that city. Into Seattle he was greeted by automobile editors of the newspapers there. At various points along the line he was checked in and out in order to make the record authentic in every way.

The Maxwell's time played havoc with the best previous endeavors, both by trains and automobiles. Until McNamara sent the little roadster humming over the course the fastest automobile pilot had registered his time as more than sixteen hours; the fastest train had taken thirteen hours to do the trick. So the Maxwell mark stands as the fastest ever made in any sort of a conveyance between the two Washington cities.



PAIGE
The Standard of Value and Quality

Sumptuous Motoring

It is instinctive in us Americans to travel, not only comfortably, but luxuriously. We demand everything that means greater safety, greater convenience greater ease, and elegance of traveling. It is the national habit.

To meet that national standard of luxurious motoring the New Series Fairfield "Six-46" has been designed. And the proof that it has already met that demand is attested by the astounding reception it has received in the short time since we announced it and have had it on exhibition.

We claimed that the New Series Fairfield "Six-46" is "the most completely equipped car that can be purchased on the American market—absolutely irrespective of price." The instantaneous popularity and appreciation of this car have already verified the truth of that claim.

NOT A SQUARE CORNER ON 1917 JEFFERY SIX.

THE first Jeffery six for the 1917 season manufactured at Kenosha, is now in use at the salesrooms of the new Los Angeles home of the Jeffery, the Hartwell Motor Company. Three weeks ago the first two cars rolled out of the paint shop. An hour later they had been loaded onto the fastest freight trains from the big shipping house. No. 1 was on the way to Los Angeles and No. 2 to Boston, linking the Jeffery organization.

The new car was unloaded in Los Angeles Monday morning, and placed on display at once in the salesrooms of the Hartwell Motor Company on South Flower.

The new Jeffery Six offers the latest development in the curve-line body. There is not a square corner on the car, and there is not a straight line, except on the hood. From the radiator cap, topped with a moto-meter, to the filler cap of the gasoline tank, the car carries the impression of speed, grace and beauty.

The windshield has been designed in the sloping style which is so popular with American motorists today. This enhances the beauty of the body, which demands just such a windshield design to set it off properly. It is of the rain-vision ventilating type.

The new six presents a much better appearance than the former Jeffery product. The rear axle has been redesigned to permit underslung spring suspension, and this, with the lower, more sweeping lines of the body, have lowered the line of vision of the body seven and a half inches without decreasing the road clearance.

The reduction in body height has made the car a better road car, for its center of gravity is much lower than that of the 1916 six, and the passengers sit comfortably into the deep cushions.

One of the features of the new car which has met with instant favor is the fact that it is vibrationless at all speeds. The secret of this, according to Manager Hartwell, is that the crankshaft has been redesigned. This new shaft is considerably oversize, and is inherently balanced. Its large size prevents any "whipping" or distortion and assures perfect running at all speeds.

Another feature which has added to the appearance of the car is the lengthening of the wheelbase to 125 inches. The additional three inches length, together with the reduction in height, make the car look at least a foot longer than the 1916 six.

And best of all these body and chassis changes have materially aided the riding qualities of the car. In fact, in designing the new car, the engineers had the comfort of the passengers first in mind, and in every way they have worked to improve this feature of the machine. The seats have been designed to give maximum comfort on long or short tours. They are deep, and the upholstery is heavy and of the best quality.

The control levers have been lengthened to avoid the necessity of the driver stooping in applying the emergency brake or in shifting gears.

The car is distinctly a light six type, weighing only 3190 pounds, fully equipped for the road with gasoline, oil and water tanks filled, and spare tire on the extra rim. The shipping weight is 2950 pounds.

The power is developed by a Jeffery-built motor, six cylinder, having a bore of three and a half inches. It is of the long stroke type, and develops fifty-three horse power. This highly developed, economical power plant, is capable of carrying the car forward with absolute smoothness at speeds up to sixty miles an hour.

NEW RECORDS ON EASTERN TRACK.

Setting a new mark of an even 100 miles an hour, Phil Rader last week established a new record for the Indianapolis track with the Packard aviation twelve that the Packard company is working out in a special racing chassis. Rader's remarkable record was made with the smaller of the two motors which Packard is building for aviation work, which measures only 298 cubic inches piston displacement, and he carried a mechanic and forty gallons of gasoline.

Boillot, the famous French racing driver, who was recently killed in an air battle over the French trenches, hitherto held the Indianapolis track record. Boillot set his record with a 280-cubic-inch Peugeot, and carried no mechanic and very little gasoline.

Much higher speeds have been made on Chicago and Sheepshead Bay tracks, but the low banking of the turns on the Indianapolis track has hitherto made impossible the 100-mile average there. The tremendous swiftness of acceleration of the twelve-cylinder Packard motor upon reaching the straightaways is held by racing men to be the reason for Rader's success in setting the new record at Indianapolis.

Kentucky breeders' horse racing stakes to be distributed this year foot up close to $100,000.

"SPECIAL SERVICE" MADE POSSIBLE BY AUTO TRUCKS.

OPERATIVE COST of the motor truck has been a source of much discussion and experimentation among owners during the last few years in which the truck has come into general use. Depreciation, repairs, tires, gasoline and oil all must be figured, and many owners have arrived at conclusions that differ widely.

The motor truck has become one of the most vital agencies in modern business life, and the Autocar company has made a careful study of the performance of their vehicle under all sorts of road, weather and labor conditions.

The results of these tests, which covered a period of more than two years, have just been made public by the factory. Manager R. C. Hoadley of the local branch received a copy of them last week.

"We have found," said Mr. Hoadley, "that the cost of operation for the Autocar is $7.62 for a fifty-mile day. This is based on the average of thousands of cars, and includes all expense attached, including the hire of a driver at $2.50 a day.

"This figure, while it does not compare unfavorably with the cost of a two-horse team, should not be compared with that cost, but rather with the cost of horse equipment that would be necessary to do the same amount of work.

"The jobs that the motor truck have made possible can be roughly divided into two classes: Jobs that must be done in such short time that horses are out of the question, and jobs that cover a distance so great as to be impractical for horses. The first kind of work may be called 'special service,' the second, 'new business.'

"This 'special service' feature is a tremendously important asset to an expressman's business. As a rule it is well paid for and invariably it creates a good will toward the company that renders the service that is the most substantial advertisement a man can buy.

"In different cities a good many instances of this 'special service' have come to our attention. Freeman Landon of the F. Landon Cartage Company, Chicago, writes of a stunt that one of his Autocars performed. A man called up at 4:48 p.m. to make a delivery at the Illinois Central before 5:30. The Autocar traveled over five miles, picked up the goods and delivered them on time. 'That,' said Mr. Landon, 'is the kind of service people don't forget; the fact is, we consider our trucks the best solicitors we have.' Just last month another Autocar was delivered to the L. Landon Cartage Company.

"A big Philadelphia express concern that operates from Front street to certain New Jersey towns beyond Camden is now operating two trucks and four horses in place of the twelve horses they formerly owned. The average run for this company is only six miles from Philadelphia; a truck regularly makes two round trips each day and sometimes three, whereas a two-horse team never made more than one. This does not sound like a great deal of work until the conditions are fully understood; the trucks have to be loaded in town, cross the ferry, and make numerous stops all along the route.

"Another man who covers an eighteen-mile route out into Jersey often makes two round trips each day with his Autocar; it is not seldom that his truck turns over a daily mileage of 100 miles. This man said to the writer: 'I can't use horses. The man who had the business before me used to leave for the day at 4 o'clock in the morning and not get back until 8 o'clock at night. He made one trip only and had no time for pick-up calls. I have plenty of time for two round trips.'"

NIFTY MILEAGE ON SAXON RUN.

The recent 300-mile nonstop run arranged for the dealers by the Saxon Motor Car Company certainly developed some remarkable results for at least part of the Saxon Six equipment.

A total of 62,000 miles was covered during the run, this record being made by 206 Saxon Six stock cars, and in all parts of America, the individual runs having been conducted by Saxon dealers.

In view of the diversified conditions of travel, the average mileage of 23.5 miles to the gallon is considered an indication of high efficiency of the Saxon Six, and a tribute to the Rayfield carburetor, its standard equipment.

BEGINNERS DRIVE CARS WITH EASE.

Owners of automobiles have gained so much confidence in their machines in the last few years that the merest novice is no longer afraid to start out on a long trip in his car. A few years ago a man would not attempt an automobile trip of several hundred miles unless he was an expert at the wheel himself or had with him a chauffeur that he knew was dependable.

Stewart McDonald, vice-president of the Moon Motor Car Company, ascribes this growing confidence of the automobile owner to the increasing dependability of modern automobiles. He says this dependability has been the result of the study of automobile building as an exact science and the further elimination each year of the uncertainties in connection with automobile mechanism.

WILL PROSPERITY FOLLOW THE WAR?

REO MAN IS AN OPTIMISTIC PREDICTER.

We Have been Enjoying a Five-year Demand in One Year's Time. Empty Shelves are a Good Preface to Good Times and Trade will Follow the Fighting.

"I guess I'm an optimist all right," says Sales Manager Rueschaw of the Reo Motor Car Company, "and I suppose a bruin banker would discount my enthusiasm. But when I hear that question so often propounded nowadays, 'What will business be after the war closes?' I can't but exclaim, 'Better!'

"Of course, I know we are now enjoying, in fact, reveling in prosperity that is abnormal, but for the life of me I can't see why that prosperity should not be permanent.

"Europe has poured more than three billions of dollars into the purses of the American people in the last twelve months, and since all the munitions contracts are for three years, will continue to pour in for some time yet.

"Summing it up in a word, I'd express it this way: We have enjoyed a five years' demand in one year's time. That has resulted in empty shelves. And empty shelves is the best possible preface to prosperity. Those shelves must be filled again. That demand must be supplied.

"Why, we have actually been enjoying a period of want in this country. Ask milady if she hasn't had to accept qualities of material and colors that in normal times she would not have tolerated.

"The close of the war will mean that her needs are going to be supplied, and that means a distribution of prosperity.

"If Europe has spent her surplus she is only obligating future generations to pay it back. Europe must and will be rebuilt.

"Recently I was talking to a friend who lives in Europe, and he astounded me by stating that Europe will for the next several years enjoy a prosperity similar to that which we in America habitually enjoy.

"I asked him to explain it. He said, 'You have a great many wooden houses in America, haven't you?' I assented. 'Well, we in Europe have long had stone houses—permanent places of abode,' said he.

"I guess I was dense, for I didn't get the significance of the remark.

"'When people have built permanent places of abode,' he explained, 'they do not need to build any longer, and that means the end of prosperity, for those homes are also completely furnished, and the furniture is the kind that we expect to last for several generations.'

"I began to see a new light. After the war Europe will have to be rebuilt—it will be as a new country—and that will mean work for everybody for a long time to come.

"We make the mistake," continued Mr. Rueschaw, "of thinking that wealth is being destroyed in Europe. Nothing is being destroyed except the work of past generations, and that means employment for present and future generations, which in turn means prosperity for everybody."

CARBURETOR PLANT GREATLY ENLARGED.

Sooner or later every successful manufacturing plant finds itself in the dubious position of being unable to turn out enough to meet demands. Then comes the efficiency expert to discover ways and means of saving labor and increasing output. New machinery, added floor space and other production solutions follow.

In the Findeisen & Kropf Manufacturing Company's plant at Twenty-first and Rockwell streets, Chicago, where Rayfields are made—all of this experience of enlargement and increased efficiency is going on.

New equipment, material contracts, enlargement of the factory are among the every day details that are being perfected in time to double the output of the present year in preparation for 1917.

LOCAL BUSINESS IS BEST OF ALL.

Mr. John G. Boss, the president and general manager of the Portage Rubber Company, and Coast distributor for the Portage tires and tubes, returned this last week from an extended trip to the different Portage distributing centers in Northern California, Portland and Seattle, and brings back word that, while good business conditions prevail all along the line, the automobile industry, and especially the tire industry, does not take on the same proportions up there as it does here in Southern California.

AUTO CLUB TRAFFIC RULE DIGESTS COMPL

AT THE request of Chief of Police Snively the Automobile Club of Southern California has supplied the police department of Los Angeles with more than 600 copies of a new traffic ordinance digest which has just been issued by the organization.

These digests epitomize the traffic laws of Los Angeles in a new form—grouping rules which are similar together and shortening the reading matter in such a way as to be readily available at a glance.

Heretofore there has been no digest of the 1916 ordinance issued, and this coming from the Automobile Club's legal department is official. More than 7500 copies have been supplied all motorists who are members of the Automobile Club.

All police officers will be requested to carry the new booklets, and, if necessary, acquaint motorists with the rulings.

Of particular importance is the map contained in the digests, which clearly defines various sections of the city where time limits are set on curb parking. At a glance an automobile owner can ascertain just how long he can leave his car standing in various parts of the business and congested districts.

STRENUOUS USAGE IN BORDER SCOUT DUT

WHEN Guy Taylor ran his new Studebaker Six out of the salesrooms of the Elliott-Garrett Company, Studebaker distributors at El Paso, Tex., several weeks ago he had no inkling that his car as well as himself would have a chance to assist in making some American history during the next few weeks.

Young Taylor is a member of the firm of Taylor Bros., wholesale and retail grocers and general merchants in the Mormon settlement at Guzman, Mex. It was to the vicinity of Guzman that Pancho Villa and his band first retreated after the Columbus massacre. Taylor was somewhat worried about the safety of his family and wasted no time in getting started.

Despite six inches of loose sand, which lay over the Mexican desert, young Taylor, remembering the extra supply of both gasoline and oil in the tonneau, "gave her the juice." In telling of his trip, Taylor stated that the front wheels parted the loose sand like the prow of an ocean steamship and the Studebaker Six ploughed along as easily as if on a city boulevard.

Despite the fact that Pershing's cavalry was making record time, Taylor caught up with them the following morning. "Black Jack" Pershing, as he is familiarly called, was mounted on a mettlesome horse.

"I was getting ready to dash ahead of the troops for my home," said Taylor, "when an orderly came up to me and stated that Gen. Pershing would like to talk to me.

"Telling me to sit down, Gen. Pershing himself took [illegible] cery box which served [illegible] and began to ask me [illegible]

M'FARLAN SIXES ARE ON THE WAY.

Don W. Carlton, president of the local firm of Carlton-Shepard-Bowles, Inc., which company is the distributor for the McFarlan six in California and Arizona, states that he has just received a wire from the McFarlan Motors Company of Connersville, Ind., that the first carload of 1917 McFarlans has just left the factory and will arrive here in about two weeks.

This year's model of these cars, Mr. Carlton says, will surpass anything previously made by the McFarlan factory in the way of mechanical perfection and general appearance. In fact, the specification of this car is as nearly perfect from every standpoint as an automobile can be made.

The car this year will be extremely fast and even more beautiful than last year's models and the lines will be low and rakish.

PAIGE DELIVERIES NEARLY CAUGHT UP.

"We shall catch up on deliveries of the new series Paige-Fairfield some time next week. At present we are only two or three days behind orders and cars on the way from Detroit will give us a means of filling the rush orders which are constantly coming in," says C. R. Teaboldt, sales manager of Smith Bros., Paige distributors.

"We considered that we had made ample preparation for the remarkable demand which was created by the announcement of this 'most completely-equipped car in America under $2000.' But still orders came faster than the cars to fill them. The big Paige factory is producing these cars in very large quantities to fill the gigantic national demand. They have promised, however, to give prompt attention to orders from Southern California, which is expected to be the best Paige territory in the whole country."

From Coast to Coast.

MOON FINISHES LONG CROSS-COUNTRY JOURNEY.

FROM Boston, Mass., to Los Angeles was the journey just made by a Moon "6-43," and finished when the car was run down into the sand at Venice and the front wheels dipped in the surf, thus completing an ocean-to-ocean trip, as the car had started from the surf at Revere Beach, Boston, Mass., about two months ago. No attempt was made to make any sort of time, as the trip was purely one of pleasure, and along the way numerous side trips were made, which took the party far out of their natural course. One of these trips was to the Grand Canyon, where they stopped for several days, and another was to the large mining camp at Oatman.

TRAVELING LIGHT.

There were only three in the party, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edwards of Springfield, Mass., and their chauffeur, and the trip was made without any sort of trouble, traveling so light the car was never called upon to produce any great amount of power to pull it out of any of the tight places in which the car is bound to get on such a long journey. Speaking of the trip Mr. Edwards said:

"We had a very pleasant and enjoyable trip all the way, and while it was my first transcontinental trip and I thus knew little as to what I might expect in the way of road conditions, I would say that taken as a whole the roads were in very good shape, and while we ran into some very heavy storms and considerable mud, we experienced very few hardships or inconveniences. Having always had big, heavy cars, I decided when planning this trip to get a lighter six, and decided upon the Moon '6-43,' because of its excellent appearance and exceptionally fine body finish and its extreme power."

Entirely too Easy.

HIGH-GEAR TEST IS A REGULAR DEMONSTRATION

QUITTING the warmer clime of the Imperial Valley in search of an automobile, F. B. Aikins, a wealthy cotton grower of that territory, has bought his machine after a novel test, but a convincing one.

Sometime ago Mr. Aikins visited Los Angeles and at that time was motored out through the Cahuenga Pass to the north entrance of Laurel Canyon and then to the top of Lookout Mountain.

WITHOUT A SHIFT.

He became convinced then that some day he would do this on high gear—and when he found a car that could do it without a shift, that was to be the car for him. Yesterday he arrived at the salesrooms of the English Motor Car Company, where King eights are being dispensed, and there he met his Waterloo.

In the vernacular, this was "duck soup" for the King salesman who was delegated to the jaunt, because the King had already done some similar little things—like climbing Mt. Wilson on high gear. So the start was made from Forty-fifth and Moneta avenue, with the gear lever set determinedly in high.

TOO EASY.

Through town they went, then out Sunset boulevard and over Cahuenga Pass, with Purchaser Aikins making a mental reservation that the car would meet its bete noir on the slopes of Lookout. He pointed out that the northern climb through Laurel Canyon is some feat in itself, but the car took that a-humping (he admits.)

Then the climb to the Lookout Mountain approach began, on high gear. This was also accomplished and the King arrived neatly at the summit with water so cool that a tender finger could be held in under the radiator cap. The gears had not been shifted.

It developed then that this is a usual King eight demonstration, according to C. A. English. Mr. Aikins now owns a King.

TO REVIVE CLIMB TO FOREST HOME.

The Forest Home hill climb, one of the classics of former motoring days, probably will be revived this fall. The matter will be put before Los Angeles dealers for their consideration within the next few weeks. The old climb, from Redlands to Forest Home, was one of the feature events in the days when hill climbs were annual features of the motoring season. The distance was about seventeen miles.

The road is in excellent condition, and would permit of high speed in many places. The surface of the road is decomposed granite, and practically dustless.

MARMON 34
ESTABLISHES
Transcontinental Record
New York to San Francisco
3476 Miles in 5 Days 18½ Hours

S. B. Stevens, a millionaire sportsman of Rome, New York, driving a Marmon 34, arrived at Third and Market streets, San Francisco, at five o'clock, Saturday afternoon, July 29th, just 5 days, 18½ hours after the car had left Columbus Circle, New York City, 3476 miles away.

Fastest Cross Continent Journey

This completed the most remarkable and fastest journey ever made across the United States in a motor car—the average rate of speed being almost equal to the schedule of the fast transcontinental railroad trains.

The car was a Marmon 34 touring car of regular production and was driven by Mr. Stevens and other amateurs under the auspices of the American Defense Society to demonstrate the possible speed and reliability of motor transportation across the continent.

What This Test Means

This epoch-making run by the Marmon 34 demonstrates again the soundness of its advanced scientific construction—the extensive use of aluminum, the deep section frame, the new rear spring suspension, the self oiling chassis lubrication system and other features.

Consider the pounding, racking and wrenching incidental to such a journey—more than 2100 miles of average roads at an average of more than 32 miles an hour, thence over mountain roads made almost impassable by rain storms; through deserts with only rough trails to follow. Think what it means to go from New York to San Francisco, 3476 miles, at an average of better than 25 miles an hour.

The Marmon 34 which established this record is the same in every respect, except body changes, as cars being delivered to buyers

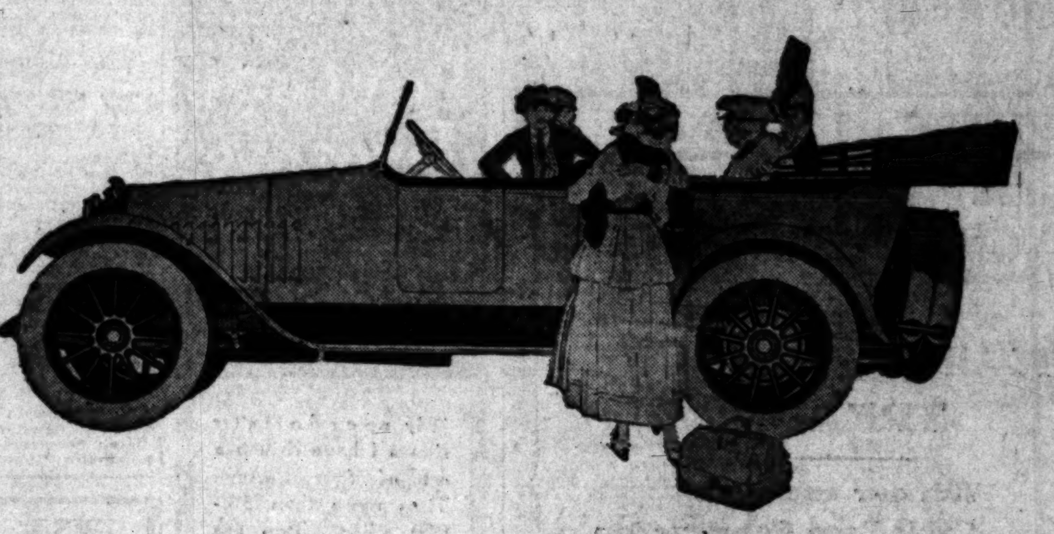
The Car with the Long Reach
1917 7-Passenger Chalmers!



You can face the longest trip with your family with perfect unconcern in a 1917 Chalmers, 3400 r. p. m. 7-passenger car.

Up—far—into the mountains, taking hills and trails with cool indifference, you glide along most comfortably. Down the coast or into the desert, scorning heat, sand and uncomfortable road conditions, the Chalmers 1917 will stay with you all the way.

That's the value of 3400 r. p. m. Power. While 3400 revolutions per minute is the maximum turn-over, it's there when you need it. At 10 miles, she does 500 r. p. m.; at 150 miles, 750; at 20 miles, 1000; and at 30 miles, 1500 r. p. m.

Not alone power, but lightness, get-away and instant response. She's off like a nervous pacer at the sting of the spur. You've seen how quickly the big coast guns get into action in motion pictures? That's 1917 Chalmers! Power and agility.

Besides power, speed, reliability and consistent performance, the 1917, 7-passenger Chalmers is built on artistic lines—very classy—and is upholstered in the very newest French pleats, beautiful to the eye, on resilient seats, yielding comfort to the body. All-day comfort for every member of the family, from babe to grandmother. There is front-seat comfort, back-seat comfort, and auxiliary-seat comfort.

Then, there's roominess, due to the 122-inch wheelbase. In all respects the Chalmers 7-passenger is the best adapted car for California touring conditions.

Nor is the 5-passenger to be overlooked. Not at all different except 115-inch wheelbase. And the roadster. A uniformity of merit runs through this trio of Chalmers 1917 pleasure vehicles.

THE PROVEN CAR FOR WOMEN

APPERSON ROADAPLANE

New York to San Francisco in Record Time
San Francisco to Los Angeles in High Gear

The two most distinct automobile achievements with women drivers stand to the credit of the 1917 Apperson Roadaplane.

Miss Claire Rochester, the popular vaudeville artist, drove a four-passenger Apperson Roadaplane roadster from New York to San Francisco in 11 days and 22 hours—a record for women drivers—without a stop due to mechanical trouble.

Taking the car in the same condition in which it arrived in San Francisco after the transcontinental run, Mrs. Harris M. Hanshue drove it alone to Los Angeles via Stockton, San Joaquin Valley and over the celebrated Ridge Route with gear lever removed and transmission sealed in "high." The running time was 28 hours and 35 minutes.

EASE OF CONTROL RESPONSIBLE

Mrs. Hanshue never had driven any kind of a car as much as 100 miles in all her experience as a motorist previous to the San Francisco to Los Angeles high-gear run.

Miss Rochester's experience as a driver had been confind to paved streets and boulevards before her cross-country trip in record time.

What these women have done in a 1917 APPERSON ROADAPLANE, other women drivers can do in the same kind of a car. The same qualities that they demonstrated in their car are in every Apperson; simplicity of operation, dependability and availability of continuous power.

MACHINE GUNS ON REGAL CHASSIS.

One of the gratifying results of the recent mobilization of the National Guard has been the patriotism and unselfishness displayed by business men in general, and those connected with the automobile industry in particular.

When President Wilson's call to arms came, Co. M of the Oklahoma Guard were among the first to respond. Capt. Harold Lee of Co. M was formerly manager of the branch of the Regal Motor Car Company at Oklahoma City, and two of the privates of the company are employees of the Knox Auto Company, Regal distributors for Oklahoma and the Southwest.

When the United States government gave two machine guns to Co. M, on condition that they be mounted on motor cars, a subscription list was started among business men of Oklahoma City. James A. Knox, president of the Knox Auto Company, himself a veteran of the Spanish-American War and a strong preparedness advocate, was so impressed with the patriotism of his employees and the great need for adequate equipment that he immediately presented Co. M with a forty-horse-power Regal chassis.

STUTZ SHIPMENTS EXPECTED SOON.

NEW TYPE MACHINE CREATES DECIDED INTEREST.

Turtleback Roadsters Expected to Fill Real Place in Stutz Line. Taylor Returns from Camp at Monterey and Explains Experiences of Aviators There.

Walter M. Brown has been notified by the Stutz factory at Indianapolis that a shipment of the new six-passenger touring cars is now en route of this type produced by the Stutz company, and, according to advance information, will present a number of new and novel details. Brown says he hopes the shipment also will include one of the new turtleback roadsters that feature the 1917 line. This is the first year the Stutz company has built a roadster of this style.

William Taylor, who represented Brown at the preparedness camp at Monterey is back at his salesman's desk at the Brown establishment. He says there is no question of doubt about the value of the encampment to prospective soldiers. Taylor belongs to the aero squadron and while in camp had the use of a Stutz car that was detailed by Brown for use in connection with the work of the squadron. "Billy" says that the aviators had a number of exciting experiences. Some of the students were rather crude in their early lessons and one of the planes was smashed, but before the encampment closed a number of new flyers had learned the rudimentery principles of air navigation.

AUTOMATIC GEAR SHIFT ANNOUNCED.

With the announcement of an automatic gear shift as regular equipment, the Premier Motor Corporation of Indianapolis strikes a decisive blow in behalf of those who have been deterred from driving because of the manual labor, risk and inconvenience involved. It has been recognized that, after the perfection of the electric starter, the next advance would be in the direction of hand gear shift elimination, but just who would first make the change remained to be seen.

The fact that the Premier Motor Corporation was in position to pioneer the magnetic gear shift, will, in the opinion of sales experts, be a deciding factor in the success of the new organization.

The Premier gear shift is the product of the Cutler-Hammer Company of Milwaukee, and is said to be absolutely dependable and to perform its work without fail and under all road conditions.

The Latest One.

UNBROKEN LINES ARE FEATURE OF NEW GLIDE.

Another beautiful car was put on display along automobile road this week, when the new 1917 Glide models were received by Mr. C. S. Anthony, the Southern California distributor for this line, and the advanced information that had been received about this car brought a large number of motorists to inspect it, just as soon as it was noised about that the car had arrived.

Among the many of those who came was Miss Bobby Edwards of the Lasky Studio, and after demonstration of the riding qualities of the car, took possession of one, saying she had been looking for just such a car, which combined the beautiful lines and classy appearance with the extreme power that the Glide has.

This 1917 Glide is a light "6-40," with the true yatch-like stream line body, with unbroken lines from the headlights to the rear of its roomy tonneau. Other specifications include a Rutenber high-speed motor, a twelve-plate dry multiple disc clutch, Spicer dust-proof, self-oiling universal joints, tubular propeller shaft, Brown-Lipe differential and Hotchkiss drive.

Mr. Anthony has made arrangements with the factory for frequent shipments of this car, as he anticipates a large demand for it, and desires to have cars on the floor at all times, so that immediate deliveries can be made.

Military Defense.

COAST BOULEVARD TO BE THOROUGHLY MAPPED.

Combining an important feature of national defense with one of the most scenically pretentious trips ever outlined for motorists, Al G. Waddell, magazine writer, and Jack Griffin, touring expert, arrived here during the week, en route from Tia Juana, Mex., to Vancouver, Can. The party is outlining a route which will take it up the California and Oregon coasts as far as possible toward the northern boundary of the United States; the return itinerary is through the interiors of Washington, Oregon and California to the starting point on our southern international line.

FAMOUS CAR.

No less interesting than the tour itself is the fact that the trio is using a machine already famous for its exploits—the Maxwell stock touring car, which holds the world's records for continuous travel with its 22,022 miles of going before a stop of its motor was voluntarily made. The service-scarred veteran has gone more than 35,000 miles, and the original covers on its motor and transmission are yet to be removed for an overhauling of any sort of the interior workings.

The entire run in the no-stop champion is in the nature of a loop trip. The highway between Mexico and Canada generally followed by motorists is inland for almost its entire distance. The Coast road north has been neglected, mainly because there is not sufficient population along it to vote sufficient bonds or wield sufficient influence for a boulevard system that will make all-year-round travel feasible.

REAL NECESSITY.

According to military experts and strategists, it is this same Coast road that is a real necessity for defense should our country be invaded by a strong foreign power. With the larger cities defended, or to be defended, by big guns and fortifications, the rest of the Coast is left open to landing parties. Only by having roads over which United States troops and heavy armament can be moved in motor trucks and automobiles at a swift pace can this condition be relieved.

The Maxwell party is carefully logging the road, and noting every detail of topography. At the end of the trip its findings will be submitted both to government authorities and to the officials of the three States through which it will pass. If a feasible all-coast route can be laid above where the present California-Oregon road swings inland at Marshfield, a well-formed agitation for its construction will be inaugurated, both by national defense advocates and the various automobile clubs and organizations interested more in the touring features of the trip.

Big Season.

NEARLY THREE THOUSAND CARS VISIT YOSEMITE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CAMP CURRY (Yosemite Valley) Aug. 12.—More than 2700 motor cars of ninety-seven different makes have entered the Yosemite National Park this season. The cars have carried the licenses of nearly half the States of the Union. California, of course, leads, with more than 2500 cars. The others were divided as follows: Nevada, 19; Arizona, 11; New York, 5; Oregon, 5; Texas, 5; Hawaii, 5; Colorado, New Mexico, Illinois and Washington, 3; Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Montana, Ohio, Utah and Wisconsin, 2; Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming, 1; Old Mexico, 1.

Thus we see that with the ocean on the west and the desert on the east, Californians "see America first" by traveling their own State. The opening of the Tioga road gave Nevada second place over Arizona.

In the classification by makes the Ford leads with a total of 485 cars. The Buick is second, with 237 cars, and the Cadillac is third, with 212 cars. The next seven makes, in the order of their standing, are: Studebaker, 195; Overland, 171; Dodge, 125; Hudson, 88; Packard, 73; Hupmobile, 60; Pierce-Arrow, 56.

With this record of motor travel, the gasoline car is far ahead of steam in transporting tourists into the valley. About 60 per cent. of those who have entered the valley have traveled by motor car and about 40 per cent. by train.

SIGN-POSTING ON NEW ROADS.

Important arrangements were completed yesterday by the Automobile Club of Southern California for the sign-posting of the newly-finished ocean-to-ocean highway cut-off to Redlands from Ontario east through Bloomington to Redlands.

This important link in Southern California's system of good roads will materially shorten the distance to Redlands and it has just been opened. A special group of signs will be placed there in the immediate future.

The club's charting car also arranged for the erection of half a hundred new sign posts in the vicinity of Colton. They will be of the regulation enameled metal on metal posts.

Work has just been started by the Automobile Club on the big system of signs for the Imperial Valley, where every highway will be thoroughly marked. It is believed that this will materially increase travel through the Imperial regions.

1917 CROP OF GRANTS MOVES.

The second lot of the 1917 Grant Light Sixes to come to the Coast was received at the salesrooms of the Bekins-Speers Motor Company, Southern California agents for the Grant, last Tuesday. But the salesroom floor was only a stopping place for the cars in their travels, as they all had been delivered before the following afternoon, and orders had been placed for cars sufficient to exhaust the shipment now on the way from the factory.

SILLS VISITS PACIFIC COAST.

Mr. W. C. Sills, treasurer and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, visited Los Angeles last week on his tour of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Sills has spent some time in Oakland, where the Chevrolet Motor Company has been opening a branch plant. This northern factory will turn out enough machines to supply the Pacific Coast and many of the Western States.

The United States has been divided into zones by the Chevrolet company and the latest to be established is the Pacific Coast zone. There are now seven of these division on the Chevrolet map and an assembling plant is located in each zone.

AMONG THE FANS.

The final round of the Michigan State tournament was played July 23 at Jackson, Mich. This round had been postponed from last January, when Fred O'Melay of Hillsdale and Dr. A. Guilde of Chelsea qualified for the final round, but decided to play it at some future time. The score was 2 to 1 and 3 draws in Mr. O'Melay's favor.

The fate of the fourth American tourney is still unknown. Several of the large cities are "fishing" for it, but as yet none have put any "bait" on their hook.

During the past week the annual checker outing at Cedar Point, Ohio, was taken advantage of by the players of the Middle West and East. We expect a report on same in the near future.

TIRE DISTRIBUTOR VISITS SAN DIEGO.

Because of the many inquiries that have come from that vicinity for Dayton pneumatic tires, Mr. B. F. Wade, of the Wade Tire and Rubber Company of California, distributor for Dayton tires, spent last week in San Diego looking over the situation with the idea of placing a distributing agency down there.

Combining business with pleasure, Mr. Wade made the trip down and back in company with Mr. A. Hill, in the latter's private yacht, and spent considerable time while in San Diego inspecting the exhibit at the exposition, as well as enjoying several short cruises to different points of interest around this southern city.

"We have been supplying the San Diego trade from our office here," says Mr. Wade, "but San Diego with its natural neighbor, Imperial Valley, has been so persistent with inquiries and orders for our tires, that we feel it best to place an agency down there."

About a Stand-off.

OLD-TIME BALL PLAYERS AND TODAY'S COMPARED.

John Doyle, Now an Umpire and a One-time Great Player, Gives Harry Williams Some Interesting Comparisons — Modern Players are Faster and More Versatile, but not so Rugged.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

SO MUCH has been spoken and written, claimed and discounted, concerning the relative ability of the old-timers and the baseball athletes of today, with no real basis of comparison, that it is refreshing to get an opinion first hand.

Butting into the umpire's boudoir under the grand stand between double-headers, John J. Doyle was found peeling off the firm's shin guards, and transferring them to the Billy Phyle who was to work the second game behind the bat.

This question was shot straight at the sweaty ump: "Were there better players in the days of Brodie, McGraw, Jennings, Keeler and yourself than at the present time?"

"No, I would hardly say that," replied Doyle, passing along a shin guard. "Neither would I say that there are better players now. As far as natural ability is concerned there is little to choose, although I am inclined to think that the old-timers were a little more rugged, and had greater staying powers. However, the average baseball athlete of today is a more finished performer. There are more good players now than then, because far more men are engaged in the game. It is the result of the demand regulating the supply.

PLAY IS FASTER.

"The ball player of today is faster than the one of two decades ago. At least his speed has been developed to to a higher degree. That is because speed is one of the chief requisites of the game. Base stealing has been developed greatly, and men have been taught to use their speed. We old boys knew how to slide only one way, and that was head first. Now, a player who can't go into the base, top-knot in front or spikes first, and hook slide, can't even hold his job in the minors.

"Some of the players of my day may have been just as fast, but they didn't know how. But the average of speed is now doubtless greater, for more speed is the cry of every manager, and he has his scouts on the lookout for that type.

"The pitching, I think, generally speaking, has improved, not necessarily in natural ability, but through new forms of delivery. My club, the Baltimore Orioles, never had a great deal of pitching strength. As a rule we carried only five heavers. Heavy hitting and good fielding, rather than pitching and speed, seemed to be the ground work on which most of the clubs were built.

"The players of my time, I believe, were better fielders to the extent that they seemed to have better use of their hands. Because of this they were able to get the ball away from them quicker.

"I can hardly conceive of any old-timer who was Cobb's equal because Ty has everything that any of them had, and a lot on top of it, which he mastered under the more modern school."

STYLE CHANGED.

"Has the style of play changed greatly?" we asked.

"Not greatly, but some. Few new plays have been invented. The sacrifice game is used more largely, although it was known at that time. We relied almost completely on the hit-and-run, and the Orioles and some other clubs had it down to a very fine point. Our club had a number of good base runners. When the sign was given for the hit-and-run, in case there happened to be a pitchout, the batter did not waste a strike by swinging at the ball. He relied on the other fellow to steal the base in case the pitch was too wide to hit. I believe that the teams of that time had the hit-and-run down to a finer point than most of those today."

The writer has seen fit at times to criticise the work of Mr. Doyle as an umpire, and the criticism was honest. He accepted it in the spirit in which it was given. But that is neither here nor there. His work has shown a marked improvement in the past few weeks. Off the field, Doyle is a man of engaging personality, and as a kid we admired him as a ball player. He was one of the great players of his era, first with the famous old Baltimore bunch, and later with New York. He hit .300 or better for eight years in the majors, and with Keeler, Robinson, Jennings, and Kelly also of the Orioles, won a place on the all-American team for the period of 1896 to 1900, inclusive.

The Orioles are generally conceded to have been the greatest ball team of all time, although some claim that distinction for the Cubs and Athletics, but Doyle is more modest and rates the Boston team of 1897 as superior. This, despite the fact that Baltimore defeated Boston four out of five in the Temple cup series that year. Here is the personnel of the two clubs as they met in that series.

THE OLD STARS.

Baltimore — Doyle, first base; Reitz, second base; McGraw, third base; Jennings, short stop; Kelly, Stenzel and Keeler, outfielders; Robinson and Bowerman, catchers, and Nops, Hoffer and Corbett, pitchers.

Boston—Tenny, first base; Lowe, second base; Collins, third base; Long, short stop; Duffy, Hamilton and Stahl, outfielders; Berger and Gazel, catchers, and Klobedanz, Nichols, Hickman and Stivetts, pitchers.

Plenty of class on both sides.

All kinds of myths have been woven about the magic of Willie Keeler's place hitting. Knowing the vagaries of a ball when hit, especially against smart pitching, we always scouted the claim that Keeler, wizard though he was, could do all the things claimed.

"Keeler, I think, was the greatest place hitter that ever lived," said Doyle. "But the idea that he could place the ball exactly where he wanted to is a fine bit of fiction. Keeler could, as a rule, hit to either field, and had the knack of dropping the ball just over the infield down to a fine point. We had seven or eight players on the Orioles who could drive the ball either to right or to left, but Keeler had it down to a finer point than any of the others. Unquestionably, he was the greatest of his kind."

The old Baltimore bunch were a shrewd lot of individuals and did not overlook any tricks. They made the most of the "brick diamond," by which name the infield on their home grounds was known. The soil was of a character that baked easily, and the groundkeeper did nothing to lessen its solidity, especially in the vicinity of the plate. The players acquired the knack of bouncing the ball against this cement-like surface, and in that way were able to beat out many infield drives. Visiting clubs, playing on the grounds less frequently, never were able to acquire the same mastery in this branch of batting.

OLD HEINE REITZ.

Doyle says that Heine Reitz was just as scientific in his way as Keeler. Heine made a specialty of bunting. He had the trick of bunting with the handle of his bat at times, and some of his bunts were the last work in finesse. Reitz later wound up his career at second base for Los Angeles, and as many of the fans of that era will recall, still retained much of his cleverness, although practically a physical wreck.

Reitz got so much enjoyment burning up the midnight money that he started on his decline early. Even when in the big league he had an ambition to lap up all the brew in the village.

When at their best, and a great drawing card, the Orioles took a day off to play an exhibition game in Worchester. With nothing at stake except the gate receipts, Reitz made the most of the great opportunity presented. He appeared on the field that afternoon in rather a wobbly condition, and was very unsteady around second in the preliminary practice, losing a lot of easy grounders.

"What's the matter Heinie," asked Doyle, walking over to him. "Can't you see the ball?"

"That ain't the trouble at all," replied Reitz. "I'm seein' too many balls."

BUYERS DEMAND HIGH-GRADE CARS.

Actual operating experience, more than any other factor, has caused buyers to demand high-grade motor trucks when increasing their equipment, according to O. R. Fuller, president of the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company, Southern California Distributors of White products.

"Motor trucks have been in use long enough for the owners to accumulate a volume of motor truck experience," said Fuller. "They can compare one truck with another and keep an accurate record of their performance. The development of the motor truck has reached a stage where there is no need of truck buyers being bewildered by fads and theories. For over seven years the White company has been manufacturing motor trucks without radical change, and over and above the conflict of all theories remains the sole fact of White truck performance—longer life, more days in service and low eventual cost. These facts are attested by comparing cost records of numerous large buyers, who continue placing reorders for White trucks year after year, because of the fact that the White has been established in the commercial world as a proven product and an actual investment.

It Wouldn't Add to the Value to Increase the Price

IN line with general increase of motor car prices, there would be every justification for an advance in Chandler Price.

All material costs are advanced, labor is advanced. There is nothing that goes into the car or onto the car that costs less, but the price is still only $1295. We believe our reasons for not advancing the price in the face of every conceivable excuse for advancement are based on sound merchandising principles.

You are not especially interested as to why we don't raise the price of the Chandler car to $1395 or $1495, but you are vitally interested in the fact that we don't.

$1295, f. o. b. Cleveland, still buys the greatest of all medium priced cars.

TULARE COUNTY TAKEN INTO SOUTHERN RANKS.

AFTER a discussion which has waged for several months, and which has involved the addition of another county to the territory known as Southern California, Tulare county, following the example set a month ago by Kern county, has joined with the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Tulare county has long been debatable ground between the north and the south. Motorists there did not know what to do. Should they become members of the California State Automobile Association, an organization having headquarters in San Francisco, or should they join with the powerful Automobile Club of Southern California with headquarters in Los Angeles?

A short time ago the question of sign-posting Tulare county came before its Board of Trade. Both automobile organizations were considered, and the contract for the important task was awarded to the Automobile Club of Southern California. The sign-posts were set.

But no decision had been reached as to what club motorists should owe their allegiance. It hinged upon the establishment of a club branch office in Tulare county. Whichever organization was give nthat honor, to that one would belong the county.

And now, by a unanimous vote, the Board of Trade of the county under consideration has decided that the Automobile Club of Southern California may establish a branch office in Visalia, with information bureaus in Tulare and Porterville.

More than 150 new club members have already been secured by the southern club in Tulare county—more than enough to justify the opening of the new branch, according to Secretary S. L. Mitchell. The branch will be opened at once.

Not only is it significant that Tulare county has allied itself for all time with Southern California interests, but it is of extreme importance to all local visiting motorists in view of the fact that the excellent signs of the southern club will now extend in an unbroken line from the Mexican border straight through to the northern limits of Tulare county.

Kern county was enthusiastically behind the movement to secure its northern neighbor for Southern California, and its influence was largely brought to bear upon Tulare county.

Maps are now under course of construction at the Automobile Club headquarters here showing the roads of Tulare, and thousands of these will be distributed among club members, and issued to eastern visitors who are planning to tour the scenic regions of the Tulare section.

Road information will be supplied on all Tulare roads, this being secured directly from the branch office at Visalia, where a club representative will be installed in the immediate future.

At the present time the Automobile Club of Southern California leads the world in sign posting and routing activity, and a large eastern magazine characterizes Southern California as America's most perfectly sign-posted territory.

The area governed by the Automobile Club of Southern California greatly exceeds that of the combined New England States.

FORM-A-TRUCKS ARE BIG SUCCESS.

STAND UP WELL UNDER SEVERE ARMY USE.

Machine Gun Company Uses Smith Form-a-truck—Machine Carries Gun, Amunition and Equipment for Practically the Entire Company.

W. O. Gates, western sales representative for the Smith Form-a-Truck Company, has returned from a three weeks' tour of Arizona and Western Texas in the interests of the Smith Form-a-Truck attachments for Ford cars. Mr. Gates established the firm of McArthur Bros. of Phoenix as distributors for the Smith attachment for the entire State of Arizona, with the exception of Yuma and Mohave counties.

Prospects for a large business in the conversion of pleasure cars into trucks of one-ton capacity appealed to McArthur Bros. so strongly that they will open new places of business in Douglas and Tucson. This firm also distributes the Packard and Dodge lines of pleasure cars, and is regarded as one of the most prominent automobile concerns in the State. They told Mr. Gates they favored the Smith Form-a-Truck because they had seen its efficiency demonstrated in numerous tests. Their initial order was for three carloads of attachments.

Mr. Gates was at El Paso, Tex., and visited the camps of the American soldiers assigned to border patrol. He said he was surprised and gratified to see a Smith Form-a-Truck that is the property of one of the machine-gun companies on the border. The truck carries the gun, ammunition and equipment for the company, and has been able to keep in advance of both cavalry and infantry whenever called upon. Mr. Gates also encountered at El Paso John Wiese, former branch manager for a tire company in Los Angeles. Wiese is now identified with a pleasure car company and is engaged in carrying on governmental experiments showing the efficacy of the motor car.

TRAILERS FILL IMPORTANT PLACE.

One of the outgrowths of motoring, and particularly load hauling, in Southern California has been the development of the motor trailer. The great progress made in this direction, especially in this portion of the country, has led to the establishment of the trailer for commercial or sporting purposes on a permenent satisfaction-giving basis.

Los Angeles has become notable for the trailers manufactured here, prominent among which is found the product of the Los Angeles Trailer Company of Seventeenth and South Main streets. To the visitor or other interested person visiting this factory is accorded the privilege of seeing a most comprehensive line of trailers for every conceivable purpose in the course of manufacture.

Early in the development of this organization, the executives realized that the same kind of high-grade construction used in the manufacture of motor trucks and autos would be essential to the success of a trailer, designed to give good service and satisfaction. In a recent statement made by J. N. Patterson, president and general manager of the company, he said:

"That type of construction which proved satisfactory for wagon work was early found to be impractical. The higher speeds at which cars and motor trucks are operated made it necessary to have quality and quantity which would stand up to this speed, and the road and loading conditions. Steel frames, resilient springs, drop-forged steel axles, carrying ball or roller bearings, depending on the duty and capacity of the trailer, had to be adapted for construction purposes in this type of modern goods carrier."

GERMANS HOPE TO TAKE RUBBER FROM MILKWE[illegible]

THE world's supply of rubber up to the present time has been secured from the genuine rubber trees in the tropical countries, but, owing to the difficulty in obtaining sufficient quantities of the better grades of rubber, many scientific research bodies are turning their attention to the possibility of obtaining the flexible product from other forms of plant life, according to a report just received from the Norwalk tire factory by the Los Angeles Saddlery and Finding Company, western factory distributors for Norwalk tires.

FULL-GROWN OSTRICH PULLS INTER-STATE CAR.

BY A very unique method the Ashton-Wright Company, distributors of the Inter-State car were able last week to demonstrate not only the light running qualities of a modern automobile, but also the pulling power of a full-grown ostrich.

Resorting to the big herd of Nubian ostriches of the Cawston Ostrich Farm, "Sandy," one of the trained birds of the flock, was used for the experiment.

INTERESTING.

The trial took place on Pasadena avenue, near the Arroyo Seco bridge, and is said to have come near to failure by the fear incited in the ostrich by snorting of passing trucks and other heavy machines. Great patience was required to coax the bird from its accustomed surroundings into a much-used city street, and the process of hitching on to the Inter-State was tediously accomplished.

Jonathan S. Dodge of South Pasadena acted as judge of the event and under his direction the driver at the wheel of the Inter-State shut off the power and gave the rider of the ostrich, Frank Stunden, a chance to tighten up the tugs.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

With its head covered by a black cap, like a condemned man on the scaffold, the big plumed bird chafed under the excitement of street noises happening in the dark. Finally, after several flip-flops and wild attempts to sidestep the job, the cap was raised from its head and the bird is said to have marched off with the Inter-State, according to W. D. Wright, who drove the car.

"Counting the man on its back, and the weight of the car and its three occupants," said Wright, "the total weight moved by the ostrich approximately 3200 pounds."

Milton, 3rd.

The Miller carburetor again demonstrated its overwhelming supremacy at Tacoma August 5. Don't get the idea, however, that because the Miller has won all the great races of the year that it is strictly a racing carburetor. It is the logical instrument for every day service. It is absolutely automatic, simple, trouble-proof and economical. Fastest-selling carburetor on the market. Free demonstrations.

Snodgrass Wins Second with Home Run.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Boston won both games from Brooklyn today by scores of 5 to 4 and 5 to 4 before what is said to be the largest crowd that ever saw a ball game in Brooklyn. Brooklyn pounded Rudolph steadily in the opening game and made four runs off him in seven innings, when he was relieved by Nehf. Pfeffer blew up in the ninth and Boston reached him for a pass, two singles, a double and four runs, after one was out.

Brooklyn knocked Allen out of the box in the second inning of the second game and scored two runs. They also scored twice in the sixth through Hughes's wildness. Runs were made off Sherrod Smith in the first and second inning. In the sixth, after two were out, Konetchy singled and J. Smith was hit by a pitched ball. Snodgrass then won the game with a home run, Konetchy and Smith scoring ahead of Snodgrass.

WALTER JOHNSON LOSES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—The Boston Americans scored two runs in a ninth-inning rally today and defeated Washington 2 to 1. Walter Johnson, who relieved Harper in the eighth, was found for three singles in the ninth and his throw to third with nobody covering the bag on Walker's bunt allowed Hoblitzel to tie the score, from second. Gardner hit a safe bounder to Johnson, Walker going to third. Thomas, who was reinstated today, batted for Leonard, and was purposely passed, filling the bases.

"Chick" Shorten, recalled to the Red Sox fold from Newark, was sent into pinch-hit for Carrigan and hit to short center. Walker scored the winning run, but not before Thomas was forced out at second, and Shorten lost credit for a hit.

Tigers Win Two.

Marty McGaffigan was unable to participate in the daylight fireworks. The knob on his head has not yet entirely subsided, and yesterday was about the size of a seedling orange. Callahan, arrayed in his perfectly-clean shirt, presided at short, doing so with both hands. He played a game worthy of a class AA athlete.

Dad Meek did not get into either game. Great Gus preferred to demonstrate that he is an iron man by handling the output of both pitchers. Thus far, Dad has been used only as a beast of burden, carrying the shin guards, protectors, masks and other equipment to and from the clubhouse.

FIRST GAME.

Chief Johnson, his gills filled with poison, got out and attacked the Beavers in the frontispiece. He was opposed by Rip Hagerman, who used to be an Indian himself.

Portland astounded all those present by scoring two in the first round. Wille was safe on a Texas League, reaching third via a sacrifice and an out. He then became venturesome and set out to steal the plate. He had it swiped all right, but not knowing this to be the case, Southworth soaked out a double just as he was dusting across the plate. Louie Guisto, with a $11,000 reputation to sustain, touched off a single that scored Southworth. Great Gus whiffed.

Vernon got its first tally in the third. Daley walked with one out, and stole second with Hagerman holding the ball. Hagerman held the ball because nobody covered second, and he knew it would do no good to throw it to third or into the outfield. Daley counted on a single by Risberg after Gleichmann had fanned.

HA! THE CRISIS!

The fourth proved to be the crisis. Bates showed the way with a single. Griggs bunted to Rip, who threw to second. Ray was called safe. Mattick bunted to Hagerman, who juggled. Getting the ball he started to throw to third, and found that position vacant. It was then too late for a play at first. There should have been two out. Bates scored on a passed ball. Ward went up and pulled down Callahan's high bounder. After looking over the scenery and noting the condition of the weather, Chuck decided to throw home. Griggs had crossed the plate prior to arrival of said ball. Mitze flied to Southworth, Mattick being held at third, but Callahan going to second on the plate peg. With Dr. Joseph Evans playing close up where he could see the whites of the Indian's eyes, Johnson bounced a single over him, Mattick and Callahan trooping home. Daley forced the chief, stole second and was snipped trying to purloin third.

Portland retrieved two of these in the sixth on a walk, singles by Guisto and Great Gus and an error. Vernon made it absolutely binding in the seventh, scoring one on a brace of bingles and a gum throw by Evans.

SECOND GAME.

Good old Otto Hess was matched up with Grover Lowdermilk, the human stork, in the chaser attraction. Lowdermilk has speed in proportion to his altitude, and a few curvers in the bargain. He outpitched good old Otto slightly, but was less fortunate in the choice of his associates. Lowdermilk came here with the reputation of being the wildest pitcher in captivity, but was overshadowed by good old Otto, who hasn't any reputation to speak of for wildness. G. O. O. walked seven and soaked a batter, as against five walks and a wild pitch for Lowdermilk. The latter whiffed six, and the former two.

Each side scored a run in the first without a hit. Hess passed Wille and then Evans. The latter scored on a succession of outs. Lowdermilk became jealous of his prestige and countered by passing Daley. He also emitted a wild pitch. A sacrifice placed him on third, and he scored on an out. Good old Otto walked two in the second, and got away with it.

WALKED THREE.

Lowdermilk walked three in the fourth, and didn't get away with it, one of them scoring on a single and an out by Bates. With the bases again full he struck out Bert Whaling. Singles by Evans and Southworth, sandwiching a sacrifice, enabled Portland to perform the superhuman feat of tying the count in the seventh.

The pastime then proceeded on an even keel until the eighth, and the fans were conjuring up visions of a few extra innings, when the Portland club suddenly went to wreck and ruin. Two had been retired when Risberg smashed a grounder directly between the legs of Capt. Rodgers. Bill, absorbed with the duties of his high office, forgot to stop the ball, the Swede going clear to second when Wille sprawled all over himself in the excitement of the moment. Bates planted a safety in center. Wille followed in the footsteps of his illustrious captain and allowed the ball to pass between his legs. Risberg came home and Ray chased himself clear around to third. He, too, scored when Wille made a subtle muff of an easy fly by Griggs. Art rambled down to second on the error, and galloped home on a double by Mattick. Callahan flied to Wille, who caught the ball. This took the remaining sap out of the Beavers and they acted harmless in the ninth. The score:

COMMON SENSE in the HOME

PREPARATIONS FOR PICNICS.

HOW are the housekeepers who read the Corner provided for arranging family excursions and picnics? Although this is the time of year to take them, there are few homes in which a hurrying and scurrying does not ensue if any one suggests an impromptu outing.

Yet such outings do more than one would at first believe to keep freshness and vigor in the members of the household who cannot get away for long vacations. The Saturday half holiday in the woods or fields, the long trolley ride which terminates in a supper out of doors, the habit of breaking away early from work in order to have the evening meal in the orchard or the near at hand meadow if one has time for going no further away, all do their part in reviving the flagging energies which have been taxed by work during the heated term.

My memory goes back fondly to a summer many years ago, when circumstances held us in town late into the season instead of permitting the exodus which was our usual habit. We were fortunate in living at that time in a town from which there was easy exit to beautiful woodland spots, and to these we repaired every pleasant Saturday afternoon. To these "family picnics," as we called them, we asked one or two young people besides those of our own circle, and usually we numbered from six to ten in the party. The elder members of the family made their way to the appointed place in a surrey, drawn by one staid old horse, and into this conveyance were packed the bulkier and heavier provisions for the supper. The younger contingent took the trolley to a near point and walked the rest of the way.

Part of the equipment was a block of ice wrapped in many papers and put in a box in the foot of the carriage. Or if the weather was cool, we carried the coffee in bottles and heated it in a tin pail over an alcohol pocket stove. We would have held up our hands in wonder at a glimpse of the motoring baskets and boxes provided for the excursionist of today!

While these are readily found nowadays, they are not as easily purchased by persons of small means, and delightful as it may be to have such hampers to fill with eatables and drinkables to carry on a picnic excellent substitutes may be secured at small cost.

One friend of mine, who has as much pleasure in her little inexpensive car as the owners of superb motors find in their costly vehicles, devised for herself an outfit which meets every purpose and was covered by a small charge. She displayed it to me with pride the other day.

"I couldn't afford a regular hamper," she said, "so I bought this little straw suitcase and it answers perfectly. Then I found a tin sandwich box would cost between $2 and $3, and I had the happy notion of getting a brick tin ice cream form. In fact, I got two, one a quart size and the other to hold three pints, so that I can keep the sandwiches and the cake separately. For dishes I bought the little white and blue enamel bread and butter plates and cups to match. So there I am! With Japanese paper napkins and a few little pasteboard boxes to hold sugar and the like I am as well off as if I had bought a motor lunch basket at $50."

Other items were pepper and salt holders, plated forks and spoons, and two or three knives, and none of these was ever used on any other occasion. When the basket was brought home after an excursion the contents were washed and aired and then returned to their place, so as to be ready at a moment's notice when needed.

Something like this is valuable even to those who do not own motor cars of even the simplest variety, and who like to take trips on the trolley or by boat and to carry their provisions with them. As a matter of course when the food is to be borne by hand for any distance it is a disadvantage to have too much weight, and for that reason it is perhaps better to divide the load.

If the drinks are to be cold, paper cups that slide into one another or that are of the folding variety may be provided, or for hot drinks a pair of collapsible drinking cups may be used.

The other provisions may also be distributed in different receptacles. Excellent as the sandwich boxes or their equivalents are for luncheon baskets that go in vehicles, the good old pasteboard candy box, which weighs practically nothing and can be thrown away when its period of usefulness is ended, is preferable for the party who must go on foot and bear their own food. If the sandwiches are made shortly before leaving and wrapped in waxed paper when they are put into the box they will not dry out before it is time to eat them. Two or three of such boxes may be tied together and will not compose too heavy a burden for any one of ordinary strength.

In my own household I long ago made a rule that no good boxes were to be thrown away if there were space to keep them, and many a time I have had reason to rejoice in the economy. At Christmas time or when putting up gifts or other articles to send away the saved boxes are invaluable, and they are as precious when the picnic season comes around or the time when travelers depart who must take their luncheon with them. I have heard people say that in these days of diners and buffet cars there is no longer any necessity for being laden down with a luncheon, but on many an occasion I have blessed the foresight that moved me to carry with me a few sandwiches or crackers and a bottle of tea.

For dining cars are not always adequate to the demand and there is little comfort in knowing that a hot meal is being served in the next car if the tables are all filled and the vestibules choked with a line of waiting and hungry passengers. My private store has saved me and others as well a headache and faintness on more occasions than I can recall. So even when making one's departure in a train the little outfit for a hasty luncheon may not be out of place.

But it is not to this that I wish to call particular attention now, but rather to the subject with which we began our talk. The mother of a family or the housekeeper who is so fortunate as to number young people—either boys and girls or those a little their seniors in her home—should show her efficiency by having everything ready for such an outing as we have mentioned.

More is required than the baskets or bags to hold provisions, the pasteboard boxes, the paper cups, the Japanese paper napkins, or even the little outfits of wood pulp or something of the sort that one can get nowadays and which comprises plates, spoons and drinking vessels, all so light and cheap that no one need feel guilty of extravagance in casting them aside when they have been used once with the paper tablecloth that comes with them.

The articles which are to go into these receptacles are fully as important as the holders themselves. It is possible to have in every pantry the materials for putting up a pleasing luncheon at short notice, and the woman who has made a study of such matters may vary her provisions from day to day with little extra labor.

Sandwiches are, of course, the great standby for a picnic luncheon, and there is no end to the changes that may be rung upon them. Those made of sliced bread spread with some filling are the most popular, and yet I know of one family where the picnic plea is always that the cook may make up a batch of quick biscuit to be buttered and have a slice of cold tongue or ham laid between the two sides. Nothing else seems to be quite as satisfactory, and the advocates of the biscuit claim that it is no more trouble to make them than to slice the bread for the regulation sandwich.

However that may be, it is necessary to provide filling for the sandwiches, no matter what the outside material, and it is here that the pantry must be called upon. Chopped and deviled meat comes put up to spread upon the sliced bread; fish pastes of various kinds are ready, and the soft cheese which is sold in jars or tins also makes delicious sandwiches with either a bread or a cracker foundation. The little pastry like wafer squares which come now in cartons and in bulk are delicious if buttered lightly and spread with jam or jelly and are better than many kinds of cake and quite as wholesome. So are jam sandwiches of thin bread and butter, and these cost less than even a plain cake.

But for those who wish regular cakes and who have no time to make them there are ready made provisions—not, perhaps, in the loaf cake, although even these may be purchased and will keep well for two or three days if wrapped closely and put in a tin box. There are cookies and gingersnaps and other little cakes that are put up by good houses and are wholesome, as well as good to the taste. A store of these should be on the pantry shelf, along with the potted meats and cheese and the jam or marmalade jelly glasses. There, too, may be the jar of olives or of pickles which will be welcome at the feast, and if fresh fruit may not be obtained a box of figs or dates will, in a measure, supply the place.

In addition to these it is well to have cocoa if coffee or lemonade is not desired. Iced cocoa is a delicious drink, if properly made, and it may be prepared and thoroughly chilled before it is turned into the bottles. Or on a cool day it may be taken along hot, and either hot or iced it is likely to prove popular with some members of the party. The day has gone by when a tea basket was an essential of a well conducted picnic; the vacuum bottle of some kind has taken its place.

Thus far all the attention has been bestowed on the commissariat, but more than this is demanded for a well ordered picnic. An air cushion or two which can be deflated, rolled up, and put in a pocket; a steamer rug to spread on the ground to make seats for those who fear the damp; a shawl strap, in which to carry it, and the warm wraps which may be needed in this fickle climate of ours should not only be provided, but be ordered to their special use and be close at hand when wanted for an impromptu outing of any sort.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

Plenty of Time to Read.

"I AM a country girl and have many long hours when some good reading matter would be welcome. I am a lover of good fiction, of religious reading, and of poetry, but have not the wherewithal with which to supply my wants in this direction. Any good magazines would be much appreciated if your readers have some which they care to send me. L. D. J."

We have many magazines offered to us. Is there not some one who can grant her request? Her address will be forwarded on receipt of request for it, accompanied by a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Correspondent for Country Girl.

"Can you or any other person tell me the way to become a member of a Camp Fire? I would also like to correspond with some one near my age, which is 12, who lives in the country. I am pretty sure I would interest them with some of my experiences and doings. I would be glad to write to a shut-in anywhere.

"P. H."

This is a rather mature letter, both in writing and in expression, for a girl of 12. I must repeat my caution that references should be exchanged when young girls enter into a correspondence. Members of the Camp Fire Girls will write for the address of P. H. and tell her how to join their organization. The shut-in who wishes to hear from this correspondent can secure her address by writing for it and inclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Help in Time of Need.

"I wish to thank you for your prompt attention to my plea in the Helping Hand. I received the hearing horn from the friend who offered it without having to write to her direct and appreciate her kindness much. I have tried other hearing devices, but had not heard of the hearing horn until I received it. It shows that your Corner gives information as well as help in time of need. May the good work go on and be crowned with the success it richly deserves! J. C. H."

It always gives me pleasure to print such acknowledgments as these, which prove the work done by the Corner in sending light and joy into dark and sad quarters. It is good to receive appreciation which shows the help that has been given.

Silk Pieces and Remnants.

"Will you please send me the address of J. C. P., who offers silk pieces? If it is not too much trouble I will ask another favor. I have two little girls, aged 10 and 12 years, who would be glad to get remnants of laces and ribbons for making household tidies. They are fond of making things, but we are poor and unable to furnish the materials for them.

"Mrs. N. C. R."

The address of J. C. P. has been sent to so many correspondents that I am afraid she has no more pieces to bestow. Has any one else pieces to give this correspondent, and the remnants she asks for her little girls? I will send her address on receipt of stamped, addressed envelope.

Helping Women Who Work.

"I have no daughters of my own, but have raised several, who had no mother, because my own two have been dead many years. For their sakes I stand ready to help any girl or woman that it is possible to help, to do something to earn a living. I cannot help financially, but have had over twenty-five years' experience in making a living. I talked to many girls and women this last winter and spring who were looking for employment, and found that few of them were fitted to do anything much besides office work. There are more people looking for office work than there are offices to employ them, and the tragic part of it is so few of those who apply for it are competent to hold a position.

"The mothers seem to think that girls can grow up to do nothing in the household, and have no training whatever, either to do work, or have system and order in taking care of their own belongings, and yet go into an office and take charge of a business and be perfectly competent. When the employer tries to show her how to do his work as he wants it done she feels as if he has mortally offended her, by being dissatisfied with the way she insists on doing it. Another thing, a girl has to have had a wise mother indeed to be a perfect success in an office, and be capable of not seeing or hearing anything that is not intended for her to see and hear, and if she does to keep it strictly to herself, and forget it when she leaves the office. If more mothers trained their children to be considerate at home, and the wisdom of a still tongue, and not to meddle in any respect, the children, whether boys or girls, would be better equipped for business than in any other way. Fewer girls would make mistakes that sorrow cannot undo, and fewer boys would be untrustworthy in both business and social life.

"I came here with my son in order that he might go to school and to be near him have remained some months. As I had little to do, I became afflicted with an attack of my old enemy, indigestion, and found nothing would help it except exercise. Even walking did not help me, and after being on a liquid diet for some time and improving a little I saw that I must go to work to effect a cure.

"I looked for a location to rent a small space in some store, to make home made candy, which is the thing I know most about. I finally went to a bakery and made an arrangement with the owner to help wait on customers for a space in the show window, and the privilege of making candy in the kitchen and having my lunch there. It was this last arrangement that started the real business. Several people coming in to get rolls or bread saw us eating and begged to have a sandwich and a cup of coffee. After talking it over with the proprietors I told them I would give them a plate of soup and a sandwich at 5 cents each. I had so many customers that I had to take my twelve quart aluminum kettle to my fireless cooker for soup, and with a 15 cent soup bone, a 10 cent can of tomatoes, and an onion, I had a fine soup. The meat I put through a grinder and seasoned it nicely and creamed it in a saucepan and spread it between buttered bread, for the sandwiches. I went from that to roast beef and ground ham, and all the sandwiches I made I sold.

"The main trouble was I could not get one person who was willing to help me for the three hours I served, to keep the dishes clean, and help wait on customers. But it paid, and I only stopped because I could not wait on all who came in, and I nearly had nervous prostration trying to do it all. I went down at 6 in the morning to let the baker start his bread, and did not leave till closing time, which was 7:30. And I surely did get rid of my indigestion.

"Now if several women who cannot get anything else to do will get together and open a place where people can get a simple lunch for a small amount, say 15 cents, and others, who will agree to do so, can get ready cooked meals to take home with them, it will be only a short while when a community kitchen can be started, with an auto delivery, to all parts of the city, to those who do not want to cook. It would save wages to incompetent servants, and the dishes are the only thing to do at home. It would do away with a kitchen in apartments, and many housekeepers would not be worried to death to know what to cook, and the women who run it would live and make some money, too.

"When you have letters from girls and women who are at a loss what to do I will be glad to help them decide something of the sort. I will be glad to know the addresses. Mrs. R. F. F."

This is a long letter, and I have cut out much of it, but the part retained is so full of helpful suggestions and wise advice that I cannot resist giving it. The writer asks for a number of addresses of those whom she wishes to help, and I am quite sure that the appearance of her letter will call forth applications for her address. I trust that those who desire to be put into communication with her will not fail to accompany their applications for her name with a stamped, addressed envelope, and also show her the same courtesy if they ask her for any information or counsel. This matter of postage assumes serious dimensions if one has a large correspondence, and those who write and request favors should surely be willing to supply stamps for reply. One stamp is a small affair, but when a Cornerite is inundated with inquiries that demand a letter in answer she should at least be spared unnecessary expense. She gives her time and her trouble, and that is a good deal to ask of as busy a woman as Mrs. R. F. F. has evidently become. I wish to express my personal thanks to her for her letter and for the help she is bestowing upon those whose addresses she has asked with a view to aiding them.

Lace Patterns to Exchange.

"I wish to thank you for the lovely reading matter I have been receiving. I notice that some girl did not acknowledge receipt of magazines sent her and I hope this did not apply to any of the magazines sent to me, as I have acknowledged all I have received. I have several Battenberg and point lace patterns I will send to any one desiring them and would gladly exchange patterns of crochet lace. I asked some time ago for paint materials—old brushes, old studies, and an old easel—for my little sister. Will you kindly repeat the appeal? I would pay the postage on these. I received a most delightful surprise through the Corner. The author, Irving J. A. Miller, sent me 'Twilight Thoughts.' We always enjoy reading the Helping Hand Corner and hope to be able to help others as it has helped us.

"U. C."

I am glad this correspondent has received so much assistance through the Corner and shows appreciation of it. I hope the request for painting materials may be gratified.

In Return for a Canary.

"I see that Mrs. W. A. R. has a canary to give away, and as I cannot afford to buy one I would like much to do some hand work in exchange, or some sewing. I have some corset covers already made I would like to exchange. I made them up to try to make a little money, but times are so hard nobody has bought them. I would like to give them in return for a canary. I send this recipe for a nice pudding made with apricots: Half pint of milk, one pint of cooked and strained apricots, one cup of sugar, one slice of bread, two eggs. Beat the eggs and the sugar together, mix in the bread crumbs and the apricots, and bake until the custard is done. Eat cold with cream.

"C. A. H."

The canary offered has been given away. Has any one else one to bestow? The pudding recipe sounds as if it would have a good result, and no doubt peaches could be used instead of apricots if these were not attainable.

Ground Cloves for Moths.

"I would like to tell the friends of the Helping Hand that if they will use ground cloves in the places where they store woolen clothing they will not be troubled with moths. I have proven the value of this recipe for the last fifty years.

"J. G. W."

A useful recipe to receive at this time of year and one that is much pleasanter than the advice for many of the remedies employed to ward off moths in woolens. We are glad to have it.

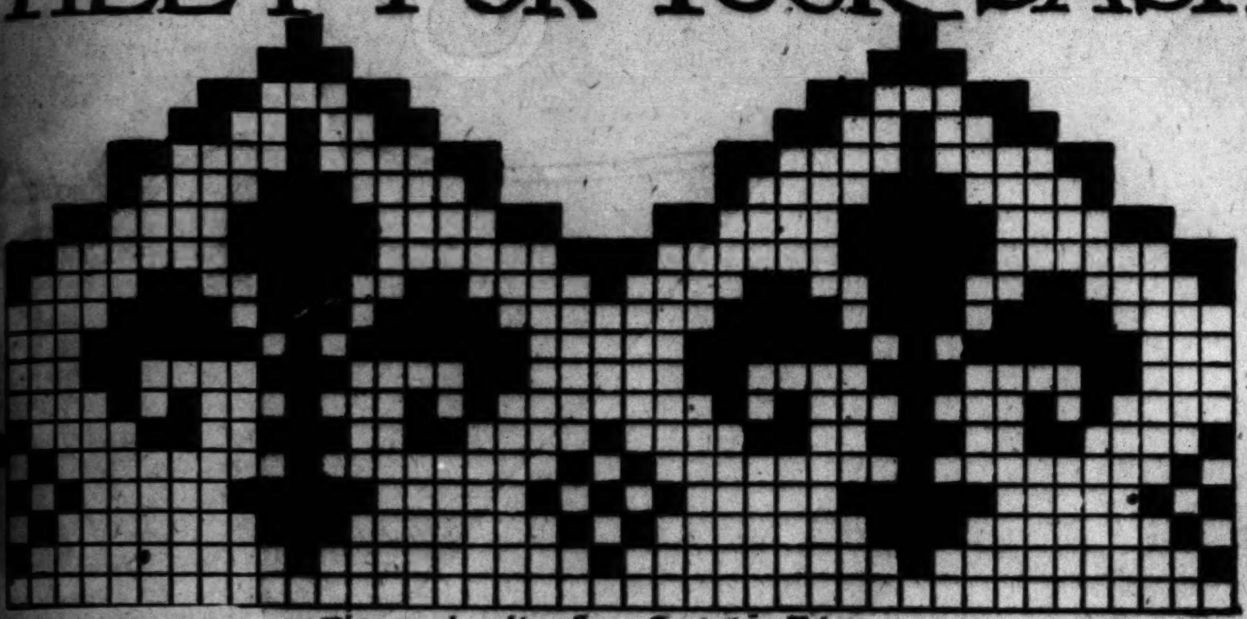
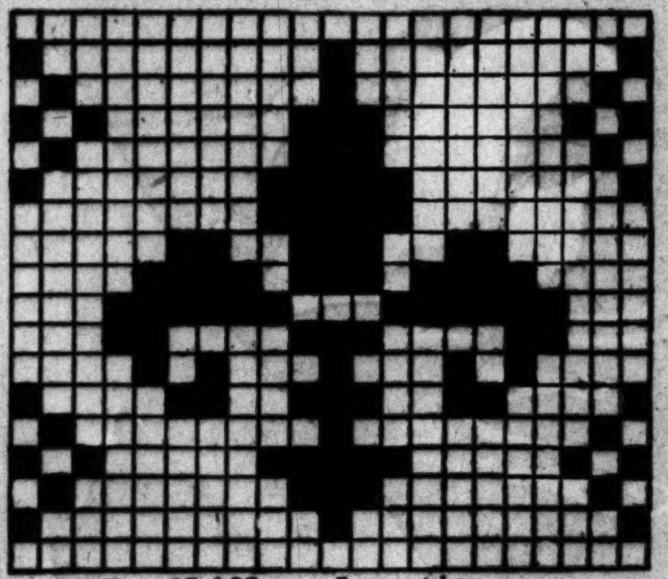
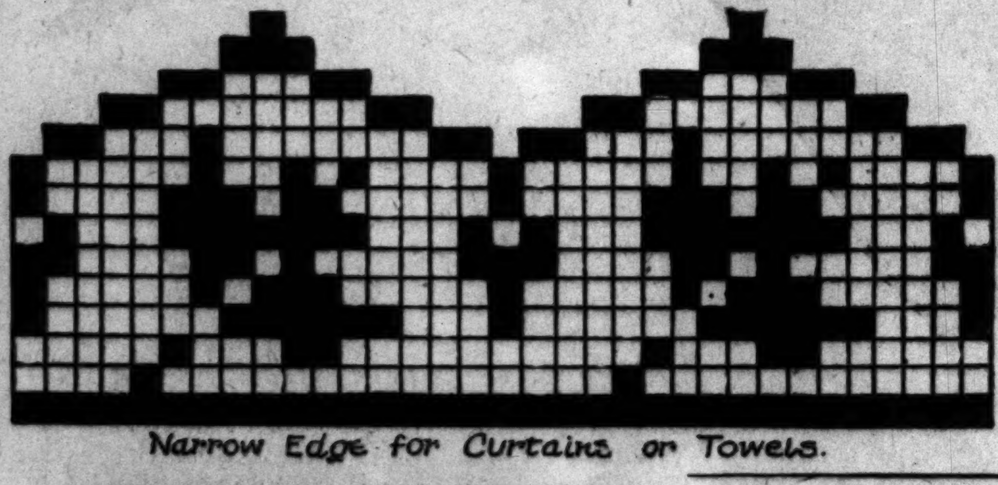
FILET FOR YOUR SASH CURTAINS.



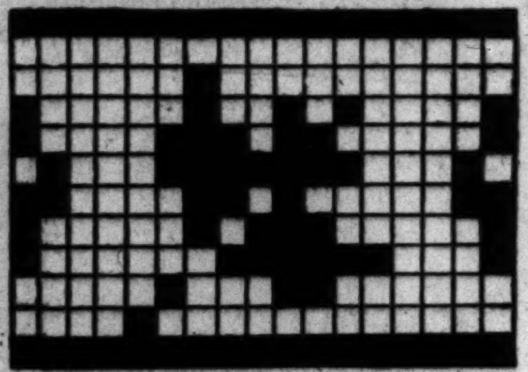
Fleur de lis for Curtain Edge.



For Motif or Insertion.



Narrow Edge for Curtains or Towels.



Insertion to Match

ou are proud of your filet work nd want to show it off to the eighbors, the very best way to do it is to crochet some lace for a sash ain. Surely some window in your will call for a sash curtain, tho it be the bathroom, or even the kitchen. But why shouldn't the kitchen have y curtains as well as any other m in the house? For a professional ing room, as the office of a physician dentist, the filet lace curtains are t the thing.

day you have been given matching ns of filet for just such a sash cur-tain. The pointed edges are to be used top and bone or brass rings are to ached to the points for slipping the brass rod. The plain insertions be applied just below the edge, with th of material between, or prefer-they should be run just above the is probably the best material to with filet lace, especially when is worked in ecru. If a white is chosen for the filet, voile, mar-sette, white scrim or any similar cur-terial may be used. If the filet is up rather finely, using a thread 30, you will have a beautiful you use a very fine lightweight linen is another possibility, pongee with the filet in an ecru match is ideal.

You will not find the wider filet hard to follow. The pattern is, as you can see, a convenient fleur-de-lis. It might be well to run an extra solid mesh at the ends of each row of the straight insertion and at the bottom of the pointed one, so that when you set the lace into the material you will have a good solid edge upon which to stitch and under which to hide the turned-back hems from the cut-away material.

The narrow edge and insertion you will find quite valuable, as it may be used for towels as well, the insertion to be set just above the hem and the edge to be applied to the edge of the hem. For towels finer cotton should be used.

The only trouble you are apt to encounter in these designs is learning how to increase and decrease your meshes for the pointed edge. This is not hard. When you wish to increase one mesh at the end of a line simply crochet seven chains and make your double crochet on top of the last double. To increase two meshes, make nine chains and take a double in the seventh chain from the hook, chain two, and then a double on top of the last one in the preceding row.

To decrease, simply make slip stitches at the end of row thru the stitches on top of the last mesh or meshes until you come to the mesh where you wish to begin the row.

-Piece Library Set

NTERESTING use of cretonne, brocade or any of the many materials which one encounters search for library fixings is a set of five articles, all for library, and which, when separated, give that fixed look of having thing to match.

On flap is a pocket for note paper, telegraph blanks, stamps, etc. exception of the pillow this might be used in the hall to introduce a note of bright color, for it is to provide your hall with desk and telephone stand.

Animal Slippers

SOMETHING that will amuse the kiddies wonderfully well and which will make them very careful to slip their tootsies into their bedroom slippers on cool mornings, is to make their slippers like animals. This is an easy task. The slipper is made with the bought sole for a foundation and then the material is sewed on in a straight piece, bound with tape or ribbon and gathered slightly at the top of the toe end to give the slipper a slight shape and hold it on the foot. At this gathered end should be embroidered the eyes, nose and mouth of an animal. Ears of the material are then added and a bit of fur is tacked on the back of the slipper for a tail.

Thus one may make a dachshund out of brown felt, embroidering eyes, nose and whiskers in black and red, using felt ears, to lie flat over the toe end, and a bit of curly fur for a tail. The bunny might be made of white kid, and the bear from white or brown plush.

Mock Pin Tucks

FOR use on children's clothes, lingerie or fine blouses, a very good imitation of pin tucking may be obtained by machine stitching. It is necessary to use about a No. 8 thread in the bobbin and as fine a thread as 100 in the needle. Stitch the material on the wrong side, letting the coarse thread come on the right. It is this coarse thread which looks like the pin tuck and is ever so much easier to do. It might be a good idea to loosen the bobbin screw very slightly in doing this work.

Tassels on a Towel

IF YOU'VE been invited to a towel shower for a bride-elect, perhaps you will like to hear about a towel one happy betrothed girl received. It is a bath towel of generous size and has square scallops along one edge. The scallops are buttonholed in white, and along the inner line is a row of blue outline stitches. Above each scallop a daisy is embroidered in the satin stitch. Between each scallop a blue silk tassel is suspended.

This same girl showed with pleasure several towels which one of her practical friends had given her. These were intended for drying china, glass and silver. Each one had its appropriate design to designate its purpose. The one for silver was made of cotton flannel and had its edges finished with blanket stitches. In one corner a fork, knife and spoon were outlined. The flannel is white and the embroidery is done in blue.

Darned designs on huckaback towels are very effective and require such a little time to make. Here is a hint which will make the work much easier. Press the material on the wrong side. This will enable the blunt needle to slip thru the little squares with greater ease.

Kitchen Bags

BEFORE you are married you will have lots of time to embroider even your kitchen linens, and afterward you will be glad to do it for some other girl who is going to be married, so make a note of a few kitchen things which may be embroidered. You are, perhaps, familiar with the sets of unbleached muslin bags, each embroidered in outline stitch with light-green cotton with the word "Celery," or "Lettuce," or "Watercress," as the case may be. Now, here is a new bag. It is made of extra heavy white ticking, and on it is embroidered the word "Ice." It is intended to be used when ice for ice cream is to be cracked or pounded, or if a piece of ice is to be kept for some reason outside the refrigerator.

Towels stamped with a chafing dish on one end and a teakettle on the other are cross-stitched in color to match the striping of the toweling. There are bags for corks and bags for string and bags for paper, all of which offer suggestions for the embroiderer who wants to contribute to a kitchen or linen shower.

Milady Sews

AND when she is making aprons she carefully finishes the seams so that there is no wrong side. She makes a pocket on each side, and thus she is able to turn it about and get double wear out of it.

She finishes the neck of an outing-flannel garment with a buttonholing of white or delicate-colored floss, to avoid facing it. Then she is able to add a narrow edging or scallop to finish it.

When she makes a skirt for her mother, who is inclined to be stout, she cuts the hips one inch lower at the top than the front, and the back one and a half inches lower. Thus she prevents the skirt from poking out in front.

Old kid or chamois gloves make excellent protectors for the points of scissors and shears. Cut out two pieces a shade larger than the points, stitch or buttonhole them together and slip on. They can then be used as stocking gifts at Christmas.

AN ACCEPTABLE GIFT

WHAT do you intend giving the bride? If you're in doubt, let the filet designs offered on this page solve the question for you. Curtains, ornamented with the insertion and edging would lend a comfortable air to the newly-furnished home.

Lingerie Pillows

LINGERIE pillows have two missions in life: one is to grace milady's boudoir and the other is to support the precious baby's head. For the boudoir they may appropriately be covered with silk or silkaline, but in that case they should have little slips of fine handkerchief linen. A very attractive lingerie pillow having an outer slip of handkerchief linen was embroidered in butterflies of cutwork about a diamond of French knots. The tiniest of scallops finished the four sides of the slip. Eyelets were worked in both the upper and under sides of the slip, within an inch of the edges, and ribbon a little over an inch wide threaded the two sides together, instead of stitched seams.

Of course, for a baby the embroidery should not be so elaborate. The design should be small and dainty. Forget-me-nots are appropriate. These can be worked in delicate colors or can be given the all-white treatment. While bows are too fussy for the baby's pillow, one or two of them tacked in the corners add to the attractiveness of the pillow if it is intended to be a gift.

The design used on the pillow is frequently repeated on the coach cover, completing a set which any mother would be proud to display.

Two Stitch Suggestions

VERY often in embroidery designs one comes across a case where a double line seems to call for solid stitches and a consequent amount of time and work. Here is a way that will fill the space between the lines very effectively, giving as satisfactory a finish as solid work and not taking half the time. It is simply a double row of blanket stitches, or what some people call wide buttonholing. The buttonholing is worked so that the stitches finish on the straight line and do not quite reach the upper line. They are arranged so that the stitches on one row alternate with those on the other line, dovetailing, as it were.

Another suggestion for the needleworker is this: If you have a short space on a sleeve or yoke where eyelets are called for, to be laced with ribbon, try this labor-saving device. Gather your sleeves to the width required were the ribbon pulled thru the eyelets, and then proceed to make a beading of the embroidery silk or cotton by first taking one long stitch the width of the beading required, then, after inserting the needle at some distance further along, coming back and winding the thread around this stitch, repeating this at regular intervals.

The ribbon will be laced thru these stitches and appear as if holding the fullness of the sleeve in place. This, of course, works better for short distances than for long ones.

broidered Neck Fixings

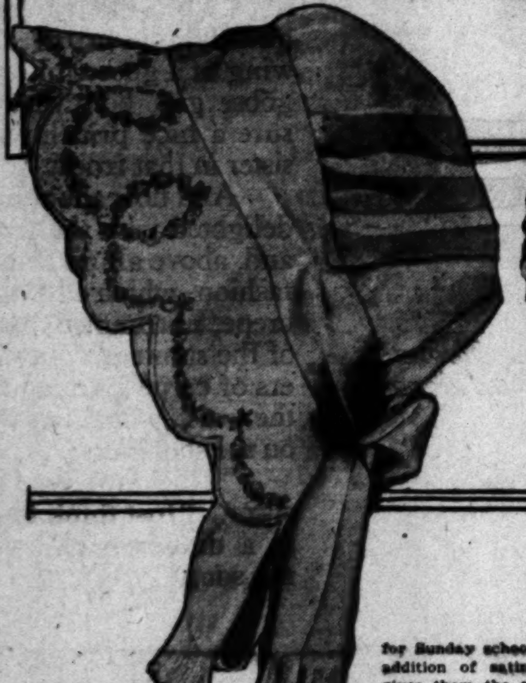
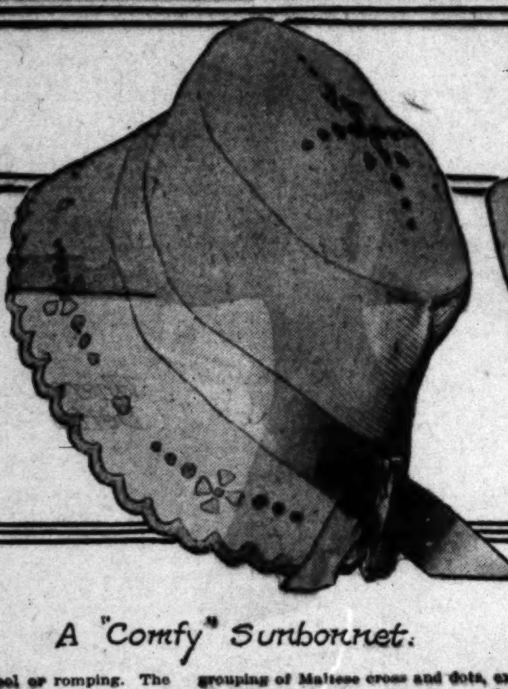
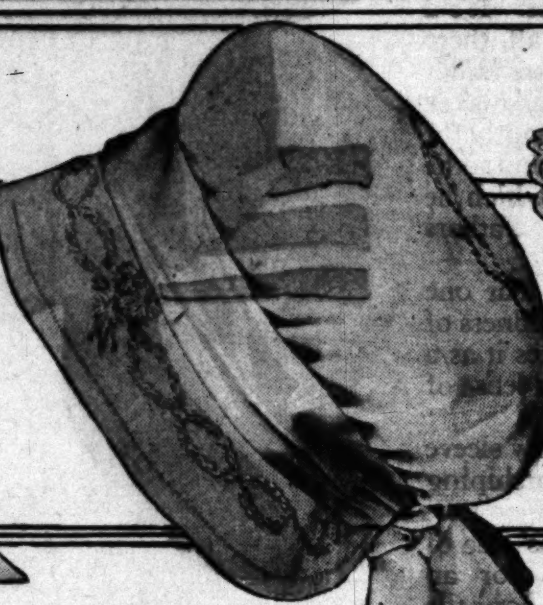
EMBROIDERY IS EFFECTIVE ON CHILDREN'S BONNETS



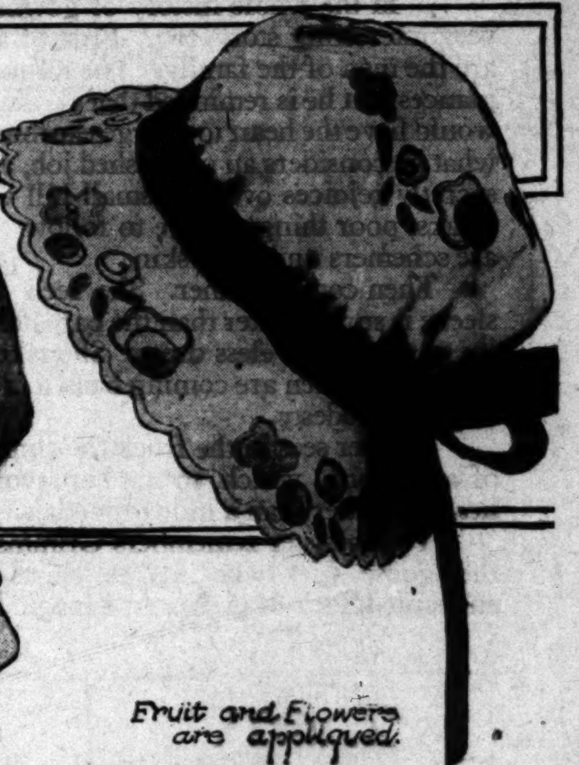
French Knots and Lazy Daisy Stitches.



A "Comfy" Sunbonnet.



Pique Bonnet Simply Embroidered.



Fruit and Flowers are appliqued.

EVERY mother likes to see her little girl dainty on all occasions, so she gladly spends extra time putting fine touches to even the childish sunbonnet. A little work brings good results nowadays, when new stitches are used. Bought bonnets are improved by a scalloped edge or a few French knots, tho an entirely new model may be easily made by duplicating one of the accompanying designs.

All of these hats may be used either for Sunday school or romping. The addition of satin or velvet ribbon gives them the right to be classed with dressy hats, but for everyday wear a band of the material may be substituted.

White pique is used for the small hat with the scalloped border. The embroidery is done in shades of blue with a touch of black. The top of the crown is a circle, the brim, a shaped piece on the bias, and a bias band joins crown top and brim. Blue satin ribbon forms the band, which is crossed at the back of the hat, the end left loose. A buckle of the ribbon makes a finish.

The embroidered scallop edge is done in shades of blue, tho a solid shade or white may be substituted. An outline stitch of black accentuates the upper edge of the scallop. On the crown and the brim the design consists of a simple grouping of Maltese cross and dots, executed in satin stitch. Here, too, a better effect is gained by shading the dots.

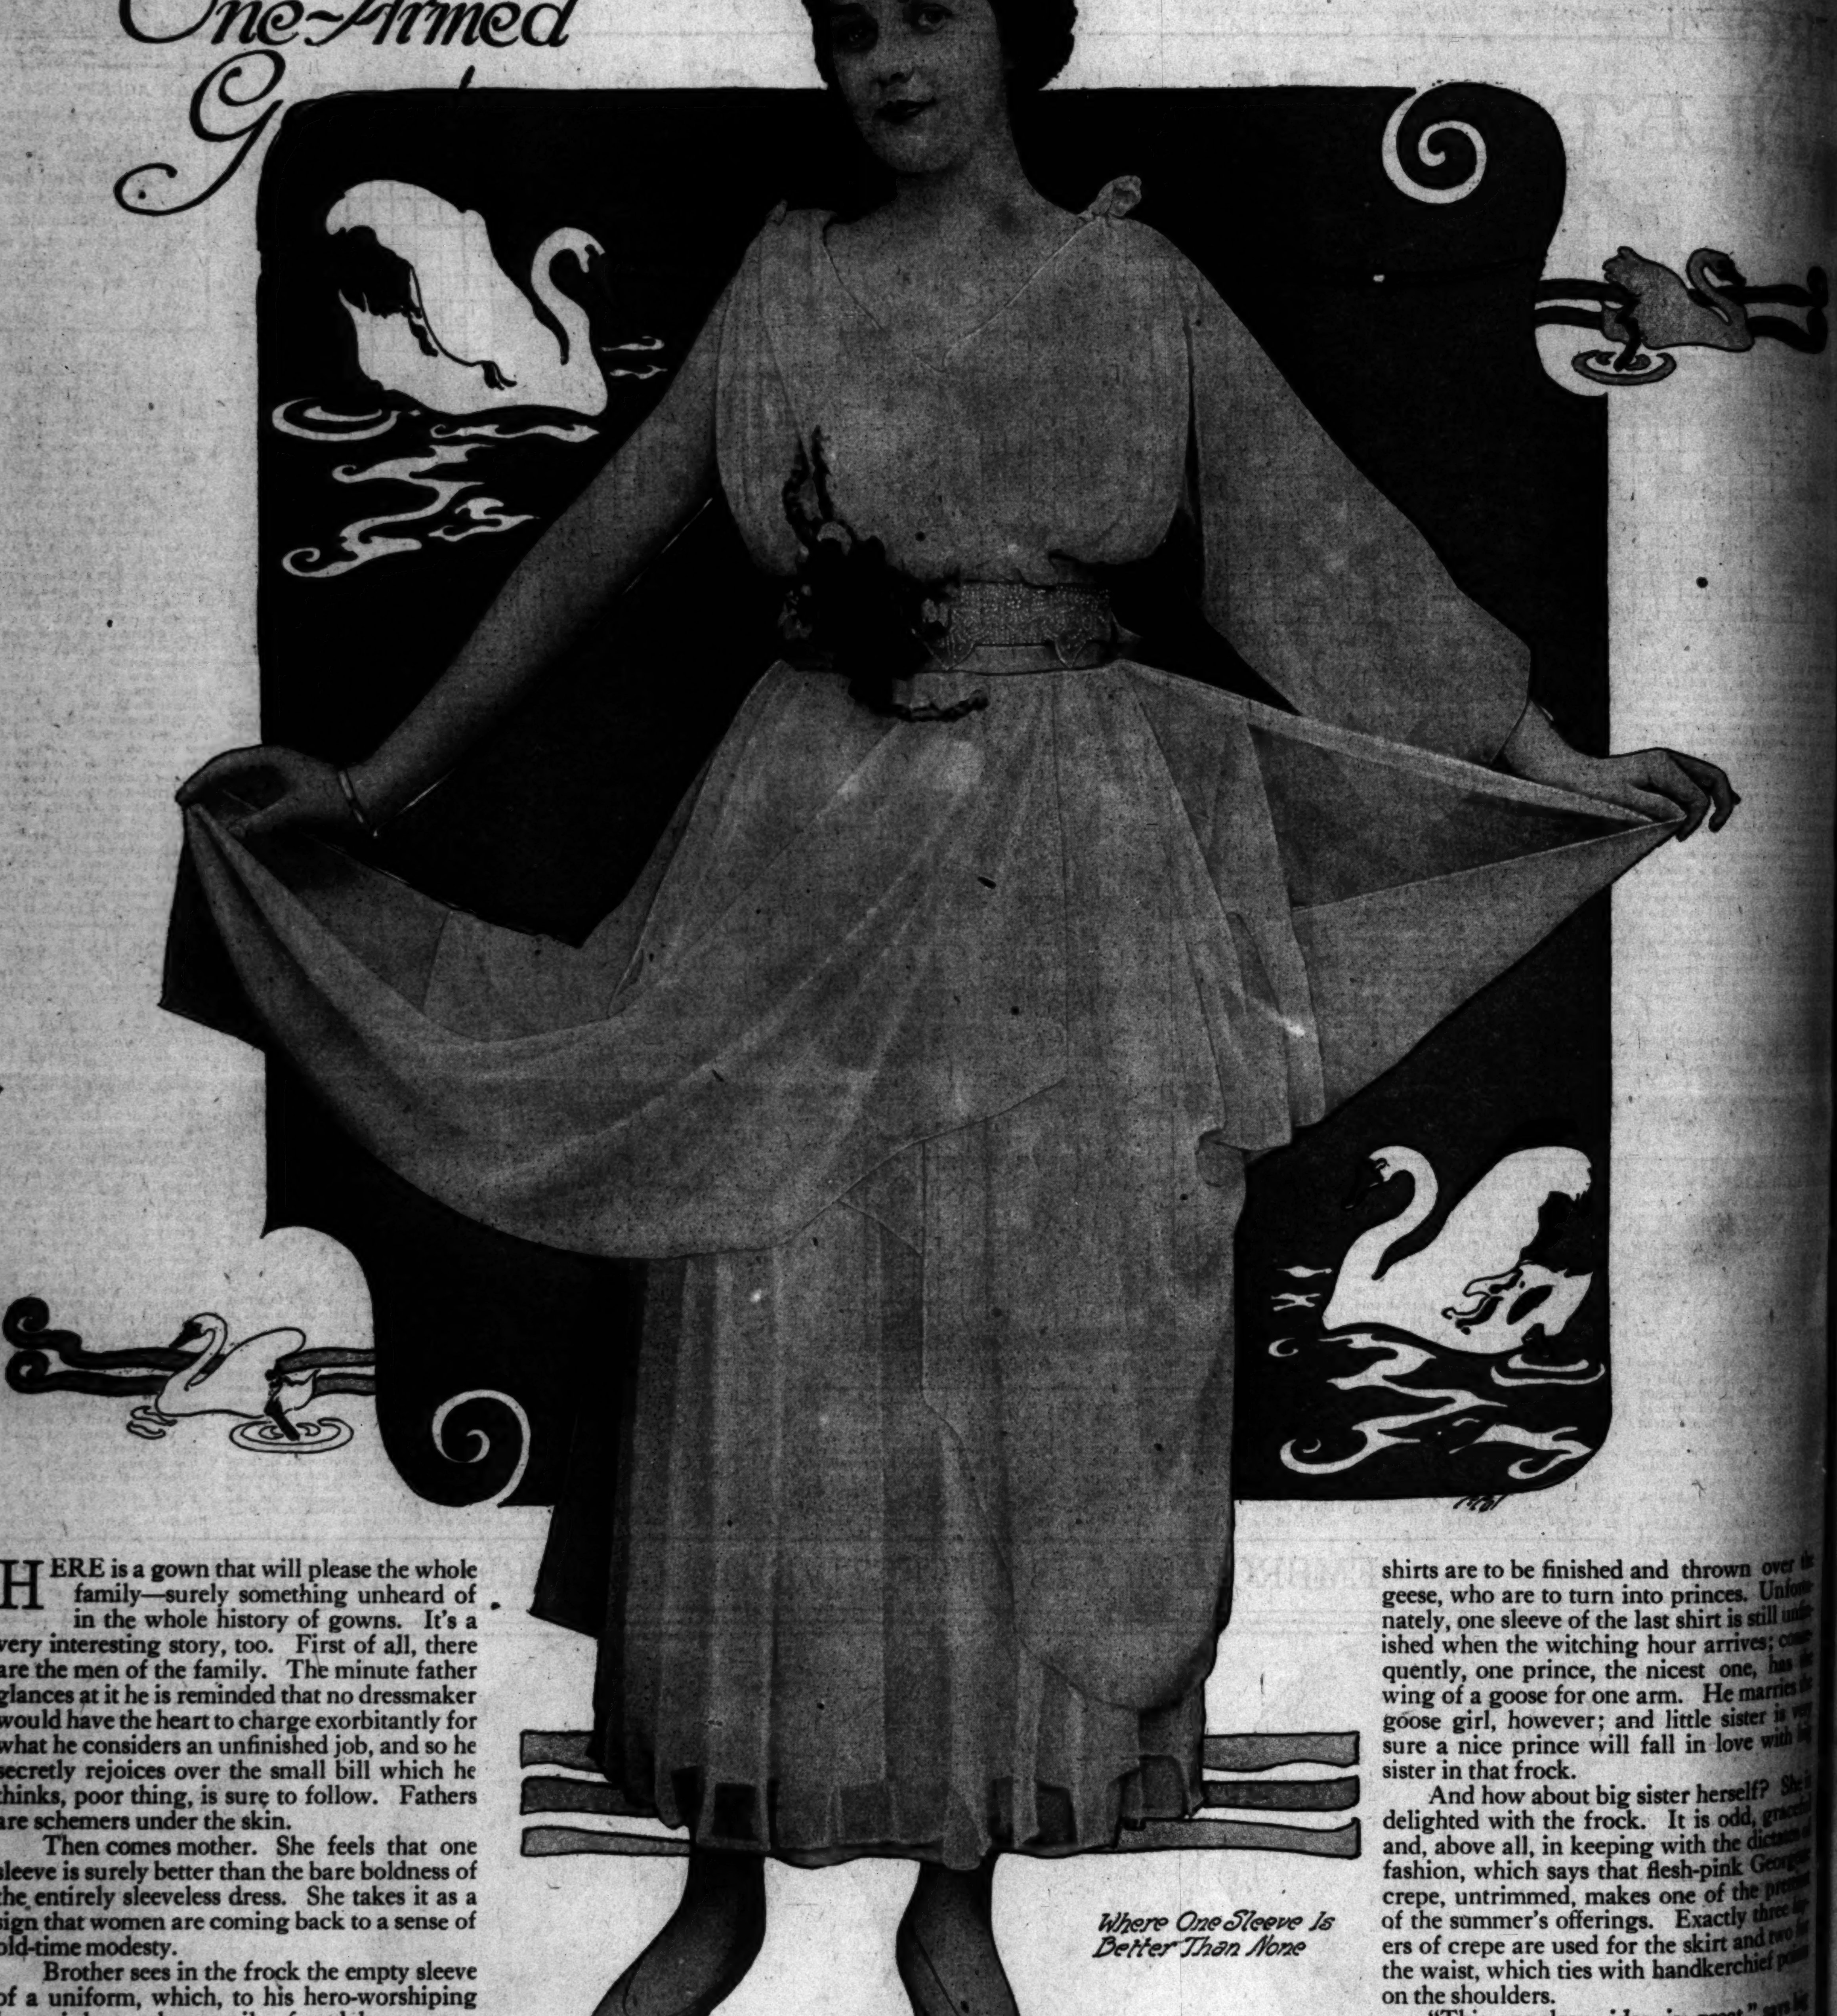
The second pink pique hat may have a frame for a foundation, if you wish; but should you choose to make it up in this way, be careful to select a very light frame, for the little head is too tender to relish a heavy affair, which is more apt to prove an instrument of torture than an object of childish vanity. There is nothing to terrify the amateur in this particular hat, for the embroidery used is nothing but the lazy-daisy and feather stitch. The latter is used to circle the crown as well as the bias brim of the pique. Light work is made of the three groups of three lazy daisies, each posed on either side and front of the brim. Blue and white, with green for the stems, are the colors used. The brim is machine hemstitched, tho a double brim of the pique to insure body will be equally satisfactory. Around the crown white satin ribbon is folded, and finished at the back of the hat in loops and a rosette. Here the abruptly terminating brim, as well as the generously gathered crown, completes the poke bonnet effect.

The white linen hat with deeply scalloped brim and full, gathered crown is very pretty. The two pieces are joined together with a wide band of pale-green satin ribbon, fringed at the ends, after it has been tied in a soft bow. The brim edge is scalloped in white thread, and inside is a line of forget-me-nots, which follows the scallop except in the front, where there is a succession of five loops of flowers. The smaller flowers are done in white French knots with yellow centers, the larger ones in green lazy-daisy stitch with yellow centers, while the leaves are in green. While this particular hat is not lined, because the brim droops enough to hide the wrong side, it is a better plan to use some soft lining—white silk or crepe de chine would be pretty—both for brim and crown.

Adults have enjoyed color applique this season, and children are close mimics. The natural consequence is a hat of white linen, like the illustration, on whose crown and brim linen pieces of varied shapes are fastened. Shades of blue represent conventionalized flowers, green is logically used for the leaves and pink for the fruits. These particular pieces are shaded with oil paints, tho this is not at all necessary for effectiveness. The patches are basted into place, the raw edges turned in, and then outlined with black or a colored contrasting silk. The edge of the hat has a small scallop finish. It is better to make the brim double, and attach the crown to it with full gathers, covering the joining with black velvet ribbon.

These cool hats never go out of fashion, so that one is convinced that a simple laundering feat will renew them for the coming summer.

Pity A Poor One-Armed G



Where One Sleeve Is Better Than None

HERE is a gown that will please the whole family—surely something unheard of in the whole history of gowns. It's a very interesting story, too. First of all, there are the men of the family. The minute father glances at it he is reminded that no dressmaker would have the heart to charge exorbitantly for what he considers an unfinished job, and so he secretly rejoices over the small bill which he thinks, poor thing, is sure to follow. Fathers are schemers under the skin.

Then comes mother. She feels that one sleeve is surely better than the bare boldness of the entirely sleeveless dress. She takes it as a sign that women are coming back to a sense of old-time modesty.

Brother sees in the frock the empty sleeve of a uniform, which, to his hero-worshiping heart, is better than a mile of medals.

Young sister remembers Grimms' tale of the goose girl who makes shirts for an enchanted flock of geese. At a magic hour the shirts are to be finished and thrown over the geese, who are to turn into princes. Unfortunately, one sleeve of the last shirt is still unfinished when the witching hour arrives; consequently, one prince, the nicest one, has the wing of a goose for one arm. He marries the goose girl, however; and little sister is very sure a nice prince will fall in love with big sister in that frock.

And how about big sister herself? She is delighted with the frock. It is odd, graceful and, above all, in keeping with the dictates of fashion, which says that flesh-pink Georgette crepe, untrimmed, makes one of the prettiest of the summer's offerings. Exactly three layers of crepe are used for the skirt and two for the waist, which ties with handkerchief points on the shoulders.

"This one-sleeve idea is great," says big sister. "Just think how comfortable it will be at a dinner party, with nothing to drag in the soup!"

Hughes Campaign is Huge Success.

Scores of Impromptu Car-end Speeches Have Impressed Thousands.

Second Week of His Tour will Bring Him to Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Aug. 13.—One week of as a varied campaigning as a Presidential candidate ever carried on has convinced Charles E. Hughes and his associates that prospects of Republican success, even in normally doubtful States, are satisfactory.

During the week that was concluded when the candidate's train pulled into the station here this morning Mr. Hughes has carried his message of an efficient America clear across the continent, far above the clouds in the Rockies and below the surface of the earth in the copper mines of Montana. The one outstanding feature of the campaign, thus far, is the surprisingly enthusiastic receptions accorded to Mr. Hughes wherever he has spoken.

Scores of impromptu car-end speeches have been made to crowds ranging from twenty or thirty people to several thousand. The prearranged schedule has been broken in several places and probably will be broken in several more in order to give towns not mentioned on the early itinerary an opportunity to see the candidate.
